

WHITE PHANTOMS TURN BACK OLD GOLD AND BLACK

Tar Heels Shake the Baptist
Hoodoo and Wallop Wake
Foresters, 32-22.

COBB IS HIGH SCORER

Carolina Fails to Show Scintillating
Play Before Large Crowd in Tin Can Tuesday Night.

A record crowd packed and jammed every inch of space around the Tin Can court Tuesday night to see the Tar Heels dig up their war hatchets and take the warpath in search of sweet revenge, a search that was amply rewarded when the scoring combination of Cobb, Neiman and Hackney literally buried the basketball houpefuls of Wake Forest under a last minute scoring rally and won by the count of 32 to 22.

A hint of foreboding swept through the crowd of old men in the stands when the Flying Phantoms took the court wearing the blue jerseys, for the impression still sticks that the dark shirts carry a certain hoodoo for the basketball chances of Carolina. The memory of the South Carolina and Washington and Lee games of last year still remains, both of those games being lost while the Tar Heels cavorted in their dark jerseys. However the Hillians knew no such superstition and proceeded to hand the old hoodoo a wallop while giving Wake Forest the walloping.

The contest got away to a slow start in the opening minutes, with both fives showing some ragged work. The baskets seemed to have a certain ability to repel the ball rather than attract it, and shot after shot caromed onto the hoop and rolled off to almost breaking the heart of the players and crowd. The Tar Heels could not get started, passing with slippery fingers and shooting with heartbreaking results, and the Demon Deacons jumped to the fore with a double score at 10 and 5, but as the game progressed the Carolinians recovered their equilibrium and swept the Baptists off their feet with an invincible attack in the closing minutes of play.

JOHNSON LAUDED BY MISS LEWIS

News and Observer Columnist
Lavishes Praise On Journalism Professor.

WILL BE MISSED IN N. C.

Announcement of Resignation of Prof.
Gerald W. Johnson Made
Recently.

Gerald W. Johnson is an unfailing well of satire, courage, and eloquence, and the state will sorely miss him," states Miss Nell Battle Lewis, Raleigh News and Observer columnist, in the Sunday issue of that daily, in which Miss Lewis praised in definite and panegyric terms Prof. Johnson, whose resignation from the University faculty to take effect at the end of the present scholastic year was recently announced in the state dailies.

Commenting upon the resignation, Miss Lewis states, "He will become an editorial writer on the Baltimore Evening Sun. That is bad news, but by no means unexpected. Nobody can blame him for leaving. North Carolina does not offer any considerable future for a writer of his unusual gift."

It is generally understood that Mr. Johnson will go with the Baltimore paper at the close of the scholastic year, altho he has neither denied or confirmed the announcement of his resignation published in the state dailies last week. It is thought that he is keeping with custom, and that his resignation will be announced at commencement, as is customary. Prof. Johnson came to the University to establish the School of Journalism from the editorial staff of the Greensboro Daily News two years ago. His loss from the faculty and the campus will be great. No announcement has been made as to who his probable successor will be.

Miss Lewis thinks that North Carolina lost most of Gerald Johnson two years ago when "he retired from active newspaper work and started teaching." However, she trust that he has "inspired divers of youths and maidens", but she is a little doubtful of the value of journalism schools, for she has never had

"CHUCK" COLLINS TO COACH HERE

End on Notre Dame's Famous 1924 Team.

AID FETZER AND LOWE

Not Selected for Permanent Job—
Coaching Winter Football Squad.

It has been definitely announced that "Chuck" Collins, end on the famous Notre Dame "Four Horseman" team of 1924, has been secured by University authorities to aid the coaching staff with winter foot-ball practice and will be on hand today to undertake his new duties at once. The selection of a permanent coach has been postponed until a future date not made known at the present time and officials declare that the coming of Collins has nothing to do with the matter.

Nothing need be said of Knute Rockne's wonderful eleven, which won the National Championship of the United States and is conceded to have been the most formidable foot-ball aggregation of modern times, for every follower of the gridiron is familiar with its history. Carolina supporters are enthusiastic and consider it indeed fortunate that one of its members has been secured as an addition to the coaching staff, even though only temporarily, for he should prove a valuable asset in the training of the Tar Heel gridmen. His arrival gives added impetus to the winter training period and should result in candidates to swell the already fairly large number out.

Collins comes as a man of unquestioned experience and ability, both as player and a coach, having been associated with

DAILY GIVING BRIEF COURSE IN USE OF LAW BOOKS

A brief course in the use of law books is being given in the law school this week by R. A. Daly, special lecturer in law schools, of the West Publishing Co. It is announced through the dean's office.

Mr. Daly, who represents the largest law publishers in the world, began his lectures this morning with a summary account of the evolution and development of law book publishing in this country and the thought behind the different systems. The remainder of the week will be taken up in laboratory instruction with books in the hands of the students.

