

High School Week-Carolina Trounces Furman

STAGE ALL SET FOR HIGH SCHOOL EVENTS IN DEBATING UNION, TENNIS AND TRACK TO BEGIN THURSDAY

Very Little Else Will Go On While High School Visitors Are Here.

GRAND FINALE ON FRIDAY

Over 500 Guests Will Be Here And Students Are Anticipating the Festivities on Hill.

The stage is all set for the annual high school week which includes an elaborate program of debates, track meet and tennis tournament, and which promises to be the most successful undertaken by the University.

The problem of accommodating over 500 visitors including the high school students, teachers, relatives and friends is a difficult one, considering the crowded conditions here, and only through the efforts of the students and townpeople may accommodations be found for all.

The program will get under way Thursday afternoon at 2:15 when there will be a general meeting of the high school debaters, representing 56 schools, in Memorial hall.

The successful teams will clash in the grand finale for the Aycock cup on Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall. The hall is expected to be taxed to its capacity for the interest in the debate will have reached a high pitch.

E. R. Rankin, assistant director of the extension division, has received the entries of 125 contestants representing 12 schools for the championship track meet.

The following schools have entered the tennis tournament which will begin Thursday morning and continue through the rest of the day: Oak Ridge, Selma, Winston-Salem, Hickory, Smithfield, Raleigh, Charlotte and Wilson.

CAROLINA AND LYNCHBURG TO BATTLE HERE FRIDAY

Little Known of Visiting Team, But Odds Lie With Carolina—Wilson or Bryson to Pitch?

Carolina meets Lynchburg in her third baseball game Friday afternoon. Very little is known about the Lynchburg nine, but it is thought that Carolina will win by a comfortable margin.

The same line-up which was used in the Furman game will probably be used. It is not known who will do the twirling. If Bryson is used Wilson will take a place in the outer gardens because of his batting ability.

CAROLINA TO CLASH WITH WAKE FOREST TOMORROW

Battle Will Bear Strongly on North Carolina Collegiate Baseball Championship of 1922.

Wake Forest comes to Chapel Hill Wednesday afternoon for the first important game of the season that will have any bearing on the state championship.

Carolina looked more than good against Furman. Wake Forest looked just about as good. Both have the teams, possibly the best teams in the state, and the Carolina student body and others may well expect to see a good hard battle.

The lineup for Carolina may be shifted to some extent. Just who will start in the outfield is a question. Red Johnson started last game, gave way to Moose Tenney, who in turn gave way to Dr. Tommy J. Wilson and Armfield took his place.

Wake Forest comes with a highly touted team. They have won everything they started this season, taking in Furman, Erskine, Lenoir, Elon and Trinity. That they have a ball club is unquestioned, and that they are going to do their best to put it all over Carolina is a generally accepted certainty.

The entire campus is on its toes with expectancy over the prospects for tomorrow's game and a huge crowd is expected over from Durham and other nearby towns.

ENGSTRUM DISCUSSES OIL IN C. E. SOCIETY MEETING

Says that Supply of Gasoline in the United States is Diminishing Swiftly

At the regular meeting of the William Cain Civil Engineering last Thursday, E. F. Engstrum, a junior in Civil Engineering, discussed in detail the "oil shale possibilities in the West."

Shale rocks, which are found in abundance in the West, contain petroleum, and when distilled, yields about one barrel of gasoline to the ton of rocks. These rocks are very soft in texture. There are a great many such deposits in the western part of the U. S., and in the course of time, we like Europe today, will have to depend upon this source for our gasoline.

Track Schedule For the Week.

Thursday, April 6th—Second series Freshman Intra-class events; 100-yard dash; 880 yard run, and running high jump.

Y. M. C. A. PRESIDENT TO BE ELECTED MONDAY NOMINATIONS OFFERED

Lillycrop Wants Dancing, But Brown Says No—Platform of Most Promising Candidates.

