

STATE COLLEGE HANDED DEFEAT BY 44-9 SCORE

The Team From West Raleigh Is Unable to Locate the Basket

CAROLINA FRESHMEN LOST

With the Captains of both teams unable to play, Carolina defeated N. C. State last night down in "Tin Can" by the score of 44-9. Green was still unable to be in uniform and Captain Johnston, State's star player, has been out of the last several games due to a sprained ankle received in the State-Wake Forest game.

The Wolf-pack was unable to find the basket for a single field goal during the first half and secured but two measly foul goals. The Tar Heels played by far a better brand of ball during the first part than during the latter half, but were, at all times, complete masters of the floor.

Carmichael opened the scoring with a neat field goal, but failed to ring up another floor shot until the finale. The playing was confined almost entirely to Carolina's end of the court and State devoted its attention largely to guarding. The West Raleigh boys called for time in the first half when they found the score standing 18-1 and the Tar Heels in the midst of a shooting spree. Shortly afterwards the half ended with the count of 21-2.

Dickens was the outstanding player for State. Two of his three field shots were of the spectacular kind and were equal to any of Carolina's sensational attempts. Cobb led in scoring with Carmichael trailing him as a close second. "Step On Em" Dodderer, although failing to locate the basket, played his usual excellent game at center and played havoc with State's passing game.

FRESHMAN GAME

The Carolina freshman outfit lacked ability enough to down the young State College five and consequently had to accept a 20 to 10 defeat at the hands of Coach Sammy Honea-wood's charges. The whole game was frustrated by poor floor work and inability to find the basket throughout. The visitors played a bit better game than the Tar Babies and deserved the win. However the game was void of any spectacular basketball on either side and both teams showed a lack of teamwork and shooting ability.

The first half ended with the score standing 11 to 3 in favor of State. Carolina did not make a single field goal during the first half, her three points coming as a result of free tosses. However in the second half the Tar Babies did better, scoring 7 points to the visitors 9.

The only Carolina man who seemed to have any luck on the basket was Dill, who pocketed the ball four times, two of which were from the floor. Honea-wood was the only other man to find the goal more than once, but both his shots were from the foul line.

For State, Watkins was high scorer, having four field goals to his credit. Hooks followed him with two field goals and two free shots.

Track Squad Works For Asheville Meet

Coach Bob Fetzer is busy getting his track team in shape for the coming big relay carnival which is to be held in Asheville on March 1. Practice goes on daily in spite of rain as Coach Bob has a board track at his command when the weather interferes with outdoor practice.

Coach Bob considers the coming meet in Asheville as the best opportunity that has been presented to the state and the south in a long while to put track on the map in the South and thinks that all the colleges and universities in the South should co-operate and really endeavor to make the meet a big success. He agrees with sport writers and critics that track is the weakest sport in southern athletics and that track officials should help to put this sport on a higher footing than it is at present.

Coach Bob has received letters from track fans and officials over the state suggesting that a conference on track be called to meet in some town in the state, preferably Greensboro, Charlotte or Raleigh, to discuss plans for placing track on a higher basis. He thinks this idea is a good one and hopes that it will finally materialize into something more definite.

The program of the meet in Asheville has already been announced. It will be held in the Hippodrome building which is ideally suited for the purpose. It is a riding academy and has a seating capacity of 2,500. It has a dirt footing and is an admirable place for track activities.

There will be individual events but emphasis will be placed on the relays as they appeal more to the spectators. The relays will be of a dual nature and an attempt will be made to match known rivals. Medals will be awarded to first, second, and third places and cups to the teams winning the relays and points score.

The events as announced are: 50-yard dash; 50-yard low hurdles; 440-yard dash; 880-yard dash; mile run; high jump; shotput; broad jump; two-mile four-men team, one-mile four-men team, and one-mile medley relay. The first three events are limited to three men from each institution.

Di Society Debates Birth Control Bill

The question of birth control struck a responsive chord in the members of the Di Society last Saturday night. There was much lively discussion on the subject. Every time each speaker finished his speech, several would rise and clamour for recognition. In fact it was so interesting and so many more wanted to speak on the question that it was decided to have the same question on the program next Saturday night, when it will be voted on. Because of the Carolina-William & Mary game, the society was adjourned early.

