

N. C. COLLEGIATE PRESS GATHERING BEGINS TONIGHT

Delegates From Fifteen Colleges and Universities Are Expected for Occasion.

10TH SEMI-ANNUAL MEET
Full Program of Events For Week-end Conference Has Been Arranged.

The tenth annual meeting of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will begin in Chapel Hill tonight. Delegates from fifteen of the leading colleges and universities in the State will be present at the conference.

An excellent program has been arranged for the event, which will include two dances, the "13" Club Dance Friday night and the Saturday Grail, a banquet at the Carolina Inn given by the Publications Union of the University, and the Davidson-Carolina football game on Emerson Field on Saturday afternoon. The delegates will have every minute of their time here taken up with the entertainment which the program officials have arranged.

All the meetings of the Association will be held in the Dialectic Society Hall in the New West Building. The conference opens Friday night with an address by W. N. Keener, editor of the Durham Herald.

Arrangements have been made for all the delegates to have their meals at Swain Hall. They will be cared for in two dormitories on the campus; the girls in the Woman's Building, chaperoned by Mrs. Rogers, and the boys in Steele Dormitory.

A program of much interest is arranged for Friday, beginning with breakfast at 8:30 and ending with the dance Saturday morning at 1:00 o'clock. The morning session will be opened with the invocation given by Rev. W. D. Moss, of the local Presbyterian Church, after which J. H. Lineberger will make the welcoming address to the assembly. Miss Ruth Efrid, treasurer of the association, will make the response to Mr. Lineberger's welcoming speech. The president's address will follow Miss Efrid's talk and will be made by E. G. Moore, of the State College. After Mr. Moore's address the first business session will be held and the Publication reports rendered. At 12 o'clock the meeting will reconvene in Gerald W. Johnson's journalism class and will observe the work of that class.

Discussion groups will begin at two-thirty in which separate groups will take up problems connected with College Newspapers, Magazines and Annuals. At 7 P. M. the Publications Union will entertain the Association at a banquet to be given at the Carolina Inn. J. M. Saunders, president of the Association last year, will be the toastmaster for the occasion. After the banquet the delegates will attend the dance given by the

GRAIL GIVES HOP SATURDAY NIGHT

Hal Kemp's Orchestra Will Furnish the Music.

WILL BE IN SWAIN HALL

Number of Visitors on Hill Promises Highly Successful Event.

The third Grail dance of the season promises to excel by far the successful attractions presented by the club to date.

The one big and towering obstacle which prevented an outlook for a Grail dance Saturday night, after the Davidson game, that would equal in patronage, quality, and pep, any dance given at the University for several years has been eliminated by officials of the club. It was obvious that Bynum gymnasium where it was at first planned to give the dance, could not comfortably accommodate the throng of merry-makers who are expected to attend the affair. After considerable bargaining and pleading, Swain hall has been secured for Saturday night by the Grail club members.

No reason is at present apparent why the dance should not be a source of joviality and celebration for those attending. Hal Kemp and his musicians have only too well demonstrated in the past their ability to furnish music which is far above the class offered by most collegiate orchestras. Indications and rumors give authority for the anticipation of the presence of a brilliant and numerous assortment of feminine guests. Should the Grail dance Saturday night prove unsuccessful, it will be due entirely to the spirit and attitude of the dancers, and not to the management and the circumstances.

The price of the hop has been changed from seventy-five cents to one dollar.

GLEE CLUB SING DRAWS PROTEST

Perform Before Mixed Audience of Whites and Negroes

2,500 ATTEND CONCERT

Anglo-Saxon League Sends Telegram of Protest to Governor McLean

The University Glee Club filled its initial engagement at Hampton, Virginia, last Monday night at the Hampton Normal Institute, a negro college. Tuesday the TAR HEEL received the following telegram from Paul J. Weaver, director of the club, in regard to this performance: "Having great tour. Sang before twenty-five hundred people at Hampton Institute last night. Fifteen hundred white people present and gave enthusiastic reception. All concerts going fine. Royally entertained."

The appearance of the University club at Hampton Institute has been given a good deal of publicity as a departure from the custom of appearing only before white audiences. It is rumored that the occurrence caused quite a stir and apparently led to much feeling among

RALEIGH AND DURHAM BATTLE TO 0-0 TIE

Second Contest in Championship Series—Coaches Draw Straws and Raleigh Continues in the Race.

The Raleigh and Durham highs battled to a scoreless tie on Emerson Field Tuesday afternoon before a crowd of 2500 high school and college students in the second round of the state-wide elimination series. This was the second time in the championship contests that these two elevens have met and failed to cross each other's goal line, they having played to a 0-0 deadlock in Raleigh last Friday.

Although the game was spectacular at times, it was for the most part a listless affair, being replete with fumbles on the part of both teams. The forwards of both elevens are rather weak, as the opposing linemen were constantly breaking through the line and throwing the backfield men for great losses. As a

OLD SOUTH BUILDING

This cut was made from a drawing by Mary Graves Reese. Old South is the third oldest building on the campus, its cornerstone having been laid in 1798. It was sixteen years under construction due to lack of funds. By virtue of the recent decision of the Building Committee the walls of the old building will remain intact to pass on the wealth of tradition which centers around it.

