MANNING HALL DEDICATION HELD FRIDAY MORNING WITH ADDRESS BY DR. WILLIAM REYNOLDS VANCE

Yale Professor of Law Makes Principal Speech.

Many Prominent State Officials and Alumni of the University Attended the Dedication.

DEAN FERSON MAKES SPEECH Building Presented to the University by Long—Josephus Daniels Accepts in Behalf of Trustees.

By E. S. BARR

The exercises in dedication of Manning hall for the school of law were held in Memorial hall, Friday morning, at 11:30. The chief speaker of the day was Dr. William Reynolds Vance, professor of law at Yale University and author of many historical and legal works.

The members of the general assembly and others of the most prominent of the visitors were seated on the rostrum and a section in the center at the front was reserved for the glee club, the members of the law school, and others of the alumni and visitors.

Before the opening exercises selections were given by the band. A short delay on account of some of the busses bringing members of the legislature over from Raleigh failing to get here was filled by other selections by the band.

Among those who appeared on the S. I. C. Tournament Will Be rostrum were: President Chase, Dean Ferson of the law school, the Hon, Jose phus Daniels, Lieutenant-Governor Elmer Long, the chief justices of the supreme court, E. W. Pharr, speaker of New Courts Will Be Ready for Use the house of the North Carolina legislature, G. V. Cowper, president of the North Carolina Bar association, and other prominent state officials and citizens

After the invocation by the Rev. Walter Patton, of the local Methodist church, the glee club sang, "Grant us to do

Dr. Vance was then introduced by President Chase and mention made of the fact that the speaker's wife was a former resident of Chapel Hill.

The subject of his address was, "New that he regretted the fact that so many goes to a lawyer. The name of Darrow, who saved Leopold and Loeb from the gallows, was given.

There are two classes of lawyers; one which make a trade of drawing up documents, and one which enters the profession with an ideal of service. While there are many legal activities that fall varying degrees of preparation, mostly into the class of a mere trade, our social order can exist only with the unseen hand of the law. The part that law plays in a man's life begins before he is born and continues until after his on the first of March so as to have them death. While the trained lawyer is not usually a public asset, one who takes his the tournament. When finished, these usually a public asset, one who takes his profession in the right spirit is a great courts will make up the largest set of benefit to society at large. This hand of the law is not noticeable-neither is that of gravity-but the public becomes aware of it the moment it falls down.

However, there is a growing confidence in the impartiality of the men turned out by university law schools and the schools of the past are not to be compared with those of the present. The great transition in the manner of teaching law came when C. C. Langdell was made dean of the Harvard law school in 1870 and introduced the practice of studying cases rather than the

The struggles of the young lawyer are nothing now to what they have been. When Dr. Vance was graduated from his school, he went in search of a law firm that would permit him to work there for nothing so that he could get experience. When they started paying him $50 a month, he thought that he was unusually fortunate. Now all the prominent law schools of the country have standing orders from big law firms for their gradnates each year. This fact makes it that most of the examinations of the very hard indeed to get prominent lawyers to teach in schools, and it is becoming necessary to train the students to become instructors.

The problem now is to make the law a thing suited to present-day conditions and which is a living thing. The law is the distilled essence of the experience of the thousands of years of our predecessors. As such, one should treat it with respect and think carefully before changing it. Those who are to do this work should be those who know it best. The address was followed with a select

LEGISLATORS PRESENT

The first to jump out of one of the big busses that brought the Old North State legislators up to Chapel Hill yesterday, was the Hell-raiser from Currituck. Just then, one of the legislators came up and imparted the information that the man was the "Hellraiser from Currituck; they don't raise anything down there but ducks and H-l."

GRAIL DANCE ON NEXT SATURDAY

With Fraternity Dance On Friday Night Foot Shaking Will Be Big Affair.

The Order of the Grail will give its first dance of the winter quarter next Saturday night in the Bynum gymnasium. Since this is the first dance of the quarter open to the student body, it is expected that many will be present for the foot shaking. A number of girls are also expected to be up for the weekend, as a fraternity is having a dance here on Friday night.

Announcements have been sent out to various organizations on the campus with the idea that boys will have time to invite their girl friends down for the dance. Another fact that points to a good crowd from out of town is the fact girls' colleges will be over and the girls can spare the time for the visit.

The North State Eight will probably play for the dance. Grail members announce that dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and will continue until the midnight hour. Attention is also called to the fact that freshmen are not permitted to attend the dance.

