

DELEGATES GO TO CONVENTION

7,400 Delegates From 1,000 Colleges Hear Noted Speakers

The University was represented by ten students at what was probably the largest student convention ever held in the history of Christianity, the ninth quadrennial international convention of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions at Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays. There were 7,400 delegates from about 1,000 colleges and schools in the United States and Canada and from practically every race and country in the world.

The application of "the Jesus way of life" to every vocation and every phase of life, seemed to be the keynote of the great convention. We must clean up and wake up at home, if America is to have enough Christianity to warrant exportation. Dynamic demands were made that the principles of Christ, surcharged with the vigor of youth, be proclaimed in missionary efforts to bring about a world brotherhood, and that all class and race hatred give way to Jesus' law of love.

The two questions before the convention that created the greatest interest and discussion were those of race and war.

"Unless America can solve her own race problem," declared speakers from several lands, "the American foreign missionary enterprise must fail. The people of Asia will be unable to believe in the sincerity of American Christianity if American Christians continue in their present race prejudices and hatreds."

One of the most brilliant addresses of the convention was made by Professor J. E. K. Aggrey, son of the "prime minister" of an African chieftan, a graduate and teacher of Livingston College, Salisbury, N. C., who just recently passed with honor his Ph. D. examination at Columbia University. He presented the needs of Africa, declaring that it was ready and waiting for Christianity, and urging that his negro race be allowed to make its contribution to the life of

SPENCER GIVES INAUGURAL TO PHI

New Officers Are Installed at First Meeting of Phi Assembly

Charles E. Spencer, recently elected speaker of the Philanthropic Assembly, urged members of the Assembly to be "transformers from our great heritage to future students" and impressed upon the House a two-fold duty: that of responsibility to the Assembly and that of responsibility to the Assembly and that of responsibility to oneself, in his inaugural address, delivered Saturday night.

The real aim of the work of the Assembly is higher—a great deal higher—than the society itself," the new speaker stated. "It is this high aim—proficiency in the art of speech—that keeps the Assembly alive and add all similar societies, he declared, prospering; without this ideal the Phi "would not survive for any great time." He asked all members to cooperate in making the winter quarter of this year the best period in the history of the organization which he has been elected to lead for the next three months.

Installation of the new officers for the winter quarter, the discussion of one resolution, the tabling of a long standing bill, and the initiation of two new members constituted the remainder of the Phi program. Officers serving for the first time were: speaker, C. E. Spencer; speaker-pro-tem, J. M. Saunders; sergeant-at-arms, P. C. Gibson; reading clerk, R. L. Smith. Two initiates, F. N. Mullen, Jr., and George Epstein were taken into membership.

Upon motion by George Hampton, former speaker, the long-awaited bill favoring President Coolidge's plans for tax reduction was indefinitely tabled. Considerable discussion over the present unsettled situation in Mexico furnished the "hot air" for the evening, the Assembly finally going on record as disapproving the action of the United States in shipping arms into the borders of its sister Republic.

STATE SUPREME COURT JUSTICES TO SPEAK HERE

Come On Invitation of the New Law School Association

JUSTICE CLARK FIRST

A new organization, known as the Law School Association, has appeared in the Law School of the University. This association which was organized shortly before Christmas by Mr. Albert Coates of the Law Faculty has for its purpose the promotion of the interests of the Law School.

Every student of the Law Clubs is automatically a member of the Association, and the presidents of the Law Clubs are the directors of the Association. The Board of Directors of the Law School Association is composed of the following men who are the presidents of their respective Law Clubs:

S. M. Cathey of the McCray Law Club; C. E. Cowan of the Iredell Law Club; A. J. Eley of the Ruffin Law Club; G. W. Hill of the Gaston Law Club; C. C. Poindexter of the Pearson Law Club; A. L. Furrington of the McGehee Law Club; and S. M. Whedbee of the Manning Law Club.

The Board of Advisors is made up of the following: A. C. McIntosh, P. H. Winston, R. H. Wettach, and F. B. McCall of the Law School Faculty, and H. W. Chase and C. T. Woolen of the University Administration.

The first step that has been taken to carry out the purpose of the Law School Association is the invitation recently extended to the Justices of the Supreme Court of North Carolina to speak to the Law School during the Spring Term. Three of the Justices have accepted the invitation, and the other two have expressed the desire to accept if circumstances will permit.

Chief Justice Walter Clark will initiate the program on Friday evening, January 25. The other Justices will follow at intervals of about one month. This is only the beginning of a program that will bring the Law School into active touch with the legal profession in North Carolina.

It is planned next year to invite a number of Judges of the Superior Court bench to speak to the Law School and the following year a number of the leading members of the bar.

