

"TAMING OF THE SHREW" GIVEN BY PLAYMAKERS

Big Crowd Sees the First Production of the Year Given in Forest Theatre

DIRECTION IS VERY GOOD

By Winslow McIver

Before a large and interested audience, including many out-of-town people, "The Taming of the Shrew," or "Katherine and Petruchio," is the opening performance of the Carolina Playmakers, was presented with boisterous success in the Forest Theatre Monday afternoon at four o'clock. "The Taming of the Shrew," or "Katherine and Petruchio," is the fifth play that has been produced in the sylvan playhouse by the Carolina Playmakers, and bears a special significance in that it commemorates the tercentenary year of the publication of "The First Folio of the Works of William Shakespeare."

As a whole, the Playmaker's first production of the season was all that could be asked. It showed very able direction, and went off with snap and precision. At times there was a lapse, which is characteristic of most plays, and the players were often inaudible, though that may have been due to the acoustics of the Forest Theatre and not to their enunciation. The cast was well chosen, and all of them showed some degree of ability on the stage.

DR. L. P. M'GEHEE LAID TO REST

Funeral Services Held Saturday Morning at Christ Church, Raleigh

Dr. Lucius Polk McGehee, who died early Thursday morning, for the past 13 years Dean of the University Law School, was laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery, Raleigh, following the funeral services held Saturday morning at Christ Church.

The services were conducted by Bishop J. B. Cheshire, of the Diocese of North Carolina and the Rev. Milton A. Barber, rector of Christ church. The church choir sang "Lead Kindly Light," "Son of Consolation," and "Those Eternal Bowers."

Friends and associates of Dr. McGehee at the University and in law circles of the state acted as pall bearers. Honorary pallbearers were the North Carolina Supreme Court Justices, President H. W. Chase, William Cain, H. V. Wilson, E. V. Howell, M. C. S. Noble, George Howe, W. C. Coker, W. M. Dey, A. C. McIntosh, Fred B. McCall, Edwin Greenlaw, W. W. Pierson, James F. Royster, A. A. Klutts and George C. Pickard (the latter two representing the townspeople of Chapel Hill).

STORMY SESSION OF PHI SOCIETY

W. D. White Attacks the Ways and Means Committee for Negligence

Able defenses by J. O. Bailey and Z. T. Fortesque in answer to an attack launched by W. D. White against the Ways and Means Committee of the Phi Assembly, Saturday night brought out the most eloquent pleas of the whole meeting.

Mr. White criticized the committee for what he alleged to be negligence of duty in not presenting more bills and resolutions for the Assembly to discuss. Mr. Bailey, the only member of the committee present, very ably defended the actions of the committee and called attention to the fact that two bills framed by it will be up for discussion next Saturday night. He also gave statistics showing that the Committee has drawn up more resolutions and bills than it is possible for the Assembly to discuss. Mr. Fortesque, although not a member of the Committee, likewise rose to its defense.

A resolution introduced by the Ways and Means Committee, endorsing Governor Walton's action in the recent Ku Klux Klan trouble in Oklahoma, was passed by a large majority. The resolution called forth a large amount of discussion, the Ku Klux and Governor Walton both coming in for some criticism before a vote was taken.

Resolutions seeking the Assembly to go on record as approving the actions of the Fetzers in taking the second football team to Yale and to record the Assembly as favoring a severance of all athletic relations with Trinity college, were tabled indefinitely without any discussion.

In the absence of Speaker George Hampton, Speaker-pro-tem F. P. Parker, Jr., presided.

JUDGE WINSTON IN FAVOR DEBT CANCELLATION

The Judge, Now School-boy, Gives Opinion on International Issues

AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

By Malcolm M. Young

Coming out in favor of cancellation of the Inter-Allied war debt and stating that President Coolidge will be nominated in 1924 by the Republicans on a platform asking entrance of the United States into the World Court, Judge Robert W. Winston, long identified with the University, a lawyer and jurist of national note, and a Tar Heel ranks in the forefront as a man of letters, Sunday night delivered his impression of the Williamston conference in a special sermon delivered at the Chapel Hill Presbyterian church.

Cancellation of the war debt Judge Winston stamped as the only method, the easiest method, and the simplest method of settling the perplexing problems arising from the World War.

OCTOBER NUMBER OF THE CAROLINA MAGAZINE IS OUT

Carries Several Pieces of Real Art But Is Lacking in Volume

DELIGHTFUL PLAY

(By J. Osler Bailey)

Frankly, there is a good deal of readable material in the October Carolina Magazine, but we cannot say there are more than two works of any literary excellence. We are thinking of Hsiung's play, The Thrice Promised Bride, and of two little quatrains masquing under the uninspired name of "Curtain," signed by Spencer Gilliam.

Perhaps the chief charm of Hsiung's lies in its exquisite delicacy of word-music; and hardly less in the native humor of the Chinese writer's stage-craft. One of the local "literati" recently said that his chief enjoyment in reading Shaw came from the chuckles in his stage directions. Hsiung glimpsed the value of such off-stage comment by the author, and used it to a delightful advantage!

"Curtain" is distinctly Art, and smacks of Greenwich Town. It must be read to be appreciated. If for no other cause than this—the play and the poem—the October issue of the Magazine is worth-while.

There is a little bit of gospel in the editorial page, but nothing very startling.

Now let us wash the dishes!

If Elfrid Felton of the Boll Weevil had reserved his "Mr. and Mrs. Hazard" to grace the pages of that much censured comic sheet, it is our humble opinion that the Boll Weevil circulation would have jumped.

Apparently, the story is intended to be humorous, but not funny. It is funny! The funniest thing we have come across in a coon's age was the paragraph describing Mrs. Hazard's mental controversy as she was about to enter her husband's supposedly polluted bed-chamber. It is a good story.

