CAROLINA CAGERS DEFEAT WOFFORD

Hackney and Cobb Prove Too Fast for Terriers.

FINAL SCORE IS 41 TO 23

Both Teams Display Excellent Early Season Form.

The University's basketball aggregation met and vanquished a tenacious Terrier in Wofford College last night by a 41-23 count, and the campus went cheerfully homeward without the satisfaction of a doubled score. For the first intercollegiate game of the season "was closer than the score would indicate," and though the phantoms flitted fast enough at times, the Terriers could bark, and were leashed only by the point-gathering ability of Cobb and Hackney.

Sides fused Carolina's pyrotechnics with a personal free throw at the start, but Shuler, Wofford center, shot a Carmichael from the sidelines. Habel aided his teammates with a foul goal, and for the first time this season Carolina trailed an opponent, 3-1. Hackney and Cobb had soon warmed up sufficiently to dislike the dust, and they contributed a field goal apiece to present Carolina with the maintained lead. Rip Major's wards did not seriously threaten the white ghosts' position from then on, but they were able to give the on-lookers anxiety that was lessened only by the stellar recoveries of Devin and Dodderer. The timer's gun for the half marked a 22-13 score.

Hackney proved his ability in the first division of the contest by tying Cobb with eight caged points. Shuler outshone both—he got away with 11—but Major's men ignored "Spriddle" in the next half, and Cobb was able to run off with high score honors with a total of 19.

The Shuler-Habel dust seemed especially harmonious, for it garnered 22 of Wofford's 23 points.

Newcomb relieved Hackney near the contest's close, and Captain Dodderer was forced out by personal fouls, to be relieved by Barber. Close guarding and aggressive play caused considerable personal and technical fouling that marred the continuity of the game.

An appreciated band also made its bow to the 1925 season, and its music matched well the champions' brighter play.

Line-up and summary:

Walter Crissman To Give Customary Inaugural Address—New Officers To Take Places.

Featuring the program of the regular meeting of the Di Senate tonight at 7:00 o'clock will be the customary inaugural address by the incoming president for this quarter, Walter Crissman. Other officers who were elected at the last meeting of the fall quarter and who will take up their duties also tonight for the first time are Julius Busby, vice-president, M. I. Moguise, clerk, D. T. Mill, sergeant at arms, and F. G. Gilreath, assistant treasurer.

It is the usual custom every quarter that the incoming president make a speech, prepared and written out beforehand. Crissman was scheduled to address the body last Saturday, but due to the fact that he had been unable to return to school on account of illness in his family, the time for the inaugural was postponed until tonight.

President for the last quarter was Taylor Bledsoe. The treasurer, J. H. Williams, who was elected at the beginning of the fall quarter, will serve again this quarter and, in fact, the whole year as is always the case.

New men will be voted on and a short discussion will take place on a topic not yet announced. The time and place for meeting to take the Yackety Yack pictures will be decided. The meeting will be over in time tonight for those present to get to the basketball game at 8:30.

LATHAN TALKS AT PRESS GATHERING

Says Southern Newspapers Are Not Competently Managed.

FACE BETTER CHANGES Pleads for More Able and Better Paid Editors in South.

"The newspapers of the South are not competently managed to meet the swift changes that have taken place during the last decade," asserted Robert Lathan, editor of the News and Courier, of Charleston, S. C., in an address here Thursday morning before the State Newspaper Institute.

"Ten years ago most of the questions which we had to handle were of long standing, and we were all reasonably familiar with them," he declared. "Today we do not even know the facts of the problems upon whose solution so much depends."

"We are still groping our way in meeting the innumerable new questions which are arising before us in manners and morals and economics and taxation and development and government. How are we equipped to offer leadership in dealing with these matters? Are the newspapers of the South competently managed for the extraordinary work ahead of them in these extraordinary times?"

"All of us here present know that they are not, and here amongst ourselves it may be well for our souls, well for our newspapers, well certainly for (Continued on page four)

BAGBY SPEAKS TO SCIENTIFIC GROUP

Discusses Aviation Accidents Relative to Physical Conditions.

285th MEETING OF CLUB

Professor Janda Talks On "Reinforcement of Concrete Pavements."

Last Tuesday night at 7:30 the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society rendered the program of its 285th meeting in Phillips Hall auditorium. After the routine business two very interesting papers were delivered to an attentive audience.

