

PRESENT OUTLOOK IS THAT JOHN SMITH, STUDENT, WILL STILL WAIT FOR HIS MAIL

Small Staff Works Valiantly Before Onslaught of Second and First Class Mail in Vain

ROYSTER TO WASHINGTON

Over Hundred Bags of Mail Received Daily. Rub Comes In Second Class Matter

Relief for the present crowded conditions at the Post Office is uncertain and impossible for sometime to come, according to the latest information received from Postmaster Herndon and the University authorities. Government regulations, and shortage of help all combine to cause the serious confusion now existing.

The Chapel Hill Post Office provides for 881 boxes, 350 of which are used by the townspeople and faculty, leaving approximately 530 boxes for 2200 students. The Post Office regulations allow only one box for a family, but the local station is obliged to violate this by crowding three and sometimes four in a box under the excuse of an emergency. The general delivery numbers one thousand, mostly students, who wait in long lines stretching to the sidewalk all hours of the day.

Shortage of help has added to the troubles of the Post Office staff. Five regular clerks are working overtime, contrary to the official 8-hour day, in an effort to meet the situation. They receive no pay for overtime work. In addition to the regulars there are two sub clerks, one of whom is now in the infirmary; the assistant postmaster has been ill for a year.

With half a dozen men to handle 100 bags of incoming mail, seven bags of outgoing mail, the registry matter, parcels, insured mail, special deliveries, labelling of boxes, etc., they can not possibly keep abreast with the work. As a proof of how bad conditions are, a student sent himself a letter and received it one week later. Many students are unable to secure checks from home to pay their college bills, and it is impossible to issue local cards and announcements of meetings with the assurance that they will reach the proper parties on time.

The University authorities realized that a serious crisis would result if the Post Office was not enlarged for the increased student body, and several plans were discussed. Dean Royster was sent to Washington to confer with officials, but nothing definite could be obtained. An inspector, here recently, recommended that several hundred additional boxes be put in, but this could not be done without a congressional appropriation requiring indefinite delay. Another plan in view is a campus station with

NEW PROJECT IN EXTENSION WORK

Prof. Fernald Organizing Correspondence Courses in Advertising and Salesmanship

A new project was inaugurated by the Extension Division of the University of North Carolina to assist in the business and commercial development of the State when the announcement was made recently by C. D. Snell, Director of the Division, that correspondence instruction courses in both Advertising and Salesmanship are being organized by Professor C. H. Fernald of the School of Commerce. Business men and their employees may register for either of these courses beginning October first, it was stated.

Professor Fernald, in an interview, said: "Realizing the high cost of commercial correspondence school courses, we have for some time desired to offer assistance in the fields of advertising and salesmanship to business men of North Carolina. Last year when teaching Extension classes in Durham and Raleigh in these subjects, I found many progressive merchants and business employees interested in learning new and up-to-date methods of increasing business. The members of my classes," explained Professor Fernald, "were not prejudiced against a college professor trying to help them in

CO-OP STUDENTS PLEASE BOSSES

Some of the Employing Companies even offer Students jobs after working period

Everything is now working smoothly in the co-operative department of the School of Engineering, and the junior co-operative students for the session 1923-24 have all been tentatively placed with their co-operative firms. On October 29th the students in the first section will report for their outside duties.

In addition to the Southern Power Co., State Highway Commission, State Board of Health, and a number of industrial firms, some of the students will be placed this year with the Southern Railway System in the maintenance and signal departments. The past co-operative year has been highly successful, and the students have been greatly benefited by this contact with the outside world. Judging by the letters from the firms with which the men were placed they were very pleased with the work done, and many of the men have already been offered after they graduate, positions with the companies for which they worked, after their three months of work.

Among the additions to the faculty of the School of Engineering is Professor A. Naeter, who will be associate professor of electrical engineering during Professor Daggett's leave of absence for the year. Professor Naeter taught for four years in Cornell University previous to coming here. Before going to Cornell he was designing engineer with the Westinghouse Manufacturing Co. in East Pittsburgh, Pa. He has also spent the past four summers in the test department of the New York Edison Co. He holds the degree of B.S. in electrical engineering from the University of Texas and also the degree of Master of Science from Cornell.

