Vol XXXII. Nov. 23, 1923. No. 19

The invitation tendered the Carolina team by the Trinity squad to attend Saturday's game at Durham was a courteous and thoughtful act in view of the recent difficulties arising from the Carolina-Trinity game. The installation of Alexander as the Trinity coach has undoubtedly helped to heal a nasty sore.

While the Man of the Wilderness is playmaking through the sandhills, a young man who calls himself Dum Dum has been authorized to carry on with the Wilderness column. After perusing his column you will probably observe that Dum Dum isn't as dumb as his self-imposed name might indicate.

Charles Hodgins, the Davidson player who received a broken leg in Saturday's game, must have undergone a pleasant antidote for his physical pain, when a cart-load of sympathetic letters from his fellow students reached him. What is a broken leg compared to the loyalty and sympathy of a host of firm friends?

As an added attraction to the Carolina-Virginia game Thursday, why not stage a pushball contest between the faculty and trustees with the Legislature to play the winner? The Governor would officiate, of course.

With the annual fall dances drawing near, the secretary of the German club announces that the new members are painfully slow in paying their initiation fees. These backsliders will be the first ones to complain if the dances are not up to the usual standard. The German club has incurred a heavy expense to make the fall dances especially attractive and this expense is met largely through the initiation fee money. If the new members refuse to pay their dues, they have no claim to membership in the club and should not be allowed to attend the dances.

ANSWER THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL!

The Red Cross, a world-wide fraternity, is issuing its annual appeal for funds this week and every student will be given an opportunity to give. The dormitories will be thoroughly canvassed, and girls will be stationed at vantage points to receive contributions and give out the red cross buttons, the symbols of generosity and Americanism.

Narrow minded and self centered students will dodge the solicitors, seeing no immediate return for donations, but those who understand the broad service of the organization will contribute cheerfully and will feel the better for it. The Red Cross not only has served to uplift suffering humanity in America and foreign nations, but also has assisted 5600 ex-service men here in North Carolina, has spent $163,592 aiding thousands of disaster victims in the south last year, and Red Cross nurses made 24,562 visits to North Carolina homes where sickness and disease threatened human life. Its courses in First Aid, Life Saving, and Home Hygiene are vital contributions to the welfare of the state.

President Coolidge says in praise of the Red Cross: "The American Red Cross is the embodiment of practical idealism, with a deeper faith in spiritual things, tempered by hard common sense. Our country could secure no higher commendation, no greater place in history than to have it truthfully said the Red Cross is truly American."

AN OLD SOURCE OF TROUBLE APPEARS ONCE MORE

An old bugaboo to the Student Council and Chapel Hill merchants has bobbed up again with unusual violence—we refer to the passing of bad checks. This disgusting practice has been increasing alarmingly for the past few weeks, so much so that the local merchants are rightfully stirred up and threaten court action unless it ceases.

One particular merchant, whose name is withheld because of his own request, stated that he received 116 worthless checks in one week, and in one day took in over the counter $130 worth of bad checks. Other merchants report similar losses due to the carelessness of a few and to the dishonesty of many students registered in the University as upholders of the Honor System. Carelessness and laxity in keeping account of funds in the bank is no excuse, for in this day and time, carelessness is a crime. And the man who deliberately overdraws his account is more despicable than the highwayman, for at least the highway robber isn't two faced and doesn't impose on the good will of his victim.

Passing bad checks is not only a rank injustice to the merchants of Chapel Hill, who have shown a willingness to oblige student trade by cashing checks, but it is also a blow to those students who have good credit but can not receive it because of the rotten methods used by the unscrupulous.

The Student Council has been aiding the merchants in running down the habitual bad check passers and recovering their funds, but it is impossible for them to lay hold of all the offenders. Those found guilty of repeated attempts to pass spurious checks should be classed as thieves and dealt with accordingly by the Council. If this doesn't stop it, the Tar Heel could publish an enlightening article with a list of names of the habitual offenders.

THE WILDERNESS

BY J. OSLER BAILEY

Editor's note: In the absence of J. Osler Bailey, who is on the Playmaker trip, G. Cardwell is doubling for him.

Poor old (J.) Osler (he is ashamed of his first name, I think) is lost in his bloody Wilderness this week, and we, Dum Dum, have been set to clearing the brush by our insatiable editor.

