

STUDENTS OCCUPY NUMBERED SEATS

No Outsiders Allowed in Student Section Thanksgiving.

SOUTH SIDE RESERVED

Students Sit by Classes—Exchange Books for Seats Next Week.

At the Carolina-Virginia game next Thursday the entire center of the bleachers on the South side of Emerson Field will be reserved for the students of the University and each student will be required to exchange his passbook slip at a specified time during the first part of next week for a numbered seat in this section. No outsiders will be allowed in the students section, thus putting the damper on the hopes of a number of students who have been in hopes of taking their girls to the south side of the field.

The student passbook slips will be good only in exchange for one of these numbered seats on the south side and will not be received either in exchange for seats in any other part of the stands or at the gate for general admission the day of the game. In the interest of better and more organized cheering no outsiders will be allowed in the students bleachers. This ruling has been decided upon by the committee on the Virginia game as the result of the lack of uniformity and the disorganization caused in the past by both the presence of outsiders among the students and the scattering of the student body.

The students will be issued their seats according to their classes. In the center of the student section all the seats will be occupied by co-eds and seniors. Immediately to the right of the Seniors and co-eds will be the Juniors and Sophomores. The Freshmen will sit to the immediate left of the Seniors, while all graduate students and professionals will be issued in exchange for the passbooks for the Sophomores. These tickets will be issued in exchange for the passbooks during the first part of next week at the office of the Graduate Manager of Athletics in Alumni building. A day has been set on which each of the classes shall make the exchange. Mr. C. T. (Continued on page four.)

NEW FRATERNITY TO MAKE DEBUT

Local Order Granted Petition by Alpha Lambda Tau

GIVE DANCE SATURDAY

Carolina Inn Will Be the Scene of An Elaborate Affair.

This week will mark the advent of a fraternity new to the state of North Carolina. On Friday members of the Gamma Psi local order will be initiated into the national organization of Alpha Lambda Tau. The following day a similar initiation will take place at State College, the petitioning order at that institution being the local chapter of Delta Kappa Pi.

Among the University boys to be initiated into Alpha Lambda Tau Friday are found the names of students who have made big and reputable names for themselves in present and past campus activities.

Saturday, following the initiation of the State College boys in Raleigh, both chapters will journey to the Carolina Inn where arrangements have been completed for an elaborate and successful ball.

Hal Kemp's orchestra has been booked to furnish the music. This locally famous band should be at its best in the ball room of the Inn which is the proper dimensions to accentuate each note to its highest quality.

Invitations have been mailed to those who will be guests of the fraternity at the dance. The affair will be strictly formal.

Local members of the Gamma Psi chapter are: D. V. Gray, F. P. Eller, Bob Sides, J. M. Wall, X. T. Keel, S. B. Hefner, Bruce Fewell, Julian Meredith, C. B. Brooks, J. C. Taylor, C. R. Jones, R. F. Whitesides, B. W. Ginn, R. S. Williamson, J. W. Vick, and W. T. Rightsell.

PICKPOCKET AT SATURDAY'S GAME

An old man with nimble fingers was numbered among the guests of the University in attendance at the Davidson-Carolina game Saturday.

Prof. Horace Williams is reported to have lost forty-five cents as a result of the work of the thief. J. O. Harmon was too slick for the gentleman and caught him in the act of lifting his wallet, containing a large sum of money, from his hip pocket. The pickpocket made off through the crowd when Mr. Harmon challenged him.

LIBRARIANS HOLD BIENNIAL MEETING

University to Entertain Visitors With Banquet Tonight.

TAR HEEL HARRIERS OUTCLASS DUKE TEAM

Entire Squad Shows Up Good and Gives Promise of Another Successful Season.

Carolina's cross country team vanquished the strong aggregation from Duke in a three mile run held here Tuesday afternoon, the Tar Heel runners winning three first places and making the low tally of 25 points while the visitors count totaled 32. The victory is a significant one as Duke had previously defeated Washington and Lee by a substantial margin.

