The contests this year will be the ninth annual high school tennis tourney of the state.

Nell Battle Lewis Is a Visitor Here

Miss Nell Battle Lewis of the News and Observer was on the Hill Monday to look over the work of the Carolina Playmakers. Professor Koch's class in playwriting and play producing gave a special exhibition of their work for the benefit of Miss Lewis who is to write a series of articles concerning the Playmakers.

After the class was over, Miss Lewis was the guest of the Playmakers at tea in their unique tea room in the basement of the Old Law Building. Professor Koch and Mr. Denny took Miss Lewis entirely over the Playmaker laboratory and showed her the assembly of stage models designed by students for the coming Playmaker production of Prunella. Miss Lewis expressed pleasure and some surprise at the quality of the work the Playmakers are doing.

DR. BRANSON RETURNS

Dr. E. C. Branson, professor of rural economics in the University has returned from a year in Europe, where he studied rural problems of several countries at first hand. His letters from Holland, Denmark and Germany were syndicated and published widely in the state from time to time.

BOB PICKENS LEAVES

R. S. Pickens, of Albermarle, editor of this year's Yackety-Yack left Friday morning for Hickory, N. C. where he will take charge of the daily paper there. He recently bought the editor's share in the paper and is soon to buy an interest in two weekly papers. Spencer Murphey, of Salisbury and a Junior here will take over the duties of the annual editor.

Grail Gives Dance Saturday April 11

The Grail is getting plans underway to stage a big dance here Friday night, April 11. This dance will be on a much bigger scale than the functions which the Grail puts on at regular intervals. The Southern Student Conference meets here on that date and the representatives of the conference will be the honorary guests of the Grail. The Southern Student Conference is composed of representatives from all the leading colleges and universities of the south who meet once a year to discuss campus problems and to formulate plans for the betterment of student life. Last year this conference met in Atlanta. The representatives to that conference for Carolina were: J. O. Harmon and Chas. Holshouser. A very large representation is expected at the Hill for this meeting, and it is for this reason that the Grail is providing the dance.

The high school debaters and athletic teams will be on the Hill April 2 also, so that this particular weekend will be full of attractions.

A STUDENT APPLIES FOR TEMPORARY HUSBAND JOE

Temporarily husbanding has taken its place along side of dry nursing as one of the many self-help jobs open to University students. Not that it has proved a success at all, but one enterprising freshman, whom spring caught with a rapidly decreasing pocketbook and a rapid rising of sap in his veins, hit upon the method as the one road to wealth.

No doubt the freshman was quite naive and but little versed in the ways of this cruel world. Still, he was apparently a believer in the old adage "that opportunity knocks but once," and when the Raleigh News and Observer carried a perfectly innocent advertisement that told about a charming young lady that wanted a temporary husband and was willing to pay handsomely for the temporary part of it, he felt that opportunity had fairly engulfed him in a double embrace.

Although he had witnessed but sixteen brief summers since his arrival upon this green orb, he was, nevertheless, at the University and was, by all process of reasoning a man. So this beardless youth who but a short time before had left his mother back at home, lost no time in getting in touch with this strange but amorous lady. In his shrill tenor voice he urged the Raleigh central to give the number that would soon put him on easy street.

With his heart beating at a terrific rate the boy waited. Finally a hello drifted over the wires and the ambitious lover poured out his speech of love. At last he finished and awaited the reply. Calmly the news was broken to him that the ad was merely a motion picture ad and that everybody was supposed to have caught on to it. Disappointed, the Freshman told all his woes and how he had thought that he would be a millionaire before night. The ticket seller laughed and smashed down upon her Wrigley's.

Strange enough perhaps, the same picture, the "Temporary Husband" had been shown at the "Pick" the night before. The poor deluded Freshman decided that as a self-help bureau, Harry Comer was more reliable than the self-styled "Old Reliable," and that all millionaires are not made overnight.

