

GRENFELL DRILLS WORKS DOCTRINE IN BIG AUDIENCE

Famous Explorer and Social Worker Gives Illustrated Lecture to Large Crowd

HE IS WIDELY KNOWN

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell personally conducted a large group of students, faculty and town people through Labrador, Tuesday night, starting from Memorial Hall and coming back there at the end of the tour. He showed them the hospitals and other concrete evidences of the great work that he and his associates are doing in that pioneer land, surprised them with the wild beauty of the precipitous cliffs and mountain fjords of the coast, and amazed them with the great natural resources and possibilities of the largely unknown territory.

Dr. Grenfell is widely known for the work he has been doing for the last thirty years among the fishermen and others on the Labrador coast, and for his books. His lecture was illustrated both by lantern slides and by moving pictures.

"When I graduated from my medical college in England about 1880," said Dr. Grenfell, "I, like many men of the period, had a decidedly dark and pessimistic view of life. Influenced by a misunderstanding of the writings of Darwin, Huxley, and others, I thought that man was a machine and life a short tragedy. To give a man any more future than a dog or cuttle fish might have, I thought unscientific. All that I could do for a man was to prolong by a few years his futile life on the earth. Sometimes when the subject on the operating table seemed of doubtful value to society and a decided disadvantage to his family, it almost seemed that I would do more good if it was business to shorten my life instead to lengthen it. It was discouraging to think that if I cured a man's leg he would probably use it to kick his wife with—for my work was in the slums of London. Then one day I went to a meeting and heard D. L. Moody speak. I came away feeling that a man was more than a machine, and life more than a tragedy, and I sought a place where my life could count the most.

Dr. Grenfell then continued to tell how work was started among the fishermen of the North sea, and carried on till they had a boat with every fishing fleet, about fourteen in all. In 1891 he crossed to the American coast off Labrador, a little known region. Like Alaska it was once thought to be worthless. Now,

Phi Sophomores Win Over Di Sophomores

Election of officers for the spring term and the annual sophomore inter-society debate comprised the program of the Phi Assembly meeting Saturday night.

Officers elected for the spring term are: Speaker, Z. T. Fortesque; Speaker-Pro-Tem, R. Y. Thorpe; Sergeant-At-Arms, K. D. Coates; Reading Clerk, J. F. Cooper; Chairman of Ways and Means Committee, W. T. Couch, with J. O. Bailey and J. M. Saunders as the other members; Chairman of Appellate Committee, C. E. Spencer; Assistant Treasurer, R. P. Umstead.

The sophomore debate resulted in a 2 to 1 victory for the Phi team, upholding the affirmative side of the query, "Resolved: That the United States Government should not lease nor sell its mineral lands." The Phi speakers were R. L. Hollowell and M. M. Young, while the Di Society, upholding the negative, was represented by A. L. Groce and L. T. Bledsoe. Chief contentions of the victors were that inherent evils in the sale and lease policy demand a change that the policy is morally and economically indefensible, and that a policy of neither selling or leasing government mineral lands is practical.

The negative maintained that the leasing policy is sound and that the affirmative's policy would lead to government operation of mineral lands, which they condemned.

Preceding the debate, a resolution seeking the Assembly to go on record as favoring government control of the munitions industry was defeated by a margin of about a half dozen votes.

Baseball Practice Begins in Earnest

With the arrival of spring weather, Emerson Field has taken the place of the "Tin Can" as the center of athletic activity and baseball has returned to its glory. Uniforms have already been issued and the members of the team are actively engaged in earnest practice.

The loss of "Mule" Shirley, Captain-elect of this season's team has considerably weakened the team in both the hitting and fielding departments. Shirley has joined the Washington Americans and has reported to the team in Florida for the spring work-out. In addition to Shirley the team loses Joe McLean at short and Sweetman at center.

Bryson and Ferebee will probably bear the pitching burden during the 1924 season, with help from the substitute hurlers of last year's team and from Coach Sheperd's 1923 freshman team. The announcement that the veteran Bryson would again pitch for Carolina has served to instill much hope among the students.

Ex-Captain "Casey Morris," "Rabbit" Bonner, "Monk" McDonald and "Cart" Carmichael, all of whom have won fame in other sports, will be the nucleus of the team. A great number of men have been out for practice but the team has not yet begun to assume any definite shape.

The baseball schedule has not been completed and will not be released until at least another week.