Elliott, Pritchett, and Daniels were the three Carolina men who led the field and upon whom the credit for the victory falls. The first two were stars on last year's freshman team while Daniels was a member of the varsity squad last season. All three showed the results of hard training and displayed perfect form, running the three miles in an even fifteen minutes. The entire squad looked good, however, and their running gives great promise of another highly successful season.

The men participating in the meet in the order they came in are as follows: Elliott, Pritchett, and Daniels, all of Carolina; Mabry, Duke; Hodge, Duke; Tuttle, Duke; Henderson, Carolina; Holt, Duke; Ervin, Duke; Hester, Duke; Kale, Duke; Thorpe, Carolina; and Reagan, Carolina.

THE CAROLINA PLAYMAKERS THEATRE

The Carolina Playmakers Theatre has been remodeled from the old Law Building during the past year. Though small, it is by far the most modernly equipped theatre in the state for the production of folk plays. The Playmakers will make their initial appearance in it on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights of the coming week. It will be dedicated at that time.

Carolina To Play State On Nov. 30

By virtue of the decision of the N. C. State College athletic council in acceptance of the University's offer Tuesday night, Carolina will meet the West Raleigh college in their annual football game here October 30, 1926, and will play them at Raleigh October 29, 1927.

The announcement of this decision of acceptance of the offer of the University has terminated a controversy of nearly two months duration. Just before the State game this year, October 15, State officials expressed the desire of playing Carolina later in the season, giving the reason that the early date gave them insufficient time to prepare for the major contest. However, Carolina was unable to offer any dates in November because of her games with V. M. L. Davidson and Virginia, but State steadily maintained that they would have to have a November date, much to the chagrin of the University officials.

Prof. Hobbs, chairman of the University Athletic committee, had forwarded the State officials another telegram renewing the offer of the dates of October 15, 23, and 30, a short while before the State officials accepted the date of October 30. State in giving the University this date, cancelled their game with V. P. I., but they hope to arrange another date with that institution.

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN WILL MEET TONIGHT

There will be a meeting of the Deutsche Verein tonight at 7 o'clock in the Parish House of the Chapel of the Cross. All members and others who are interested in German are urged to be present.

Dr. Brown will speak on "A Walking Trip Through the Harz Mountains." Dr. Brown is an excellent speaker and is thoroughly competent to handle his subject in the most interesting and instructive manner.

After the talk by Dr. Brown, there will be singing of German songs and practice of German games and discourse.

Dedication Exercises of Theatre Building Monday

Dedication performance of the Carolina Playmakers theatre building will be held November 23-26, inclusive. This dedication is a source of pride to every North Carolinian, since North Carolina is the only state in the Union having a theatre building as a home of native drama.

The dedication exercises will be held Monday night, at which time a bronze tablet, marking the dedication, will be placed in the lobby of the theatre. The exercises will be made as brief as possible and the speakers of the evening, Professor Koch and President Chase, are planning to talk for a very short while only.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the University band, Mr. McCorkle, director, on Monday and Tuesday nights and by the Chapel Hill Boys' Orchestra, Leonard A. Sides, Director, on Wednesday and Thursday nights. The three new plays which were selected for the performance will be presented each night, beginning Monday and running through Thursday. Out of the Past is a romance of University life on the eve of the outbreak of the Civil War, by Frances Gray. The scene of this play is laid on the portico of Smith Hall, which is now the theatre building. The University dances were formerly held in this building; the last were held in 1861 on the night that Sumter was fired upon. Quatre Medicine is a new play by Paul Greene and one of the best things he has ever done. The play is a comedy concerning a country doctor. Yon Side o' Sunk Creek is a mountain play by Martha Boswell, of Brevard, N. C.

NEW DIRECTORY OUT AND IS DISTRIBUTED

New Complete Directory Replaces Temporary One—Is Considered One of Best Ever Published Here.

The new directory is out. Copies arrived at the "Y" office about 9:30 o'clock Thursday night and by 12 members of the Freshman Friendship Council had distributed them over the campus to all dormitory rooms and to some of the fraternity houses.