ALUMNI REVIEW FOR MARCH OUT

The March Issue Contains Three Articles of Unusual Interest

"The Alumni Review" for March, contains three articles of unusual interest. A statement from President Chase, in which he sets two proposals before the associations, is a feature of the issue. The University's chief executive suggests meetings of various Alumni associations each fall, held for the purpose of inviting entering freshmen as guests of the local Alumni and students, in attempts to aid in the assimilation of the large number of first year men entering annually. He also proposes an annual conference of alumni officials, and of class and local organizations.

A write-up on Carolina's Southern championship basketball team is the feature of the issue. A complete record of the year and two-page review of the season comprise this article.

The recent boom for Josephus Daniels as President of the United States and Angus McLean's announcement of his candidacy for gubernatorial honors furnishes the incentive for a short article on "Two University Alumni in the Political Limelight."

An article on the revision of the Alumni Day program, and the usual departments, make up the remainder of the issue.

Students May See Dancing Exhibits

A feature of the program of the First Dramatic Institute of the Carolina Dramatic Association, which will be held at the University Friday and Saturday April 4 and 5, will be a series of interpretative dancing by several girls from N. C. C. W., under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Schon, of the N. C. C. W. faculty.

It is planned to present a Festival Play, along with the Dramatic Interpretative Dancing, in the Forest Theatre at 3:00 o'clock Saturday evening. In the event of inclement weather, the program will be carried out in Memorial Hall.

University students will be admitted to the Saturday afternoon program for an admission of 25 cents, it is announced.

The Institute is being held under the auspices of the Bureau of Community Drama of the University Extension Division. The first session will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday, April fourth. The program includes a welcoming address by President H. W. Chase; an illustrated lecture by Prof. Frederick H. Koch on the subject of "Making Carolina Drama"; a talk by Miss Ethel T. Rockwell on "Dramatic Opportunities in North Carolina"; presentation of plans for "A Children's Theatre" by Mrs. D. L. Grant; and at 5:30 P. M. the delegates will be guests at a banquet given at the Chapel Hill high school. That night, at 8:30 P. M., the delegates will be the guests of the Carolina Playmakers, when they present their spring program at the Play House.

Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock the program will include reports from members of the Carolina Dramatic Association, led by Mr. J. A. Vache, New Bern, and Mrs. Kate F. Fisher, North Wilkesboro; election of officers will take place at ten o'clock; at 11:00 o'clock Mr. George V. Denny, business manager of the Playmakers, will give an illustrated lecture on "Play-Production"; Miss Ethel T. Rockwell will talk on "Costume Designing"; and Miss Elizabeth Schon will present the subject of "Interpretative Dancing in Drama."

The Festival Play, to be given in the Forest Theatre, is being produced under the direction of Miss Ethel T. Rockwell, as a Demonstration for a Dramatic Festival for any North Carolina Community. This, with the Dramatic Interpretative Dancing Feature, will comprise the public program Saturday afternoon.

Regular sessions of the Institute will be held in 113 Murphey Hall, with Prof. Koch presiding. Registration of delegates will take place from 12:00 o'clock to 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Institute headquarters in Murphey Hall.

Professor R. H. Wettach of the Law School faculty has been called to his home in Pittsburg to the bedside of his father, who is reported to be seriously ill.

JUSTICE STACY SPOKE FRIDAY

Supreme Court Judge Spoke to Law School Association Friday Night

At the invitation of the University Law School Association, Judge W. P. Stacy, of the North Carolina Supreme Court, gave a talk in Manning Hall last Friday night.

An audience of law students, faculty members and people of Chapel Hill listened very eagerly to his excellent speech. Professor A. C. McIntosh, acting dean of the Law School, introduced the speaker.

"There is no royal road to success," he said, "and especially in the law profession. I have worked hard, and I think that no one would like to have otherwise."

He compared the situation as it is in Washington today with that of Washington's time. He spoke of Washington's speech to the constitutional convention in Philadelphia, where representatives from the 13 colonies, all upholding different opinions, were floundering at cross purposes. He quoted Washington in his superb words of wisdom when he begged them to "erect a government to which the good and the true may repair for all time. If we insert into this instrument things that we ourselves do not approve, how can we expect others to adopt it." He stressed that such a spirit should prevail in Congress and in all the state legislatures.

