TAR BABIES MEET MARYLAND FROSH

Opening Game of First-String Freshies.

EMERSON FIELD TODAY

Harry Schwartz Will Probably Play Center.

The Carolina Freshman Football team will open its 1925 football season this afternoon on Emerson Field where they are scheduled to meet the University of Maryland Frosh. It will be remembered that the Tar Babies were defeated at College Park last year by the close score of 13-12 and for this reason they will be fighting with blood in their eyes this afternoon.

Coaches "Runt" Lowe and Grady Fritchard have been drilling the boys hard for the past three weeks and they have now gotten together what looks to be a very formidable eleven. With a line which averages 190 pounds and with a fast, hard-running backfield which will average around 155 pounds, they should be able to hold their own against any team they run up against.

The team that starts the game this afternoon will probably be selected from the following men: Williams, Beam, and Ellison, ends; Eby, Howard, and Marginoff, tackles; Schuler, Evans, and Gregory, guards. Harry Schwartz will probably occupy the pivot position while Lassiter is expected to start the game at quarter-back. In the event that "Steve" Furches calls signals, Lassiter will be shifted to a half-back position. The other halves will be chosen from Hackney, Satterfield, and Ford while it is likely that Kelly will start at fullback.

The game is expected to be very hard fought and interesting from the beginning, and a large crowd will probably be on hand to cheer the Tar Babies on to victory.

FROSH IRON MEN DEFEAT SANFORD

Coxe, Ferrell, and Ledbetter Score Four Touchdowns.

AERIAL ATTACK IS USED

Lowe Uses Two Teams—Long Gains on End Runs Feature.

Coach Robbin Lowe's freshman scrubs won a practice game over Sanford High school on Emerson field yesterday afternoon by a score of 27-0.

The game was not a regular scheduled contest as the freshman schedule allows only five games to be played during the season, but was arranged in order that Coach Lowe could get a line on his scrub material. Some excellent playing on the part of the Carolina men was responsible for the large score. The backs drove through the line and made long gains on end runs at numerous stages of the game.

Two touchdowns by Coxe after long runs were the only features of the contest. Touchdowns were also scored by Ferrell and Ledbetter. The Coxe to Gray passing combination accounted for considerable gain.

Coach Lowe ran two entire teams into the game. The whole lineup was changed at the end and the new men showed as much real football playing as the first team that took the field displayed. Possibility that the Freshman team will resort to the aerial game this season was evidenced by the success of the passes used in yesterday's game.

CHASE GOES TO ATTEND VANDERBILT JUBILEE

Misses N. C. State-Carolina Football Game for First Time Since Being Elected President.

President Chase left Tuesday afternoon for Vanderbilt University, where on Thursday, Friday and Saturday a semi-centennial celebration will be held similar to that just held here.

Dr. Chase left on a special Pullman which carried a party of twelve, the rest of the party being made up of delegates from other colleges and universities attending both celebrations. He will return on October 19.

For the first time during his career as president, Dr. Chase was unable to attend even a part of the State-Carolina football game at Raleigh. Every year the officials of one of the two institutions are hosts to the officials of the other and to the officials of the State Fair. This year the officials of the University will act as hosts.

Names of honor students at the University of California will be listed apart from those of other students in the next university catalogue, as a means of encouraging greater scholastic achievement.

DEAN'S LIST IS ON THE DECLINE

Only Thirty-Nine Students Are On Belated List.

MAJORITY ARE SENIORS

Non-Compulsory Class Attendance is Privilege of Members.

The Dean's List of those Seniors and Juniors in the A. B. School whose marks last quarter justify non-compulsory class attendance has at last been issued from Mr. Hibbard's office. This quarter there are only thirty-nine students on the list. As in the past, any one of those thirty-nine whose average drops below a B will be automatically dropped. The students on the list are:

Seniors: Naomi Alexander, J. N. Ashbill, E. S. Barr, C. W. Buzmore, J. B. Bullitt, R. C. Bullock, P. A. Clement, J. F. Cooper, Mabel Couch, W. T. Couch, N. S. Elliott, J. B. Fordham, C. W. Hall, W. W. Harrison, W. D. Marshall, R. F. Jones, L. Lauerhaus, J. H. Lineberger, D. Miller, E. R. Patterson, R. B. Raney, G. Stephens, T. B. Stroupe, L. E. Watt, A. H. Zealey.

PERSON DEVISES TEST FOR STUDENTS OF LAW

Test is an Original Idea—Purpose is to Determine if the Men Have "Legal" Minds.

