

Tar Heels Meet Wildcats On Emerson Field Today

WELL MATCHED

Both Teams Have Hard Driving Bunch of Forwards.

CAROLINA BACKFIELD STRONG
The Fetzers Have a Wealth of Reserve Backs—Will Send Complete Squad On Field.

By virtue of Wake Forest's 6-0 defeat at the hands of N. C. State College yesterday, the Carolina-Davidson game this afternoon is the 1925 State Championship game. The winner of today's contest wins the state crown.

Emerson Field today will be the scene of one of the outstanding grid programs of the year when the Tar Heels meet the Davidson Wildcats in the determining scrap of the title scramble of the North Carolina eleven for the 1925 season. The game will bring together two of the strongest grid aggregations in the state, and the spectators will be treated to a struggle of Titans.

The game, with its important bearing on the 1925 championship, is expected to draw one of the largest crowds of the year, and the Tar Heel management has arranged to accommodate a record gathering of fans. Davidson will bring its student body and many rooters from the western section of the state on the special train that will run from Charlotte over the route of the Southern railroad. In addition Tar Heel alumni will flock back to the Hill from all parts of the state, and by 2:30 o'clock today the town and campus will be filled with visitors.

To amuse this vast crowd that will fill the town and its environs, Coaches Bob and Bill Fetzer, of Carolina, and Coach Monk Younger, of Davidson, have been bending all of their energies for the past week to molding together two of the fastest football combination ever gathered on one field to furnish gladiatorial thrills for four 15-minute quarters—thrills such as never granted the

CHAPEL HILL HIGH DEFEATS RALEIGH

Capital City Lads Nosed Out In Hard-Fought Battle

TOUCHBACK ONLY SCORE

Raleigh Driven Out of Scoring Territory On Three Occasions

Chapel Hill High's nosed out the Raleigh eleven yesterday afternoon on Emerson field in a hard and bitterly fought contest, taking the big end of a 2 to 0 count and thus emerging as the champions of their group. The game was hotly contested throughout and both teams showed remarkable fight and determination as the narrow margin of victory indicates.

The lads from the capital city opened up with a drive in the very first quarter that three times threatened the Chapel Hill goal, but the local team proved equal to the assaults. The first Raleigh threat came as a result of a beautiful run by Bailey, who slipped around end for twenty yards before he was brought down on Chapel Hill's twenty-yard line. Here, however, an intercepted pass stopped the visitor's drive, but Chapel Hill's punt was weak and Raleigh was soon again in scoring distance, driving to the fifteen yard line. Here an attempted drop kick was broken up and Chapel Hill punted out again. But Raleigh once more carried the ball down into the danger zone where they were finally stopped by another intercepted pass.

This opening spurt ended any dangerous threat of the visiting team until late in the fourth quarter, while the eleven of the local high school hammered away consistently at the Raleigh defense until their efforts were rewarded in the middle of the third quarter. At this point Pendergraft took in a long pass which netted thirty yards and put the ball on Raleigh's eight-yard line. Here the visitors showed a wonderful fighting spirit when they held for downs, but their attempt to punt went out of bounds in the end zone and was recovered by Chapel Hill for safety.

For Raleigh Bailey at quarter and Saddler at end were the outstanding performers, while Paulsen and Pendergraft did the most consistent work for Chapel Hill. The victory gives the Chapel Hill team the championship for their respective group and they will probably meet the winner of the Sanford-Rockingham game in the next contest of the elimination series.

"13" CLUB DANCE ENJOYABLE EVENT

Acclaimed the Most Successful Event Ever Staged by "13" Club.

MANY VISITORS ATTEND

Much Pep Added to Occasion by Presence of Pretty Girls.

The "13" club dance held last night in Bynum gymnasium fulfilled the most optimistic of expectations. Numerous visitors arrived from far and near increasing the interest and the success of the affair.

Those who journeyed to the Hill with the idea of attending the most joyous series of social events to be presented on the campus this season have been far from disappointed to date. The dance last night is unanimously acclaimed the best and most successful attraction presented by the "13" club since the founding of the order. The figure was executed without noticeable mishap, and, for a change, was easily distinguishable.