This directory is considered to be one of the best ever published, in that it is in a more complete and correct form than ever before. Last year it was a directory of students and faculty members only but this year it includes the entire clerical force also. That is, it includes all secretarial, clerical, and other office staffs not listed under administrative officers. The subject taught, home address, office address, office phone, and home phone of each faculty member and officer of the administration is given. Besides the name and initials of each student and his room address, his home town, county in which the town is located, church denomination, and class are also given. A city directory of the residents of Chapel Hill is also included.

It is a very attractive directory, being bound in a substantial cover and on heavy paper. The publication and organization of the book was under the auspices of the "Y". It would have been out more than a week ago if the printers had been able to get to work on the job right away; nevertheless, it was put in the hands of the students about ten days earlier this year than last. All were distributed free, a copy going to every room in every dormitory, to every office on the campus, every fraternity house, in town, every home in town, every business house and office, and to every individual who has special need for it and who calls for it. Any person who needs one can obtain it by calling at the "Y" office. However, the number of copies is limited and it is urged that each student keep up with his copy and not lose it because he may not be able to obtain another later on in the year when he wants it.

Directory cards were filled out by all students when they registered at the beginning of the present quarter. From these cards a directory was soon made up and only a few days after classes began they could be found at the entrance of each dormitory and had been placed in every office on the Hill. These directories were published for immediate use.

BROOKS SPEAKS ON RURAL MIND

Address Made to N. C. Club At Quarterly Smoker.

EMPHASIZES ISOLATION

Narrowness Is the Bane of Country Life, Says Speaker.

The regular quarterly smoker given by the North Carolina club was held Monday night in 112 Saunders Hall. The speaker for the evening was Lee M. Brooks, a graduate student and a resident of Chapel Hill who read a paper discussing the rural mind. The subject of his thesis was "The Rural Mind—Is It a Myth?" A large number of members attended the smoker which is given free by the club each quarter.

Mr. Brooks said that man is born an individual, he lives an individual, and he dies an individual. The rural mind in the exact scientific sense does not exist but that there has been and still lingers a rural attitude of mind born and bred in the open spaces; and beneficently it has breathed into our national life a wholesome fragrance which we associate with rocks and rills, woods and templed hills. He read several quotations which point out the existence of a rural mind conditioned by the place and type of activity and by the quality and quantity of human contacts which prevail. He noted that those writers did not claim for the farmer a difference in kind, but a difference in degree or intensity of mental expression. The curiosity of the city man is the same stuff, the same quality as that of the farmer, but the weave of the fabric is different, the environment inducing a specialized expression of curiosity in each case.

Quoting the speaker in regard to characteristics of environment, the following conclusions are developed:

"The outstanding characteristic of the rural environment has been its isolation. This has been the bane of the country life and the condition which has fostered the traditional narrow point of view, a poor capacity for co-operation, and resultant dissatisfaction. Probably the worst effect of isolation is fear, which operates freely in rural life and which is the underlying reason for much of the farmer's reluctance to yield to progressive measures. The important element of play, especially team play, has been significantly absent in rural regions. On the other hand, self-reliance, certain kinds of initiative, a family loyalty, a democratic spirit, a helpful generosity, a sort of mutual aid seldom practiced in the city—all these are more or less the products of isolation." It is probably true, according to Mr. Brooks, that the unfavorable aspects of isolation far outweigh its benefits as it has affected its rural person. No one can endure isolation for very long at the time. It affects the mental state of any person enormously and carried to an extreme is a dreadful punishment of the prison code known as solitary confinement. He declared that human nature objects to isolation and consciously or unconsciously takes steps to get rid of it. He pointed out that rural folk like to visit by the roadside or in the field—they like to take note of every passer-by and to speculate about him, compensating for the solitariness of their work in various ways. They fix up and get to town, to the local fair, to the chautauqua, to church (Continued on page four)

VARIED RECITALS GIVEN BY PROFESSOR JONES

Director of Music At St. Mary's Presents Diversified Program At Chapel of Cross Sunday.

Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock an organ recital was given at the Chapel of the Cross by William H. Jones, A. A. G. O., who is director of music at St. Mary's School in Raleigh. This recital proved equally enjoyable as the one presented a few weeks ago by Mr. Kelly of the University English department. Mr. Jones program was short but comprehensive, choosing as it did examples of work from widely varying parts of the musical field.