DAVID FRIDAY TO LECTURE TONIGHT

Noted Economist Will Lecture Tonight and Wednesday Morning at 9:30

Professor David Friday, one of the nation's leading economists, will give a public lecture in Gerrard Hall Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock on the subject of "The Ethics of Industrialism." He will speak here under the auspices of the School of Commerce, Dean D. D. Carroll, in announcing Professor Friday's visit to the University, suggests that the public lecture will appeal to all students and faculty members who are interested in the ethical aspects of the modern industrial system. The visitor is declared to be an exceptionally pleasing speaker.

Wednesday morning in Gerrard Hall at 9:30 o'clock Prof. Friday will speak on "The Future of Prices and Interest Rates." All classes in the School of Commerce at that hour will be dismissed in order that Commerce students may hear the lecture. It is announced that any person particularly interested in the subject of prices or interest rates will be welcomed to hear it, also.

The visiting lecturer is the Director of Research for the National Transportation Institute of Chicago. He was formerly President of the Michigan Agricultural College, and has been an instructor and professor at the University of Michigan. Before going to Michigan Agricultural College as its president, he was for a time Professor of Political Economy at the same institution. Friday was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1908, and since that time he has been a prominent citizen of his native state. He has served as Franchise Appraiser for the Michigan Tax Commission, as valuation expert for the Michigan Railway Commission; and as statistical adviser to the United States Treasury and to the United States Telephone and Telegraph Administration. For two years he was head of the Department of Economics at New York University.

Prof. Friday has contributed several books to the field of economics, chiefly among them "Problems in Accounting" (1915), "Readings in Economics" (1916), and "Profits, Wages, and Prices" (1920). He has also contributed to numerous periodicals. He is a member of the American Economics Association, the National Tax Association, the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Royal Economic Society, Phi Beta Kappa, and various other organizations.

The Geology Club held a meeting last Friday night. Dr. Collier Cobb made a very interesting talk about earthquakes, their causes and behavior. He discussed the recent earthquake in Japan.

MUSICAL COMEDY BOOKED MARCH 25

"Ye Gods!" Will Be Staged Here Soon and Will Go on Tour Immediately

"Ye Gods!", the musical comedy being produced by the Wigwe and Masque, University dramatic organization, will be presented in Memorial Hall on March 25, after which the troupe will go on a tour including the following towns: Henderson, March 26; High Point, 27; Greensboro, 28; Raleigh, 29.

"Ye Gods!" was written by Earl Hartsell, who won a prize of fifty dollars given by Wigwe and Masque for the best original musical comedy submitted for production. This is the second musical comedy to be produced by Wigwe and Masque since its birth on the campus three years ago, the other being "The Kalif of Kavak," by Ernest Thompson, which was presented in Memorial Hall last Spring.

Due to the fact that Wigwe and Masque was in its infancy, a tour could not be financed last year. Two performances were given in Memorial Hall, and one at Pinehurst. Here on the Hill everybody agreed that it was darn good, and some instructors even compared it with a Princeton Triangle Club production. It was very well received before a critical audience at Pinehurst.

However good "The Kalif of Kavak" was, "Ye Gods!" should be better. There are twenty-four chorus "girls" and thirteen principals in the present cast as against sixteen chorus girls and nine principals in last year's play. There are sixteen musical numbers, all of which were written by Professor P. J. Weaver and Billy Vaught. The show is replete with specialty dances by a team composed of Kike Kyser, Al Moseley, and Lee Bullock, all of whom are eccentric dancers of no mean ability and have had previous experience on the stage. Jules Welch, whose dancing was a sensation in "The Kalif of Kavak," will play the role of Venus and will again do a number of dances.

Then Frank Hursey and Jim Hawkins must not be overlooked. Hursey playing the part of "the Mother" in "The Kalif of Kavak" got all the laughs. He has since played important roles in The Carolina Playmaker productions. Although this is Jim Hawkins' first stab at musical comedy, there is no reason why he should not be as good as he is in Carolina Folk Plays. He is probably far and away the best actor with the Playmakers today, and he is showing the same ability on the musical comedy stage. The Carolina Club Orchestra composed of eight men, and Sol Avner, will make up the orchestra for this performance.

One of the handicaps of last year's production of "The Kalif of Kavak" was an inadequate stage, but that has remedied this year by enlarging the stage in Memorial Hall. With ample stage room, Wigwe and Masque has gone to an expense of hundreds of dollars in equipping it. The elaborateness of the stage settings and the costuming will be the most striking feature of the show. The Chronicle Company of Asheville has been secured to do this work, under the direction of Miss Glenna Smith Timmen. The Chronicle Company,

Virginia Ball Games Are Definitely Dated

Dates for the three Carolina-Virginia baseball games have been definitely scheduled, according to C. T. Woollen, University Graduate Manager of Athletics, who states that the commencement diamond battle this spring will not be staged with Virginia, as heretofore. The Old Dominion team asked that no commencement games be played, and Carolina has adhered to this request.

