THE RULE OF THREE

Three things to fight for—honor, country and home.	Three things to hate—cruelty, arrogance and ingratitude.
Three things to think about—life, death and eternity.	Three things to delight in—frankness, freedom and beauty.
Three things to govern—temper, tongue and conduct.	Three things to avoid—idleness, loquacity and flippant jesting.
Three things to love—courage, gentleness and affection.	Three things to wish for—health, friends and a cheerful spirit.
	Three things to admire—intellectual power, dignity and gracefulness.

SOPHS PAY COMPLIMENTS TO FRESH ON SUNDAY EVE

Advance Guard Class of '26 Are Given Warm Reception on Arrival at Carolina.

The advance guards of the Class of '26 were the charming hosts on Sunday night to a delegation of dauntless Sophomores who lost no time at all in making the well-known welkin ring. About two dozen members of our most sophisticated class joined in extending an effusive though somewhat unappreciated greeting to what few of the vaunted seven hundred had at that time transferred their domicile to our spacious campus.

The Chief Greeters were supplied with heavy paddles as admission cards and the time-honored ritual of the Ceremony of the Bottom Rung reverberated for the first time through the corridors of the four dormitories which form the new quadrangle. Practically all the courses in the Sophomore curriculum were given and satisfactorily passed by the blessed neophytes.

Several promising additions to the literary societies were discovered in the course of operations and enough material unearthed to run the recently announced Boll Weevil through its first three editions. Quite a number of original and spontaneous methods of making passionate love were demonstrated upon the kindly insistence of the fraternal Sophs, even though the party of the second part must needs be a pillow, a chair or a member of the male sex.

If early indications may be taken as a criterion the Class of '26 will rapidly become acclimated to its new atmosphere.

NEW PROFESSORS REPORT FOR DUTY ON THE HILL

Coker, Trabue and Caldwell Are Additions to the Faculty of the University.

Robert E. Coker, a University graduate of the Class of '96 and for several years connected with the research branch of the United States Bureau of Fisheries in Washington, has returned to occupy the chair of zoology here. He and his family will share the home of his cousin, W. C. Coker, professor of botany.

The vacancy in the School of Education created by the resignation of Dr. L. A. Williams will be filled by Marion Rex Trabue, who comes from Teachers' College, New York, to be professor of educational administration.

An addition to the history department is Wallace E. Caldwell, recently at Columbia University. Dr. Caldwell will have ancient history as his special field.

A clergyman in a Southern State once told me of a communication he received with reference to a marriage that was to take place at his house.

"This," read the letter, "is to give you notice that I and Miss Jennie Alice Boggs is coming to your church on Saturday afternoon next to undergo the operation of matrimony at your hands. Please be prompt, as the carriage is hired by the hour."

The Mediterranean is the bluest of all seas.