The opening number was Sonata in D minor, by Rheinberg. With the melodious appeal common to all the compositions of this artist of structure the sonata reverberated through the silent chapel. Running irregularly through it was a plaintive minor strain that only served to enhance the almost visible beauty of the central theme. From the swift, semi-discordant rush of the characteristic Agitato to the inspiring resonance of the Cantilena the difficult sonata was rendered with faultless precision, perfect valuation being given to the key notes and important passages. Melodie in E, by Rachmaninoff, was typical of what this most remarkable of contemporary composers accomplishes (Continued on page four)

VAN DOREN WILL LECTURE FRIDAY

Concert by Glee Club Is Added Attraction.

SPEAKS ON NEW YOUTH

Prominent Speaker Is Also Teacher, Editor, and Author.

In addition to Dr. Carl Van Doren's lecture in Gerrard Hall, Friday night, the University Glee Club, just returned from a successful eastern tour, has been secured for a twenty minutes concert immediately preceding the lecturer. It has been announced. The Glee Club, concert will begin at 8:30 o'clock under the direction of Prof. John Paul Weaver with two sections of their repertoire used on the eastern North Carolina tour.

Dr. Van Doren, internationally famous as a writer, teacher, and editor, will follow the musical club with his address on "The Pioneers and the New Youth." The eminent professor comes as a University lecturer, so that no admission will be charged for the combined concert and address.

The topic selected by Van Doren for his lecture here promises much in the way of entertainment and is expected to shed new light on a subject which has had a great deal of publicity in recent years. His discussion of the modern age with its restless movements noticeable among American youth is expected to trace this restlessness and "modernness" back to the pioneer American spirit. He will show the origin of the modern unrest and how it is a natural outgrowth of our past.

With Dr. Van Doren teaching and editing have only been a means of livelihood, for he is primarily interested in writing and lecturing. He is the author of "The Life of Thomas Love Peacock," the translator of Hebel's "Judith" and editor of the widely known "Cambridge History of American Literature." His latest work is a selection of short essays, sketches and reviews called "The Roving Critic." He has contributed to the Atlantic Monthly, and at the present time is writing a series of monthly studies of American contemporaries for the Century magazine of which he is the literary editor.

Glenn Frank, editor of Century magazine, who delivered the commencement address to the University of North Carolina graduates last spring, has this to say in recommending the lecturer: "Dr. Van Doren has one of the most interesting minds I have known. He indulges in none of the stock tricks of the orator, but he is one of the most engaging talkers I (Continued on page four)

VIRGINIA DEFEATS RANDOLPH MACON

Cavaliers Run Away With Opposition, 41-0.

PREPARING FOR CAROLINA

Daffodils Played Three Quarters Of Tuesday's Game.

The University of Virginia defeated the Randolph Macon team in Charlottesville Tuesday by a score of 41-0. The Virginia regulars, who defeated V. P. I. last Saturday 10-0, played only one quarter of the game.

Randolph Macon was scheduled to have played the Charlottesville team on October 31, but the contest was called off on account of the field being covered with snow. The game Tuesday was the last home game for Virginia and the final one before the Virginians meet Carolina here Thanksgiving.

The Cavalier scrubs, called "Daffodils", at Virginia, started the game. The Varsity went into action in the second quarter but the scrubs returned to the game at the beginning of the second half. A fifty yard pass, Holland to Friedburg, gave Virginia her third touchdown and was the feature of the game.

TRY-OUTS FOR DEBATE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

The try-outs for the affirmatives of the Mary D. Wright debate will be held tomorrow night, Friday, at 7:30 in the Phi Hall and the Di will hold its preliminaries Monday night at 7:30 in the Di Hall.

The query for the debate as chosen by the Di is "Resolved, That the Immigration Law of 1924 should be so amended as to allow Japanese to come in on the same basis as other nationalities." The Phi Assembly, which had the choice of sides, will uphold the affirmative, and will have their try-outs to pick two men for their affirmative team Friday night at 7:30.

The Di Senate will defend the negative and will hold their preliminaries Monday night at 7:30.