A more attractive and more fitting assortment of feminine visitors could hardly have been expected. It would in nowise be a partial statement to express the opinion that each gaily rigged damsel received more than an average share of attention.

Despite the fact that there was nothing singular about the weather conditions there appeared to be no end of conversation and wise-crack material, with 16 days game claiming the majority of comments.

It is an astounding fact that the dance was well under way by 10:45. Hal Kemp and his noted producers managed at all times to keep their pep a horn's length ahead of the dancers. The music furnished by the Carolina boys excelled even the former successful exhibitions that the orchestra has furnished this year.

Perhaps the most favorable characteristic of the dance was the fact that, admission was by invitation, the number of boys did not exceed the girls to the overwhelming extent that is usually the

LARGE GROUP ATTENDS SIGMA NU HOUSE PARTY

Reception Given Yesterday Afternoon In Honor of Attractive Group of Feminine Guests.

The Sigma Nu house party is now in full swing, the swing being slightly larger than was figured on in the contract. Nearly forty-five invitations were mailed, and the members have yet to receive a negative reply. Despite such overwhelming odds, however, the wearers of the snake are making it an extremely happy affair for their feminine guests.

A reception was given in honor of the members of the house party Friday afternoon and this morning at eleven o'clock the fair visitors will skin back the papers in a bridge contest which will later adjourn to the Inn for lunch.

The Sigma Nus have done much towards furthering the success of the social events on the Hill this week-end by enticing such an attractive group of visitors to the campus at a most opportune date.

GEORGE ROBINSON

Robinson, star tackle, was injured during the final quarter of the V. M. I. game and may be unable to play this afternoon.

KEENER DELIVERS OPENING ADDRESS PRESS GATHERING

College Writers Hear Fine Talk On Life As a Journalist

ADJOURNS NOON TODAY

Enjoyable Banquet Last Night at Carolina Inn Crowning Social Event of the Convention

The tenth semi-annual meeting of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association was opened with an address by W. N. Keener, editor of the Durham Herald, in the Dialectic assembly hall Thursday night. Mr. Keener's address marked the opening of a three day session of the association which comes to Chapel Hill as the guests of the Publications Union, and will last until after the Grail dance in Swain Hall Saturday night.

The feature of the meeting yesterday was the relentless flaying of the practice of some institutions in censoring their student publications by faculty committees. The assembly thought that more freedom of the college press is necessary for the proper development of the publications of the institution.

Keener Addresses Meeting
The speaker was introduced by E. G. Moore, of State college, who is president of the association this year.

Mr. Keener prefaced his remarks with the statement that the hardest assignment any speaker can be given is to talk to a college audience. In this opinion he is supported by no less an authority than Max Gardner who has also found it difficult to acclimate himself to collegiate atmosphere. "I have chosen no special topic for tonight," said Mr. Keener, "for newspaper work is a conglomeration of practically every subject."

He first mentioned the fact that in his college days the campus publications were more troubled by their financial shortcomings and tended to ignore the question of acceptable material. If enough copy was on hand to fill an issue it went in and very little thought was given to its quality. Now it is different. Financial difficulties have been somewhat cut down and the editors put more time on turning out a paper or a magazine whose contents will be a credit to their school. The material is immeasurably better and at times approaches real literature. As examples

Fully recovered, Devin is expected to be in prime shape for today's game with Davidson.

CHASE ATTENDS MEET IN CHICAGO

Thirtieth Annual Meeting of Association of State Universities.

ON PROGRAM FOR SPEECH

High Honor Held by President In Recognition of Carolina's Progress.

President Chase left Thursday for Sweetbriar, Va., where he attended the inauguration of Miss Meta Glass as president of Sweetbriar College. While there Dr. Chase delivered an address in behalf of the Southern colleges.

Leaving Sweetbriar after the inauguration, the President goes from there to Chicago, where he will attend the thirtieth annual meeting of the National Association of State Universities. Dr. Chase this year is secretary and treasurer of the organization. He will also take a prominent part in the program being one of the speakers at the Tuesday morning session.

The fact that this office was conferred this year upon the president of this institution is considered a great honor, especially since the University was also president of the Association of American Universities for 1924-25. It is considered to be a recognition of the great progress made by Carolina during the last several years and an acknowledgment of the merits of this University.

