THE BOOK OF CHARM COMING IN DECEMBER

The Book of Charm will be presented here by the Playlikers of N. C. C. W., Saturday, December 5. This production which the girls will present is a new play on the New York stage this season. The Playlikers are well remembered in their production of Fashion last year, a play which was very well attended and much enjoyed. The N. C. C. W. Players' production of The Book of Charm in Greensboro was praised highly. This play is much better than the one which the girls gave last year, and a good attendance is anticipated.

BOOKS ON SPORTS CAN BE HAD AT LIBRARY

An Assortment of Volumes on Athletics Now Obtainable for Students Interested in Matters of Sport.

The Library has a very good selection of books on the various branches of athletics. These books are written by authorities on each sport, and contain some very helpful and valuable information. Athletes or aspirants to athletic success can obtain some very beneficial points on their sports if they will resort to these books.

The collection contains the following books on football:

American Football, by Charles D. Daly. This book tells all about how to play the game and contains many diagrams by the author. It gives interesting portraits also of prominent players and coaches.

Football and How to Watch It, by the late Percy D. Haughton, of Harvard and later Columbia.

Line Man's Bible, by Ernest Graves, major in the U. S. Army, now retired. The author is a native North Carolinian. He coached at West Point and also at Harvard. This is a football textbook of detailed instruction.

Football Without a Coach, by the late Walter Camp, secretary of the football rules committee.

There are several books on basketball in the collection. Among these is the following:

Basketball, by Wardlaw, instructor in athletics at Columbia University, and Morrison, professor of hygiene and physical education at the University of Cincinnati.

The books on tennis are as follows:

Singles and Doubles, by William T. Tilden, world champion. This book gives some very valuable sidelights on how to play tennis. It relates to the part which tennis plays in the life of the average American who follows the game either as a player or onlooker.

The Common Sense of Tennis, by William T. Tilden.

There are the following books on baseball:

My Thirty Years in Baseball, by John J. McGraw.

Baseball Notes, by Elmer Berry. This book is for coaches and players. It treats every phase of baseball in a simple, direct, and comprehensive manner. Exact knowledge of any particular phase of this sport can be obtained from this book.

There is also a book on golf entitled Golf, which is a collection of articles on this sport taken from The Times.

YES BY GOSH DATE HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Date Changed from Thursday of This Week to Monday of Next Week, December 7.

The presentation of "Yes by Gosh," set for Thursday night of this week, has been postponed until Monday night, December 7, it was announced yesterday by Bill Vaught, composer and director of the musical comedy.

Rehearsals are being held daily now and everything will be in readiness for the offering Monday night. New scenery has been added to the settings and one entire new set of costumes added to the four sets used last year.

Two features of this year's presentation are the appearance of Hal Kemp's orchestra with five extra men to play for the musical comedy and Norman Cordon of Winston-Salem, who will take the stage while the scenery is being changed and relieve the former monotony of this period of time.

The Circle (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

Adapted from a play by W. Somerset Maugham, "The Circle," a picture offering a dramatic and unusual story, is listed to be shown at the Pickwick theatre today. It deals with the temptation of a young wife, mistress of Castle Cheney, to run away with one Luton. Formerly, her husband's mother eloped. Elizabeth invites the old runaway pair on a visit. They come and odd complications ensue. Elizabeth at times is inclined to carry out her scheme, again, in doubt, she resolves to be true to her husband.

An all-star cast is headed by Eleanor Boardman and Malcolm McGregor.

MUSICAL CLUB HOLDS TRY-OUTS TONIGHT

Try-outs for the Tar Heel's and Mandolin-Guitar club are being held today, it has been announced by Alex Mendenhall, director of the two musical clubs.

The orchestra try-outs will be held at 5:00 o'clock this afternoon in New West building, and the Mandolin-Guitar try-outs at 7:00 o'clock in the same place. All men who can play musical instruments are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to make a University musical club.

A seven day trip to Western North Carolina is already formulated for the winter quarter, and plans are being made for a trip to Virginia in the Spring term. Both of the clubs have just returned from a tour of some of the principal cities of the piedmont section of the state, and report a successful series of performances.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY OPENED BY TAR HEEL

Harold Seburn, business manager of the Tar Heel announced yesterday that an Employment agency for the benefit of University students desiring spare-time work and vacation jobs has been opened.

Formerly the requests for full and spare time work were handled through the office of Dean of students but it seems that the rush of more directly important matters caused the neglecting of these opportunities to be neglected. It is the intention of the new bureau to find employment of some sort for every worthy and conscientious student who wishes to help pay his college expenses by doing some outside work.

Mr. Seburn is already in receipt of a number of requests for local representatives from very reliable business houses, and will be able to place a good number of men who apply promptly. There are several opportunities for work before and during the Christmas holidays and it is necessary that these opportunities be handled at once if the maximum profit is to be derived from them.

The Employment Agency fills a long felt need in the University. Every year numerous boys are forced to drop out of school on account of inadequate finances to continue. This new service is expected to provide a means whereby worthy students can be aided by giving them the choice of flattering opportunities. The Y. M. C. A. Self-Help bureau and the officials of the University are combined in their support of this new service, which under the able direction of Mr. Seburn should develop into one of the best and most appreciated services offered by the University. All students who desire employment are urged to see Mr. Seburn at the Tar Heel office as soon as possible.

CHEMISTRY 61 AND 62 BE GIVEN THIS YEAR

The Chemistry department has announced that two courses of much interest to chemistry students will be given this year. Chemistry 61, a course in organic chemistry, will be given in the winter quarter of this year. Chemistry 62, also a course in organic chemistry, will be given in the spring quarter. Thus, these two courses will be given in the same academic year, a thing which has not been done heretofore.

These two courses in chemistry have not been given during the same academic year in the past on account of the crowded laboratory facilities. There was not then enough laboratory space for students in both courses, but now,

GEOLOGY CLUB HEARS INTERESTING PAPERS

Clark and Miller Discuss Important Geological Factors—Prouty Will Be Speaker at Next Meeting.

Two important papers of much scientific interest were read at the meeting of the Geology Club in No. 1 New East building last Saturday morning at 8:30. C. Miller spoke on the subject of "The Uses of the Silverman Illuminator in the Study of Opaque Minerals in Polished Sections." Ivan Clark discussed the "Geographic Divisions of Michigan."

Mr. Miller pointed out the advantages of oblique light given by the illuminator over the old vertical types. These advantages are: (1) observation of the true color of the minerals, (2) differentiation of the gangue minerals from the ore minerals, (3) disclosure of cleavage, etching, internal structure, and the presence of minerals below the surface of the section, (4) indication of the relative hardness of the mineral by the relief emphasized by the oblique light, (5) illumination of cavities, (6) observation of micro-chemical reactions. The possibilities of the use of the illuminator in the study of sediments, soil minerals, and clay minerals, and also its use with polarized light in the study of petrographic work were discussed.

Mr. Clark gave the geographic divisions of Michigan as six: fruit growing, farming, industries, waste land, mining, and truck farming. In discussing the great lakes transportation, Mr. Clark said that the Soo canal at Sault Ste. Marie had a larger tonnage by 70,000,000 than any other canal in the world.

The leading industries were discussed, and transportation facilities within the state were mentioned. The next meeting of the Geology Club will be held December 12. The major paper will be presented by Dr. Prouty and a minor paper by Mr. Seiwel. All who are interested in geology are urged to attend.

due to enlarged and improved facilities of the new chemistry building, these two courses will both be given during this academic year for the first time. Notices of this have been sent to the various deans in order that they may inform students of chemistry that it will now be possible for them to take these courses.
