

TAR HEELS AND CAVALIERS CLASH THIS AFTERNOON

Scribe Gives Fetzterites Slight Edge Over Invading Nealmen

LARGEST CROWD IN HISTORY TO WITNESS AFFAIR

Five and Possibly Six Tar Heels Will End Brilliant Football Careers in Annual Classic.

CAVALIERS WON LAST YEAR
Old Dominion Team Has Won Nineteen and Tied Two of the Last Twenty-Nine Games.

Today at 2 o'clock a shrill whistle will sound to send 22 well trained men at each other's throats in a struggle that promises to be one of the battles of the century. For four quarters, one hour actual playing time, eleven men wearing the Blue and White of Carolina will bend every effort toward the utter annihilation of eleven other men carrying the Orange and Blue of the Old Dominion.

For two months thoughts of this game have sent over a hundred men in the two enemy camps into two or more hours of grilling practice daily in preparation for this one game. Although the season has been interspersed for both teams with other games, sometimes resulting in victory, and sometimes in defeat, the one idea has been "beat Virginia" or "on to Carolina" as the case may have been.

Today all that pent-up spirit that has carried those scrapping Tar Heels and Cavaliers through the two months of hard work under a burning sun or in a sea of mud and grime will be let loose in one glorious hour of modern football. While 20,000 grid fans watch from the packed stands of Emerson Field the Universities of North Carolina and Virginia will renew their ancient rivalry on the gridiron.

Tar Heels Stack Up With Edge
On the verge of the battle the pre-game edge, if such there be, leans toward the camp of the Tar Heels; but what is edge when a determined and well trained team in the enemy camp says "They shall not win"? After all, when two ancient rivals meet the records of the two teams had as well be cast into the discard. It is the old fighting spirit that will carry the winning team to victory, with training and ability counting their share in the sum total that is told in the score.

The Tar Heels have the edge on the basis of comparative scores. Virginia won from Maryland 6 to 0 without Captain Carter Dickey in the line-up. Carolina won from the Old Liners by the count of 16 to 0 with six of the first and second string backs on the hospital list. V. M. I. lost to Virginia 18 to 10, Carolina clipped the wings of the Flying Squadron 23 to 11.

The Tar Heels also lead the Cavaliers in average weight of the team, of the line, and of the backfield, and as the two teams enter the battle the Tar Heels are in better physical condition than are the invaders. The Carolina team averages 173 compared to the 167 average of the

SOUTHERN CHAMPIONSHIP
Will Be In Stands Today Pulling For Another Carolina Victory.

With all eyes turned this afternoon toward Emerson Field and the annual Carolina-Virginia tilt to take place there it is interesting to hark back with some of the old grads and reminiscence over games of the past. Probably one of the most interesting and outstanding of these former clashes was that between the ancient rivals in Richmond in 1898 when, for the second time in history, Virginia went down in defeat to the Tar Heels to the score of 6 to 2.

The scene of the encounters was not shifted to the home grounds of the two participants until after the war and that year, as was the case many times, Richmond secured the game. One of the Virginia dailies of that date, in its write-up of the game the next day comments upon the "dense multitude" which was present, for such a drawing card was the game even in those days

GEORGE SPARROW
George Sparrow, Tar Heel quarterback, who will general the Carolina outfit for the last time today. Sparrow is one of the two remaining members of that famous '22 team. He has been one of the outstanding backfield men in the state ever since his first year on the squad.

EMMETT UNDERWOOD
In Emmett Underwood, University of North Carolina halfback, the Tar Heels have a triple-threat man of no small ability. Underwood is playing his final year on the Tar Heel varsity, but it was only this fall that he found himself. His kicking, running and passing are now features of the Tar Heel offense.

CHASE SPEAKS AT THEATRE OPENING

President Praises Koch and His Cohorts for Achievements.

PHOTOGRAPHS EXHIBITED
Add Artistic Touch to Lounge Room—Taken by Mrs. Moulton.

There were several interesting features connected with the recent Playmakers dedication performance in addition to the introductory speech by Professor Koch. President Chase came upon the stage with the Playmakers mentor and followed his talk with a short address of his own. He said: "Through the joint action of the Carnegie Corporation and the University, this building has been made available as a permanent home for the Carolina Playmakers. That it will be worthily used by the extraordinary achievement of the Playmakers during the years gives every assurance. We therefore dedicate it tonight in the confidence that it may make possible about our common life a little more of the stuff that dreams are made of; that its existence here shall mean a little less monotony, a little more glamor about our days; that the horizons of imagination shall by its presence here be enlarged so that we shall come more steadily to see the place of beauty and of its hand-maiden, art, in a civilization not too much given to its encouragement. To such purposes this building, the first permanent provision for any of the fine arts at the University

PLAYERS RENDER MEDIOCRE BILL FOR DEDICATION

Initial Performance in New Theatre Proves Disappointment.

