SCARCELY RAISING A SWEAT CAROLINA BEATS MARYLAND THE SCORE BEING 27 TO 3

the 15-yard line.
Carolina's last touchdown came as a result of Tenney's ability to plough through Maryland's hefty line. McGhee broke through his opponents' left tackle and placed the pigskin over the line. At this point Coach Fetzer began substituting and by the time the fourth quarter was under way the whole second team was facing the College Park outfit.
The bright spot of the fourth quarter was Bonner's 23-yard run down the right side of the field. In this period Maryland invaded Carolina's territory for the first time and Pollock drop kicked from the 35-yard line for the visitors' only score.
Pugh was the only consistent ground gainer for Maryland, while Semler, the fast back that ran wild against Carolina in 1920, was completely covered. The whole Blue and White backfield performed in splendid fashion, and Casey Morris showed great ability in receiving forward passes.