Other activities for the Law School Association are under way and will be announced later.

NO MONEY; NO PICTURE IN Y Y

Annual Managers Say No Picture Will Be Run Unless Bills Are Paid

All group and individual pictures for the Yackety Yack must be made on Monday, January 14th and the following three days. The editorial board is very anxious to have all the groups made at the very beginning of the period in order to finally decide on the number of pages in the book.

Every student in school will receive a Yackety Yack at the end of the Spring term and every student eligible for representation is urged to have his or her picture taken either for the individuals or for the groups. The freshman class officers are very anxious for a large picture of the class, it being the largest freshman class in the south.

Unless the individual pictures for the fraternity and class sections are taken on this clean-up trip they will not appear in the book. This announcement was made yesterday by R. S. Pickens, editor. The forms will be closed on February 15th, when all bills must be paid and after that date, no orders for space or for representation will be received. This is made necessary by the recent ruling of the Publications Board, which states emphatically that no organization can be represented which hasn't paid its bill by February 15th.

A co-ed at the University of Kansas has started a date-making agency as an aid to paying her expenses through college. For 25 cents she will arrange a date for any girl, satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

PUBLICATIONS UNION ISSUES FIRST FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Statement Shows That the Plan Adopted Last Year By the Student Body Has Proved a Success On the Financial End at Least

The Board of the Publications Union, with the end for the first quarter of its existence, has drawn up a financial statement showing every detail of its administration of the student fee and published it elsewhere in this issue of the Tar Heel.

"Every student on the campus is a member of the Union," says President Kitchin, "and we feel that such a report as this is his right and should be of interest to him. We hope he will study it carefully and give the Board the benefit of his criticisms and suggestions in writing."

In turning over the reports to the Tar Heel for publication, Mr. Hibbard, the secretary, called attention to two or three outstanding features of the statement as follows:

"While the report, as published, would indicate that all three of the publications are on a sound financial basis, it must be remembered that the 'net profits' as indicated are deceptive in one regard. The Board has felt it only right to pay the business managers in proportion to their efforts and success; in general they are paid a percentage based on profits which they return. The balance given for each publication, in the published report, includes this salary item as profit, though eventually some of that must be turned over to the managers as salary."

"Every student, too, should realize that in actual return for his fee of $5.50 he is receiving something like $11.00 worth of work. The campus pays in during the year only $10,500 as fees, but the actual expense of running the three publications will be somewhat over $22,000."

"In making this report, the Board wishes to announce its policy in the matter of salaries for student managers. In the past years wild rumors have had it that managers have made as high as five thousand dollars as a result for their year's work. This, the Board has reason to know, is merely speculative gossip. The general policy of the Union Board has been to take away the stigma of "graft" which has sometimes gone with these positions and place them more nearly on the student "honor" basis. With this in mind it has guaranteed the following salaries: Tar Heel Business Manager, $350 a year plus 20 per cent commission on all profits; Carolina Magazine Manager, $150 a year plus a 35 per cent commission on all profits; the Yackety Yack Managers and Editor $150 a year and 50 per cent on all profits.

"With its regular meetings and the powers granted it by the constitution, the Board in this way can keep a close record of the business status of the publications from month to month, and, should the need occur, at any time remove an inefficient manager. The students' fees are protected and at the same time the managers are secured of a definite return for honest effort expended. This matter of salaries the Board went into very carefully, taking into consideration numerous items which cannot appear to the superficial observer. It feels, however, that the matter should be considered as an experiment and that in the light of the year's experience changes may well be made another year.

CAROLINA BASKETEERS OPEN SEASON WITH A 35-23 WIN OVER SPEEDY MERCER QUINT

NEW FOLK PLAYS

An author's reading of new Carolina Folk Plays will be held in Gerrard Hall Wednesday evening at 7:30. A number of plays are available and are now under consideration. Six or five of these will be chosen for the reading.

Tryouts for parts in the three plays selected by the Play Committee for presentation will take place in Gerrard Hall on Friday afternoon at 4:30 and on Friday evening at 7:30.

21 GAMES HAVE BEEN SCHEDULED

Basketball Season Opens With Mercer and Closes With Southern Tournament

Graduate Manager Charles T. Woolen has announced Carolina's revised basketball schedule for this season, which includes 21 games, 20 of which are definitely scheduled, five open dates, and the games Carolina will participate in during the Southern Tournament at Atlanta.

The schedule differs slightly from that announced in the state papers. Mercer is scheduled for January 8 instead of January 9; the dates for the Washington and Lee and Virginia games on the northern trip have been switched, the combat with the Generals being scheduled on February 8, instead of the ninth, with the Virginia game on the ninth instead of the eighth.

