CHIEF JUSTICE WALTER CLARK

With the death of Chief Justice Walter Clark, the University loses a distinguished alumnus and the State a progressive citizen and an unselfish servant.

The Chief Justice was in his 78th year and had spent exactly half of that time in the service of his native state on her court bench. He has presided over the state supreme court for nearly 22 years. For 13 years prior to his elevation to the Chief Justiceship he sat as an associate justice and before that time had served as a superior court judge for four years.

Walter Clark's life reads like a novel. He entered the ranks of the Confederacy at 15 and served for two years of the war, coming out a lieutenant-colonel. Returning to his native state he entered the University, and was graduated in 1864. Graduating from the Columbia law school, Washington, D. C., he began the practice of his chosen profession in his native state. He was appointed superior court judge in 1895, from which he rose to his position as chief justice of the supreme court.

Twice during his career he refused the Democratic nomination for governor, which meant that he practically refused to accept the governorship twice. He preferred to remain on the bench and serve the state there with his fullest ability. He was a student of law and history and dispensed justice from the bench with precision and firmness.

His life and court decisions stand as silent witnesses of his intense faith in people. He was constantly fighting any legislation that tended to deprive the people of their rights for the sake of commercial interests. His faith in the people has been phrased as a "Jeffersonian faith in the folks" and such it was. Unbiased by any contorted view of political, social or religious freedom, he stood as the arch enemy of all legislation that would deprive any party, color or creed of its right to the principles of justice and fair play. He was always fearful lest the giant business and corporation interests should make inroads into the people's constituted rights. His success in protecting the state from such inroads has been even beyond the popular conception.

A man of pleasing personality, tolerant and deliberate, he was an example of the grand old southern gentleman type of man, who is so fast dying out. He cast his lot with the state and has done his part in making the state one of the union's most progressive and democratic units.

His life of public service stands as a noble example of unselfishness and love of his fellow man. He reached the point where duty to state was duty to self, and where duty to self was duty to state. Materialists wonder why a man, with such a great and broad knowledge of the law, should confine himself to the service of the state. They see large and magnificent returns to be had in commercializing his knowledge and entering into the service of some corporation. But it is impossible for men like the late Walter Clark to do anything else than serve his state in the best way possible. His love of justice and its proper application represents that element in mankind which forms the basis for the whole of our democracy.

Grieving at the loss of such a man, yet we are inspired by his life, conscious of the fact that his spirit lives on.

LAUNCH BOXING HERE

Boxing, Carolina's youngest sport, will be given a big send off Friday night when the University team will go rounds with the Camp Bragg outfit.

There has been some intra-mural boxing bouts this year, but the Friday night card will be the first scheduled meet for the University boxers. The soldiers will bring a team of six men who will meet the Carolina outfit. Besides these bouts there will be an exhibition bout with "Kid" Numbers as the center of attraction.

Boxing should meet with a big welcome here. The pugilistic art is probably one which is more international in its range than any other sport and interest in the sport is universal. Colleges have begun to take up the sport and schedule intercollegiate contests as in other college sports. The larger universities have had teams for some years, and the sport is gaining collegiate popularity rapidly.

Only a comparatively few southern institutions have put out teams. The University is the first college in this state to begin the sport.

The boxing team should furnish thrills a plenty. The artillerymen have some smart boxers and have gained wide publicity for their ability. The Carolina men, although this represents their first scheduled contest, are in good shape and will present some hefty hooks and jabs to the visitors.

The band has been secured for the occasion and Manager Cox is making all arrangements for a big night. He went to Camp Bragg last Saturday to close the arrangements. He announced that General Bowley, the well-known commandant of the artillery camp will accompany his proteges to the Hill.

Fresh Lose Meet To Fast Woodberry

Woodberry Forest nosed out the Tar Baby trackmen there Monday afternoon by the score of 59 1-2 to 57 1-2. Cumming, for Woodberry, was the high point man of the meet with 18 points to his credit. He took first place in the century, the 220, the 440 and second place in the broad jump. McPherson, for the freshmen, had 14 1-2 points to his credit, taking first in the high hurdles along with several seconds.

Giersch took broad jump first honors with a jump of 21 feet and 8 inches. Bell carried away first honors in the mile in 4:36 3-5. Only eleven men made the trip and Coach Millican was handicapped by a lack of men for events. Another second place would have given Carolina the meet. In the high jump, the Carolina entry was not on the trip. If he had been along, a second place and the meet would have been assured.

The freshmen close the season with this meet. They have had much success and several men will make it hot for varsity places next year.

CLEVELAND CLUB GIVES SHELBY HIGHS A FEED

The Cleveland County Club met Saturday night in the "Y." A few members of the Shelby High School team which won the state championship from Rockingham Saturday afternoon, remained over after the game, and were guests of the club.

APPLICATIONS BY JUNE 1 FOR JOBS AT SWAIN HALL

The Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Students Employment wishes to announce that all applications for positions in Swain Hall for next year should be in by June 1. This is a radical departure from the method of awarding these positions at an interview with the Committee in the fall. The change was made in order to enable the men applying for these positions to know the results of their applications early enough to make their plans accordingly. All applications should be mailed to Mr. H. F. Comer, who as secretary of the Y. M. C. A. acts as secretary of the Committee.

RECEIVE FELLOWSHIPS

Through the cooperation of the State Highway Commission at Raleigh there will be two research fellowships in highway engineering at the University next year. The two men who have been appointed for these fellowships are Messrs. Harry Can-ter, Jr., and Henry M. Holmes, Jr. Both of these men will receive the B. S. degree in Civil Engineering at the Citadel this year.

M. A. James, Carolina's representative in the Southern Oratorical Contest, which was held last week end at Sewanee University, took second place in the contest. Vanderbilt carried away first place. James, who also won second place in the state Peace Contest, had as his subject, "Racial Adjustment."

This closes Carolina's schedule in intercollegiate forensic contests for this season. The Debating Council is hard at work mapping out the schedule for next year.

The employees of the Building Department, and the employees of the Electrical Department played an interesting game of baseball last Thursday afternoon. The game was started on the Freshman Field, but moved to Emerson Field after the freshmen had completed their game with Leuksville High School. Rain caused the game to be called in the sixth inning with the understanding that the game should be played off Saturday, which resulted in a 15 to 9 victory for the Builders.

The Builders are piloted by Pierce Matthews as Captain and Mr. Burch as manager. The Electricians are under the captaincy of Charles E. Graham and the management of Mr. Bennett. Teams composed of men from Swain Hall, the Laundry Department, the Post Office Department, the Fire Department, the Electrical Department, the Building Department, and the stores of town, are planning to form a league to play at least two games per week throughout the summer.

Hell is paved with good intentions!

but good intentions won't pave a modern street to resist modern traffic. That job demands tough, husky, durable vitrified paving brick. Just tuck these two facts away in the back of your mind for use after graduation—first, that no brick pavement ever wore out from the top down; second, that the great majority of all the pavements you know that are older than you are, are of vitrified brick. Don't let yourself be talked into substitutes—insist on vitrified brick pavements.
