Vol. XXXI. Jan. 9, 1923 No. 23

1923

The Tar Heel pays its respects to the students for the coming year, wishing for them the usual health, prosperity, and happiness, and a college year worth while and beneficial.

It is customary, in such a gazette as this, to write a few lines in this column along about this time urging Carolina men to make the best of all their opportunities during the coming year, refer to their text-books religiously and industriously, attend all classes (including that darned 8:30) regularly and consistently, and thereby keep all the usual New Year resolutions, and subsequently live happily ever after.

The Tar Heel, for this memorable once, does not appeal to you this time to do any of these things, if you are satisfied to do otherwise. We only give you the kindly tip to use your heads, and if you are working for a degree, it's a good time of the year to get off that required stuff, and if you are really seeking an education, it's a very splendid idea to do a little work now and then in an effort to acquire just that. The point is, do just what you want to do, which is what you will do anyhow, but keep your conscience clear, so that later there will be no regrets. We hope you have a very successful year. We hope, in the same breath, that it will be a very enjoyable year. Happiness and success are usually kindred in spirit, and that it may be for you is just such a new year's wish that we express for our readers.

ONE RESOLUTION

During each of the three years that we have been connected, in various capacities, with this campus sheet, the fall session has inevitably and invariably been the bugbear of its existence. The Tar Heel goes through a strenuous period of organization and getting settled during the first three months of the year, and the result always is a poorer newspaper during this period than during any other part of the college year. We are not trying to offer any apologies for the shortcomings of the Tar Heel during the session just ended. We realize that the paper fell down in many ways, often coming out late, often rather poorly edited, and sometimes a very inadequate and poor newspaper in almost every respect. We realize this, but are not trying to pull any alibis for this fact, other than saying we did have many troubles, and we promise to do a great deal better the rest of the year. This is a resolution annually made by Tar Heel editors, and during the three years of our varied connection, this resolution has been kept. Last year the Tar Heel saw better days after the Christmas holiday period, and year before last the Tar Heel was hailed as a far more promising sheet in the winter and spring than in the fall. So it has been, and so it will always be. (Future Tar Heel editors can take this tip.) So we are going to give the campus something closer resembling a real newspaper in the weeks to come, and the standard of the Tar Heel will be improved a great deal. If you believe us to be kidding ourselves, keep your eyes open and satisfy yourselves that such is not the case.

ANNOUNCEMENT

ways the poorest session for the Tar Heel, and this year we firmly believe that the Tar Heel will be a better paper in every respect.

Subscribe to the Tar Heel, and have a paper to reach you twice a week, Tuesdays and Fridays, with all the campus news, special articles, and accounts of events of especial interest to the student. Save your copies, and you will have a complete file for future reference of every event of any importance that happens on the campus during the year. The Tar Heel, we promise, will be worth to you far more than the price of subscription.

DORMITORY DISCUSSION GROUPS PLANNED BY 'Y'

World Problems Presented by Sherwood Eddy to Be Basis of Weekly Program.

Plans for world-problem discussion groups to be held every Wednesday night at 10 p. m. in the various dormitories were started by the Y. M. C. A. cabinet in its first meeting for the quarter held last Saturday afternoon. The idea is to discuss mainly those problems which Sherwood Eddy presented here last spring.

The list of several hundred questions which were asked Mr. Eddy by the Carolina students in Memorial Hall at that time, and to which he gave his answers in brief, have been arranged and printed by the Y. M. C. A., and it is the intention of the cabinet to discuss these questions at the proposed dormitory groups. The groups are to have student leaders, who, in turn, will be instructed in a leaders' class conducted by Parson Moss of the Presbyterian church.

Other business brought up in the cabinet meeting included plans for a Blue Ridge campaign to be put on soon, in which an effort will be made to get at least 75 Carolina men to attend the Southern Students Conference of the Y. M. C. A. next June.

The cabinet also decided to turn the room on the third floor of the "Y" building, which has been used as a private sign painting shop for the fall quarter, into a group study room, in which various groups of students could gather for study out loud. The room was used for that purpose last year.

Other instances of similar nature resulted in free-for-all word battles in the treasurer's office, but the majority of these cases were smoothed over by the good sportsmanship of the newcomers who in many cases agreed to take the same rooms they occupied last quarter if these were still available. But the real trouble came in when the rooms which they had occupied last quarter had also been turned over to some one else. Matters were greatly complicated, and many have not been settled yet.

