

Elections For Important Offices Monday

President Of Student Body And Tar Heel Elections On Monday

Race Is On For Elections To Be Held Monday, When the President of the Student Body and Editors of the Tar Heel Will Be Chosen By the Campus.

The race is on.

Last Monday morning in chapel the nominations for the annual spring elections of the Athletic Association and the President of the Student Body were held. Next Monday from the hours of 6 in the morning to 6 in the afternoon the polls will be open for voting for President of the Student Body and Editors of the Tar Heel, the remainder of the elections to come off one week later.

On this day the leader of the entire campus for next year and the men that will do much to mould the opinion and give the news to the campus will be decided. The Tar Heel makes the special request that voters cast their ballot conscientiously, and after thinking carefully the matter out, be careful with your votes.

Presidential Race Warm

For president of the student body the following five men were nominated: Victor Young of Durham, J. O. Harman of Pittsboro, Thomas Turner of High Point, J. Y. Kerr, Jr., of Warrenton, and Joe Ervin of Morganton. Nomination of the last candidate came somewhat as a surprise, and as the Tar Heel goes to press, there is some doubt as to his eligibility, due to the fact that he is a member of the first year law school, and was graduated from the University last year.

The entry of Joe Ervin in the race throws a new light on the election. It was pretty well known that this astute politician was actively supporting Turner in the race, and had already done much work on lining up a machine for this man, when Grady Pritchard nominated him for the job. Ervin has been at Carolina five years, has figured prominently in many elections as a "boss" or campaign manager, but this is the first time that he has run for a really important office.

The other candidates, Young, Harman, Turner and Kerr, have been in the race for some time. Predictions as to who will win this race would be a difficult task, for the campus seems to be pretty evenly divided as to its choice. If Ervin runs for the job, the loss of his support for Turner will tend to break down his possibilities to a great extent. The whole thing seems to be greatly crossed up, with some little mix-in with the Tar Heel elections.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS GATHER HERE SATURDAY

Col. Albert L. Cox, Distinguished World War Veteran, Will Deliver Principal Address

The annual Memorial day meeting of the Confederate veterans will be held here, under the auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, on Saturday, May 6th, at 12:30 p. m. in Gerrard Hall. Colonel Albert L. Cox will deliver an address.

Colonel Cox is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina. He was a student here during the presidency of Dr. Francis P. Venable. Besides being an exceptional scholar, Colonel Cox was quite an athlete and he won many honors on the gridiron.

After leaving the University Colonel Cox entered the North Carolina National Guard in 1915. As captain of the 120th infantry he served with his regiment in the U. S. Expeditionary forces on the Mexican border 1916 until January 1917, winning much distinction as a commander. Later he resigned from his position as captain to accept a judgeship on superior court. When the U. S. entered the world war, Colonel Cox was commissioned by former Governor Bickett as captain and assigned as commanding officer of the 13th field artillery of the 30th division, which won great distinction in France during the war. Colonel Cox is a very entertaining speaker and all persons are invited to attend the meeting.

ROSS ELECTED BASKETBALL MANAGER.

Unofficial count of the votes in the recent basketball election shows that H. L. (Shike) Ross won the position of manager of next year's basketball team by a large majority over R. P. Bell. The announcements of other elections made at that ballot will be delayed for several weeks on account of the absence of E. M. Sweetman, president of the Athletic Association, with the baseball team on its ten-day trip to the North.

NEW Y. M. C. A. OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED TUESDAY

Poindexter, New President, Outlines His Program for Next Year News Ideas Introduced

The chapel period Tuesday morning was taken up with the installation of the new Y. M. C. A. officers for the incoming year. (Previous to the installation, Billie Carmichael, chairman of the committee appointed to confer with the faculty athletic committee regarding the recent summer baseball ruling, made his report which is carried in another section of this edition.) C. J. Williams, retiring president of the present Y. M. C. A. cabinet, in a short speech turning over his administration to the new officials, highly praised his fellow cabinet members for the effort they had made to help him transmit the Y. department to their successors in a better condition than received.

C. C. Poindexter, the incoming president declared that it was the purpose of the new administration to make the Y. M. C. A. of the future a bigger and a more vital part of the student's life here. He briefly outlined some of the things which the new cabinet will put into practice.