W. J. Cocke's book review is well done, but does not scintillate.

Let us skip this business about Student Government. Garland Porter used to say that all of us were on the Student Council, and the less the Council bothered its head about student government, the better government.

FURNITURE CITY PLANS PAGEANT

High Point Pageant Will Have Three Governors and Carolina Playmakers as Attractions

High Point's "Pageant of Progress," occurring October 25, and celebrating the good roads work in North Carolina, has the distinction of being one of the most elaborate occasions of its kind that has ever been staged in this State. High Point has been extravagant in an attempt to make "The Pageant" a success, as is clearly shown in her careful selection of attractions.

Chief among the many attractions will be the governors of three states, a cabinet member, and the Carolina Playmakers. Governor Morrison of North Carolina, Governor McLean of South Carolina, and Governor Trinkle of Virginia will be the three state officials, while Mr. Work, Secretary of the Interior, will be the other notable. In addition, there will be numerous visitors of prominence.

The University plays an important part in the "Pageant," being well represented by the Carolina Playmakers, of State-wide fame. On the evening of October 25, the Playmakers present two original folk plays in the new municipal theatre, which ranks with the best in the State. The two plays to be given are ones that have attracted considerable attention within the past two years, and are readily regarded as two of the best ever produced. They are to be supported with the original casts that appeared here.

The two plays to be presented are: "Wilbur's Cousin," a comedy of college life, by Ernest Thompson, and "When Witches Ride," a play of folk superstition, by Elizabeth Lay.

"Wilbur's Cousin," by Ernest Thompson, attracted immediate attention and was an instant hit wherever it was played. The cast is as follows:

Wilbur Atkins—Spencer Murphy

Jelly Bean Jones—H. W. Barber, Mr.

Blake—Hoyt Boone, Mrs. Blake—

Kitty Lee Frazier, Stella—Sue Byrd

Thompson, George Williams—Ernest

Thompson.

"When Witches Ride," by Elizabeth Lay is a powerful drama that gained recognition on its presentation. The cast is as follows:

Uncle Benny—Russell Potter, Ed,

his Son—Bob Pickens, Jake, railroad

engineer—George Denny, Phoebe

Ward, a Witch—Pearl Setzer.

The "13" Club Holds Initiation

The "13" Club, a social organization consisting of representatives from the thirteen leading national fraternities at the University, with a purpose to better fellowship among fraternity men, held an initiation Sunday night and the following representatives were chosen: Norfleet Pruden, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Charles Gold, Beta Theta Pi; Donald Koonce, Phi Delta Theta; Henry Johnson, Zeta Psi; Winslow McIver, Sigma Chi; C. R. MacGill, Alpha Tau Omega; William Highsmith, Kappa Alpha; William Huggins, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; John Coker, Pi Kappa Alpha; Alton Barden, Sigma Nu; J. B. Stroud, Pi Kappa Phi; and David Jordan, Delta Tau Delta.

The "13" Club promotes better feeling by inter-fraternity social functions. It is their plan to give a dance every year.

PI BETA PHI HONORED

Entertaining in honor of Pi Beta Phi Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Dey, and Miss Nellie Roberson were joint hostesses for one of the most delightful parties of the season. Those who enjoyed the hospitality were members of Pi Beta Phi and quite a number of their friends.

Dancing was enjoyed from nine to twelve and the lovely home of Colonel and Mrs. Pratt was filled with young people, music, and flowers. Delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Buck, of Charlotte motored to Chapel Hill and were visitors over the week-end. They were present at the Trinity game with their son Robert and remained to see the freshmen beat Oak Ridge.

State's Wolfpack Has Nothing on Carolina's Menagerie—Monk, Goat, Rabbit and Mule

DOPE FAVORS CAROLINA

Fetzer's Eleven In Fine Condition—But the Wolfpack is Very Dangerous

Hopeful and confident of victory, Coach Fetzer's select menagerie will wind its joyful way towards Raleigh next Thursday and will drop in on Coach Harry Hartsell for hour or so at his West Raleigh hang-out. Big Chief Casey is planning on letting the Raleigh folks and State College Students take a peek in on his marvelous one ring, four act exhibition, guaranteed to be the greatest and most stupendous in the State. It has been confidentially announced to the University Student Body that he is planning to show how to stave off the simultaneous attack of eleven famished and ferocious wolves with his company composed of "Monk," "Rabbit," "Goat" and some eight other trained sensations.

Carolina should win the game. Her line is better, her backfield is superior. Wake Forest and Trinity have been beaten, and in both cases with comparative ease. Both of the vanquished team were heralded as wonders, mysteries and sure winners. Both have discovered that 'twas all in vain.

State's team suffered more from the loss of men than did Carolina. Parks, her great punter, Long, Jeanette and Randolph are all gone from (Continued on Page 4)

YES, THE BAND WILL BE THERE

University Band Is Growing in Popularity—Will Journey En Mass to Raleigh

That the Carolina Band is getting to be one of the most important organizations on the campus was fully shown last Friday, both in Chapel Hill and in Durham. In speaking of the fine showing it made in the Anniversary exercise, Mr. Everett, chief speaker of the event, said that the band was one of the finest things that he had seen on the Hill. At the Trinity game it brought forth much favorable comment. On next Thursday afternoon it will again have a chance to prove its value as a cheering unit when it will journey to Raleigh to play at the Carolina-State game.

The present personnel of the band, according to Director Sides, is as follows: Hal Kemp, clarinet; George Gillespie, clarinet; W. E. Tate, trombone; F. M. Spough, cornet; W. N. Hobbs, saxophone; A. M. Fisher, (Continued on Page 4)