QUARE MEDICINE IS BEST
Claudius Mintz Plays Excellent Role As Old Man Jernigan in This Play.

By THE GREEN ROOM

Monday night the Playmakers Theatre was dedicated with a program of three native works of art amid due pomp and ceremony. Somehow the reviewer was struck by the resemblance which the whole affair bore to a funeral. The University orchestra opened with slow music; Professor Koch and President Chase made solemn, complimentary orations; then that piece de resistance of all funerals, the corpse, was brought on in three parts. In this case it was the poor bleeding corpse of Art at Carolina. The trio of amateurish efforts offered Monday night proved that even such a highly tooted organization as the Playmakers can do little with practically worthless material. Out of the Past was simply dull and lifeless, Yon Side o' Sunk Creek was an abortive attempt at high tragedy, and Quare Medicine was crude slapstick. Now for a more detailed account.

The only feeling aroused by Out of the Past was a feeling of pity for the actors who were forced to go through with the thing. Impossible lines were not enhanced by equally impossible direction. It seems to be a local stage tradition that all Southern people of the period preceding the war stalked haughtily about mouthing high-flown sentiments and fiery anathemas against the "damned Yankees" which were couched in terms of ridiculous pomposity. Evidently Miss Gray was not one to see tradition abused. The whole cast, even to a luckless wight representing a college sophomore, was burdened with speeches which took all prizes for stupid and meaningless bombast. As an exam-

WAY TO SPEAK AT SPECIAL SERVICE

This Morning in the Chapel of The Cross.

REV. WAY WIDELY KNOWN
One of Strongest Men in the Episcopal Church.

The Rev. William Way, D.D., rector of the Grace Episcopal church, Charleston, S. C., will speak at the special Thanksgiving service to be held in the Chapel of the Cross this morning at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Way is looked upon far and wide as one of the strongest men in the Episcopal church and is one of the most widely known. He has been rector of the Grace church for the past twenty-one years. Under his ministry the church has prospered and showed unusual growth. He is a native of North Carolina, having been born in 1854.

CHAPEL HILLIANS ASKED TO LEAVE CARS AT HOME

Will Aid Greatly in Solving Traffic Problem Due to Large Number of Cars on Hill.

Residents of Chapel Hill are urged to leave their cars at home on Thanksgiving Day. Postal cards have recently been mailed out by the Thanksgiving Day traffic committee to the various Chapel Hillians strongly recommending that they do this.

It will take anyone going to the game in an automobile, that is, if he lives in Chapel Hill, much longer to get home than if he should walk. This is a known fact, and anyone attending the game in previous years in a car has certainly found it to be the case. Two years ago, for instance, one citizen drove to the game, parked in the middle of the campus, and was one hour and forty-five minutes getting home after the game. The absence of home cars will help greatly, moreover, as every square foot of space available in town and on the campus will be needed for parking out-of-town cars.

A number of freshmen have been selected to help in controlling traffic, and each will be given a side-line seat during the game. One man will be stationed

HERMAN McIVER
Captain Herman McIver, with Sparrow, one of the members of that 1922 team that still wears Carolina colors. He made his debut that fall as a tackle, but for the past three seasons he has held down the pivot berth for the Fetzterites in stellar fashion. He is practically assured of All-State honors this year.

ZETA PSI CHAMPS IN TAG FOOTBALL

Defeat "F" to Win University Championship.

GAME IS HARD FOUGHT
The Fraternity Champs Win by The Aerial Route.

In one of the fastest and hardest fought games ever seen on an Intramural field, the team representing the Zeta Psi fraternity defeated "F" by the score of 14-0 Tuesday afternoon, thereby winning the University tag football championship and with it the beautiful silver loving cup.

The weather was exceedingly cold but this did not put a damper on the spirits of the two teams. They both battled up and down the chalked arena for forty minutes like Trojans and a large part of the playing was of a sensational nature.