Poor Way to Go to Church
A hearse is a poor vehicle in which to ride to church—why wait for it?—Selected.

Evidently She Wasn't One
Woman Customer: "I want some California olives."
Saucy Saleswoman: "I only wait on prunes."—Everybody's Magazine.

Wonders of Surgery
Jack: "Ma! Freddie's been hurt at football!"
Fond Mamma: "Oh, dear, dear! What does the telegram say?"
Jack: "Nose broken. How shall I have it set—Greek or Roman?"—London Mail.

No New-Fangled Notions For Him
A little chap was offered a chance to spend a week in the country, but refused. Coaxing, pleading, arguing, promising of untold wonders, alike brought from him nothing but the stubborn ultimatum: "No country for me."
"But why not?" someone asked finally.
"Because," he responded, "they have thrashin' machines down there, an' it's bad enough here where it's done by hand."—Interior.

Could Not Qualify

"I can't stay long," said the chairman of the committee from the colored church. "I just come to see if yo' wouldn't join de mission band."
"Fo' de lan' sakes, honey," replied the old mammy, "don' come to me. Ah can't eben play de mouf-organ."—Lippincott's.

The Frank Farmer

Sally (the farmer's wife)—"There's a letter from a London lady this mornin', Timothy, as wants to take a hopenair cure at this 'ere farm in the summer, and asks if we 'ave a bathroom. What am I to say?"
Farmer—"Write and tell her the truth at once, Sally. Say she'd better 'ave 'er bath the day before she comes 'ere."—Selected.

Wanted to Do It Right

Bishop Quayle sent the following note to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church recently: "Am getting along fairly well. The doctors are trying to find out what is the matter with me. I hope they will succeed, for I'd hate to get well of the wrong disease."—Christian Register.

The Trouble

Father was annoyed. His expensive gold watch had failed him. It wouldn't go at all.

"I can't think what's the matter," he complained. "Maybe it needs cleaning."

"Oh, no, daddy," objected four-year-old Henry. "'Cause baby and I had it in the bathroom washing it all day yesterday."—The American Legion Weekly.

Followed Instructions

The mistress came in to find the kitchen floor a gummy lake and the new cook calmly installed in a chair and reading a paper-backed novel.

"Oh, Jane," she sobbed, "and I told you to notice when the jam boiled over."

"So I did, mum," reported the cook cheerfully. "It were a quarter past 11—just 40 minutes ago."—American Legion Weekly.

Preferred the Installment Plan

Bell (protestingly)—"Don't do that! Jack—Dearest, don't you crave affection?"

"Yes, but why treat me like a cafeteria and help yourself?"—Pitt Panther.

Perpetual Motion

"What's the difference between a girl and a Victrola?"
"Well, a Victrola runs down."—Stanford Chapparral.

Reform in the First Degree

Flabb—Gimme a cigarette.
Dubb—Why, I thought you told me you had quit.

"Well, I've reached the first stage. I've quit buying."—Kansas Sour Owl.

Why Not on the Public Square?

Prery—Let me try on that suit in the window, my good man.

Clerk—Sorry, sir, but you'll have to use the dressing-room.—Washington Cougar's Paw.

Absence Makes the Grade Grow Larger

Absent-minded Professor—Mr. Smith, I want you to answer this question—

Mr. Smith—Professor, I'm absent today.
"I beg your pardon, sir, the next man will answer the question."—Georgia Cracker.

Reversal of Sentiment

There once was a goofy young swain Regarded by girls with disdain.

Till at football he played, Kicked a goal while fans prayed— Now he keeps 'em away with a cane. —Chicago Phoenix.

Association of Ideas

Mother of Twins—You say that Mrs. B. called me a cat?

Nurse (in charge of twins)—Well, she looked at the babies and said, "What dear little kittens!"—Lafayette Lyre.

A Flapper Chair

"24—That's a vampy little chair you have there.
"25—Whaddaya mean?
"24—Bare legs, a low neck, and not much upholstery."—Mass. Tech. Voo Doo.

It Happened in Boston

"How was the burlesque show?"
"Rotten."
"As good as that?"—Boston Beanpot.

"Free Outside Exhibition"

Oh, Lady Godiva Today would be mobbed By eager spectators— You see, 'twould be bobbed. —Princeton Tiger.

Sounds Good in January

He—Saw Minnie with her new bathing suit under her arm.
She—Is that the latest style?—Stanford Chapparral.