Dean M. L. Ferson, of the University Law School, in collaboration with Dr. George E. Stoddard and Carl E. Seashore, of the Department of Psychology at the University of Iowa, in an attempt to determine the aptitude of students in the study of law has devised a placement test which is being used by a number of prominent schools and universities of the country this year.

This test is the first of its kind ever attempted, Dean Ferson states, and is an original idea with him. Placement tests have been made and are used now in numerous other professions, but heretofore would-be lawyers have not been subjected to such a test.

The test itself is somewhat on the principle of the intelligence tests given the freshmen upon entrance to the University, but is different in that it does not attempt to determine the intelligence or studying capacity of the student. It merely tries to find out if the men have "legal" minds and if it is worthwhile for them to continue studying law.

The casualties in the law school of students who begin law and soon drop out prompted Dean Ferson to arrange this examination. While in Iowa this summer, he planned the test with the two noted psychologists who have prepared other tests of a similar nature, and the test is being used at both of the two institutions this year. Other schools are also helping with the experiment.

Careful records are being made of the results of the tests and the actual attainments and grade of these tested being compared with their grades on the examination. In this way, Dean Ferson hopes to have an accurate and efficient placement test within the next two years.

PIERSON STUDIES FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Tours Europe and South America Under Kenan Foundation.

SEES TWO REVOLUTIONS

Impressed with Love of Liberty in Latin Peoples.

Revolutions in two countries in which he was conducting investigations into the social and political conditions are among the most interesting "studies" reported by Prof. W. W. Pierson, University instructor in history and government, who has just returned from a year's study under the Kenan Foundation in South America and southern Europe.

While in Spain, Prof. Pierson witnessed the Rivera dictatorship with the militarists in power, and when he later visited Brazil he found that country upturned and in turmoil over one of the frequent revolutions which periodically occur in Latin American countries. In both of these upheavals, however, the local professor luckily escaped injury.

Prof. Pierson's studies carried him into practically every South American country and into parts of southern Europe, since a study of Latin American history would naturally lead back to Spain. His itinerary included: Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Portugal, Spain, and France and a visit en route to Cuba and the Canal Zone.

Purposes of Travel

The purposes of these extensive travels was to make a study of these institutions in the southern continent and to engage in historical research in those countries. During these studies, much interesting material was brought to light, and material was gathered for a book which the professor will begin work on shortly.

Material with a definite bearing on North Carolina history was collected in the archives at Madrid, Seville, and Simanca for the North Carolina Historical Commission, the professor stated. These dealt with the frontier disputes and events from about 1785 to 1795 involving Spain and this state when Spain was in control of the Mississippi Valley, and other happenings in which North Carolina and Florida were involved during the early part of the eighteenth century.

Among the interesting studies which the professor made were: in Peru, the social and legal problems of the modern Indians who he declares are in a bad fix; the Chilean struggle for independence from Spain; in Argentina, the power of the federal intervention in provincial government; in Brazil, the relation of federal and state governments; and in Spain, colonial institutions. The new constitution of Uruguay with its separation of executive and administrative powers, which the local professor investigated is declared to be a most novel experiment in government and is being carefully watched by other governments, so Prof. Pierson brought out.

The book which the Professor plans to write will deal with late colonial (Continued on page four)

NAVY BAND HERE TWICE THURSDAY

Will Give Afternoon and Night Concert.

SEATS ON SALE MONDAY

Band Being Brought Here by Music Department.

The music department has completed plans which bring the United States Naval Academy Band here for two concerts on October 22.

No organization in the United States, perhaps in the world, has reached such eminence in the realm of music in such a short time as the Navy band. Ranking now in the vanguard of military and concert bands, this ensemble of musicians has crowded into little more than six years a history that is far richer in successful endeavor and number of obstacles overcome than is usual in a century if like enterprise. It is the official band of the "Mayflower," the president's private yacht; it has accompanied the chief executives of the country on trips away from the capital. On the ill-starred Alaskan trip with President Harding, the Navy musicians furnished all the concerts. In the funeral procession of the late president the company held a place of honor. When President Coolidge retired to his summer home at Swampscott, the Navy band accompanied him. These men play frequently at the White House; their last appearance there was on the occasion of one of Mrs. Coolidge's garden parties. They constitute the official band of the Secretary of the Navy, for whose department they furnish all music programs. The personnel of the band is composed almost entirely of men under forty years of age. Extraordinary ability to secure services of the foremost soloists and musicians in the country. By reason of its high musical standards and prestige, musicians of great talent, receiving large compensation on the concert stage and in civilian orchestras, are glad to forego higher salaries for the benefits to be derived artistically from association with the high-rating Government band.

