PARAGRAPHS

Saturday is the day set apart for the first home game.

A large crowd is expected over for the annual Carolina-Trinity affair.

We hope that no appeal to clean sportsmanship will be necessary in the coming game.

As yet we have received no communication in the Open Forum column regarding the library hours.

There seems to be a bigger commercialization of the honor system than ever before. The latest is the Piggly Wiggly box down town.

The difference between this particular young store and a Piggly Wiggly is that the enterprising gent will trust anybody to pay him in the future.

One thing we notice about all these self help stands is that one is forever reminded of the honor system. "On your honor" is a popular phrase with the owners.

A friend of ours has taken up the habit of smoking cigarettes. We asked him when this destructful habit seized upon him and received the answer that his habit dated from the time cigarettes first appeared for sale in honor boxes. Which, of course, is off the subject.

ATHLETIC DEMOCRACY

There has been much discussion among administration circles of colleges and universities throughout the country regarding the present athletic conditions. Practically all colleges and universities have their difficulties and troubles with maintaining the proper balance between athletics and scholarship.

The whole American collegiate world has been branded as a world whose main interest is in football and its contemporary collegiate sports. In North Carolina a very interesting battle of securing coaches has been the rage for the past season or two. Only lately has a movement to democratize athletics for college students been started. By a democratization of athletics we have reference to the amendment of the system so that all students have an equal share in participating in and securing the benefits to be derived from athletic sports in the physical development.

Some interesting side-lights have come to surface as the result of the recent Olympic games in Paris. The Finland team, which carried such a scare into the American camp during the early part of the games, had upon its roster some very interesting characters. To these men it seems that the main thing to be derived from participation in the games was strictly from the standpoint of the sport and its beneficial results. The idea of the German schools has also struck a responsive chord in helping to amend the American system. In Germany the young men of the land are being given athletic instruction to aid in building a better race from a standpoint of eugenics.

Over at State College at Raleigh the requirements of a diploma have recently been made to include certain athletic attainments such as ability to swim a certain distance. We believe that this is a good thing and would welcome a similar program at the University. Intra-mural athletics do a lot to give opportunities for development, but even with all the opportunities there are many individuals who fail to include in their college schedule time for their physical development. We do not profess to be believers in too much compulsion, but we do believe that some degree of compulsory athletic development would work wonders in abolishing a set of conditions that was proved to exist when this country began mobilizing its military forces for the late war.

The question as to whether inter-collegiate athletics is justifying itself will not be discussed here. However, we will go far enough to say that we believe that the present tendency of commercialism in collegiate athletics will have to be checked or else athletics as an intercollegiate relationship will cease to exist.

We further believe that no college in the state is free from this taint of commercialism; it can be clearly distinguished in many of the institutions. Our hat goes off to conscious efforts on the part of any college to rid themselves of this demoralizing influence.

LAW SCHOOL CLUBS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Miss Daisy Cooper is Elected as New President of the Gaston Club.

At a recent meeting of the law clubs, officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

Gaston club: President, Miss Daisy Cooper, Oxford, N. C.; secretary, E. L. Briggs, Burnsville, N. C.

Iredell club: President, A. M. Scarborough, Kinston, N. C.; secretary, C. H. Dearman, Statesville, N. C.

Mapping club: President, Jack Joyner, Roanoke Rapids, N. C.; secretary, Steve Kenney, Windsor, N. C.

McGehee club: President, J. R. P. Carawan; secretary, L. I. Moore, New Bern, N. C.

McRae club: President, W. J. Hannah, Waynesville, N. C.; secretary, P. J. Ranson, Huntersville, N. C.

Person club: President, T. D. Bryson, Bryson City, N. C.; secretary, J. M. Strong, Raleigh, N. C.

Ruffin club: President, L. Q. Galloway, Brevard, N. C.; secretary, S. E. Vest, Leaksville, N. C.

The first year class voted unanimously to go into the law club work. They will get their cases this week, and will argue two cases each during the fall quarter.

The second and third year men are entering a competition from which the two strongest clubs will be selected during the fall term to argue before a Justice of the Supreme court next spring. The briefs in the final argument will be printed and distributed among the leading-lawyers of the state. The presidents of the law clubs are also directors of the law school association, which has for its purpose the general interest of the law school. The members of the faculty, together with President Chase and Mr. Woolen, form the board of advisors.