MORE SPACE UNDER STADIUM SHORTLY

Work will be begun this week sometime on bricking up and inclosing the under part of the lower section of Emerson Stadium. It will probably be finished in about a month or two. It will be fixed up very similar to the upper section of the stadium and will be fitted up with lockers, etc., to take care of the increasing needs of the University in athletics.

NEW ADDITIONS TO THE FACULTY

Dr. E. R. Mosher and Dr. A. M. Jordan added to Education School Staff

Two new professors have been added to the staff of the School of Education with the beginning of the current term. They are Dr. E. R. Mosher and Dr. A. M. Jordan.

Dr. Mosher was formerly Professor of Mathematics and Vice President of the State Normal College of the University of Montana, at Dillon, Montana. For the past three years he has been Professor of Educational Psychology at Salem, Mass. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Arts from the University of Minnesota, the degree of Master of Arts from Western Reserve University, and the degree of Doctor of Education from Harvard.

Dr. Jordan comes as Professor of Educational Psychology. He comes to us from the University of Arkansas, in which institution he was Professor of Psychology and Education. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Randolph-Macon College, the degree of Master of Arts from Trinity College, and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University.

Both Dr. Mosher and Dr. Jordan are teachers of recognized ability and the highest professional standing. Both have had considerable teaching experience in high school, normal college, and university, and are admirably equipped for the work they have taken up in the University of North Carolina. The School of Education is strengthened by the addition of these two professors.

Dr. Mosher will work through the

TEAM ASSUMING DEFINITE SHAPE

Squad Begins Hard Work This Week in Preparation for Wake Forest Game

Under the tutelage of five coaches the Carolina Varsity has at last begun to assume tangible shape in preparation for the Wake Forest game on Emerson Field, Sept. 29. No scrimmaging was indulged in last week and the squad devoted most of its time in getting the technique of the game fixed firmly in their skulls.

While Coach Bill, as usual, is rather bashful about letting the public on to his plans it is readily apparent that Melver is practically fixed at center. Robinson will probably have to wait a while and gather a little more experience before he will be able to stand the gaff.

McDonald, Bonner, Sparrow and Randolph will more than likely make up the first string backfield. Shirley, at present, is considered the most likely of the scrubs. Emmett Underwood seems to be the prize fruit from last year's hand-picked Freshman team and has been galavanting around with the old Varsity backs as though he were an old timer. Devin and Griffin are also proving themselves to be valuable timber for future use.

The daily practices have been well attended by students anxious to know how the team will compare with that of last year. Regular equipment was issued Saturday but the passing equinoctial storms necessitated the deferring of real action until Monday.

V. M. I. GAME UNLOCATED

Neither the V. M. I. nor the Davidson games have been located as yet. Such is the advice handed out by Charlie Norfleet, manager of Varsity football.

Last year the V. M. I. game was played in Richmond and the Davidson game in Charlotte. For some reason or other there seems to be difficulty in selecting a site this year. Many who have not cooled down from the removal of the Wake Forest game to Goldsboro last year are loud in their argument that at least one, if not both, of the undecided games should be staged on the Hill. As it stands now only two out of a total of nine games are definitely scheduled to be played at home.

FRONEBERGER URGES FROSHES TO ATTEND

Cheer Leader P. C. Froneberger announced in chapel Friday morning at the opening exercises that a meeting will be held Tuesday night in Memorial Hall to practice the college songs and yells and get the freshmen acquainted with them. A band will be there to aid in the practice.

All freshmen were urged to get hold of a Y. M. C. A. handbook and memorize all the songs and yells and be on hand.

CAROLINA PLAYMAKERS HAVE FULL PROGRAM FOR SEASON

Dramatic Season Will be Opened By Presentation of Edwin Booth's Version of the "Taming of the Shrew"—Season Tickets

By J. E. Hawkins

Along with the enlargement of English 31-32-33, the course in playwriting and play-producing under Professor Koch and George Denny, the program of the Carolina Playmakers for the coming season has been extended to include three series of folk plays instead of the former two, and three short stage tours in place of the usual two long ones.

The dramatic season will be opened with another innovation, namely, the presentation of "Katherine and Petruchio," the Edwin Booth version of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," in the Forest Theatre on October 15. This is the first time that Shakespeare has been given in the sylvan playhouse during his collegiate year. The play has been in rehearsal for some time with Professor Koch himself and Josephine Daniels Moore in the leading roles.