The game announced for January 4 with the Durham Elks will not be played until the twenty second.

The schedule, as usual, includes an extensive northern tour, on which Carolina will meet the leading teams of Virginia, District of Columbia, and Maryland.

The schedule follows:
January 8—Mercer, at Chapel Hill.
January 11—Open, at Chapel Hill.
January 14—Open, at Chapel Hill.
January 15—Gerrard, at Chapel Hill.

January 19—Davidson, at Charlotte.
January 22—Durham Elks, at Chapel Hill.

January 23—Elon, at Chapel Hill.
January 26—Wake Forest, at Wake Forest (pending).

January 29—Open, at Chapel Hill.
January 31—Trinity, at Chapel Hill.
February 2—V. M. I., at Lexington, Va.

February 4—Catholic University, at Washington, D. C.
February 5—University of Maryland, at College Park, Md.

February 6—Navy, at Annapolis, Md.
February 7—Lynchburg college, at Lynchburg, Va.

February 8—Washington and Lee, at Lexington, Va.
February 9—University of Virginia, at Charlottesville.

February 13—Open, at Chapel Hill.
February 14—University of South Carolina, at Chapel Hill.

February 16—William and Mary, at Chapel Hill.
February 18—North Carolina State, at Chapel Hill.

February 19—Trinity, at Durham.
February 21—Wake Forest, at Chapel Hill.

February 23—North Carolina State, at Raleigh.
February 26—Washington and Lee, at Chapel Hill.

February 29—Open.
March 1, 2, 3—Southern Tournament, at Atlanta.

First Aid

At a Southern Junior college for girls, a student passing along the hall noticed a chaperon apparently listening through the keyhole, and notified the girls of that room. Soon after a stepladder was placed outside the door and a placard which read, "Keyhole out of order, please use transom."—Ex.

Fine Passing, Shooting and Guarding

PLAYED ON NEW COURT

Christened the New Physical Education Building With First Game of Season

Playing a passing and shooting game that baffled her opponent, Carolina defeated Mercer, Tuesday night, in the new Indoor Athletic Field, 34-23. Two thousand spectators, well wrapped in overcoats, shivered away in the spacious and airy and saw the "Tin Can" christened with a victory.

The Mercer team showed the effects of its long road trip and during most of the game played on the defensive, serving to slow the game up considerably. Pope scored the first goal shortly after the initial tip-off, but the score was quickly tied by the good foul shooting of Jack Cobb.

The machine-like precision that has characterized Carolina teams for the past several seasons was not apparent tonight. Even at that, there was but little event at individualism, and the loose eggs were evidently due to the early season form.

Cobb, at forward, and McDonald at guard distinguished themselves. Cobb led in goal shooting and McDonald guarded spectacularly and dropped in occasional shots on his own hook. Carmichael, although covered through out the game, and Bill Doderer showed up well.

First Half
Simmons got tip-off and after free-for-all passing, Pope cages the ball. Mercer fouled and Cobb made his two chances good. Cobb shoots first tied goal for Carolina. Cobb follows with another goal. Doderer overshoots basket and Carmichael puts the ball in. Smith takes the ball from tip-off for goal. He tries the same stunt again and misses. Carolina fouled and Harmon makes both shots good. Cobb rings pretty one from under the basket. McDonald finds forwards covered and shoots

NEW BUREAU OF VOCATION BUSY

Beware in Charge of T. A. Whitener—Office in Alumni Building

The University has begun this year the development of a Bureau of Vocational Information, which will have as its purpose the furnishing of information to interested students about the various vocations open to college men in order that they may make wise decisions. The first step has been taken in this matter with the organization of a library of vocational information. Approximately 200 volumes have been assembled, arranged alphabetically by vocations. The vocations covered run from accounting through writing and include about 70 different professions and occupations in which the students of the University are interested, as shown by their statements at matriculation, and by vocational lists prepared at other institutions. This shelf has been made up after a correspondence with 36 publishing houses and more than 100 colleges and universities on the basis of vocational bibliographies obtained in this way. It is, then, probably the most complete shelf of this kind to be found in the country. This shelf, appropriately labelled, will be placed in the lobby of the library on the right to the entrance of the reading room. Students interested in obtaining additional information about the various vocations may look over these volumes and may borrow one or more for a week.

The Bureau of Vocational Information, in charge of T. A. Whitener, is in the office of the Dean of Students, Alumni 114. Mr. Whitener is now engaged in gathering additional information to supplement that contained on the book shelf. Those interested in discussing the matter of vocational choice and seeking further information, may see Mr. Whitener between 10:30 and 12:30.
