TAR HEELS CRUSH WILD CATS 53-18 IN CLOSING GAME

Brilliant and Fast Playing Displayed in Game Tuesday.

COBB & NEWCOMBE STAR

Devin Is Left Out of Game On Account of Recent Illness.

Practically the entire student body packed the stands around the Tin Can court Tuesday night to see the Tar Heels play their last home basketball game of the season. The Southern Champions reached the heights to pull the curtain down on their pre-tournament campaign, and as the curtain fell it brought with it a literal shower of field goals and foul baskets. Myriad points fell on the Carolina side of the ledger and buried the Wildcats from Davidson College under a 53 to 18 score.

It was a brilliant and unstoppageable game that took the court in spick and span uniforms against the Red and Black outfit, and never at any time did the visiting tossers offer any great obstacle to the whirling dervishes that left streaks of white behind as they played the floor. Dribbling and passing their way around and through the Davidson basketweavers, the Tar Heels swept down the court time after time to cage beautiful shots from all angles.

The first half was all for Carolina, but not until the final semester did the Hillians lose their greatest scoring attack. The Carolina players were all over the court in that half, and the visiting quint never knew exactly what was happening. Newcomb, Cobb, Hackney and Captain Dodderer fairly outdid themselves in their efforts to furnish the crowd with thrills.

"Sprat" Cobb was singing his "swan song" to the North Carolina college courts, and what a song that was! Cobb failed to tally his usual high total of points, but his floorwork was a pretty sight, and time after time he fed the ball to his teammates at the precise moment when they were in the best place to shoot. There was something uncanny in the way he could divine when Newcomb, Dodderer, or Hackney were in a mood to drop one through, and always he passed it with accuracy and fine timing.

There was, however, something of the ironic in the will of the Fates that ruled "Sprat" out of his farewell game on personal fouts. He marked up his last counters on a beautiful pot-shot just a few minutes before he was forced from the floor. When the last foul was made, (Continued from page four)

GLEE CLUB TRIP BEGINS THURSDAY

Will Visit Eight States While Away from Hill.

IN NATIONAL CONTEST

University Honored by Invitation to Compete—Also Make Records and Broadcast.

The University Glee Club, whose concert here this evening at 8:30 in the Playmakers Theatre will be one of the feature entertainments of the season, will leave Thursday for its winter quarter tour.

This trip will carry the men into eight states. On Thursday evening the Club will appear in Gastonia. The following evening will find the songsters at Greenville, South Carolina, where a program will be presented at Greenville's College. On Saturday evening the Club will give another concert in the Palmetto state at Converse College, Spartanburg. After this invasion of the sister Carolina the men will return to the Old North State to give a concert in Greensboro at the First Presbyterian Church. From this point the group will proceed to Washington, where two concerts will be given, one at the First Congregational Church (of which the President is a member) and another under the auspices of the alumni in the Capital. The stay in Washington will afford two days of leisure, Monday and Tuesday, during which time the men will be taken sight-seeing by North Carolinians and introduced to notables.

On Wednesday the Club will sing in Baltimore, sponsored by the alumni Association of that city. The following day, Thursday, the third of March, will see the organization in Philadelphia. In the Quaker City tests will be made for Victor records, the making of which marks a distinct triumph for the Tar (Continued on page four)

GOOD BOXING CARD IN SATURDAY'S MEET HERE

Elimination Contests for Men to Make Virginia Trip Held by Coach Rowe's Men.

The large crowd that gathered in the Tin Can Saturday night to witness the exhibition bouts, put on by Coach Rowe's charges for the purpose of determining the men to make the trip into Virginia this week, were certainly amply rewarded for their trouble. The Tar Heel men put up a series of scrappy encounters to win their places on the team, mauling each other with skill and power that spells trouble for their opponents this season, and showing marked results of the intensive training they have been undergoing in preparation for the event.

The match, as announced in Saturday's Tar Heel, was held in order to pick by elimination the men who will represent Carolina on the Virginia trip. The team leaves tonight for Charlottesville, where they will hook up with the strong University of Virginia aggregation, and from their journey on to Blacksburg to engage the V. P. I. leather pushers on Saturday night. This trip is a most important one as the outcome of the two meets is expected to have some bearing on the decision as to whether or not the monogram will be awarded for boxing. Little is known as to the strength of the V. P. I. team, but Virginia is known to be exceptionally strong. Last Thursday night the Cavaliers defeated Colgate with four regulars, including Captain Al Vorn, kept from entering the ring on account of disabilities of one sore or another and thus being forced to use the greater part of their second string fighters. They have meets scheduled with such teams as the University of Pennsylvania and Notre Dame.

The bouts Saturday night were all clean but hard fought affairs, four rounds being required in several instances to decide the winner. The squad has been working out under the supervision of Coach Crayton Rowe every afternoon since the beginning of the winter quarter, and the meet found the (Continued on page four)

MEN ARE SELECTED FOR GLEE CLUB TRIP NORTH

Club Goes to South Carolina, Then to Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, and New York.