The program of the National Association of State Universities for this year, besides the regular routine of business, includes the discussion of several important subjects pertaining to American colleges and universities. These topics include: "The Status of Honor Courses in American Colleges and Universities," "The Freedom of the State Universities," and "The Relation of State Universities to the Public." These discussions will be led by educators of prominence throughout the country. In connection with the second topic Dr. Chase will report on the Washington conference on freedom and tenure. The discussion on the last topic will be led by Glenn Frank, President of the University of Wisconsin, who last year delivered the commencement address here.

The conference will be held at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago. The officers of the Association for this year are as follows:

- President—E. H. Lindley, Chancellor of the University of Kansas.
- Vice-President—George Norlin, President of the University of Colorado.
- Vice-Pres. ex-officio—John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education.
- Secretary-Treasurer—H. W. Chase, President of the University of North Carolina.
- Executive Committee—the President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, and the following David Kinley, President of the University of Illinois; Samuel Avery, President of the University of Nebraska.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD FOR VIRGINIA CLASSIC

Additional Stands Being Erected to take Care of Visitors at Game On Thanksgiving Day

Expecting a record-breaking crowd of more than 15,000 attending the Virginia-Carolina annual classic, the University authorities are urging all alumni and fans expecting to be in the stands for the great game to purchase their tickets as soon as possible from the legitimate sources to keep from having to pay the scalper's prices later on. The price for a reserved seat is $2.00, with a tax of 20 cents added to the mail orders. All orders must be in by the 16th.

Additional temporary stands are being built onto the ones already standing to care for the greatest crowd in Chapel Hill since the inauguration of the outstanding classic. It is believed that one of the largest football crowds in the South will be in Chapel Hill for the Thanksgiving game, for besides being a state title contest, if Carolina wins, the University will rank second for the southern title. A holiday will be given at both institutions for the game and Virginia promises to have as many rooters on hand as the University.

With the paving of the four main streets of Chapel Hill, the heretofore awkward congestion experienced by the visitors will not be felt.

All the rooms of the Carolina Inn have been engaged for the three hectic days before, during, and after the contest. However, with the opening of the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham it is hoped that everyone will find suitable accommodations for the affair.

CARL VAN DOREN WILL LECTURE HERE FRIDAY

Eminent Lecturer, Editor, and Author Will Feature Fall Lecture Program—Literary Editor.

The public lecture season in Chapel Hill, so favorably launched by Barrett Clark and Robert Frost, continues with a lecture next Friday evening, Nov. 20, by Dr. Carl Van Doren, the versatile editor, author, and professor, according to announcement made public by Dr. J. F. Royster, chairman of the University Lecture Committee, and Prof. J. M. Booker, friend of the noted lecturer.

Dr. Van Doren is one of the most prominent lecturers of the country, and is equally well known as a writer and editor. In 1919 he became literary editor of the Nation, subsequently resigning to assume a similar post on the Century, which position he holds today.

As a literary critic, Carl Van Doren has published approximately a dozen

Freshman Team Finishes Very Successful Season

By W. P. RAGAN

When the freshman football team was defeated by the University of Florida yearlings at Lakeland, Fla., on Armistice Day, they completed a very successful season, having won three and lost two contests, and scoring a total of 62 points to the opponents' 31. From every angle, the season was a very successful one, and the Tar Babies had by far the best first-year team in the state and one of the best in the entire South.

When the first call for practice was issued back in September, over 100 candidates reported to Coaches "Runt" Lowe and Grady Pritchard. Out of this material the two former Carolina stars, by tireless effort and wonderful coaching, molded together one of the best freshman elevens that has ever represented the University.

In only the South Carolina game was there more than one touchdown scored on the Tar Babies, and each one of the Biddies' touchdowns was scored on freak plays, which were the result of the breaks of the game. Even though they were victorious, they were clearly outplayed as is evidenced by the fact that the Tar Babies made 14 first downs as compared to four for South Carolina.

The Carolina Frosh opened their season on Emerson Field against the strong freshman team of the University of Maryland and defeated them on a rain-soaked field by the overwhelming score of 21-0. The team displayed a versatile attack and a well-oiled machine, considering the fact that it was the opening game of the season.