In this part of his speech, he gave a summary of our form of government and the processes through which it came to be what it is now. He strongly disapproved any efforts which were now being made towards taking away some of the powers of the Supreme Court in giving Congress power to pass laws over the head of the Court. "The fathers of this country were also bent on providing against the exercise of any tyrannical power in this country. The accumulation of all legislative, executive and judicial powers into the same hands, whether in the hands of one, a few, or many, is the very definition of tyranny. To guard against this, our forefathers adopted the great principle of separation of powers, and the same is embodied in all our written constitutions."

Then he spoke on the absolute necessity of the legal profession remaining clean and upright. He showed that the existence of the legal and political institutions in this country are based on the mental equipment and moral stamina of the individual citizen. The standard of professional men must always be kept at the very highest, he said.

Lawyers should always carry on their cases on a high and clean level. "If a man is out to make a fortune, he better go into some other business, and not the legal profession, for that is not a place to make quantities of money, but a place for service, and the right-spirited kind of service."

He ended by pressing upon the minds of his hearers the great oppor-

PENDY ORDERS ANOTHER NEW MODEL STUDEBAKER

Pendy's new bus that made its appearance last week is now making six round trips to Durham each day. It is a new model Studebaker seating from twelve to sixteen people, according to the size of the passengers. Pendy says that it is better than any jitney because its weight makes it ride easier and its seventy five horse power engine is capable of pulling it at sixty miles an hour. One of its special features is a dust covered case for carrying baggage which will eliminate the mud and rain that has ruined so many traveling bags.

In addition to the one now on the road, Pendy has another one ordered of the same make. It will arrive within the next ten days. Then the schedule will be rearranged to include an extra trip, making ten round trips to Durham daily. Also both late trains will be met each Sunday night, and the passengers charged only the regular fifty cent fare, making the second cut in fare which Pendy has brought about.

One of the old buses which has been on the road for the last eighteen months is for sale. The other one Pendy is keeping for special occasions in hauling crowds. He says that there is nothing like being equipped for Carolina and that he is a Carolina man.

Freshman Trackmen Beat Charlotte High

Giving prospects of developing into one of the best freshman track teams in years, the Carolina Frosh overwhelmed Charlotte high school, state champions last year, in a meet held on Emerson Field Saturday. It was the first meet of the year. The Froshies won the meet by a margin of 74 points to 34.

The feature of the afternoon was the shattering of the state high school javelin record by Morris, of Charlotte. He hurled the trim pointed spear a distance of 145 and one half feet, bettering by about seven and a half feet the old record of 138 feet, two inches. The record will not count as a high school mark, however, because Saturday's meet was not a high school affair.

Fast time was also registered in the 220-yd. dash, Smith, Charlotte, shattering the tape in 23 and 2-5 seconds.

Doug Schiltz, the fast little freshman from the Queen City, aided in the downfall of his old high school team. He was Carolina's leading scorer, making two first places, one second and one third.

The pole vault resulted in a battle of Schiltz vs. Schiltz, brother Doug besting kid Brother Will. It was a pretty battle.

Summary of meets follow:
100-yard dash—Giersch, Carolina, first; Smith, Charlotte, second; Hackney, Carolina, third. Time, 10:04.

Discus throw—Williams, Carolina, first; Roberts, Carolina, second; W. Schiltz, Charlotte, third. Distance, 91 feet, 5 inches.

440-yard run—Russ, Carolina, first; Wyrick, Carolina, second; O'Niell, Charlotte, third. Time, 5:0 seconds.

Relays—Carolina both the half mile and mile relay.

EDUCATION PUBLICATION RECEIVED FROM PRESS

The February issue of "The High School Journal," published by the University School of Education, has just been received from the press. It is a special number devoted to high school athletics under the direction, as usual, of Dr. N. W. Walker, editor of the publication.