The list of Glee Club men who have been chosen to make the trip to South Carolina and then northward to Baltimore, Washington, New York, and Philadelphia was posted Sunday morning.

At the rehearsals held every afternoon and often at night during the past few weeks, the officers have endeavored to find the group of men which would present the best possible program in the intercollegiate contest to be held in New York on March 6 at Carnegie Hall. From a number of over a hundred at the beginning of the season, the group has been diminished until a choir of thirty voices have been chosen for the trip beginning February 25 and ending March 8. Although only thirty men will make this quarter's tour, a wealth of good material furnishes the officers with a group which makes possible frequent changes in personnel. Attendance at rehearsals during the first part of this week will be required of every member who has been chosen for the trip. Any failure upon the part of a singer to meet the scholastic and disciplinary requirements will cause the temporary suspension of that man from the Club.

Lowrance, first tenor who was chosen to make the entire tour, will be unable to make the trip since he underwent an emergency operation at Statesville Sunday morning for appendicitis. The temporary loss of Lowrance, who is an old member of the organization, is deeply regretted by the whole club.

Following are the names of those men making the trip:

First tenor: Lee, MacClamrock, Maekie, Ogburn, Parsley, Vance.

Second tenor: Beard, Holshanser, Johnson, Neal, Smathers, Well, Wilkins.

First Bass: Briggs, Carroll, Curlee, Gladstone, Lauchass, MacRae, Myers, Young.

Third bass: Adams, Dowell, Foster, Laney, Lipscombe, Smith, Starr, Stevens.

There will be a meeting of the High Point Club tonight at 10 o'clock in the social room of the "Y." All members are urged to be present. Refreshments will be served.

The Matador Club will meet Sunday night in 108 Mangum.

ARNA HENI GIVES MUSICAL READING

Peer Gynt is Excellently Presented Monday Evening.

GRIEG'S MUSIC RENDERED

Small But Enthusiastic Audience Hear Famous Norwegian Actress.

Arna Heni gave an extremely interesting reading of Peer Gynt in the new Playmaker building last Monday evening before a few scattered dozens of enthusiasts. The small crowd may be accounted for by press notices having been published; there were only a few only who were lucky enough to see the handbills posted about the campus.

Miss Heni proved herself to be an accomplished actress well versed in the nuances of characterization. Her voice was beautifully adaptable; only occasionally in the role of Peer did she falter in the least. As for the women characters, she did them to perfection. As a woman her best character and her best moment came during the wild gallop of Peer's mother up to the gates of Heaven. (Continued on page four)

Students Back Of President Chase

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the student body of the University at a mass meeting held in chapel Wednesday morning and will be sent at once to President Chase.

In consideration of the recent offer of the presidency of the University of Oregon to Dr. H. W. Chase, the president of our University, the student body of the University of North Carolina in mass meeting assembled do hereby endorse the faculty resolutions sent to Dr. Chase and further with a clear sense of our indebtedness to Dr. Chase for his splendid leadership, with a sincere affection for him the man he is, with due admiration for his idealism and scholarly attainments, with full cognizance of his continued unselfish service to the University and the state of North Carolina, and believing that Dr. Chase holds a position in the intellectual life of the state of North Carolina affording a unique opportunity for further great service and attainment, do hereby resolve: That in the event of Dr. Chase giving up the presidency of this institution the intellectual growth of the state will suffer a severe setback; that we want him and the public at large to know that we, having full confidence in him as our executive and endorsing his executive policies, are most anxious to have him continue in the office which he holds here and if he remains, endeavor to afford him the fullest student co-operation in his administration of the interests of the University.

FAYETTEVILLE "Y" WINS 19 AND 18

Lads From Cape Fear Defeat University Y. M. C. A.

NORWOOD HOLLAND STARS

Robert Upton Cages Winning Point On A Free Throw.

A shot from the free throw line by R. Upton in the last minute of play was the margin of victory in the 19-18 win of the Fayetteville "Y" over the Carolina "Y" in the Tin Can Monday night. The game was one of the hardest fought and most interesting ones that has ever been witnessed on a local court.

From the start of the game until the shrill sound of Referee Sanburn's whistle had put an end to the contest, it was full of thrills and sensational playing and kept the spectators on edge throughout the entire forty minutes of playing.

Only at one time during the game did either quint have a substantial lead over the other one. This was in the second period when Norwood Holland, former All-State high school player, playing his first game for the "Y" team, rang up four beautiful field goals in rapid succession, giving the Carolina five the big end of an 18-13 score.

The game started off with a rush and for several minutes neither team was able to break into the scoring column. However, Davis soon got loose under the basket and caged a two-pointer for the first tally of the contest. Neither team was unable to do much scoring in this period and the half ended with the count standing 7-6 in the favor of the Carolina "Y".

After having a rest between the halves, both aggregations seemed to take on a new lease of life and the second half opened with both teams playing a much better brand of basketball. Perkins, another addition to the local "Y" team, sunk a field goal which was followed by a shot from the center of the court by R. Upton. This same player then tossed in one from the free throw line and then caged another long shot, giving the Fayetteville quint a lead of two points. Holland then exhibited the prettiest (Continued on page three)

CHAPEL HILL SEXTETTE WINS FROM LEXINGTON

Hogan Counts for Thirty of Local's Points—Passing and Clean Tactics Feature Game.

