

FRATERNITIES INITIATE NINETY-THREE NEOPHYTES IN TRADITIONAL MANNER

Lively Competition During Past Week Ends in Mystic Performances on Monday Night.

FULL LIST OF INITIATES

The annual fall initiations are over and 93 men have had their names added to Carolina's fraternity roll. Every fraternity for itself has been the status on the campus for the past week and the good fight has been made with an open spirit. All is fair in love and other things, it seems, especially in winning a desired brother.

The bars of secrecy have been let down to the fortunates and a great field of unknown and mystic signs, oaths and grips have been revealed to them. At last they have been given the keys to the golden shrine, and become sworn brothers.

The list of those men initiated is given here, according to the University fraternity roll.

EMERSON FIELD WIDENED BY LEVELLING ON SOUTH

When the work now being done on the south of the athletic field is completed, it will take even a longer fly to reach the woods than any of those which thrilled the spectators of the last baseball game with Trinity. All the rubbish of the campus, together with all the waste stones and dirt resulting from the building, grading, and ditching operations on the campus, are being dumped south of Emerson Field. The hedge will eventually be moved back an average of about 150 feet, thus widening the field. This has entailed a large amount of hauling, as the embankment is at least 12 feet high.

M. A. Hill, W. E. Comer, T. Dork and A. O. Griffin were initiated into the Masonic club last Monday night.

AN ASSURANCE

(Editorial)

Last year the predominance of advertisements in the Tar Heel, leaving little space for news matter, resulted in much dissatisfaction among the subscribers. A glance at the last issue of the Tar Heel, which was overcrowded with advertisements, would seem to indicate that the same fault will be found with the paper again this year. The editors, however, desire to assure the readers that such will not be the case. Several important news stories were left out of last issue due to this misunderstanding between the business and editorial staffs, which has been straightened out by an agreement that in the future only a definite reasonable percentage of the paper will be used for advertising space. In spite of the fact that in every newspaper plant the business managers and the editors are forever waging a battle, and the Tar Heel office is unhappily no exception, we promise faithfully to see that this agreement will be strictly adhered to.

BRANSON EXPLAINS WORK OF NORTH CAROLINA CLUB TO FRESHMEN IN CHAPEL

"What Next in North Carolina" To Be Subject of Year's Study—$50 Prize Offered.

WILL MEET FORTNIGHTLY

Speaking to the freshmen in chapel Tuesday, Dr. E. C. Branson, head of the Extension Department, explained the nature of the North Carolina Club, and briefly outlined its plans for the coming year. He described the function of the club, and in a general way told what it had been doing in the past.

Dr. Branson explained that any student of the University, whatever his class affiliation might be, could become a member of the North Carolina Club. The club holds fortnightly meetings, at which papers are read and discussions carried on. Each year the club takes some subject, or series of related subjects, and makes an extensive study of it. At the end of the year a bulletin, containing reports of all investigations made during that year, is issued.

"The North Carolina Club," Dr. Branson said, "studies the social and business life and problems of the state." In stating its plans for the coming year, he said that the club would undertake to answer the question, "What next in North Carolina?" Dr. Branson has 23 suggestions of plausible answers to this question. He will submit each of these to members of the club, who will investigate and develop them during the coming year. The first meeting will be held in Phillips Hall lecture room Monday night, October 16, at 7:30 o'clock.

A creditable answer receives college credit for class promotion, graduation, or graduate degrees, provided the student registers promptly with the proper University officials for club credit.

The best answer of the present college year is worth $50 in gold—the University prize established by Hon. J. W. Bailey, of Raleigh.

All answers that reach the high level of University standards will be given to the reading public in the 1922-23 Year-Book of the Club under the title, "What Next in North Carolina?"

The following is a list of 23 suggested topics given out by Dr. Branson:

1. The Equalizing of Taxes.
2. The Corporations and the Commonwealth.
3. Private Wealth and Public Welfare.
4. Capital, Labor, and the Public in North Carolina.

MAGAZINE BOARD MEETS TO DISCUSS ITS POLICY

A Constructive Ideal for the Year Agreed Upon—Editorial Argument Rather Warm.

The board of editors of the Carolina Magazine, of which George W. McCoy is the chief, in session assembled last Monday night adopted a constructive policy for the year. This policy consists of devoting any given issue of the Magazine to some specific subject, such as student activities, Southern literature, etc., although a few articles of a different nature may be used in such an issue. This policy, the editors believe, cannot fail to interest the student body as well as the state at large.

A long and hot discussion took place as to the editorial policy to be pursued throughout the year in which the chief editor took little part, but rather at the conclusion of the discussion stated that it was his personal affair, and left the impression that he would do as he pleases. It is understood that he will not adhere closely to Hornerism, although many of his editorials will concern student activities and student life. McCoy rather means to profit by the experience of the Tar Heel magazine's wrangle of last year, and steer clear, since no good was accomplished for either publication in the Daniels-Horner bouts of last year.