Impressed by the great popularity attained by Lieutenant Charles Bentler's company and aceding to a multitude of requests for personal appearances of the organization in numerous cities, President Coolidge signed a special act of Congress authorizing the first civilian tour of his official band. It is thought that the chief executive's estimation of higher music as an important factor in the cultural development of the nation was an influence toward this decision which breaks a precedent for the government official corps.

University Conquers Wolfpack in Annual Game Thursday 17-0

Is Outstanding Player on Both Teams—Carries Ball and Runs Team.

KICKS FOR EXTRA POINTS

Touchdowns by McMurray and Fordham—Robinson and Melver Lead Line's Attack.

While the sun broke through threatening skies the University of North Carolina football team marched on Riddick Field in Raleigh Thursday afternoon and loosed the full force of their attack on the Wolfpack, driving the Pack yelping to their den and bringing off the field of battle a well earned 17 to 0 victory.

From the first whistle to the last there was never any doubt as to which team was superior. State failed to show any semblance of a sustained attack, and only in the first quarter did they even threaten to score. Their highly touted McDowell failed to exhibit the stellar football that was expected, and the "one man team" was at a total loss against the brilliant and varied attack that the Fetzerites uncovered.

Emmett Underwood, whose brilliant running was the feature of the Duke massacre of a week ago, was again the shining light for the Tar Heels. This little 150 pound halfback did the passing, the kicking and a great part of the ground-gaining for the Carolina outfit. Ferrell, Shuford and Fordham also contributed much to the driving attack that gained 150 yards through State's line, while Captain Melver rallied his own forwards around him and held the Tech backs to two yards advance on line play. "Send Shuford over Robinson", was the cry of the stands when a few yards were needed for first down.

Preliminary Maneuvers

The rain that threatened to fall all day did not hold the crowd away from the contest, and eleven thousand football fans from all parts of the state packed the big stadium and stood around the field on all sides. One governor, two congressmen, college presidents, alumni and students of Carolina and State, and girls from the colleges of the Capital City, all dressed up in their holiday finery despite the gloomy weather, made up one of the largest throngs to witness the Fair Week game in years. The brightly colored dresses mingled with the Blue and White of Carolina, and the Red and White, of State, to give dash of color to the drab background of the stands.

The University band came on the field first and was greeted with a yell by the Carolina stands as they marched to their seats. Then came State's band, decked out in new uniforms for the occasion, to march around the field to the tune of a stirring march. The Tech musicians faced the Tar Heel cheering sections and played "Hark the Sound", and this bit of courtesy was received with cheers by the Hillians as they came to their feet.

The first talk on the program was a lecture entitled "The Influence of Pregnancy on the Stability of the Acid-Base Equilibrium of the Blood" by Dr. Williams deB. MacNider. This was a clear and concise talk, and was eagerly listened to by the audience.

The second was a talk by Dr. W. C. Coker, Professor in the Botany Department, on "Some Remarkable New Fungi from Chapel Hill Soil." Dr. Coker brought out the fact that Chapel Hill soil has been studied by all kinds of people with various interests and motives. He stated that four new species of fungi have been found in Chapel Hill soil which are not found in any other part of the world. Dr. Coker's talk was very plain, and he made it even clearer by accurate blackboard illustrations. Both of the above talks were very profitable to the society.

As to chapel attendance the rules are somewhat similar, except that Juniors and Seniors are not required to attend chapel exercises. Freshmen are required to attend every week day except Saturday, while Sophomores must attend on Mondays and Fridays. Freshmen are allowed eight unexcused absences, Sophomores only three. One more than the number allowed puts a student on probation; two will suspend him.

When at least half of these tea absences are excused the student will not be dropped. Excuses are granted by the University physician for sickness and by the registrar for leaves of absence from the Hill.

When a student has three unexcused "grats" against him on a full course or two on a half-course the Registrar will notify the Dean of his College or School. A student who has been dropped by reason of unexcused absences from enough classes to reduce his schedule to one course he will be suspended from the University for the remainder of the quarter. These rules do not apply to those fifty Juniors and Seniors in the School of Liberal Arts who are on the Dean's list until their average grade drops below a B. As yet there has been no Dean's list issued this quarter, its continuance being dependent upon the action of the faculty in its meeting next Friday.

No student may "grat" a class without excuse on the day immediately preceding or the day immediately following any holiday. Any one doing so will be put on probation for thirty days. Any student dropping a course without permission will receive a grade of F on that course.