SOUTH BUILDING TO BE RENOVATED

Has Always Been Center of Campus Tradition.

HAS HAD VARIED CAREER

Cornerstone of Old Building Laid On April 14, 1798.

According to the decision made at the last meeting of the Building Committee of the Board of Trustees the ivy-clad walls of the historic Old South, which have looked down upon the well for thirty-two college generations, will remain to pass on the traditions of the campus to as many more. The interior of the old structure will be thoroughly renovated and fireproofed, but with the exception of the small portico to be added in the rear, the exterior will remain intact.

For some time the fate of Old South has been uncertain. It was last spring when experts examined the aging walls of its body and found them weak from their very age. Something had to be done and the Building Committee was confronted by a serious problem, for the building could not be allowed to remain as it was. There were only two alternatives, for the committee felt that it would be highly impractical to do anything of a temporary makeshift nature. The old structure must be renovated and strengthened permanently as was Old East, or completely demolished and replaced by a new one of the same design. It was at first estimated that the first alternative would involve more than the latter.

In the budget granted to the University by the State Legislature last spring only $800,000 dollars was set aside for

VALUABLE COLLECTION OF BOOKS IS RECEIVED

Through the generosity of the West Publishing Co., of St. Paul, Minn., the University Law School is being presented with several sets of books amounting in value to approximately $3,000, according to an announcement from Dean M. L. Ferson.

The donation consists of six sets of the Southeastern Reporter and six sets of the Southeastern Digest, both of which are valuable additions to a law library. These volumes are to be placed upon arrival in the offices of the full time professors of law.

The Southeastern Reporter contains all cases from the courts of last resort tried in a group of states including Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia and North Carolina. The Digest reviews all these cases.

There are 130 volumes in each set of the Reporter, making a total of 840 books. Their approximate value on the market is $3,000, so Dean Ferson states.

Only three schools in the country are being given these volumes by the law book publishers, and the local school feels justly proud that it was one of the few selected. The books have not yet been received, but are in transit by freight to the University.

DR. ROSS SPEAKS TO MEDICAL SOCIETY

At the third meeting of the Medical Society which was held recently, Dr. Ross gave a very clear and concise discussion of the process of blood transfusion, combining the history, technique, value and clinical applications of the process into a very helpful lecture. The first meeting this year was in the form of a banquet, the purpose being to get better acquainted. At the next meeting, Dr. Copperidge, of Durham, gave an illustrated lecture on "Calculi of the Urinary Tract".

ARMISTICE DAY EXERCISES HELD

Memorial Day Is Fittingly Observed in Memorial Hall.

MAJOR DOBIE SPEAKER

"Loyalty to the Past—Loyalty to Its Spirit" Is Test.

From ten-thirty until eleven-thirty yesterday morning all work ceased in the University and Chapel Hill, and large numbers of people wended their way to Memorial Hall where the clubs and associations of the village, the Chapel Hill post of the American Legion and the University fittingly observed Armistice Day exercises. Major Armistead Dobie, A. E. F., formerly member of the General staff of the United States Army, and member of the Law faculty of the University of Virginia, was the speaker of the day.

Major Dobie, an enthusiastic Virginian, called attention to the historical background of friendly rivalry between the Old Dominion and the Tar Heel state. This is the case in every phase of common activity between the two commonwealths and the long standing rivalry between their Universities. The text of his speech was "Loyalty to the Past—Loyalty to Its Spirit." He said that loyalty is submergence of self, and that the letter killeth what the spirit giveth life. He urged that we maintain only the spirit of the past and to ignore their accomplishment except to push into further and better fields of achievement. Major Dobie's speech was not excessively long drawn out, he speaking only a little over half an hour and at all times maintaining the strictest attention on the part of his audience.

At the beginning of the exercises the University Band rendered several selections, after which the invocation was pronounced by Rev. A. S. Lawrence, Chaplain of the local post of the American Legion. After the invocation, the audience joined in singing "America," led by the University orchestra. Prior to the rendering of Mendelssohn's "March of the Priests" by the orchestra, Rev. Lawrence read the Orange County roll of War dead and followed with the University's list of dead heroes.

"13" CLUB WILL GIVE DANCE FRIDAY NIGHT

Invitations Have Been Mailed—Hal Kemp Furnishes Music for Affair in Bynum Gym.

Arrangements have now been completed for the biggest and most elaborate affair yet staged by the "13" Club. Invitations were mailed Tuesday to various destinations on the campus for the dance to be given in the Bynum gymnasium Friday evening.

Sufficient funds have been procured to entice Hal Kemp to promise the presence of his "Oxford baggers" at the affair. It was at first feared that the limited finances would necessitate the services of a more modest set of musicians who would demand fewer shekels.

A more opportune date could not have been chosen for the club's annual shag. More visitors are expected on the Hill for the approaching week-end than for any other event of the season.

The affair will be strictly formal, and will be needless for those without evening attire to attempt to gain admittance. Nine o'clock is the time set for the dance to start.