Mr. Woollen is seeking to get Georgia Tech to fill the commencement date, usually filled by Virginia. The commencement battle is usually the biggest attraction of the baseball season.

The first Virginia game will be played at Charlottesville April 26; the festivities will be switched to Chapel Hill on May second, while on the following day the teams will move to Greensboro for the annual battle there, which will take place on May third.

Dekes and West Will Decide Campus Title

D. K. E. will meet West dormitory, champions of the Dormitory intramural basketball league for the campus championship and the cup given by the Order of the Grail, Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Tin Can. The Deke team won the fraternity league title Monday when they beat the A. T. O. team 16-15 after two extra periods were necessary to decide the contest. The game had been made necessary by a tie between the two teams for league leadership.

The game which will decide the winners of the cup given by the Order of the Grail will in all probability be an excellent one, for both teams have shown up good during the season and have some promising players included in their line-ups.

The probable line-up:
Dekes Pos. West
R. F. Rinehart
Bourne L. F. Dickerson
Ambler C. Corbett
Cheeseborough P. Corbett
Cordon R. G. Cathey
VanStory L. G. H. Corbett

Georgia and Auburn May be Scheduled

The University of Georgia and Auburn may find places on Carolina's 1925 football schedule, according to Charles T. Woollen, graduate manager of athletics, who has just returned from Atlanta. Mr. Woollen was in Atlanta for the Southern tournament and while there attended an executive committee of the Southern Intercollegiate Conference.

For the three past years Carolina and Georgia have desired to meet each other on the gridiron, but graduate managers at the respective institutions have found it impossible to arrange their schedules in order that a grid combat could be staged between the Bull Dogs and the Tar Heels.

Auburn has been considered, also, as a new possibility for the football schedule. While no announcement has been made to that effect, some radical departures from the schedule of the last few years may be forthcoming in 1925, it is believed, with the proposed games with Georgia and Auburn as two new attractions.

The 1924 schedule has been completed, so possible football relations between Carolina, Auburn and Georgia will not effect it in the least.

THEODORE FITCH GIVES VOCAL CONCERT SUNDAY

Theodore Fitch of the Music Department accompanied by Mrs. H. W. Chase gave a vocal program last Sunday afternoon in Memorial Hall. The program (with one exception) was sung entirely in English.

The Ward-Stephens version of the "Twenty-Fourth Psalm" opened the concert. It was not till the last two groups were sung that Mr. Fitch showed his full vocal ability. The "Nocturne" by Curran and Handel's "Care Selve" were by far the most pleasing and satisfying numbers. There was one tribute of most remarkable sincerity that was shown by an elderly lady in the audience who wept at the conclusion of Mr. Fitch's rendition of the ever popular "Lamento" from Leoncavallo's "Pagliaccio."

Alumni of the University of North Carolina in attendance upon the meeting of the North Carolina Education Association will hold a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. in Raleigh at 6:00 P. M. on Thursday, March 13th.

The banquet will be in the nature of a get-together affair.

Team Will Not Enter National Tournament

At the faculty meeting Friday afternoon, the members of the faculty voted to the effect that the basketball team not be allowed to go to Indianapolis to the National Tournament. Dean Bradshaw opened the discussion by making a motion, on the request of some members of the student body, that the team should be allowed to go. This motion was seconded by Mr. Hibbard. Then a plan was suggested whereby the whole decision would be left in the hands of the Athletic Committee and the Deans of the undergraduate schools. This was voted down, as it was thought that it was putting too much on a small group of men to make them decide a question which would probably bring forth much censure and blame. After much discussion the original motion was voted on and it was practically unanimous in favor of not permitting the team to go.

The nearness of the exams and the fact that nine out of the ten days which are permitted to an athletic team away from the Hill had been spent were reasons for the faculty taking this step. It was also brought out at the meeting that some of the players could not possibly pass their work if there were any more absences marked up against them. The date of the tournament is also against Carolina participating. The tournament starts just before exams start here and continues on so that the players would miss all of their exams as well as valuable review work.

ALL-STATE HIGH TEAM IS PICKED

Two Reidsville, Two Wilmington and One Durham Man Placed on All-State

First Team
Haar, Wilmington F.
Satterfield, Durham F.
Miller, Reidsville (c) F.
Neal, Reidsville G.
Loughlin, Wilmington G.
Second Team
Munn, Rocky Mount F.
Young, Raleigh F.
Kelly, Wilmington C.
Morris, Charlotte G.
Delaney, Reidsville G.