Dr. Bagby in his paper on "Physiological Effects of Low Oxygen Tension with Relation to Aviators," stated that soon after our entrance into the recent war it was noticed that there were many accidents among our aviators because of the high altitudes at which they flew. Since it was known that there was not enough oxygen in the air to sustain life at a very high altitude and that only a part of the aviators were equipped physiologically to remain alive at a moderate altitude, such as 22,000 feet, a test was devised by which it was possible to determine those individuals best fitted for high flying. Dr. Bagby explained how the perfectly arranged apparatus served to test the efficiency with which the individual manipulated the levers, which were very like the "controls" of an aeroplane, at different altitudes. He continued that this was the only test by which American aviators could be classed for different altitudes. He concluded by saying that the best record was made by a man 52 years old, apparently frail, and of small lung capacity, who attained the height of 34,000 feet. Dr. Bagby's younger brother attained the height of 31,000 feet. Many college athletes made a poor showing.

This was immediately followed by Professor Janda's paper on "Reinforcement of Concrete Pavements." His paper in part follows:

"C. A. Hogentogler was recently employed by the Highway Research Board, National Research Council, to make a fact-finding survey on the value of reinforcement in concrete pavement. Reinforced concrete is plain concrete containing steel rods or wires. Mesh wire (Continued on page four)

TAR HEELS MEET QUAKERS TONIGHT

Dodderer's Men Show Good Early Season Form.

THIRD STRAIGHT GAME

The Guilford Team Will Furnish Stiff Opposition.

The Guilford Quakers come to the "Hill" tonight to furnish opposition for the Tar Heels in their fourth home game this week. The Quakers always put up a good scrap in basketball no matter how bad they may be beaten, and the Guilford court squad is rarely ever beaten by too large a score. Their football may not be so fast, but the ghosts of the Frazier brothers gallop with the basketball team when it takes the court and lends their fighting spirit and skill to the Quaker tossers.

The Tar Heels licked the Guilford squad last year by a triple score, but they do not face them tonight with any feeling of overconfidence due to last year's victory. Captain Dodderer's men will be playing their third game on straight nights and with their early season training that is a hard assignment. Two victories over the Durham "Y" and a couple of wins in collegiate games is the record which the Tar Heels carry into tonight's battle.

Jack Cobb in this week's games has shown his old unerring eye for the basket that has made him high scorer of two successive Southern Tournaments. He was high scorer in each game and played the floor with the ease and speed that used to characterize the work of Cart Carmichael and "Monk" McDonald. Zann Hackney, playing his first season as a regular, has been performing in sensational style and is proving a star. Captain Dodderer, Devin and Sides have been holding up their end of the argument and will probably start in their regular positions tonight.

FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL TO PUBLISH BOOKLET

At the first meeting of the Freshman Friendship Council this quarter, it was pointed out that a record in attendance and work accomplished had been made in the fall quarter. The council expects to continue the same good work and progress but with a larger number of members and even better attendance than last fall.

Plans are being worked out by the council for getting out a small publication which will be sent to the various HI-Y clubs in the state and which will contain information concerning the work that the council, the University "Y," and different HI-Y clubs are accomplishing. Thereby, a point of contact will be brought about between the HI-Y clubs and the University "Y" and between the HI-Y clubs themselves. In this way students coming to the University will be (Continued on page four)

ROBT. W. MADRY SPEAKS BEFORE NEWSPAPER INSTITUTE THURSDAY

Reasons for Publishing Recent Suppression of University Dances Explained and Policy of University Toward Publishing Good and Bad News Upheld—Function of a University News Bureau Described.

"Any educational institution that adopts a policy of non-censorship of news is certain to get unfavorable publicity now and then, but, if the institution is making real progress, the favorable publicity will, in the long run, more than offset the unfavorable kind," declared Robert W. Madry, director of the University News Bureau, addressing the State Newspaper Institute at the opening session here Thursday morning.

"It is this policy of frankness with the people of the state that has won public confidence for the University," Mr. Madry asserted. "The tax-paying public, as well as the press, has come to know that it will get all the news about Chapel Hill, whether that news be good or bad."