C. R. Jonas, reporting for a committee which was appointed recently to investigate the possibility of securing a meeting room for the Society in the new Graham Memorial building, reported that as the plans now stood, it would be impossible for the society to get an individual room. However, he reported that he had been advised that if a committee were appointed by the society, this committee would be guaranteed a hearing before the building committee of the building at their next meeting. The society voted to appoint such a committee, but the appointment was deferred until next meeting.

The whole meeting was carried on to the tune of a base saxophone in the music room above the hall J. W. Deaton was appointed to make an effort to have this noise stopped every Saturday night during the time of the society meeting.

At the beginning of the meeting, C. H. Davidson gave a very interesting and humorous lecture to the freshmen, giving them much helpful advice to guide them thru their first year at college. He advised them especially to go out for the Fooloo Club.

W. J. Cocks acted as president in the absence of C. A. Peeler.

A regional conference of presidents and secretaries of the local alumni associations of ten counties will be held in Raleigh at the Yarrowborough Hotel at six P. M., on February 22, twenty-third. Mr. O. J. Coffin, member of the Board of Directors, will preside at the meeting, and Mr. Don Grant, Alumni Secretary, will attend.

TAR HEELS WIN FROM WILLIAM AND MARY FIVE

Victory Practically Cinches the South-Atlantic Title for Carolina

PILE UP A HEAVY SCORE

Carolina practically cinched the South-Atlantic title when she defeated William and Mary College Saturday Night. The victory over the Virginians marked the fourteenth consecutive triumph of the undefeated University five over college opponents in this section. So far the team shows no signs of staleness and the ease with which they piled up the 54-16 score against William and Mary is regarded by most of the campus cages and dopsters as a sure sign that the Tar Heel will go to Macon in good form and make a great fight for the Southern championship.

The game started off with all the earmarks of a closely fought game. The Indians scored over half of their total score in the first few minutes of play and ran neck and neck with the Tar Heels for the first ten minutes. Carolina finally unlimbered her joints and struck her usual winning stride in time to run up a safe lead, 23, before the first half ended.

The game was rough during the latter half, and numerous fouls were called on the University players for committing the petty offense of "running with the ball." The Carolina team were far surer shots than their opponents who attempted many long distance throws at the basket.

RURAL ECONOMICS IS BECOMING PROMINENT

The already well-known Department of Rural Social Economics at the University is rapidly becoming more prominent and is assuming a position of leadership in its field among the colleges of the southern states and of the nation. Many state newspapers, especially the Greensboro Daily News, have praised the work done by this department, and Collier's Weekly sometime ago carried an article telling about the work being done by Dr. Branson who is the head of the Department of Rural Social Economics at the University. Dr. Branson has been in Europe for several months studying the conditions in the rural districts and has been contributing interesting articles based on his observations to the newspapers of this state.

At the organization meeting of the teachers of Rural Economics and Sociology of the Southern States recently held in Birmingham, Professor S. H. Hobbs, Jr., was elected President of the organization. The University of North Carolina has taken the lead in the South in the field of Rural Social Economics, and several state universities which are planning to establish such departments are arranging to send their representatives to Chapel Hill to study at first hand the work being done here.

The Young People's Interdenominational Union of Chapel Hill will hold its second quarterly social in the social room of the Presbyterian Church Friday, February 22, 7:30 P. M. Everybody is cordially invited. No admission; plenty of eats; lots of girls and a good time!

Campus Delivery of Mail to Begin Soon

Since the installation of mail boxes in the dormitories is now completed, delivery on the campus will start sometime this week. The boxes will be located on first floor of each building. There will be one box for each room regardless of the number of occupants. All the boxes have combination locks. The combination for the box for your room may be obtained by going to the superintendent of Buildings, in the basement of Alumni Building.

As soon as delivery in the dormitories is started, the boxes in the Post Office will be rented to one person only. Where there are two or more in the box now, the occupants will have to decide among themselves which one is to get his mail there, since Post Office regulations prohibit more than one using the same box. If the authorities are not notified as to whose mail is to be put in the box, they will use their own discretion in the matter and put only one person's mail in it.