After the two home games with Maryland and South Carolina, the Tar Babies journeyed up to Charlottesville and defeated the University of Virginia Frosh by the score of 13-0, the game being played on a field covered with snow. On the following Saturday the team went over to Raleigh and defeated the State Wolflets by the score of 22-6, the Tar Babies running wild over the only North Carolina team on their schedule. On Armistice Day the Florida Frosh were hosts to the Carolina yearlings at Lakeland. After a hard-fought and grueling contest in which all kinds of football were exhibited, the Baby Gators, led by Captain Joe Boyer, former Rockingham high school star, won over the Tar Babies by the score of 6-0. This game concluded a very successful season.

An interesting thing about the Carolina Freshman team was the fact that 20 out of the first 22 men on the squad were North Carolina boys. The two exceptions were Marginoff, the 245-pound tackle from Charleston, S. C., and Kelly, the big fullback from Tennessee.

The team was led by Edison Foard, of Charlotte, who was picked for the mythical All-Southern high school eleven in 1923. He was the scoring ace of the Carolina team and undoubtedly one of the best halfbacks in the state. He was a deadly tackler and a wonderful broken-field runner.

Foard's running mate was Harry Lassiter, also of Charlotte, and a former Woodberry prep star. Lassiter was a great defensive player and his passing and punting were all that could be desired.

"Steve" Furches who calls Statesville his home, ran the team at-quarterback. The little fellow ran the team smoothly at all times and it seemed as though he had the knack of knowing just what play to run at the right time.

At fullback was Kelly, whose native state is Tennessee. Although he was not called on to carry the pigskin very often he always made three or four yards every time he hit the line. He was probably the best line plunger on the team.

Baue Hackney, Henry Satterfield, and Tob Cox also got in most of the games as backfield men and all showed up exceptionally well. Satterfield was especially good at broken field running. At the pivot position was stationed Harry Swartz, of Charlotte, a member

SIGMA Upsilon's INITIATION HALTED

Incident in Front of Memorial Hall Interrupts Initiation.

BELL ASSAULTS BREARD

Resents Neophyte's Interruption of Major Swan's Talk in Chapel.

Yesterday morning at Chapel meeting a rather unfortunate affair took place on the steps of Memorial Hall. Those principally concerned were Mr. Hal Breard, who was being initiated into the local chapter of Sigma Upsilon national fraternity, and Frank J. Bell, assistant to Dean Bradshaw. Mr. Breard together with three other neophytes, P. N. Olive, J. A. Hebert and M. L. Radoff, went to chapel dressed in the motley garb which Sigma Upsilon always inflicts upon its pledges. At the time of their arrival Major Swan had just commenced his final talk of the long series he has been giving here. Mr. Olive walked quietly down the aisle and took a seat on the front row, closely followed by Mr. Radoff. Major Swan was justly annoyed by this ill-timed interruption and requested that the others remain outside, which they did. When the talk was over the two initiates immediately went up and apologized to Major Swan who accepted it laughingly, saying that he realized it was only a fraternity initiation but he didn't care to have the attention of his audience distracted.

Previously Mr. Bell who had been seated upon the platform, got up and went out of the window which leads from the platform to the rear of Memorial Hall. From there he walked around to the front steps and went up to Mr. Breard who had remained outside at the request of Major Swan. He first demanded his name and then ordered him to move on. Mr. Breard turned to go and Mr. Bell kicked him in the back, throwing him down the steps, fracturing one bone in his arm, and dislocating another. Mr. Breard was placed under ether in the afternoon and his arm set. Mr. Bell later explained his action by saying that he thought the initiates came to chapel with the intention of insulting the speaker, Major Swan.

ALUMNI AND FANS URGE CAROLINA-STATE GAME

Prominent Men Declare That The Two Institutions Should Continue the Annual Football Contest

The unfortunate severing of the football relations between the University and State college is being deplored by prominent alumni and fans of both the institutions.

O. Max Gardner, former Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina, Irvin B. Tucker, U. S. District Attorney, N. A. Townsend, and State Insurance Commissioner Stacy W. Wade have all publicly expressed opinions of deep regret over the discontinuing of the Fair week classic. They are afraid that the severing of the athletic relations of the two institutions in regard to football will lead to the ceasing of all athletic