"There is one point that I cannot too strongly emphasize. That is that the University administration exercises no censorship over the news that goes out of Chapel Hill. During the three years that I have been in charge of correspondence here I have not heard of any newspaper man accusing the University of suppressing news. I take no credit for this fact. It is simply a part of a very definite University policy."

WM. FETZER QUILTS COACHING GAME

Closes Successful Career on Coaching Staff of University.

TURN TO REAL ESTATE

Successor Not Yet Chosen for Coach Bill's Position.

William McK. Fetzer, "Coach Bill," Assistant Director of Athletics at the University for the past several years, resigned his position Thursday, January 14, to enter the more lucrative real estate business at Brevard, N. C. Coach Bill's five-year contract lacked two years of expiration, but the officials of the University placed no obstacles to his desired resignation.

Coach Bill and his brother, R. A. Fetzer, Director of Athletics, have placed teams representing the University on an unusually high basis of sportsmanship and winning ability. After graduation from Davidson College, where he played both football and baseball, Coach Bill played professional ball for a while. Later he returned to his alma mater and was head coach of major sports for several years. In 1921 Coach Bill became football mentor at North Carolina State College and that year produced a championship team. In 1922 he became chief athletic director at the University, but later, having outside interests, he became an assistant to his brother. Under the successful tutelage of the Fetzer brothers the University has copped several state and southern championship titles. For the last two years the University's basketball team has annexed the Southern Championship title; in 1922 the institution's football team fought its way to the Southern championship; last year's track team was rated as the best south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Coach Bill recently disposed of his boy's summer camp, near Brevard, at a profit of $85,000, and being advised of the coming Florida-like boom in the mountains of North Carolina, decided to embark on a business career in that section. So far a successor for Mr. Fetzer has not been decided upon. Scores of well recommended, promising candidates have offered their services to the officials of the University. Well known athletic figures from North, South, East and West are anxious to have a chance to prove their ability as coach here. The University has such a reputation for athletic prowess that numerous famous mentors are eager to increase with their methods the strength of the University teams. Every likely candidate for the assistant directorship, however, is being given serious consideration by the administration board, and in a few days Coach Bill's successor will be announced.

The committee charged with the selection of a new coach is made up of General Albert Cox, Dr. Charles S. Mangum, Graduate Manager of Athletics Charles T. Woollen; A. W. Hobbs and R. D. W. Connor of the faculty athletic committee, Robert A. Fetzer, and President H. W. Chase.

PARTS ASSIGNED AT PLAYMAKER TRY-OUTS

Players Selected Monday for Parts in Frank Craven's Comedy, The First Year.

Last Monday night try-outs for the coming production, The First Year, were held in the Playmakers Theatre and all of the parts save one were assigned. The try-out committee, composed of A. S. Lawrence, Anne Majette Grant, Dr. Krumpelmann, Professor Koch, George Deany and P. L. Elmore, selected the following actors for the various roles: C. T. Hawkins as Mr. Livingston, Margaret Ellis as Mrs. Livingston, J. C. King and W. H. Lindley as Dr. Anderson, Tom Rollins, Jr. as Dick Loring, J. W. Harden and J. C. King as Mr. Barstow, Harold G. Gabriel as Thomas Tucker, Miriam Sauls as Mrs. Barstow and Thelma Moody as Hattie Barstow. One part, that of Grace Livingston, has not yet been assigned.

Frank Craven's comedy of modern American life, The First Year, is the first play by a professional playwright to be presented in the new Theatre Building. The Playmakers wished first to present their usual repertoire of plays in their own building. It has been the policy of the Playmakers to present, besides their own original Carolina plays, plays of special significance by professional playwrights. Among the plays of this type which have been presented in the past are: The Importance of Being Earnest, by Oscar Wilde, Suppressed Desires, by Susan Glaspell and George Cram Cooke, How He Lied to Her Husband, by Bernard Shaw, Seventeen, by Booth Tarkington, The Torch-Bearers, by George Kelly, Prunella, by Housman and Barker, and The Poor Little Rich Girl, by Eleanor Gates.

Although original Carolina plays will be staged to a greater extent than any other type, at least one other play of the same type as The First Year will be presented this year.

BISHOP DARST TO DELIVER SERMON

To Be In Gerrard Hall Sunday Night At 7:30.

IS AN EPISCOPAL LEADER

Noted Bishop Is Active In Leading Civic Affairs.