The prytar roof is on the new chemistry building and the plummers, pipers and electricians are fast completing the main piping. The building will probably be ready for use at the opening of summer school next June.

DEBATE QUERIES ARE ANNOUNCED

Young Announces Two New Debates.

PRELIMINARIES NOT SET Plans For Another Debate With N. C. State.

Two additional intercollegiate debates have been definitely scheduled for the spring quarter, according to announcement by M. M. Young, Secretary of the debate council.

George Washington University will be debated again this year as usual, the debate taking place in Washington, D. C. The query is, Resolved-That the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution authorizing the regulation of child labor should be adopted. George Washington will uphold the affirmative and North Carolina will defend the negative -this same negative team, on the same trip, also debating Johns Hopkins in the Washington and Lee-Hopkins triangle. This will be a two-man team. Another Oxford Union debate with State college, to take place in Raleigh in the spring, is also assured. The query is, Resolved-That Congress should enact the Cummins-Vaile Birth Control bill. may be published in the University Debaters' Annual for 1925-26. Carolina side of the question.

Carolina debaters are urged to prepare for places on intercollegiate teams. This trip. fact is pointed to by the council as evidence that there are plenty of opening for new men if they will work.

Judges will in the future-as they did in the South Carolina-William and Mary triangle-have the privilege of throwing out preliminary contests and ordering a second preliminary to be held at a later date, if, in the opinion of the judges, the preliminaries are below University standard.

Time limit for preliminary speeches in the two debates announced is seven minutes on the first speech and four minutes on the rebuttal.

Debaters are urged to begin work immediately for the preliminary contests.

The Tar Heels again demonstrated their fighting spirit and ability to come from behind to win when they defeated the Wake Forest basketeers Thursday night by the count of 22 to 18 after trailing on the short end of the score for over half the game.

The Deacons played a stellar game during the first half and by virtue of close guarding and accurate shooting, finished in front by a four point lead, the score at the half way mark being 13 to 9. Coach "Monk" evidently had a confidential talk with his men during the half, for when they went back into the game they proceeded to tear the Baptist offense to pieces while demonstrating that their own offense was in good condition. During this final period the Gharrity men counted only five points while the Tar Heels rang up 13.

Billy Devin cut the Wake lead to two points shortly after the period opened up by caging a field goal, and with this leap the Carolinians opened up with the scoring machine and the tide turned in their favor. The defense which had been notably weak compared to that exhibited in other games, strengthened, and the Deacons were forced to try longer shots. Ober, playing at right guard, was the only Deacon successful and scored all five points for Wake Forest during the last half.

Poole was again high scorer for the game with 9 points, while Purser ran second with 6 points to his credit. No one of the Deacons stood out in the scoring, Emmerson, Daniel and Ober all ticing for the leading position with five points each.

With Captain Cobb already resting in Watts hospital, the rest of the squad came within a few inches of joining him when their automobile collided with a Ford, badly damaging both cars but inluring no one save a pegro woman in

TAR HEELS MEET OLD BUCK TODAY

Play New University on Durham Court.

COBB STILL IN HOSPITAL Last Game Tonight Before Long Northern Trip.

With three barriers successfully passed the Tar Heels are rushing forward to the state championship with only two opponents yet to be disposed of; Guilford, Davidson, and Wake Forest have been passed, Duke and State yet remain.

Tonight in the new alumni memorial gymnasium at Duke, teams representing the University of North Carolina and Duke University will meet for the first time. In past days the rivalry between Trinity's basketeers and the Carolina cagemen was of the keenest and most intense sort. The Tar Heels were the only reason that the Blue Devils were not heralded as state and South Atlantic champions on three occasions.

The game tonight is hardly expected to be such a fight as those of the past two years, for the men who made Trinity famous on the court have graduated and their places are yet to be filled by men of equal calibre. Still it will be a fighting team that faces Coach Monk's men and it is not impossible that Carolina will lose.

Since this game will be the last chance that the Carolina students will have to see the team in action until Feb. 12 when the Gamecocks of South Carolina come here it will doubtless draw a big crowd of followers to the Durham city. Captain Cobb is still suffering with his neck and shoulder and will not be able to play.

Professor Norman Foerster has had plans for a residence prepared by Architect Salter of Raleigh and expects to build on a lot purchased from Mr. Vernon Howell in the near future.

All the houses in the Gimghoul section are occupied with the exception of the one erected by Dean D. D. Carroll.
