come into my hands when it had come so near to the melting pot.

"This was shown to some of the professors at the Southwestern Presbyterian University of this city, and Dr. Shaw who had also attended the University of North Carolina sent a notice of the same to the Charlotte Observer hoping to get further evidence to establish its connection with the University.

"I shall endeavor to gain some information regarding the manner in which it came into the hands of the junk dealer and trace its history as far as possible.

"I have always felt my indebtedness to the foresight and wisdom of the pioneers who laid the foundation of our great University and wish it God speed through the years to come and ever-increasing usefulness to the state and nation."

Remarks of A. B. Andrews

In presenting the plate to the University, Grand Master Andrews spoke as follows:

"One hundred and twenty-three years ago the cornerstone of the first building of the University of North Carolina was laid by a comparatively small number of men. Deprived of early educational advantages, practically all of them had been, largely, if not entirely, educated in the school of the seven-years war of American Independence. Their leader was General William R. Davie, fortunately for him and for the state, a graduate of Princeton College. That was a time when 'young men dreamed dreams and old men saw visions.' The young men dreamed dreams of an institution that to the youth of following generations would furnish an education, the opportunity for which they had been denied. The old men saw the vision of the usefulness of such an institution to the state and nation, how it would elevate its people, and benefit and brighten their lives.

"Just as today the most striking outward observance of this anniversary is the academic profession, so was the profession at that time. There were no faculty or students to compose an academic procession, but instead the Grand Lodge of Masons of North Carolina, led by its Grand Master, William R. Davie (one of the trustees of the University, and a commissioner to locate its site) publicly assembled under a large poplar tree, and marched in procession, after which the cornerstone of Old East building was laid with Masonic ceremonies in the northeast corner. A letter of General Davie's, describing the occurrences of that day, written scarcely two weeks afterward, contains the statement that William Richardson Davie, as Grand Master of the Masonic Fraternity, assisted by two masters of lodges and four other officers, in the presence of a large number of brethren of the Masonic order from Hillsborough, Chatham, Granville, and Warren Counties, laid the cornerstone 'enclosing a plate to commemorate the transaction.'

"In the dark days of the University, 1863 to 1875, the cornerstone was despoiled and its contents removed, it is conjectured, by Union soldiers.

"The small brass plate before me contains this inscription in English:

The Right Worshipful William Richardson Davie Grand Master of the Most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free Masons, in the State of North Carolina, One of the Trustees of the University of the Said State,

And a Commissioner of the Same Assisted by The Other Commissioners, and the Brethren of the Eagle and Independence Lodges, On the 12th Day of October In the Year of Masonry 5793 And in the Eighteenth Year of American Independence Laid the Cornerstone Of This Edifice.

R. Huntington, Sculp.

"On the other side is the same inscription in Latin.

"As a member of the class of 1893, graduated one hundred years after the event University Day commemorates, and as present Grand Master of Masons of North Carolina, filling that position which was so adorned and dignified as well as ably occupied, by Grand Master William Richardson Davie, Soldier, Member of the Convention that framed the Constitution of the United States, Governor and Patron of this University, who laid its cornerstone one hundred and twenty-three years ago today, it is my high privilege and sincere pleasure, President Graham, to return this plate to your keeping for the great University of North Carolina, whose property it is, and in whose safe keeping and custody we trust it may hereafter ever remain."

President Graham has sent to T. B. Foust a set of Dr. Battle's History of the University, inscribed as follows:

"To T. B. Foust, '03:

"In grateful acknowledgement of his fine and thoughtful loyalty, that restored to his Alma Mater the plate commemorating the laying of the cornerstone on October twelfth, 1793.

"This October twelfth, 1916." Signed by Dr. K. P. Battle, ex-president; A. B. Andrews, Grand Master; Edward K. Graham, president.

The restored plate is now on display at the University Library.

SPANISH ORGANIZATION BECOMES ACTIVE AGAIN

other night equalled that at any time in the past history of the Club and if the intense zeal manifested continues at subsequent meetings the revived organization promises to be one of the most active on the campus.

During recent years Prof. M. B. Adams has been the advisor. Two years ago a debate similar to the one planned again this year was held at Davidson between teams consisting of three men on each, one team from the Spanish club at Davidson and one from the club here. All speeches were delivered together in Spanish. The University came out victorious. An exceedingly large crowd attended the debate, many making the trip from Charlotte, especially many high school pupils.