In the first place he declared that he would be president only in name, but that the vice president, A. L. McGee and the secretary, W. A. Lillyerop would take fully as active a part in the new work of the "Y" as he.

Second, there will be an all time clerk at the Y who will be at the service of the students all day and until ten o'clock at night.

Third, a telephone will be placed in each dormitory to enable long distance calls to be transmitted more quickly.

Fourth, it is expected that the Book Exchange, now located in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building will be moved to some other place and the increased space will be used for socials and recreative purposes.

Fifth, a better and a more comprehensive Freshman Hand Book will take the place of the old Freshman Bible.

Sixth, it was recommended that the students study the recently proposed budget system of financing the campus organizations as this plan will probably come up for adoption.

"It is our aim to serve the student body," said Poindexter. He also said that it was desired to make the Y. M. C. A. the center of all student activities and that any criticism or suggestions from any student would be greatly appreciated. He appealed for the co-operation of every one in putting through his program.

The several departments of the Y. M. C. A. work for the ensuing year has been divided among the President, Vice-President and Secretary as follows: The president has

VIRGINIA IS BLANKED FOR THIRD TIME BY FAST CAROLINA TEAM

"Lefty" Wilson Hurling Air-Tight Ball, Yields Only 2 Hits, While Teammates Drive Out 11.

CLARKE YIELDS 11 HITS

Playing a bang-up brand of baseball behind the air-tight twirling of "Lefty" Wilson, the Carolina machine applied the white-wash to the team representing the University of Virginia, to the tune of 7 to 0, on Monday. This was Virginia's third shut-out at the hands of Carolina this year, and gave Carolina a clean slate for the last two years.

"Lefty" was master of the situation throughout, making the Virginia willow-wielders look pitiful. In all, he gave up two hits, the first to Carrington, Virginia's lead-off man, and the other to Parrish in the seventh, after two men were down.

In the meantime, the Carolina sluggers were going after the offerings of Clark, Coach Ryan's pitching selection, unmercifully. They batted out no less than 11 hits, good for 13 bases and 7 runs.

Bonner and Fred Morris were the shining stars at the bat, Bonner getting three hits and a base on balls in his four appearances at the place. Fred Morris connected for three safe hits, including a double.

The Tar Heels started the scoring in the first frame, when an error, a walk, and a single by "Mule" Shirley pushed across the first counter.

Carolina scored again in the second on a single, a stolen base, and an error.

Another run was annexed in the third, when Fred Morris' single got away from McCoy, scoring McLean who had previously walked. Carolina did not score again until the sixth, when three hits and a fielder's choice accounted for two more runs.

Runs number six and seven were chalked up in the seventh as a result of doubles by McLean and Fred Morris, Sweetman's sacrifice and Shirley's single.

Virginia never seriously threatened, getting only two men as far as the keystone bag. One of these was the victim of a fast double play, Casey Morris to McDonald.

To the rival centerfielders goes the fielding honor. In the fourth, Sweetman raced into deep right and pulled down with one hand a fly that looked good for extra bases. In the same inning McCoy made a great catch on a drive from Casey Morris' bat.

Box score and summary:

INN SITE SELECTED FOR THE GRAHAM MEMORIAL

The site of the old University Inn has been selected for the Graham Memorial. This memorial will be a student center where all the campus activities can be located. Its purpose will be to provide for the comfort and fellowship of the students and to serve as a University club house. This was Edward K. Graham's desire for Carolina throughout his career as president.

The unbalanced effects of the campus due to the fortunate or unfortunate burning of the dilapidated old Inn will be done away with and a beautiful new structure placed where it once stood. The building will front both on the campus and on the main street. It will be erected at a cost of about $150,000.

The money for this new structure is being contributed by students and alumni from the entire state. In addition to that already collected and pledged there is still a balance of $27,000 to be raised.

The T. C. Atwood organization is in charge of its designing and erection. W. M. Kendall, of McKim, Mead and White, of New York, will be consulting architect for the new memorial as well as for the other campus buildings now under construction.

(EDITORIAL)

THE TAR HEEL ELECTIONS.