WILDCATS COME HERE SATURDAY FOR TITLE GAME

State Championship Goes to Davidson If They Win Game.

TAR HEELS PREPARED

Fetters Have Put Charges Through Strenuous Workouts All Week For Scrappy Warriors.

The tangled skein of football yarn that goes to make up the North Carolina State Championship ball will be unraveled and stretched from the goal posts of Emerson Field Saturday afternoon when the Tar Heels meet the Davidson Wildcats in a game that may be the hardest fought of any contest on a Carolina gridiron this fall.

All this week the Carolina grid coaches have been putting the Tar Heels through strenuous workouts daily in preparation for the scrappy Presbyterian warriors. Davidson has had one of its most successful seasons in its athletic history this fall, and the Tar Heels are not taking the game lightly.

The Tar Heels displayed one of the strongest offenses seen on a South Atlantic field this season to down the Flying Cadets by the score of 23 to 11. That victory was not a one man win. Rather it was due to the fine playing of the entire Carolina team. The Carolina line broke up the ground attack of the Cadets, and the Tar Heel backs broke up their aerial attack.

Bonner played one of the best games of his career, making several nice gains on running plays, and he intercepted many of the Squadron's passes. A Richmond sports-writer said, "Bonner was so fast that he caught all of Carolina's passes, many of the V. M. I. passes, and if it had been good football perhaps he would have done the passing and received his own heavens."

Underwood did not start the game in Richmond, but he soon made his presence in the line-up felt after he did get in. He clearly lived up to his reputation as a triple threat man, for he did the passing for the Tar Heels while he was in the game, and several times he got loose for nice runs. Indeed it was Underwood who turned in one of the finest runs of the game. On a fake pass play, he circled the short end of the line for twenty yards and

LAUNDRY TO HAVE A NEW BUILDING

Plans Completed at Building Committee Meeting Monday

TOTAL OUTLAY $23,000.00

Plans for the new laundry building were completed at the last meeting of the University Building Committee and ground for the new building will be broken next Monday. From that time the work will be carried on steadily until its completion. "Dean" Paulsen, of the laundry department, will turn the first shovel of dirt Monday afternoon.

The new building of the laundry department will be situated toward the western end of Cameron Avenue. It will be on the South side of the avenue about 200 feet from the house of Parson Hackney, near the spot where the University Railroad crosses Cameron Avenue.

The building itself will represent a total outlay of $23,000. It will be shortened thirty feet from the original plans. This will make the structure 75 feet wide by 152 feet 10 inches in length. The boiler house will be only a temporary structure with galvanized iron siding. The laundry proper will be of brick, mill construction, and will be one story in height, the eaves being sixteen feet from the ground.

The building will be of the well-known slowburning construction with concrete floors laid directly on the ground. An interesting feature will be the fact that the south end will be filled in with a temporary 8-inch tile wall so that the building may be extended in this direction at any time it shall become necessary and at very little cost. It will have entirely modern plumbing and lighting.

The machinery used in the new laundry will all be electrically driven. It will be thoroughly up to date and will give the students modern and efficient service. When completed, the new laundry will be as thoroughly up to date as any laundry in the state.

Graduate of University Gains Newspaper Fame

By BYRON WHITE

Charles Phillips Russell, a graduate of the University of North Carolina in 1904, who for the past four years has been connected with numerous leading English periodicals in the capacity of editorial and feature writer on American viewpoints and British and American relations, is visiting his mother (a native of Chapel Hill) at the home of Mr. A. A. Klutz.

During Mr. Russell's senior year at the University he had the rare honor of being editor of both the TAR HEEL and the University Magazine. Twenty years ago the University's great organ and its famous monthly periodical were very different from what they are at the present time. There was so little literary ability in the University that the editor was also usually the chief contributor. All copy that was turned in at the office was personally read by him. At that remote period the TAR HEEL was issued only once a week, if possible, and it was hardly known outside of Grange county. But the editor by his great talents was within two decades to make a literary success as a free-lancer and journalist in both the United States and Europe as very few Southern University men have had the fortune to achieve. Now the TAR HEEL is the leading Southern tri-weekly college paper. However, it is indeed interesting to wonder how many of its present and future editors will achieve the success which Mr. Russell has?

After receiving his diploma, Mr. Russell was for some years a reporter on some of the larger Philadelphia and New York dailies.

In 1914 Mr. Russell took a trip to England. This time, due to somewhat uncertain financial standing, Mr. Russell and a friend, after a voyage over on a Greek tramp boat landed in France with only $125.00 between them, having pooled their resources. Mr. Russell, however, soon obtained a position as foreign correspondent for the M. C. Syndicate of Philadelphia. A few months later the World war changed his plans greatly. He had to flee to England where he landed with little cash in his pockets. For six weeks he tramped the foggy thoroughfares of London looking for some kind of remunerative labor, but it was impossible to get work of any type. Finally, Mr. Russell gave the attempt up as hopeless and returned to the United States. He was employed on New York and Philadelphia papers in editorial and feature capacities until 1920.

In 1920 Mr. Russell returned to England with the intention of completing some of his interrupted studies of its imper.