A week later "The Taming of the Shrew," in company with a folk play, will be given in High Point as a part of the program of that city's "Pageant of Progress" in celebration of the completion of a new highway where once ran the old plank road. Incidentally the performance will christen High Point's new community theatre. As an added attraction the management has secured three (3) platinum-tongued governors and a

Jack Merritt, upon whom Carolina had pinned much of its hope of producing another wonder team, will be unable to don the Blue and White this year. Jack just wasn't diligent enough in his books. He was not in uniform Monday and "Rabbit" Bonner held down his job during scrimmage.

The loss of Merritt will be a severe blow to the Varsity and has served to greatly dampen the feeling of optimism that has been so prevalent among the students and alumni. Coach Bill is hard at work on his scrubs and will probably have as good a backfield as ever on the field Saturday.

Merritt stated Monday that he was seriously considering attending Carson-Newman.

New Men Added To History Department

The only important change that has been made in the Dept. of History and Government is the addition of new men to the teaching staff. Dr. Hamilton announces. Among the new men are many alumni of the University, including A. R. Newsome, assistant professor, formerly instructor in the University of Michigan; B. O. Dupree, graduate of the class of 1921, fellow in history; R. H. Taylor, instructor, graduate of Wake Forest, A.M. of University of N. C., and formerly assistant professor of history at Citadel, and fellow of the University of Michigan; H. M. Shanks, instructor of history, a graduate of Wake Forest. Other men are C. P. Higby, assistant professor; D. H. Gilpatrick, instructor, A.M. Columbia University, former head of history department in Durham city schools; Mr. Norton, fellow in history.

TRYING DAYS FOR THE POOR LITTLE FROSHES

These are the days that try freshmen's souls. The frosh live through the early days of their college career with a mixed feeling of fear and hope—fear of being dumped and hope that the bitter cup will pass their lips. Many of the class of '27 have already been initiated into the art of ardent love-making, with a pillow as the object of their passionate affection; many peanuts have been propelled across freshmen's floors; and in the silent watches of the night the moon has looked down on strange sights on Emerson Field as first year men did acrobatic stunts for the merriment of the Cohorts of '26. The Student Council has been unusually active this year and the Sophs have had to watch their step, but just as good, law-abiding citizens indulge in bootleg bottled-in-bond, so the good Sophs, who respect the regulations of the University, indulge in a little innocent merry-making.

IN RIBBON WEARERS CAMPUS SEES THE RESULTS OF MANY MONTHS SUCCESSFUL RUSHING

BIG BAND WILL PLAY AT GAMES

L. R. Sides Will Conduct Greatest Band in History of University—Play at Games

To make the first Band this year will be a distinct college honor. It will go on several trips during the college year, and will play at all games on Emerson field. The Band will blow Carolina to victories over Trinity and State in Durham and Raleigh. It will rank on the campus as a leading college activity and should attract all who are musically inclined from both the upper classes and freshmen. Among this group are five well trained bass players, one of whom played in the famous Pershing Band. College credit will be granted to members of the band in several of the music courses. Those taking courses in instrumentation should see about this and get credit for their band work. All meetings of the band will be held temporarily in the hall of Old West building. To these meetings all students, and especially talented freshmen, are invited.

When Carolina and State meet on Riddick Field during Fair Week this year, Carolina students will not be ashamed of the band that leads the big noise. We will march down Fayetteville street doing a snake dance behind a band of at least sixty enthusiastic musicians. Or at least this is the plan of these in charge of this much neglected phase of musical activities. The band will organize immediately under the supervision of Mr. L. R. Sides, a well-known band leader of the U. S. Army. Mr. Sides is an instructor in the Department of Education and is doing the band work on the side. It will not be a side issue, however, for the versatile instructor is one of those fellows who seem to be able to win the confidence of his students and keep them all pepped up for anything that comes. He would like for all students interested in getting free instruction in band music to see him at once. The University is furnishing about twenty-five or thirty instruments to members of the band. All who have their own instruments are requested to bring them with them to practice.

DI SOCIETY HOLDS FIRST MEETING

New President, Arthur Raper, Delivered Address to Society Members Sat. Night

The Di Society held its first meeting of the year last Saturday night in the Di Hall. Only a small number of the members were present.

The new president, Arthur Raper, delivered his address to the assembly. In his speech he called upon the members to preserve the old traditions of the society and try to take a greater interest in it. He asked the members to consider carefully all men applying for admission into the society and take in only those members from the freshman class who will take an interest in its proceedings and help it along.