The University has been very fortunate in having a large number of Spanish speaking students enrolled. These students have in the past added much to the occasion of the meetings. Moreover, students from Duke have from time to time have been invited to the meetings of the Club. This policy is expected to be continued in the future.

some city in the United States, where it will face the winner of an American meet. This international contest will be held immediately after the American winner has been declared. Thus one night's program will see two types of competition, national and international. Following this contest, the visiting foreign organization will visit different sections of the country as guests of all the American clubs who competed for national honors.

It is easily seen from this review of the Corporation's plans that Mrs. Pickernelle's visit to the Hill is one of much importance.

years if the study be in an office. The University now has a standard three-year course, but the majority of the students take only two years of the work before applying for license to practice.

Dean Ferson also recommends that "at least 20,000 be expended to bring our library up to a par with the libraries of other law schools that are otherwise in about our class.

"Increased usefulness of the Law Review, under the editorial direction of Prof. R. H. Wettach, and of the law clubs, under the direction of Prof. Albert Coates, is recorded in the report.

and he met the formidable difficulties of the brilliant bravura with skill."

New York Times (Richard Aldrich): "Mr. MacMillen gave a highly creditable performance. It was dignified, thoughtful and brilliant."

New York Evening Globe (Pitts Sanborn): "Mr. MacMillen played with abundant energy and excellent technique. He won hearty commendation."

Music-lovers of the community will be offered a treat of unusual quality when Francis MacMillen, the famous violinist, gives a concert in Memorial Hall, Monday evening at eight-thirty.

Tickets were placed on sale at Sutton & Alderman's drug store Friday morning. From the advance sale of seats, it is evident that this concert will draw an unusually large attendance.

TAR HEELS LOSE TO WAKE FOREST

could not overcome.

With two minutes to play and Wake Forest leading by six points, Cobb and Sides started the final spurt that fell short by one point. James was trying a foul shot as the final pistol shot sounded to end the hectic scramble. Jack Cobb led the Carolina attack from the floor and played a great court game throughout the contest, while Dodderer, Neiman and Devin starred on the defense. Dodderer leaped high time after time to break up a Baptist passing attack, and despite his injured side he played one of the best games he has shown this year.

Line-up and summary:

Table with 2 columns: Carolina (28) and Wake Forest (29). Rows list players and their positions: Neiman (Ellington), Cobb (James), Dodderer (C.), Devin (Ober (C.)), Hackney (Vickers).

Substitutes: Sides for Neiman. Referee: Steiner (Syracuse). Timer: Card (Duke).

Next Tuesday, the 26th, the Wake County Alumni Association will meet in Raleigh. President Chase is to be the chief guest and speaker. The present officers are A. J. Barwick, president, and R. B. House, secretary.

FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL WILL PUBLISH PAPER

News About Work of the "Y" and Council Here Will Be Sent to Hi-Y Clubs Throughout the State.

At the combined smoker and business meeting of the Freshman Friendship Council Tuesday night Walter Spearman was elected editor and J. W. Norwood business manager of the bi-monthly newspaper, that the council plans to begin publishing in a short while for distribution to the various Hi-Y clubs of the state.

The meeting was presided over by John Anderson, vice-president, in the absence of Bob Harper, president of the council. After a short business meeting in which the discussion of the new publication and the election of its staff were the principal things taken up, one of the usual monthly smokers was held, a string duct composed of M. B. Madison and P. A. S. Mendenhall furnishing several selections which proved to be especially entertaining to the group. Refreshments in the form of hot chocolate, cakes, apples, and cigarettes were served.

A dummy of the proposed publication was shown to the council and discussed in detail by Joe Bobbitt, chairman of the committee in charge of working up plans for the paper. It will be a four-page folder and will contain news about the work of the "Y" and council here and will present facts of interest concerning the work of Hi-Y clubs in North Carolina. Thereby, a point of contact will be established between the University "Y" and the Hi-Y clubs and between the Hi-Y clubs themselves to whom it is to be sent.

Walter Spearman, editor of the paper, was editor of the Charlotte High School annual last year. It might also be mentioned that he received a prize while in high school as winner of the State High School Latin Contest and that it was the same man who received the highest grade in the intelligence test given to all the freshmen by the psychology department last fall. He has, moreover, been very active as a member of the council.