A number of men have come to us and asked us why the Tar Heel only nominated one man for editor-in-chief.

These are the bare facts. The Tar Heel's nominee for editor was elected to represent it by the Tar Heel Board, without a single dissenting vote. Earlier in the year, to be explicit, at the beginning and during the winter quarter, the choice between the men running for editor would have been difficult to make but during the months that have followed that time one of the men practically dropped out of his work on the Tar Heel board. At the time when the Board made its nominations, only one man was thought of who deserved the position.

These are the qualifications of the two candidates for editor-in-chief:

Wade: As managing editor of the publication, he has filled his post conscientiously and ably. He has had the duty of seeing that the news is gathered and correctly written. He has also had the duty of making up the paper and the responsibility for its general news content. He has been on the Tar Heel board for two years. In the writing field, he has been at various times on the Magazine board, the Yackety Yack board and the correspondent of the Raleigh News and Observer and the Greensboro News and other state papers, and editor of the Freshman Handbook.

Parker: As assistant editor of the Tar Heel has written some very good news stories. During the fall he had charge of a column called "Sketches" the same column now known as "The Pine Box," and edited by R. L. Thompson. He has been on the Tar Heel Board for two years. In the writing field he has been at various times on the Magazine board, the Yackety Yack board, and the correspondent of the Wilmington Star.

Both men have served on the Tar Heel for two years. Wade came on the board at the beginning of his sophomore year and at the end of that time was elected managing editor. Parker came on the board at the beginning of his junior year and was elected assistant editor at the end of that time. Both of the men have ability as writers but the Tar Heel Board has made its choice knowing both men from close association and that board, in making its choice, has felt that Wade deserved the nomination and would make the best editor of the Tar Heel.

Engagement Announced of Miss Lay and Paul Greene

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth A. Lay, well known young woman student in the university, and playwright who has helped to make the reputation of the Carolina Playmakers what it is today, and Paul Elliott Greene, also of Playmake fame, was announced at a party given in Miss Lay's honor here last week.

The marriage will take place some time during the summer but the date has not been announced.

Miss Lay is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Lay, formerly of Raleigh, and now of Beaufort. Dr. Lay is a former rector of St. Mary's school in Raleigh and is at present rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church at Beaufort.

As a playwright Miss Lay has distinguished herself by her work on plays of fantasy and folk-superstition in North Carolina, and is perhaps the best authority on the subject in the state. She entered the University in 1918 and obtained her degree of A. B. Degree in 1920, and will get her M. A. Degree this spring.

Mr. Greene is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Archibald Green of Lillington and is a graduate of Buie's Creek academy. He was graduated from the University last spring, after winning many college honors, among them Phi Beta Kappa, Omega Delta, successful production of several plays, and others. During the world war he served overseas. Recently he won the Keenan fellowship in philosophy for the year 1922-23.

Both are playwrights of ability and have contributed largely to the success of the Carolina Playmakers.

Thomas J. Wilson, registrar, has been elected vice-president of the American Association of College Registrars, at a meeting of the association recently in St. Louis.

SOCIAL ROOM PLAN IS PRESENTED TO CABINET

Budget System Discussed—Editor of Tar Heel and Magazine To Be Members of Cabinet.

At a meeting of the campus cabinet Monday night, Dean Bradshaw presented the University's plan for social rooms in the dormitories next year. This plan provides that one room will be left vacant and furnished with tables and chairs for the common use of the students in each dormitory on condition that the dormitory will organize, elect officers, and draw up a set of house rules governing the use of the room.

The cabinet voted to present the plan to each dormitory group, leaving it to their decision as to whether or not they want the room. Dean Bradshaw pointed out that the rooms would give additional opportunities for the men rooming in the same building to establish closer contact with one another, thus promoting better dormitory spirit.

Budget Discussed.

The pooled budget proposition is still under discussion by committees. L. J. Phipps' committee on apportionment, reported that they had met and agreed upon the sum with which each activity would be satisfied. The ratio is substantially the same as the one first presented by the cabinet, the total still remaining at $3.00 per student per quarter.