In picking an all-state high school team it will be necessary to limit the players to those whose teams performed on the Hill either in the elimination series or in scheduled games played here. However, in all probability the pick of the high school players will be included among those who have performed here sometime during the season.

Haar of Wilmington has been given a berth at forward position because of his uncanny eye on the basket and his floor work. He is probably the best high school shot seen here this season. Satterfield of Durham will make an exceptionally good running mate for Haar. He is an excellent passer, a very good floor man and also has shooting ability. Munn of Rocky Mount and Young of Raleigh are both fast dribblers and good shots and, although not quite as good as the other two mentioned, would run them a close second. They were selected for second team.

Miller of Reidsville is the outstanding of the centers seen in action. He is tall, can jump, passes well and is a sure shot around the basket. He is honored with the captaincy of the mythical five. Kelly of Wilmington is our pick over the remaining centers.

There were quite a few excellent guards in the state and there are several pairs that could be easily advocated for the first team, but the call goes to Loughlin of Wilmington and Neal of Reidsville. The former is a good shot as well as being an excellent guard. He is especially valuable in breaking up passes. He would be stationed at running guard with Neal at stationary guard. Neal was one of the main factors in Reidsville's defense. Besides he can dribble well and is, when called on, a good shot. Morris of Charlotte would run Neal a close race for his position.

Laying with a team on which he was the only man who was not ruled off just before the series, he proved to be a large factor in Charlotte's advance towards the title. He is placed on the second team with Delaney of Reidsville as running mate. Delaney is an experienced guard who knows his position and plays it well.

REIDSVILLE WINS STATE TITLE IN AN UPHILL FIGHT

Shot by Milner in Last Minutes of Play Brought Victory to Reidsville

MILLER IS THE STAR

In one of the most exciting successful uphill fights ever staged in the Tin Can Reidsville High School won the state championship Saturday night. Wilmington High, title holders of the eastern division lost the game in the last few minutes of play when Milner, Reidsville substitute forward, was left unguarded in the excitement of a scrap for the ball under Reidsville's basket, giving him a clear shot from the floor. The shot gave Reidsville the big end of a 19-18 score, and the game and championship.

The Wilmington team stayed in the lead until the final two minutes of the game. The half had ended 6 to 9 in their favor and it looked as though they were sure winners after annexing a lead of four points with only three minutes to go. But the Reidsville quint got into action and a foul and a field goal by Delaney and the deciding shot by Milner told the tale.

The First Half

The game opened with the ball being worked up and then down the floor. It was several minutes before Haar of Wilmington broke through the Reidsville defense and scored the opening goal of the game. Immediately after he made good two fouls. Miller scored first for Reidsville with a free toss from the foul line. Wilmington increased her lead when Shephard scored a field goal and was followed by a field goal and a foul by Loughlin, Wilmington guard. Reidsville missed many slips and were also kept away from the basket by the close guarding of the New Hanover guards. However Miller started the fireworks by getting

Di Society Chooses Officers for Spring

Election of officers for the Spring quarter and the annual inter-society debate were held in the Di Hall last Saturday night.

The election was throughout characterized by listlessness and lack of interest. In some cases only one man was nominated for an office and easily carried it. J. W. Deyton, who was elected several weeks ago in order that his picture might go in the Yackety Yack, will preside over the society during the next quarter. R. W. Linker was by a good majority elected vice-president. Three men were nominated for secretary. H. C. Klingenschnitt secured the majority of votes for this office. H. L. Estelridge was elected first censor morum. For second censor morum, A. E. McIntyre was chosen. Pete Murphy, in recognition of his splendid and efficient service during the last quarter, was re-elected unanimously for first corrector. Cameron McRae was also without a dissenting vote elected second corrector.

After the election of officers, several matters of business were brought up before the society and disposed of. The treasurers' report showed the state of the Di's finances to be rather low, there being a balance of only $26.38 in the treasury at present.

By a special vote of the society on the previous Saturday night, the president was given power to excuse anyone who wanted to leave after the business session and not remain for the debate. When the business session was adjourned, every man in the hall except about 15 loyal ones made a rush for the door and disappeared. The debate was delayed awhile in the hopes that someone else would come in, but was finally started before a practically empty house.

The question for the debate was: Resolved, That the United States Government should neither lease nor sell its mineral lands. L. B. Kennett and P. E. Head spoke on the affirmative for the Di freshmen while J. L. Matthews and J. R. Owens represented the negative for the freshmen of the Phi Assembly. Quite lengthy discussions were given by both sides. The rebuttals were especially good. The judges decided unanimously in favor of the affirmative.