The game opened with "F" kicking to Zeta Psi. On the first play, Barber attempted a forward pass which was intercepted by "F". The Zeta Psi team held like a stone wall and Brandl was forced to punt, the pigskin rolling over the goal line. The Fraternity champions took the oval on the 20-yard line, and Barber's pass was intercepted by Brandl. Captain Simpson passed to Walters for a first down. The Zeta Psi line was again almost impregnable and Simpson attempted to punt, but his kick was blocked, "F" recovering. The fraternity team again held and another "F" punt was blocked, Zeta Psi recovering this time. "Red" Barber shot a pass to Rouse for a first down. The sorrel-topped lad again passed to Wilson for another first down. The third consecutive first down was registered when a pass from Barber to N. Johnston was completed. The dormitory line then braced and the ball went over to them on downs. Simpson attempted a pass which was intercepted by Nash Johnston. Barber then shot a long pass to H. Johnston for the first touchdown of the contest. Captain Barber added the extra point by a successful drop-kick. The first half ended without any more scoring.

The final period began with Zeta Psi kicking off to Simpson. Barber intercepted a pass and then tossed one to Nash for a gain of 35 yards. The final touchdown of the game was registered when N. Johnston received a pass from Barber behind the goal. Barber's drop-kick was again successful. Toy kicked off to Humphries and on the first play Barber intercepted a pass. The fraternity team failed to gain and Barber was forced to punt. On the first play, Brandl kicked to Barber who ran the ball back for a distance of 25 yards. Barber shot a beautiful pass to Toy for a gain of 30 yards. Barber passed over the goal and "F" received the oval on the 20-yard line. Barber, seeming to

BEGAN IN 1892 Yale-Harvard Setto Begon Few Years Earlier.

NOTABLES WILL LEND POMP
Freshmen Friendship Council Will Act As Guides, Check Parcels, and Maintain Information Bureaus.

Never before in the history of the Carolina-Virginia series has such a crowd gathered to view the classic as is expected to fill the streets, the dormitories, and the nooks and corners of the campus today. Fully 20,000 football fans will pack the stands and bleachers of Emerson Field this afternoon, with the vanguard drifting to their seats long before the time for the game.

Many notables will be numbered in this gathering, including Governor and Mrs. McLean, of North Carolina; Governor and Mrs. E. Lee Trinkle, of Virginia; President and Mrs. Chase, of the University, and other high officials of state. A special box will be roped off and reserved for these notables, and these seats will be held from the rush of the rest of the crowd.

Less fortunate than these will be the people who buy the tickets for standing room and rush seats at the gate. More than 14,000 tickets had been sold up to Tuesday night, with orders pouring into the graduate manager's office every hour, and casualties may result in the scramble for the best points to view the battle. Arrangements for Handling the Crowd

With a crowd of 20,000 in town for the game historic Chapel Hill will face problems in traffic management and government such as never bothered the officials of the town and University before. A special force of police has been arranged for the day, with a number of men drafted from the police forces of Greensboro, Raleigh and Durham. Special parking space for the large number of cars has been marked off and will be properly arranged so as to make it easy as possible for the owners to get their cars out of the jam and get started away immediately after the game.

The Freshman Friendship Council, which rendered such valuable service two years ago, will again assist in handling the crowds, acting as guides, maintaining an information bureau and a check-room for parcels. A rest room for the ladies will be kept open all day in the Law building under competent supervision, and provisions for meals will be made at the numerous eating places in town. Swain Hall will serve dinner to the regular boarders early in order to cater to the out of town visitors later in the day.

Tradition Renders the Occasion of Great Importance

The long history of the Carolina-Virginia rivalry lends an air of tradition to the game that does not attribute to the importance of any other contest on the Tar Heel schedule. Only one old rivalry in the country has a longer history than that between the Tar Heels and Cavaliers, which was begun in 1892. The Yale-Harvard annual gridiron dispute began several years earlier.

Twenty-nine times over a period of 33 years the two Universities have met

BIG PEP MEETING HERE LAST NIGHT

Pickwick Delays Show For Big Gathering.

PRESIDENT CHASE TALKS

Short Talks Also by Fetzter, Henderson, Coates, and Reeves.

One of the biggest pep meetings ever pulled off on the University campus was held last night from 6:30 to 7:15 preparatory to the game today. Cheering was the best ever and indications are that the spirit today will equal, if not surpass, that at any of the Carolina-Virginia games in the past.

President Chase in a short talk told of the history of games played by the Carolina football team in past years. Coach Bob Fetzter emphasized the importance of clean sportsmanship and the necessity of cheering was spoken of by "Scrubby" Reeves. Dr. Archibald Henderson and Albert Coates were others who appeared on the program. Hal Kemp's orchestra played several pieces during the first part of the meeting and the University orchestra furnished the music for the songs that were practiced and which are to be sung today at the