The editor also announced that material for the November number of the Magazine must be in by Tuesday, October 10. This edition is to be known as "Student Activities" number. Contributions from any member of the student body are welcomed, especially campus paragraphs, poetry, etc. All material should be sent to Box 1181 or brought to the editor at No. 2 Old East Building.

Yale Game Promises Not to Be a Sunday School Picnic

Not Expected That Contest Will Bear Any Resemblance to One-Sided Affair of Last Year.

Coach Fetzer and his team left today for New Haven, where Carolina plays Yale tomorrow afternoon. Although Yale has one of the best teams in the East, it is not probable that the outcome of the Yale-Carolina game will be as one-sided as that of last year's game.

FOOTBALL GAMES TOMORROW

- Wake Forest vs. Elon at Wake Forest.
- Washington and Lee vs. N. C. State at Lexington.
- Georgia Tech vs. Davidson at Atlanta.
- Trinity vs. Hampden-Sidney at Durham.
- Virginia vs. Princeton at Princeton.
- South Carolina vs. Presbyterian College at Columbia.
- Richmond vs. Maryland at Richmond.
- V. M. I. vs. Roanoke at Lexington.

HIGHEST MARK IN HISTORY REACHED BY REGISTRATION

More Than 1800 Already Enrolled—Housing Problem Still Unsolved—Other Problems Also.

The registration of the University has reached the highest point in its history. The number of students has gone well beyond the 1800 mark—a mark which has never before been reached. This number of students also presents a problem on the campus that has never before been quite so big. Although there are four new dormitories, the housing problem has not been solved. In several of the dormitories where the size of the room permits there has been an extra man placed in order to take care of the situation. Out in town all the available houses have been taken so that now a "late comer" is considered lucky to get a room.

Certainly the people of the state have responded magnificently to the plea for education. The number of men that have registered shows the necessity for the greater material expansion of the University. If the increase this year is suggestive of the registration for the next few years, the program of the University will have to be hastened considerably.

There is another problem that is larger than ever—that of the social life of the student. Dean Bradshaw will devote more of his time to this side of college life. The Y. M. C. A. has mapped out a program which will cover a larger area than that of last year. In fact, the whole University is facing greater problems due to the increased enrollment. Although the campus is in a stir now, everything will settle down shortly and will be running smoothly. Therefore the policy of "watchful waiting" is in order for the next few weeks.

MECKLENBURG COUNTY CLUB WANTS SCHOOL

With about 45, or one-half of its members present, the Mecklenburg County Club last Tuesday night went on record as favoring the plan of the Mecklenburg County Alumni Association as to establishing the University Medical School's clinical hospital in Charlotte, as the best suited city in the state for the hospital. A committee was appointed to draw up a letter and send to the Alumni Association at their annual University Day meeting on October 12, informing them of the club's attitude on the hospital and also arranging for a joint meeting of the Alumni Association and the County Club in Charlotte during the Christmas holidays. The plan is to invite to this meeting all members of the senior classes of the high schools and preparatory schools in the city and county and present to them the opportunities that the University has to offer.

Phi Alpha Delta, National Legal Fraternity, held its fall initiation Tuesday night, October 3. Two third year and three second year men became members, as follows: P. D. Herring, of Clinton; Kelly Jenkins, of Roanoke Rapids; R. D. Parsons, Alabama; J. L. Holmes, Charlotte, and O. Downing, Charlotte. The Ruffin chapter of Phi Alpha Delta was established at U. N. C. in 1921.

PLAYMAKER TRYOUTS FOR "SEVENTEEN" TO BE HELD IN PEABODY AUDITORIUM

Six Male and Six Female Parts To Be Assigned—Everybody Eligible for the Cast.

WILL READ PLAY TONIGHT

Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen," a play of youth and puppy-love, will be read this evening at 7:30 in the auditorium of Peabody Hall. Tryouts for parts take place Monday afternoon and evening, those for the six female parts at 4 o'clock and for the six male parts at 7:30 o'clock.

Rehearsals will begin immediately after the cast is chosen and continue until the presentation of the play on November 10 and 11. The production of the play is under the direction of Donald McMillan, who is in charge of the Playmakers during the absence of Professor Koch.

Parts in the play are open to everybody. The Carolina Playmakers is a community organization and the entire student body and faculty of the University as well as the people of Chapel Hill are eligible for the casts of all productions presented. New men at the University who are interested in dramatics are especially urged to try out. Because of the fact that first-year men may not register for English 31, some freshmen may have received the impression that they are not eligible to try out for the Playmakers. This is not the case.

So far as known this will be the first presentation of "Seventeen" by amateurs. The Playmakers are enabled to do so through the personal friendship of Professor Koch for Stuart Walker, who dramatized the play from the novel and owns the production rights. The comedy had an eminently successful run at the Booth Theater in New York City and played to continued large crowds. If the Chapel Hill performances are a success the play will probably be presented in Durham the following week.