On reviewing all the similar rot that has been casually tossed out of the Wilderness, we, who are, I repeat, Dum and Dum, wonder why this colyum has been supposed to be humorous. Henceforth it must never be accused of such a thing. If the editor leaves us in these woods for long they will really become the most serious thing in the paper, next to the advertisements.

To start something original we should attack the Co-eds. However, they are safe, as conventionality is the motto of Dum Dum. Since we hadn't Don Marquis' Archy to blame things on, we think this conventionalism is the safest policy.

We quote from last week's write-up of the Phi meeting: "Voluntary class attendance! Birth Control!! Truly things are beginning to hum at the Phi meetings these days."

A resolution was defeated last year suggesting that Co-eds be invited to join the Phi Society.

Voluptuous, scintillating, royal, colorful, revelry, gayest, fascinating, magnificent, powerful, whirling, spinning, mad whirl, love, life, luxury, sensational, handsomest, brilliance, lavish, enraptured. Just a few words culled from the last Pick advertisement in our sheet. We wish we had one of those "Thirty Thousand Thrilling Phrases" books.

You know, when Rosie turned her blue eyes up to the peanut gallery toward the end of the "Black Rooster" and asked if the audience didn't believe in fairies, Dum Dum actually gulped. Oi, Oi, but she looks sweet!

We had three publications not long ago. One was humorous, one serious, and one a newspaper. The comic went up the University spout. The serious turned from washing to poetry and became a comic. The newspaper ought to become a serious. We're all moving up. Let's graduate!

Speaking of poetry, this exaltation of the goddess of the Pick is pretty good. Dum Dum did it.

With wanton wilful smiles she draws me,
While by her bright blue eye she awes me.
She is the cat's.

White bosomed, with celestial beauty,
More fair than Venus' self and duty,
She is the cat's.

I'm am'rous of her careless glances,
Her snaky twining supple dances;
She is the cat's.

The fillet is for you, Mae Murray,
You never wear too much, my furry,—
Blond Queen of cats!

A sign has been placed on the vacant lot just back of the Methodist Church, requesting that students do not play tag football on those grounds. This was done for protection of the windows in the building which are very valuable and difficult erwise, in the prisons. Only six had as many as five compartments, the number that is required by state law; nineteen had only one compartment, no plans being made for the segregation of the races or sexes; twelve prisons had no mattresses for the inmates to sleep on; thirteen had no provisions for bathing.

All these facts and more were learned by the investigating committee, and the Rural Social Economics department think that by acquainting the public with this information they will be rendering a service to the state and to the persons who have to recline in those unsanitary places of confinement which are entirely without any influence that tend to change a person from bad to good.

Those in the Infirmary this week are: Ralph Woodruff, tonsillitis; J. R. Blackwell, pneumonia; C. L. Wilson, malaria.

The Phi Delta Chi pharmaceutical fraternity initiated last long ago. The following men were put through the rituals: P. S. Glass, Kannapolis; E. E. Adams, Rutherfordton; A. W. Palmer, Gulf.

LAUNDRY ANNOUNCEMENT

In order to keep up his past standard of service and to furnish the student body with clean shirts by the return after Thanksgiving, G. H. Paulsen wishes to call attention to the fact that all laundry sent to the Laundry on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week will be taken care of and ready for the students by their return after Thanksgiving. This will be of service to those men who go away for the holidays as well as helping the Laundry, for co-operation in this will help to eliminate the rush which follows such occasions.

Dr. F. T. Bachman of the General Education Board was a visitor in Chapel Hill recently. He conferred with Dr. N. W. Walker on matters relating to the School of Education and made plans to gather data for the training of teachers in the high schools of the state. Dr. Bachman is being aided in this movement by Dr. Walker.

"Give me a log with Mark Hopkins at one end of it and myself at the other," said, in effect, President Garfield, "and I would not want a better college."

But if Mark Hopkins was an inspired teacher, it is just as true that James A. Garfield was an inspiring student.

Sometimes Garfield's praise of his professor is quoted in disparagement of present day faculties—the assumption being that we as listeners are sympathetic, all that we ought to be—and that it is the teacher who has lost his vision.

Is this often the case?

It is the recollection of one graduate at least that he did not give his professors a chance. Cold to their enthusiasms, he was prone to regard those men more in the light of animated text-books than as human beings able and eager to expound their art or to go beyond it into the realm of his own personal problems.

This is a man to man proposition. Each has to go half way. Remember, there are two ends to the log.