The students are requested by the Postmaster to co-operate with the Post Office in getting this system working by notifying those who write them of their change in address. If the letters do not have the dormitory address on them they will be held up until the address can be looked up in the Student Directory. The letters correctly addressed will be given preference over all other mail, so it will be more to the advantage of the student to get his letters correctly addressed than it will to anyone else.

There will be two deliveries each day except Sunday; one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The morning delivery will bring the mail that came the night before and the morning papers and the first class matter that comes in in the morning. The afternoon delivery will have the noon mail and the rest of the morning mail. Packages will be gotten in the usual manner at the Post Office on presentation of the slip.

Phi Society Talks About Poker Cases

The Phi Society was aroused last Saturday night when a bill was introduced denouncing the action of the town authorities in arresting students charged with poker playing. The discussion that followed the introduction of the bill was characterized by sweeping generalities and a striking lack of knowledge of the facts connected with the recent arrests.

Those who were urging the passage of the bill pointed out that no civil officers had any right to come on the University campus unless given special permission by the President. They further argued that all campus jurisdiction should rest in the hands of the student council. Opponents of the bill said that all poker playing must cease by any means—student council or civil authorities. The debates saw-sawed back and forth until finally a motion was made to table discussion until next Saturday night, so as to allow the members to attend the Carolina-William and Mary basketball game.

At this juncture, however several members objected to adjourning. They tried to keep the Society in session but the ones who wanted to attend the game out-voted them and so the Assembly adjourned.

NON-ACCREDITED HIGH SCHOOLS HAVE CONTEST

The high schools of the state which were not able to join in the tenth annual basketball contest of the High School Athletic Association of North Carolina because they are not recognized as accredited high schools have been gathered into an association of non-accredited high schools.

The accredited high schools contest is now under way, and the first round of the contest will be played off this week. There are eighty-six schools participating, 44 eastern and 42 western.

Schools taking part in the non-accredited contest are:

Western.
Bain Academy, Bessemer, Cedar Grove, Deep Creek, Elon, Fallston, Guilford, Kannapolis, South Buffalo, Sylvan, Trinity, Welcome, Yanceyville, Union, and Peachland.

Eastern.
Bethel Hill, Broadway, Bunn, Duke, Maysville, Mount Pleasant, Pinchurst, Spring Hill, and Winton.

This contest will begin immediately and will end in a championship game which will be played here early in March.

GENERAL BOWLEY ASSAILS AN ARTICLE PRINTED IN THE TAR HEEL ABOUT RALEIGH SPEECH

Grail Dance Comes This Saturday Night

Following its usual custom of giving two or three dances each quarter the Order of the Grail will give a dance Saturday night in the gymnasium.

Altho there were several other attractions on the Hill at the same time the last Grail dance was given, it proved to be a very good dance. The coming dance is expected to be a real function as there will be numerous visiting girls to increase the usual number. Music by the Carolina Club Orchestra.

Marionettes Please Two Packed Houses

Two packed houses were highly pleased with Tony Sarg's Marionettes in Gerard Hall Friday, Feb. 15. The matinee, which consisted of "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Hansel and Gretel," was popularly received by young and old alike. The evening performance, which was Tony Sarg's adaptation of Cervantes' masterpiece, "Don Quixote," was even more popular.

Both performances were all that could be asked of marionettes. The characterizations were so good and the characters themselves were so cleverly manipulated that the lasting impression is that you saw "Don Quixote" acted on the human stage. The puppet stage is an optical illusion so constructed that the actors appear to be many times larger than their normal size. The audience is bewildered when the human giant appears on the stage after the performance.

Monopoly Days Are Now Gone Forever

Time was when Chapel Hill was at the mercy of monopoly and students were charged to the excess of endurance. "Them days is gone forever." Now the town can boast of its two excellent cafeterias, its three first rate drug stores, a jitney service that is just the opposite of monopoly, and many other establishments that lead to reasonable prices.

Three good grocery stores keep prices within reach and assure service. Only recently a new shoe repair shop brought a big reduction in the price of keeping your soles in shape. From the appearance of things this new shop is doing an excellent business and hasn't gone to the wall because of reduced rates yet.