CHIEF FEATHERSTONE REPORTS ACTIVITIES

Semi-Annual Report Shows That Very Active Work Is Done by Local Police Force.

In his semi-annual report on the number of prohibition breakers and the enumeration of boot-legger's materials captured for the months of June-December, inclusive, Chief Featherstone, of the local protective force, gives the following information:

During the six months period 59 raids were made for liquor violators—an average of two a week—which netted the confiscation of 11 complete stills, 107 fermenters, i. e., barrels, boxes, kegs, hogsheads, etc., were emptied of their contents and destroyed. 11,800 gallons of beer and quasi-beer were destroyed; and 136 gallons of whiskey, much of it poisonous, was poured into the sewers. Fourteen bags of malt were confiscated. Forty bags of meal were captured, sold, and the returns given to the county school treasurer. Six automobiles were captured—two Buicks, one Flint, one Dodge, and two Fords; some of them were turned over to the mortgage holders and those remaining were sold, as is provided for in the statutes. Eight arrests and convictions resulted from the raids; five dealers or manufacturers died or evaded capture; four of the operators were acquitted by the courts.

The registration for the winter quarter has reached the total of 2,388. The figures are as yet incomplete.

ute rally that nearly took the lead away from the Deacons.

The Duke game tonight will be an opportunity to come back strong, and the Tar Heels are facing the West Durham crew with a determination to wipe out Wednesday's defeat with an overwhelming victory. Coach Sandburn may start the regular five against the Duke outfit, though Barber or Morris may get a chance in the place of the newly-wed Hackney, who dropped off in his playing against the Deacons.

as follows: Hackney and Satterfield, of Durham, and Covington, of Waynesville, forwards; Watkins, of Charlotte, center; Oakley of Roxboro, Foad of Charlotte, who was captain of the Tar Baby football team last fall, and Gray, from Woodberry Forest, guards.

The following men are the outstanding players on the "Outlaw" squad: Cathey, of Candler, and Ingram, of High Point, forwards; Marginoff, of Charlotte, S. C., center, and Shuler, of Salisbury, Holland of Smithfield, and Finlator, of Winston-Salem, guards.

ONSLOW COUNTY CLUB TO PUBLISH BULLETIN

A quarterly bulletin, giving prominence to Onslow county history, together with matters of present day concern, will be published if plans of club members from that county now in the University can be materialized. The scheme was discussed and agreed upon last Friday evening at the first meeting of the club for the new year, and it is hoped to get the first issue of the publication to the press on or about April 1 of this year.

The members have not been able to perfect all of the details of the plan thus far; but it is believed that the effort can be made successful. Onslow has made considerable progress in recent years, being one of the counties struck hardest by the good roads mania. These recent events as well as the early history of the people, largely unwritten, will be touched upon from time to time as opportunity allows. The club members believe that in doing this they would render a great service to themselves and the home folks. The editorial staff will be Walter Harrell, '26, editor-in-chief; Horatio Bullock, '28, and Stacy Grant, '28, associate editors; and John Rufus Owens, '29, business manager.

At the Friday evening meeting the club went on record as being in favor of closer relationships between the organization and the high school boys of the county. At least a part of the latter will be urged to attend the annual Christmas banquet, held in Jacksonville in which the students from the University participate in collaboration with the alumni of the county.

New officers to serve the club during the remainder of this school year were elected at the last meeting. These are: John Rufus Owens, president; H. L. Barbes, vice-president; and Howard M. Starling, secretary-treasurer.

PLAYS ARE SELECTED AT AUTHOR'S HEARING

A good crowd attended the Author's reading of new plays in the Playmakers Theatre Tuesday night, when the play-committee selected from five or six recently written plays the following for production on March 11 and 12: The New Moon, by Telfair Peet; Clay, by D. R. Hodgins, and A Carolina Pierrot, by W. J. MacMillan. The Marvelous Romance of Wen-Chun-Chin was accepted for later production. The committee, which made the selection was composed of Professor Frank Graham, Doctor George Taylor, Professor John Paul Waver, Doctor A. S. Lawrence, Mrs. Dan Grant and Mrs. George How.

A call for candidates for winter football practice has been issued. Practice started Thursday afternoon. It is urged that a large quota of men present themselves at the stadium to train under the personal supervision of Coach Bob Fetzer.