ANY OTHER NOMINATIONS

At a meeting of the Cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. last Thursday night, the cabinet named its nominees for president of the Y. for next year. The candidate must be a member of the rising senior class, and the men nominated follow in the order in which they were nominated: W. A. Lillycrop, J. Y. Kerr, R. E. Brown, G. H. Leonard, J. O. Harmon, Allen McGee, and C. C. Poindexter.

Nominations for Y. M. C. A. president are still open to any student and the Y. cabinet requests that any nominations be sent to the Tar Heel before Wednesday noon to be published in the Friday issue.

The race, and it seems that it will wax warm before votes are cast, appears to be between Lillycrop and Brown, whose practically assured platform is given below. Lillycrop is in favor of restoring to some extent the status quo of the Y., that is to allow informal dancing in the building, and teach classes in dancing.

It is generally understood that both Brown and Lillycrop are in favor of great relaxation over the present method of rigidity. Both Brown and Lillycrop have served on the Y. cabinet this year and both are hard workers in everything they tackle.

CHASE EXPLAINS OBJECT OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Student Government is Trying To Develop Manhood Says Dr. Chase in Charge

President Chase delivered a very impressive address Friday morning in Chapel on student government as a constructive proposition, illustrating the importance of every student measuring up to his responsibility and especially his obligation to the student government here.

The modern idea of government is entirely a different affair from what it once was declared, and it is thinking more and more about the constructive side. This is being done in the state by our officials. Government is now operated for the betterment of education, health, good roads and public welfare.

"The first object of student government is to make better men, in character, ideals and to teach them to do the right thing always," said Dr. Chase in summing up the objects of self government. The second object is to build a finer community in which it exists. This is to be done by each student who should consider himself a citizen and share in its upbuilding.

VERITABLE LANDSLIDE ELECTS M'COY NEXT EDITOR OF MAGAZINE

Moser and Lankford Caucuses Fail To Put Across Sufficient Punch To Win

ELECTION FULL OF THRILL

(By S. R. Pickens)

The Di Society Saturday night elected George W. McCoy editor-in-chief of the Magazine over G. W. Lankford and Artus M. Moser. The Di also went out of the beaten path of parliamentary procedure and raised what Sherman called war.

The whole matter began to simmer when the president of the society called, under pertinent business, for the amendment giving the society power to elect the editor-in-chief of the Magazine at the meeting in question. An ominous silence greeted the announcement of the amendment and when the question was put the body voted unanimously and silently for it.

C. B. Colton secured the floor, asked the president if nominations were in order. Tom Warren replied that they were but asked the vice president to take the chair. J. P. Trotter took it. Warren walked around to the speaking stand and started to speak. Poindexter, seeing something wrong, rose to a point of order and asked the vice president, "Pike" Trotter if Mr. Colton didn't have the floor.

The president of the society then launched into a long and rather unexpected speech on the qualifications of the man who would get this office. Everything was smooth, and everybody listened attentively to the president as he outlined the policy of the Magazine for the coming year, but when he said "Gentlemen of the Hall I wish to nominate a man who has all these qualifications," C. J. Williams rose to a point of order and wanted to know if Mr. Warren was within his rights in doing so.

Mr. Warren spoke on and on, nobody knew who he was speaking for. Nobody much cared, they only wanted him to stop. Finally Joe McLean interrupted the speaker again and urged that he not nominate a man as it was out of the ordinary.

Ratty Ranson then secured the floor and in a short speech, which was too long, nominated George McCoy and his name was received with much enthusiasm and prolonged applause.

Tyre Taylor arose, and then some of the fire works broke loose. Mr. Taylor deplored the fact that political influences had entered the fair halls of Di, and as he spoke the pictures on the wall smiled their approval, at least some of them did. He said that he wished Mr. Horner, the present editor had sent over a recommendation as to who was the best man to carry on the work of the magazine.

Several more men joined in the discussion and while the rest of the society panted like Gila monsters on an Arizona desert, the high lights flung out denunciation and gathered in anathema. Finally some man with the courage of his convictions moved that the discussion of the nominations be closed, and the society at once voted the measure through and prepared to elect the new editor.