FACULTY OF N. C. C. W. URGE CHASE TO REMAIN

Expressing the hope that Dr. Chase would not leave the state to take over the presidency of the University of Oregon, which has been offered him, the faculty of the North Carolina College for Women at a meeting Tuesday passed a resolution declaring that if President Chase should leave the University it would mean a great loss to the state and endorsed him as the friend of toleration and freedom in North Carolina. Dr. Foust, president of the Greensboro "sister institution," was present and aided in the passing of the resolution, and pledging him support in his stand for educational and moral progress at the University and in the state. Dr. Foust wired President Chase, who is now in the West, of the action taken.

Chief Justice W. P. Stacy, of the North Carolina Supreme Court was the principal speaker at the meeting of the fourth district of the North Carolina Bankers association here last Saturday afternoon. Justice Stacy discussed the place of the banker in the community, emphasizing the responsibility peculiar to his position.

"The moral conception and perception of the people with whom you deal is your greatest asset, not the dollars that lie in your vaults. Whether he realizes it at the time or not, you are doing a man a great favor when you refuse to honor his overdrawn account," the chief justice declared, "for you are teaching him principles of honesty and integrity that he will carry with him to the end."

The meeting which convened at the Carolina Inn was one of the most largely attended meetings that this district has ever held. Over 150 bankers, representing ninety-five banks of Chatham, Durham, Granville, Harnett, Johnston, Orange, Person, Vance, Wake and Warren, attended the meeting. Gilbert T. Stephenson, of Raleigh, vice president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, presided over the sessions. At the close of the meeting he retired in favor of M. E. Hogan, cashier of the Bank of Chapel Hill. Alfred Haynes, of the Commercial National Bank of Raleigh, was elected secretary for this district.

Gilbert T. Stephenson was recommended as member of the executive committee of the North Carolina Bankers association.

Washington and Lee is reputed to have one or the best freshman teams in the entire South. They have defeated all comers and not one this season have they tasted of defeat. However, the Carolina frosh certainly did throw a scare into their camp and the Little Generals had to put forth their utmost efforts in order to emerge victorious.

After playing the V. M. I. Rats and Woodberry Forest, the Tar Babies will return to their own stamping grounds and begin preparation for the three remaining games on the schedule. Next Monday night, Coach "Ikey" Taylor will bring his Duke Red Devils over to the "Hill" for a little setto with Coach Shepherd's men. This will be the first time this season that these two teams have met, and the contest promises to be a very interesting one. On the following Friday, Captain Satterfield will lead his men against Captain Frank Goodwin's State freshman team in an effort to avenge the defeat that was administered to them during the earlier part of the season. The team now is an altogether different one from that which opposed the Cuhs in the former encounter. Coach Shepherd has been drilling his men hard and the quint has shown remarkable improvement and is now capable of holding its own against any first year team in the state. Then on the next night the Tar Babies will close their present season with a game with the Duke frosh in Durham.

The Tar Heel grapplers are scheduled to clash with the formidable Duke aggregation in the Tin Can Friday night, in a meet that will decide the championship of the State and bids fair to be the most exciting and hard-fought encounter of the year. Both the Tar Heel and Duke mat-men have been going strong this season and neither are anticipating defeat when the fur begins to fly down in the "Can" to-morrow night.

Duke comes to the "hill" with a team of veterans that have annexed every state title since the beginning of wrestling as an intercollegiate sport in North Carolina, and the Southern title one season as well. The sport is a comparatively new one for Carolina as not until this year have the Tar Heels had a paid coach. Quinlan has proven equal to the emergency, however, and out of a practically green squad he has formed

GLEE CLUB WILL GO TO PINEHURST

Sing This Evening at Popular
Resort and Winston-Salem
Tomorrow.

CONCERT HERE TUESDAY

Tickets on Sale Here for Only Appearance of Season.

The Glee Club will give two concerts this week, after which the next appearance will be here next Tuesday evening.

This afternoon the men will leave by bus for Pinehurst, where they are engaged to sing at the Carolina Theatre this evening. The popularity of the club there was established last year when a concert was given at the resort. The singers will return from Pinehurst tonight and be in readiness tomorrow for a journey to Winston-Salem, where a program will be presented at Salem College. In the concert of tonight, T. Smith McCorkle, University violinist, will be the soloist.

The Winston-Salem engagement will employ the services of this soloist and of Mr. William T. Breach, baritone, who is well known throughout the state for his concerts.

On next Tuesday the Club will sing in Chapel Hill for the first and only time this year. The success and popularity of the organization demands that those wishing seats for this performance telephone Mr. Weaver at his office or prepare to make reservations when the seats go on sale Saturday morning at Sutton and Alderman's Drug Store. Prices for this concert will be one dollar each, admission price lower than that will be asked for the out of town appearances.

The concert tours of the Club call for trips for North. Although a definite schedule has not yet been announced for the whole trip, Ernest Young, business manager, has secured several important engagements which will be published shortly. No University organization has ever attempted a schedule so

ONLY ONE MORE

GAME AT HOME

The Tar Heels will meet Davidson in the Tin Can next Tuesday in the last game of the season. The Washington and Lee game which was pending for the local floor will not be played.