BIRDS-EYE VIEW OF THE SPORT WORLD

By L. N. Bryan

North Carolina's sport world has been replete with happenings since Christmas holidays. Two coaches have abdicated from their erstwhile thrones, two of the Tar Heel athletes have fallen before the arrows of Dan Cupid, and the unexpected has indeed happened when a Tar Heel basketball team fell before the onslaughts of a team from within the bounds of the state.

The latest scandal in the North Carolina sport circles is only hinted at through the columns of our favorite newspapers. No paper comes out fair and square and states the causes of Tank Garrity's resignation from the coaching assignment at Wake Forest. Even the students of the Baptist college themselves do not know what unpardonable sin the former Princeton and All-American halfback has done to bring down upon his head the censure of the good Baptist brethren who direct the destinies of the Wake Forest athletics. All the Baptist students realize is that they are losing the only coach they ever had and that their athletic fortunes for the future look about as bright as the prospects of Napoleon on St. Helena.

With Bill Fetzer on the voluntary retired list, it looks like the breach of relations at Wake Forest is the working of Fate to give Carolina the chance of her life-time to rake off a real ace. Whatever be Hank Garrity's dire offenses, he is a great football and baseball mentor, and the crying need here on the "Hill" is for one of that species of the genus homo. It is a question now whether the University, under censure already, can afford to risk more criticism by signing the erstwhile Baptist mentor.

Events of the past two weeks would lend evidence to the support of the theory that Carolina athletes are particularly susceptible to the charms of the opposite sex and the arrows of the God of Love. First Andy Bell wrecks a perfectly good National Championship Four Mile Relay Team by hopping off for a life journey on the Seas of Matrimony, and now Bunn Hackney lends the basketball team an air of romance by weighing anchor and setting sail in pursuit of Bell, who is also a fraternity brother of Hackney.

Results do not show that romance and basketball go well together either, for the newly-wed groom and his teammates proceeded to celebrate the wedding by losing the only game lost in the state in more than four years. Nobody wants the blame, so let's blame it on romance.

That one point defeat was a heart-breaker for all Carolina men who saw the game, and more especially so when it is known that the Tar Heels are potentially a fifteen point better team than their conquerors. After seeing the Baptists toy gymnasium this writer would cast all of his votes toward a proposition that no college should meet Wake Forest on her home court until they build a court to play on. Perhaps then some patriotic Baptist alumni would loosen his purse-strings and present his Alma Mater with a real place to play the winter sport.

On second thought it might be a paying proposition to the other colleges of the state, from the standpoint of games won and lost, for all of them to club up and present Wake Forest with a gymnasium. We need one ourselves; but, being of a charitable mind, we believe in helping those who are in greater need than we.

Jack McDowell, State's temperamental football and basketball star, pulled a Frank Merriwell finish last Monday night when he tossed the goal that gave State a one point win over Duke. The timer had already pressed the trigger of the timing pistol when the lanky Tech guard took a chance from the middle of the court and made it good. And incidentally State has the best team they have had on the court in five or six years, and they will give any team trouble. Watch them at the tournament.

Duke tonight! Let's get 'em flying Phantoms!

LATIN CONTEST TO BE HELD FEBRUARY 24TH

High Schools Will Compete Under the Auspices of Extension Division and Latin Department.

The second annual Latin contest will be held on February 24. The contest is being held under the auspices of the Extension Division and the Latin Department of the University. Rules and regulations of the contest have been mailed to all of the accredited high schools of the state, with an invitation to join.

By means of the contest it is hoped to aid in stimulating interest in the study of Latin in the high schools. No special preparation is necessary on the part of the students for entrance to the contest. The contest is arranged to test the student's knowledge of Latin in the simplest and most direct way: by translation and grammar questions. To secure complete impartiality in estimating the papers submitted, the faculty members of the Latin department of the University will act as the judges of the papers sent in to Chapel Hill. Members of the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes of the high schools will be allowed to enter. Each school is to select its three best papers for final submission to the judges at the University. A trophy cup will be awarded to the high school whose student submits the best paper, and honorable mention will be given to several other students. Any schools who wish to enter the contest are asked to notify the committee at Chapel Hill by February 18th. The contest was won last year by Walter Spearman, of Charlotte High School.