Carolina Triumphs Over Furman In Opening Game of 1922 Season

Fetzer's Outfit Takes Advantage of Every Break and Plays Steady Ball Against Sandlappers—Llewellyn Twirls Fine Game, and Other Brilliant Plays Are Made.

Playing steady, if not brilliant baseball, hitting the pill heavily, and taking advantage of every break which the windy weather and the tired-out Furman team presented Fetzer's nine triumphed over the visitors from South Carolina 8 to 0, Saturday afternoon. This game was scheduled for Friday but was postponed on account of sudden showers.

TRACK TEAM MUST SHOW MUCH IMPROVEMENT YET

Varsity and Freshmen Trials Held, With Better Showing Than Week Previous—Trinity Meet Saturday

Because of the postponement of the dual track meet with A. and E. which was to have been held in Raleigh Saturday, and to help put the team in better shape for the Trinity meet next Saturday, varsity track trials with two freshmen events were held on Emerson field last week.

Some improvement was shown over the week before, yet the team must improve considerably to take the meet from the Methodists. A number of men were absent, due to minor injuries sustained, and lack of condition on account of reporting late or irregular for practice.

At present Coach Bob Fetzer is trying to find good men to replace P. J. Ranson and Captain Boyd Harden. In losing these two men the team was hit hard and much difficulty is being experienced in getting good men to replace them.

The freshmen events, which constituted the preliminary trials of the series of Freshmen Intra class events which will be run during the spring term were well contested, being slightly better than those of the varsity, but had comparatively few entrants.

Coach Fetzer intends to keep his men steadily on the grind during the remainder of the week and thinks that the team as a whole will be in good shape for the meet, provided that no other men are ruled off, or sustain minor injuries which will throw them out of the run.

No Longer Tar Baby Man.

Editor The Tar Heel: I wish to take advantage of your columns to announce to the student body and the public at large, the severance of all relations between myself and the Carolina Tar Baby.

I am taking this step because I am absolutely unable to obtain any cooperation with the business management of The Tar Baby and on account of the interference of said management of The Tar Baby and on account of the interference of said management with the literary arraignment of the magazine.

Owing to these facts alone and not to any personal trouble with the owners, etc. I wish my resignation to be known publicly as well as my complete innocence of any fished material which may come to light of day in the latest issue.

Llewellyn did the twirling for Carolina in a masterly fashion, whiffing nine of his opponents, while the team worked well behind him in the field, though the work of the outfielders was a trifle, shall we say, irregular at times. This will probably be entirely eliminated as soon as the season progresses. In the infield the McLean-Shirley route was a death-trap for the Sandlappers.

Furman played excellent ball for the first three innings and deserves a lot of credit. Although they were very wild at times, and could never connect effectively with Llewellyn's fast ones. They were clean ball players throughout, and the contest was all that could be desired in the way of good sportsmanship.

Both teams played practically airtight ball until the third inning when Roy Morris reached first on an error, the Furman pitcher populated the sacks densely by a brace of walking papers to McDonald and McLean, and Fred Morris parked the ball in the outer gardens, driving in his brother and Monk McDonald.

Thus the fun began and continued through the seventh frame, with the local boys swatting the pill almost at will and running wild on the bases. Fred Morris is particularly guilty in this respect and has a charge of grand larceny on two separate accounts.

Although very one-sided the game was replete with thrills of as many complexions as the grand chapter of the Shifters. Red Johnson garnered in a high foul in the right garden after a long run, which got him the glad hand of the gallery, center-fielder Carter, of Furman, robbed Carolina of at least one run when he made a brilliant one-hand stab of a long swat in the sixth frame and the pill stuck. Brassington, the Furman third-sacker, made short shift of a hard liner in a similar manner, as did our pitcher, Mister Llewellyn, and a very nifty double play Llewellyn-McDonald-Shirley can easily be listed in the category of features.

And one must not close such a story without a passing remark on the excellent umpiring, exquisite manners, and unparalleled pronunciation of Mister Brandon, who was kind enough to referee the ball match for the boys.