Besides playing N. C. State in Raleigh tonight, the White Phantoms will meet Duke in Durham Saturday night. The Davidson game Tuesday closes the schedule season and the S. I. C. turney will begin in Atlanta on February 27.

Senior Smoker Held Tomorrow

The first Senior Class Smoker of the quarter will be held tomorrow night in Swain Hall at 9 o'clock. A full attendance of members of the class is desired.

The election of class superlatives will be held and a few business manners will be taken up. Under the blanket fee system, class dues have already been paid and the smoker will be without charge. Dr. R. D. W. Connor will make a short talk.

TAR HEELS INVADE TECH LAIR TONIGHT

Wolfpack Tossers Determined
To Win—Yelping From Last Defeat.

STATE HAS STRONG FIVE

However, They Face Quint That Dopesters Pick for Conference Laurels.

For the second time this season Tech and Tar Heel will meet on the basketball court when the Carolina tossers invade the Capital City tonight in an effort to tally their second straight win over the lads from N. C. State. The game will bring together the two leading teams in the state collegiate circles, and playing in the new Frank Thompson Memorial Gymnasium they should draw one of the largest crowds of the year.

The Techmen were met and defeated on the Tin Can court before the Hillians left for their long northern swing, the score at the end of the game standing at 31 to 21 in favor of the Tar Heel quint. Tonight the State College outfit will be defending their own home floor, and will be fighting for a victory to wipe out the remembrance of that first defeat, incidentally the only defeat suffered by the State team at the hands of a North Carolina five this year.

Although the two teams have met and been compared in action against each other the result tonight is far from a sure thing, for the Techmen that is never more dangerous than when roaming the confines of their native hearth.

In Captain Fletcher Dickens the State team has a fighting leader and one of the fastest and most accurate shooting forwards in the state. He has led his team's attack in almost every game this year, and is practically assured of a berth on the mythical All-State outfit at the close of the season next week. His value to his team is shown by the difference in the scores of the two Georgia Tech Games. The first one he was out and State lost by one point, while in the second one he shot nearly half State's points and Georgia Tech was defeated by 15 points. So Dickens will be a constant threat and will call for close work by the Tar Heels guards. Other Techmen who may get loose are Gresham, Spence and McDowell, all fine shots and fast on the floor.

To match this crew of brilliant players Coach Sanburn will send his regular team, nearly the same team that brought the Southern Championship back to the "Hill" last March. Jack Cobb will more than match Captain Dickens on point scoring, and he has a shade the better of the Tech leader on his floor game. He should lead the Carolina attack, and with Bunn Hackney and Bill Devan to assist in the drive the Tar Heels will be a hard bunch to stop. A defeat tonight will materially darken their State Championship claims and they will be fighting with more usual ferocity and drive.

The Tar Heels complete defeat handed to Wake Forest Tuesday night gives them a better rating, and they will go to Raleigh tonight as the favorites in

Dean Ferson Attends Memorial Exercise of Judge Connor

The University Law School was officially represented by Dean M. L. Ferson at the Memorial exercises held in Wilson last Friday for Judge H. G. Connor, prominent jurist and member of the North Carolina bar, who died at his Wilson home last week.

Notable lawyers from all over the state were present at the memorial exercises held by the Wilson county bar, of which Judge Connor was a member. Prominent members of the bar who spoke at the exercises included Judge Frank Daniels, Robinson and Clarkson. The deceased Judge was the father of Prof. R. D. W. Connor, of the University history department. Prof. Connor has been signally honored by this invitation to Dr. Odum and Mr. Snell to attend the meeting in Nashville.

NEW YORK STRING QUARTET SUPERB

Small Audience Hears Best
Concert of Season.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Quality of Music Enriched by Talented
Work of Artists.

The New York String Quartet gave a performance in Gerrard Hall Tuesday night to an extremely small audience. This was more than unfortunate, for no musical event of recent years has remotely approached the concert rendered by these men. The personnel of the quartet consisted of Ottokar Cadek, first violin, Jaroslav Siskovsky, second violin, Ludvik Schwab, viola, and Bedrich Vaska, cello. The term has become trite and commonplace from too frequent use, yet it is impossible to omit the statement that each of the members of the quartet was an artist in the most elevated sense of the word. They were far superior to the Ley or the Chernavsky Trio or, in fact, to any group that has been heard on the Hill. They were masters of music as well as masters of their individual instruments, and such a combination resulted in rare and unsurpassed harmony. There was no scratching, no harsh over-emphasis or weak points of interpretation—only a smooth blend of inspired sound. Tone and shading were superbly handled and the moments of sustained ensemble work were nothing short of perfection.

Smetana's E Minor Quartet, From My Life, was a thing of wonder, a true epic poem