Under the auspices of the association several oil paintings of prominent legal figures of the past in this state have been secured and will be presented at various times during the year. Members of the judiciary and the bar will also speak to the law students from time to time.

According to the officials, the interest in the association has increased greatly since last year, the number of men taking part in the arguments have more than tripled.

Another New Idea Has Sprung Up On the Campus

Saunders, the famous promoter of the Piggly Wiggly stores, has nothing on a certain Carolina student who has opened up a chain of Piggly Wiggly box-stores or the so-called "honor system" vendors about the campus and town. The ingenious student does not limit his wares to apples and candy, but carries a complete line of commodities such as are found in drug stores, fruit stands and smoke shops. The store is a box which is divided up into many compartments. Each compartment contains various kinds of candies, cigars, cigarettes, and other goods that a student might want. On the ground beside the box sits a bucket, which contains ice and bottles of pop, coca-cola especially. Scuppernon grapes are also found in these miniature stores.

The two main stores of this chain are located on the pavement before the post office and on the vacant lot between Foster's and Mrs. Battle's boarding house. So far, the student reports good sales and few breaches in the honor system, which makes the scheme possible. The Piggly Wiggly idea is not only a novel thing on the campus, but also adds another item to the long list of ways in which students may work their way through college.

NEW MEMBERS TO BE INITIATED SATURDAY

Speaker Rogers Starts Campaign to Get New Members into the Phi Assembly.

New members will be initiated into the Philanthropic Assembly next Saturday night, when the annual initiation night, held at the beginning of every fall quarter, takes place.

Committees were appointed last Saturday night by Speaker L. T. Rogers to visit the various dormitories and to find out the men interested in college literary society work. Invitations will be extended to them to join the Phi.

A short chapel talk will also be made to the freshmen some time this week by Speaker Rogers. He will explain the purposes and aims of the assembly for this year and issue an invitation to all interested men to be on hand when the initiation ceremonies take place Saturday night.

Appointment of the committee on constitution and rules constituted the remaining business transacted Saturday night. This committee will make recommendations at the meeting a week from this coming Saturday to amend the Phi constitution in an effort to revive interest in literary society work here. The committee is composed of J. R. Owens, chairman; W. T. Couch, and F. P. Parker, Jr.

New officers for the fall quarter were also installed at last Saturday night's meeting. The incoming officers are L. T. Rogers, speaker; M. M. Young, speaker-pro-tem; J. B. Page, reading clerk; F. I. Lanier, sergeant-at-arms, and J. E. Mann, treasurer.

ED. APPLE PRESIDENT OF DIALECTIC SOCIETY

Meeting Last Saturday Night Was Devoted Primarily to Clearing Up Business.

In a meeting of the Dialectic Literary Society last Saturday night the new officers for the coming year were installed. Mr. E. D. Apple, the incoming president, in his address urged the necessity of a democracy in society work. He said that the best literary societies should harmonize with the new and prevailing conditions, and all members must work together in order for a society to be the best kind.

New members will be initiated into the society next Saturday night, when the annual initiation will be held. There will be no canvassing of dormitories for membership into the society, as it is probable that some who would later find that they were not interested in society work might be urged to join. The society urges all incoming men who are really interested in literary work to join one or the other of the literary societies. It is customary for the boys from the eastern part of the state to join the Phi, and those from the western part to join the Di.

A short talk will be made in chapel this week explaining the work of the society, and invitations will be extended to those who are interested to join the Di.

The meeting last Saturday night was devoted primarily to business. The reports of various committees, which were carried over from last year, were heard, and many new committees were appointed.

Phi Beta Phi Lecture

The public is cordially invited to a lecture on the Phi Beta Phi Settlement School, to be given by Mrs. Roberts, of Winston-Salem, on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Gerrard hall. There will be a sale of hand-made linen and hand-made baskets in the Y. M. C. A. building after the talk and tea will be served.

The Phi Beta Phi settlement school, founded by the Phi Beta Phi fraternity in Gatlinburg, Tennessee, has for many years worked to better conditions among the mountain people in that part of the state, and has done an unusual work.