"Seventeen" is admirably adapted to presentation by amateurs. The play revolves around the inimitable William Sylvanus Baxter, a young gentleman of tender years who is continually in the throes of that malady of adolescence commonly known as "puppy-love," and who has an inordinate longing for a dress suit in which to properly conduct his amours. The plot delineates the course of his affair with Miss Lola Pratt, the visiting "baby-talk lady," and his final discovery of the cold, hard truth in the statement of his little sister, Jane, who is always carefully reminding him that he is not yet "grown up."

WILLIAM STEELE TALKS IN CHAPEL LAST MONDAY

William Steele, an alumnus of the University, who, since his graduation in 1918, has traveled extensively in Asia Minor, made a short talk in chapel Monday morning. Since 1918 Mr. Steele has spent two years at Edinburgh, Scotland, where he has been preparing himself for the Methodist ministry. After leaving Scotland, he visited many of the Mediterranean lands, from Marseilles to Alexandria, thence he continued his journey to Cairo. On his return trip he visited Damascus and the Holy Lands, and after a short sojourn in Smyrna, returned to the United States. After spending a year at his home in Nashville, Tennessee, he expects to go to China, where he is to enter the Methodist missionary service. During his travels Mr. Steele has had many interesting experiences.

JUNIOR CLASS PRESIDENCY NOW LOOKING FOR A MAN

C. Y. Coley, of Rockingham, president of this year's junior class and a prominent figure in campus activities, left the University last Wednesday, going to Yale where he will enter the law school. An election will be held either Monday or Tuesday of next week for the purpose of electing a new class president for the juniors. At the same time a vice-president will also be elected, since Al Johnston, who was chosen for this office last spring, did not return to the University this fall.

The engagement of Tony Sarg's Marionettes, booked to appear here on November 17, has been cancelled because of the cutting short of the southern tour of the company. The Playmakers hope to secure this production for a date later in the season.

THE RUSSIAN SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA TO BE HEARD HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Organization Is Composed of 42 Concert Artists Directed by Modest Altschuler.

PROGRAM TO BE POPULAR

The Russian Symphony Orchestra has been secured by the Music Department for a concert in Memorial Hall next Wednesday night at 8:30. The securing of such a musical organization is in the nature of a distinct triumph and marks a real step forward in the musical life of the college.

This organization is composed of 42 concert artists of the first rank and is directed by Modest Altschuler, who is generally conceded to be one of the world's greatest orchestral leaders. The musical organizations in this country which rank with the Russian Symphony are few, and there are none which surpass it.

Press notices from the most prominent cities of the United States, where the orchestra has appeared, are unstinted in their praise, and agree that, in the matter of solid musicianship and ensemble work, the organization is yet to be surpassed.

For the past two weeks the Orchestra has been appearing at the big Made-in-Carolinas Exposition in Charlotte, and the newspapers there are lavish in their commendation of the work they have done.

The program will be distinctly popular in type, and the admission will be one dollar. A small section of reserved seats will be on sale at Patterson's Drug Store, starting Saturday. An extra charge of 25 cents will be made for reservation.

STUDENT TYPISTS WILL FIND WORK THROUGH "Y"

Public Stenographic Bureau Organized and Sponsored by Y. M. C. A.—Sign Painting Done Also.

The latest self-help agency initiated by the Y. M. C. A. is the Public Stenographic Bureau which is being organized this week, and will soon begin operations on the top floor of the Y. M. C. A. building.

All kinds of stenographic work will be done, including copy work, themes, circular letters, mimeograph, and so forth. Expert typists and short-hand writers will handle this work.

In addition, two sign painters of professional ability will operate a sign painting department. They are prepared to do all grades of sign painting and lettering—from bill and bulletin board notices to high grade show window lettering and interior decorating. Both oil and water colors will be used.

The Y. M. C. A. will continue to sponsor the new institution, but it will be a complete organization in itself. In particular the Y. M. C. A. will be the medium between the public and the bureau, when all the members of its staff are on class, or for any other reason absent from the building.

The bureau aims to assist self-help students who do stenographic work, and also to aid students who wish to have such work done quickly and well.

PHARMACY SCHOOL HAS ENROLLMENT OF NINETY

The Pharmacy school is keeping pace with the other departments of the University in growth. Evidence of this is shown in the increased enrollment of the school and additions to faculty and laboratory apparatus.

The enrollment to date is 90, which is greater by 18 than in any previous year. Although this may not seem a great gain when it is compared with the growth of previous years, which never exceeded six or eight, it shows the growth of the department.

The increased enrollment has necessitated an addition to the faculty and an increase in equipment and apparatus. E. B. Kyser, of Rocky Mount, has joined the faculty as an assistant teacher of pharmacy.

Most noteworthy among the students is D. B. Kertiker, an East Indian from Bombay, India. Kertiker is a graduate of Columbia in pharmacy; he is taking graduate work here, and is assistant to Dean Howell in laboratory work. This is the first time in the history of the University that an East Indian has been enrolled in the student body.