Several committees were appointed by President Raper, including an Initiation Committee, which will take care of the new members who will be taken in next Saturday night, which was set aside as initiation night. An Entertainment Committee was also appointed to make arrangements for a smoker which will be held in the Di Hall next Saturday night.

The question of dues and initiation fees was brought up. The house voted almost to a man that both should be reduced to a minimum, whereupon President Raper appointed a committee to meet with a similar committee from the Philanthropic Assembly as soon as possible to establish standard initiation fees and dues for both societies, and also to reduce them as much as possible.

Bill Blount, probably the brainiest center ever at Carolina, motored over from Durham Saturday to give the Varsity line the once over.

The Eighteen Different Fraternities Initiate a Total of Ninety-six Neophytes

SURPRISES AS USUAL

The Fraternity Men can Now Settle Down a Bit Although the Freshmen Must be Rushed

Fraternity men at Carolina have completed a week of the hardest and most hotly contested rushing ever seen on the hill. As a result ninety-six neophytes were initiated into the eighteen different fraternities. There is weeping and wailing; there is also supreme joy for the lucky ones, both the frats over their successes, and the initiated men. Needless to say there were a number of surprises and quite a bit of "last minute" stuff was pulled off. As usual, tons of "bull" figured in last night's results.

Last minute changes have left their marks of sorrow. The good fight has been fought and as things are quieting down, now the job is to rush the new material which has arrived and will be eligible for pledging after Christmas. The boys can also look forward to Finchley's arrivals without so much worry.

The keys to the mystic shrines, and the stable of the sacred bulls, et cetera, have been handed over to the new men. Those initiated were:

Delta Kappa Epsilon: Somers Ballou, Oxford; Norman Cordon, Washington, N. C.; Thomas Clarkson, Charlotte; Caleb Bradham, New Bern; Norfleet Pruden, Edenton; Robert Huffines, Rocky Mount.

Beta Theta Pi: Geo. Stephens, Jr., Asheville; William B. Vaught, Greensboro; Harold Lineberger, Belmont; John G. Dunn, Jr., New Bern; Charles W. Gold Jr., Greensboro; W. Chadwick Uzzell, New Bern; Lawrence Watt, Reidsville; W. B. Pipkin, Reidsville.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon: William Linehan, Raleigh; Charles Prince, Laurinburg; Robert Dye, Charlotte; William Huggins, Wilmington.

Zeta Psi: Cameron McRae, Asheville; Henry Johnston, Tarboro; John McKee, Raleigh; Howard Barber, Raleigh; Marvin Wilson, Chapel Hill.

Alpha Tau Omega: Emmett Underwood, Fayetteville; Riley MacMaster, Winstboro, S. C.; James Webb, Hillsboro; Charles Magill, Greensboro; Lawrence Owens, Winstboro, S. C.; Clough Steele, Saluda; F. Stacy Smith, Asheville.

Kappa Alpha: William Highsmith; Fayetteville; Julian Mann, Middletown; E. J. Stafford, Jr., Greensboro; David W. Woodard, Wilson.

Phi Delta Theta: Donald Koonce, Wilmington; Gordon Weeks, Rocky

100 Per Cent Increase In German Courses

German bids fair to become one of the most popular languages taught on the Hill, according to information gleaned from the Department of Germanic Languages. The registration in German is approximately double that of last spring term. This 100 per cent increase is due in large part, no doubt, to the fact that German 1-2 is now counted as credits in the A.B. course, and not, as formerly, being conditions that had to be removed without being chalked up in the Registrar's office as credits. It is announced that in the near future German 1-2 will probably be counted as credits in B.S. also.

The fact that these courses are to be counted as credits will have, indeed, already had a tendency to cause more students to study German. This is proven by the very large registration in German 1 this quarter.

WORK ON INFIRMARY

PROGRESSING NICELY

The patients in the Infirmary at present are William Evans, Jr., J. F. Carrigan, and G. M. Hill. Although there are only three students in the Infirmary at present, it is being prepared for enormous demands that may be put upon it this winter. The brick work on the addition has already been completed and plastering has commenced. It is now expected that the addition will be completed by the middle of October. This addition will give the Infirmary a new kitchen and a new dining room, besides seventeen beds which will make a total of forty-one.