The contents, for the most part, deal with some phase of high school athletics. E. R. Rankin, Secretary of the recently organized North Carolina High School Athletic Association, contributes a timely article, in which the constitution of the association is printed in full. There is also a short write-up on the Athletic Association of North Carolina girls, Chester D. Snell, of the University Extension Division, in an article entitled "Physical Education and State Athletic Contests," shows the need for proper physical education courses in the curricula of North Carolina high schools, G. D. Goover, contributing a general article on "High School Athletics," lays stress on the financial end of the game. The usual departments and columns also appear in the current number, which is one of the best of recent issues.

The Sociology Department of the University of Kansas sent out questionnaires to thirty co-eds upon the qualifications of an acceptable husband. Twenty-two checked as a first requisite financial ability. Love brought up the rear. Ex.

BASEBALL TEAM RAPIDLY GETTING INTO GOOD SHAPE

In Spite of the Bad Weather Coach Bill Is Having Daily Practice

In spite of the bad March weather, Coach Bill Fetzer is rapidly rounding his team into shape and the Varsity is gradually assuming definite form. So far the schedule has not been released and the date of the opening game is unknown to the public. However college baseball opens its season shortly and the University team will have to swing into action early in April. Rumors have it that the first game will be with Guilford on the third of April.

Only Sweetman, McLean and Shirley are missing from last year's team and Coach Shepherd's 1923 freshman team is out almost in its entirety in an effort to grab a berth. The infield is the problem before the coach and he is experimenting with several men at first and third.

"Rabbit" Bonner, Cartwright Carmichael and Hoot Gibson look like the trio of outfielders. Bonner is a full-fledged veteran, Carmichael took up his job last year and Gibson was frequently substituted at center and rightfield. Bonner is also an excellent catcher and was used during the first of last season while Morris was suffering with a bad arm.

In the infield only Monk McDonald seems absolutely certain of a place. Recently he has been moved from his time honored position at short to take Joe McLean's place at second. Johnson, shortstop on last year's freshman team has been playing shortstop in the practice games and is generally regarded as the best bet in case McDonald is kept at second base. Charlie Thomas, captain of last year's freshman team is working for third and Starling, another Oak Ridge boy, is trying out for both third and second. Starling was a regular last season and is practically certain of a place in the infield.

The problem of getting a fast and flashy first sacker to succeed "Mule" Shirley promises to be a tough proposition. At present "Touchdown" Jones and John Coffee are staging a battle royal but as to who will finally end in possession of the bag probably isn't known by even Coach Bill.

Thus far there has been no captain elected to succeed Mule Shirley. McDonald or Bonner are generally considered by the campus as being the most likely choice. McDonald has been a three letter man and has excelled in every branch of athletics that he has entered. This season in baseball is his last at Carolina. He was captain of the 1923 baseball team and is undoubtedly one of the most popular athletes that has ever attended the University.

Bonner was a star player on the baseball team last season and was the outstanding halfback on the football team last fall.

Dr. Tigert Spoke To Student Body

Dr. John J. Tigart, head of the Federal Bureau of Education, a Vanderbilt graduate, and a Rhodes scholar, spoke briefly on the general benefits of education to a community last Monday in Chapel.

He emphasized the point that education was necessary for a general increase in wealth. He offered this as the primary reason for North Carolina's great strides forward within the past few years. He stated that the State had been most fortunate in having leaders who realized that general education was necessary if the State were to go forward and get out of the rut in which it found itself as a result of the Civil War.

Thus it is, as a result of the vision that such men as Aycock, McIver, and Alderman had of developing the State's enormous natural resources through education that North Carolina is now first in industry and in prosperity among all the Southern states.

A recent report from Watts' Hospital, Durham, states that J. O. Harmon is recovering splendidly from an operation which he underwent there a few days ago. Harmon was operated upon for appendicitis Saturday the 15th and is expected to return Wednesday or Thursday of this week.