To "Pandy," with his faithful service and his sensible cut prices to Durham, goes the laurel for assuring the students their moneys' worth in transportation. He brought the rate down from one big eagle to fifty cents and has made it even lower with his tickets.

Miss Johnson, the lady who has made a great success of the cafeteria game in Durham where she is manager of the "Y. W.," has recently acquired the pride of "Nick's" heart, the Carolina Cafeteria, and is applying her talents. The difference is easily seen. Many are those who will watch with gusto two experts play the game as only "less femmes" can.

There are a number of people who believe Chapel Hill fully large enough to support the two best cafeterias in the state. Others say "go to it ladies, and may the best man win."

Taking advantage of a "warm" situation and pocketing the change is what two young Asheville aspirants for the pressing business have done since the "Youths' Companion" and universal friend, the Pickwick, went up in what Webster calls fire "the agitation of sudden or violent passion."

The old fish vendors shack now lodges more than mere pressers, it holds the hopes of youth and "our" pants, may fate preserve them. These two youthful dyers, and cleaners, should be allowed to pick up the marbles and pocket the change. They pressed suits for fifteen cents for two days so that they could prove that they meant business, and pressing business.

Other competing concerns are the banks, the book stores, the cafes and boarding houses, the furniture stores, the print shops, the clothing stores.

Washington's Birthday Orator Devotes Entire Speech in Replying to Charges

CLAIMS CHARGES UNJUST

Takes Up Each Statement in the Tar Heel Article and Hits at Reporter

By Malcolm M. Young

University students heard a Washington birthday oration fully spiked with a West Point punch last Monday morning in chapel.

General A. J. Bowley, commandant of Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, bitterly assailed among other things "The Tar Heel" and the Tar Heel reporter who published a recent story to the effect that the General had made some startling statements in Raleigh regarding radicalism in this country, particularly in its colleges and among its college professors. The General stated that the story misquoted him and that it did not present his statements in a manner to do him justice.

Faculty Members Agree

Following the delivery of General Bowley's speech, the reporter sought out interviews with four University men who were present at the meeting of North Carolina Commercial Secretaries which the Fort Bragg commander addressed recently. All four of these men, when asked for statements, declared that the story which appeared in "The Tar Heel" was "substantially correct." All four of these men heard General Bowley make the statements as summed up in the recent issue of "The Tar Heel," and as secured from the Raleigh News and Observer. The men are Chester D. Small, who still insists that General Bowley abused him for a period of at least five minutes; Prof. Walter J. Matherly, of the Department of Economics; Prof. C. T. Murchison, of the Department of Economics; and Prof. S. H. Hobbs, of the Department of Rural Social Economics.

General Bowley had been asked some time ago to visit the University and deliver an address in commemoration of George Washington's birthday. Since the recent episode in Raleigh it has been hinted around the state that the General might let loose a bomb of sensation when addressing the University students, and consequently newspaper men were present who covered the speech for the state's leading dailies. The newspapermen were not disappointed.

His talk was chiefly a detailed answer of the Tar Heel article. He was in excellent oratorical form, and possessed a very eloquent delivery, well flavored with sarcastic wit and invective, mainly directed at "The Tar Heel" and its reporter.

In beginning his address, the General announced that he had expected to speak on a subject "close in harmony with the twenty-second of February," and continued, "but, unfortunately, recent publications in your own college paper have somewhat cramped my style, and with the intelligence of this jury I will ask you to permit me to run through just a little bit of the charges that have been made, and to answer them somewhat in detail."

Assails the Tar Heel
At this point of his speech, the General held out the Tar Heel article and read its headline: "General Bowley scheduled here." He then made a statement to the effect, following a quotation from the end of the article relative to the manner in which the General would handle the situation, that he would handle it "with his usual frankness and absolute regard for the truth." In refuting a statement to the effect that there were "three avenues" for the General to take, he declared: "Of course the young man who wrote that overlooked a few of the by-trails that would be followed by a man who is accustomed to blazing his way through a pioneer forest."

Continuing, he said: "Now we come to the next headline, 'Man Who Called College: Hot Beds of Radicalism Speaks in Chapel February 18th. He did not say it.'"

General Bowley, after a reference to the Tar Heel's statement that he appeared before the North Carolina Commercial Secretaries' Association