The monthly University sermon will be delivered Sunday night, January 17th in Gerrard Hall by Reverend Thomas C. Darst, D. D., Bishop of Eastern North Carolina. Bishop Darst will speak that morning at the Chapel of the Cross.

Bishop Darst needs no introductions to many people of Chapel Hill. Since several years ago he performed the same service that he is going to render Sunday evening. At this time he was especially liked and any who heard him then will be glad to have this opportunity to again hear the famous Episcopalian. A few years ago the Bishop spoke at Chapel, and his service has been well remembered by all of the students who heard him.

Dr. Darst graduated from the Episcopal seminary at Alexandria, Va., an institution which has since then conferred on him his doctor's degree. He is a Virginian but he has been engaged in his church work in North Carolina for the last eleven years. Since then he has become well known all over the state, and today he is considered as one of the leaders of the Episcopal Church of North Carolina.

Bishop Darst is nationally known as a clear and forceful speaker. He is especially interested in the general forward movement of the church along the lines of Evangelism. As a special preacher and speaker on that subject, he has visited practically all of the larger cities in the Eastern United States, at one time serving in St. Johns Cathedral in New York City. Not only is Bishop Darst known in his capacity as a preacher and bishop, but he is also well known for active part that he takes in the civic life of his community. Especially is this true in Wilmington where he now lives. He is extremely well known in the leading civic affairs of Eastern North Carolina.

Any students who wish to see or meet (Continued on page four)

PRESS CONCLAVE CAME TO A CLOSE HERE YESTERDAY

Session Held Here Declared Highly Successful.

PROGRAM WELL FILLED

Delegates Hear Speeches From Many Noted Men.

The Newspaper Institute conducted here this week by the North Carolina Press Association in conjunction with the Extension Division, the department of Journalism, and the News Bureau of the University closed a highly successful session yesterday. The registration for the meeting passed the one hundred mark, and in the opinion of old newspaper men in attendance was one of the greatest meetings in point of attendance and work accomplished that the Press Association has ever held.

A program well filled with speakers of note both in state newspapers and in national affairs made the sessions both highly enjoyable and of much practical value to the delegates. The convention heard three excellent speeches from "Ole" Buck, field manager of the Nebraska Press Association besides numerous other men of note in their respective fields.

The six problems which confronted the newspaper men and which were given careful attention on the part of the speakers are first the problem of ethics; second, editorial policy; third, business management; fourth, advertising; fifth, special problems of the country weeklies and last the question of propaganda and free publicity.

All sessions of the association were held at the Carolina Inn except for a campus tour conducted Thursday afternoon and a visit to the Playmakers building where Paul Green's play "Quare Medecine" was presented for the visiting newspaper folk. J. W. Atkins of Gastonia is president of the State Press Association and Miss Beatrice Cobb is secretary. To those two people goes much credit for arranging and carrying out the meeting in such a successful manner.

At all times during the meet Miss Cobb could be seen flitting from place to place helping the visitors to get arranged comfortably and maintaining a spirit of much joviality on the part of the visitors. Much credit is due also to Chester D. Snell of the extension division, Gerald W. Johnson of the school of Journalism and Robert Madry of the Press Bureau of the University for these people had all the machinery of the meeting well oiled when the crowd arrived, so that all the visitors had to do was to enjoy themselves and incidentally pick up valuable bits of information and sage counsel from the speakers on the program.

The climax of the meeting was reached Thursday evening with a banquet given at the Carolina Inn. Music for this was furnished by the University Orchestra and the Carolina Glee Club also added merriment to the affair. Inspiring addresses were heard from Dr. Douglass S. Freeman, editor of the News-Leader, Richmond, Virginia and Professor Frank (Continued on page four)

The Intra-Mural Basketball league will start functioning Monday afternoon in the Tin Can at 3:30. The schedule has not yet been completed but it will be in final shape before the initial contest. Dormitory honors were carried away last year by Steele, while Kappa Alpha copped the fraternity title.

An elaborate system of procedure has been worked out by the Intra-Mural office. The league is to last for seven and one-half weeks, ending on March 9th, each team for intensive practice. Games in this way ample time will be given each team for intensive practice. Games will be played at 3:30 and 4:30 every day except Saturday and Sunday.