R. H. Frazier's committee on administration and supervision of the activities sharing in the budget reported that it had been unable to arrange a meeting. The report of this committee will be presented at the next meeting of the cabinet which takes place Monday night.

The cabinet voted to increase its membership by adding three new members. These will be the editor-in-chief of the Tar Heel, the editor-in-chief of the Carolina Magazine and the president of the Y. M. C. A.

Gym Men to Work-Out Shriner Circus Tonight

The annual Shriners' club Circus to be held in Raleigh tonight will have for one of its special features a performance by seven of Dr. Lawson's gym men.

The most interesting performance will probably be that of "Mary" Worsham, the blind student here, who will do some exceptionally good work on the bar. The other men who are to compose the team are Coffey, Dula, Spencer, Gohison, Marshburn and Bonar.

Saturday night will see this team in Durham performing at the Olympic games being held there. Here they will probably be joined by four or five other gym men from the University who will take part in the stunts.

There is a possibility that Elon will send a gymnasium team to compete with the University one. It is not likely that any other colleges will have representatives present.

Musical Concert Sunday At Presbyterian Church

William Clegg Monroe will give a concert at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at three thirty under the auspices of the university department of music.

Mr. Monroe will sing three groups of songs. Professor Weaver will play two organ groups.

Mr. Monroe is a Greensboro man now singing in New York, and he will go from here to the Panama Canal Zone for a concert tour there. The music department considers Chapel Hill fortunate in getting him and recommend him very highly to the people here.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Senior Order of Golden Fleece will meet at 9 o'clock on the evening of May 10, in the Council Room of the Y. M. C. A.

The Game Had Important Bearing on State Championship This Year.

Large Delegation Sees White-Wash Applied to Beat Raleigh Athletes In Exciting Game

TAR HEEL PITCHER FANS 12

Three runs for the Tar Heels, one for the Techs, 12 men struck out by Captain Lewellyn, practically perfect infield support on the part of Carolina; poor hitting for N. C. State and a tendency on their part to error frequently against a hard hitting team, these figures and facts sum up the Carolina-N. C. State game played on Riddick field Tuesday afternoon before crowded stands.

Carolina began her scoring in the first of the game when "Mule" Shirley knocked out a safety, and was advanced by errors to third, to tally when Casey Morris hit out a safety. She began her scoring again in the fourth frame.

The fourth was a very peppy inning. Wilson who was leading off, hit out a two-bagger. He was advanced by Holland's error to third base. A pretty sacrifice by Sweetman scored him. The other tally came in the eighth when McLean registered a safety, stole second and was advanced in home by errors on the part of the State college men.

N. C. State made their one and only tally in the sixth inning when Redfearn crossed the plate on McLean's error. Lewellyn had already struck out two men, and it looked as though that the Tech men would not score in that inning. Redfearn, third man up, knocked out an easy one to McDonald which was errored, and he reached first. Holland's two base hit advanced him to third, and would have scored him but for the pretty pick up made by Wilson in the field. An error gave him a run.

Lewellyn Pitches Stellar Ball

Having the ability to strike out 12 men, Lewellyn was practically invincible, and were unable to get but five safeties, which were well scattered. In the ninth inning he struck out three men, two of them—Hill and Floyd, who were sent in to pinch hit for Blue and Larson, both weak men with the stick. But the sending in of what were supposed to be home run knockers didn't seem to bother "Big Lew" very much and he forced all of them to take his count. Two of the men failed to get even a foul.

Much Interest Surrounded Game

Since the game practically decided who would win the state championship this year, interest was white hot. Both teams entered the game under a strain, which is largely responsible for the two bobbles made by Carolina and the five made by the State. But despite the intense interest by which it was surrounded the game was exceedingly slow and tiring, and it could hardly be said that the Techs displayed much championship form in the game.

State's Outfielders Good

State played their best game in the outfield, and showed a decided weakness in the infield. A number of Carolina men were practically robbed of safeties, by their close fielding. A big dispute arose in the second inning when three men were on bases and R. Morris knocked out what was supposed to be a hit. Johnston of State claimed that he caught the ball, but the two umpires were inclined to disagree with him and called it a trapped ball. During the game other arguments sprang up, but were quickly suppressed, and none as hot as the first.