In Bynum Gym Tuesday night the girls' sextette from Chapel Hill high school more than doubled the score on their guesses, Lexington, to the sound of 27-60.

The Lexington lassies visited the Hill with the reputation proceeding them as a team of championship calibre. And, in truth, throughout the first half of the game they lived up to their "rep", for at the beginning of the ten minutes rest period the score stood 14-8 in favor of the local girls. During the first round M. Parker for the hostess and Thompson for the Westerners did the best work; Hogan, the steller light for Chapel Hill, did not seem to exert herself too strenuously, acting as though she wished to lead the visitors on to more noble efforts. In the second half, however, Hogan began to retrace her steps into the old stride of perfection and when the final whistle scared the spectators she was credited with half of Chapel Hill's sixty points. Passing for Chapel Hill was during the first half exceedingly well done by the three forwards, while Lexington put up such a defensive and offensive that the teams were evenly matched. Lexington continued to guard well throughout the game, but they could not seem to accurately sight the basket after their initial spurt.

Line-up and summary:

Chapel Hill	Pos.	Lexington
Hogan (30)	C. F.	Leonard
M. Parker (22)	L. F.	Thompson (17)
Gooch (8)	R. F.	Everhart (10)

Tritt	R. G.	Page
Walker	L. G.	N Raper

Substitutes—Williams for Page, Referee, McCain (Davidson).

ENGINEERING STUDENTS ISSUE NEW MAGAZINE

Publication Contains Instructive Papers Written By Students in the Junior Engineering English Class.

The Carolina Engineer, a very attractive and instructive magazine, has been recently published by Dr. A. C. Howell's class of Junior Engineering English. The work contains papers written by students in this English class.

G. M. Wilson is editor of the publication, C. T. Smith is assistant editor, and F. S. Wright has charge of the drawings. The book has been mimeographed, and it is bound in a very attractive cover. All of the articles are well written, and prove interesting not only to those who have an engineering turn of mind, but to anyone. There are several articles on radio which bear on some particular phase of this activity. Other papers take up such subjects as the lighting problem of a new real-estate development, and the way in which a chasm was spanned by an electric cable. "A Study of the C. E. Class of '27" is the name of an article written by Mr. Robert F. Logan. In this Mr. Logan discusses the reasons for students dropping out of the class. His figures reveal that 58 per cent of the class which entered have dropped out. In a detailed study he gives a reason for all of these. J. H. Bion, in a paper on "The Operation of Phonograph Reproducers," shows not only a complete knowledge of his subject, but an adept ability to convey this knowledge to his readers. Other more scientific subjects are well handled by various students. The magazine closes with reviews of books of value to engineering students.

Plans are being made to publish a similar work some time later in the year. Copies of the first number are to be mailed to various engineering schools.

BASKETBALL QUINT TO LEAVE TODAY AT 3:15

The University basketball team, present holders of the Southern Championship, will leave for the S. I. C. tournament on the 3:15 bus this afternoon. The tournament opens tomorrow and Carolina meets Clemson College at 5 p. m. in the first game in the battle to retain her crown.

Assistant Cheerleader Bob Hardee will have the University band on hand to give the team a send-off and has issued a call for students to gather at the bus station at 3 o'clock. The first matinee at the Pick will not begin until the team has departed.

ALL-STATE TEAM IS PICKED BY A TAR HEEL SCRIBE

Basketball Season in North Carolina Reviewed and Called a Success.

UNIV. GETS THREE MEN

State and Duke Placed On First Quint—Second Team and Honor List.

By I. N. Ryan
The old and ever-present process of "the survival of the fittest and the devil take the hindmost" works in basketball as well as anywhere else, and it was working in the season just past in North Carolina. The college teams have had a successful season as a whole, with upsets in the dope now and then to add zest to the interest of the state as a whole. New stars have risen to take the places of those passed on, and old stars who have held the limelight for a year or so fell by the wayside, either due to injuries or the rise of a greater man to take his place in the sun.

The basketball teams at all of the North Carolina institutions were strong, with none of the outfits showing so great a lead over the others. The Carolina, State, and Wake Forest quints led the parade, with Duke and Davidson trailing in the rear, while outside of the "Big Five" there were several strong combinations at Elon, High Point, and Guilford. Based on pre-tournament play, the Red Terrors from State College gets the championship laurels, taking them for the first time in six years away from the University tossers.

The Tar Heels began the season with good prospects, having four lettermen including three All-Southern stars, to build around in the gathering of another team. A new coach turned out a strong team that went through the season undefeated except by the Wake Forest team by one point at Wake Forest, and by a 17 to 8 count by the Techmen. Cobb, as usual, led the attack for the Flying Phantoms.

The Techmen, moulting their offensive around the flying figure of their midget captain, opened their season in flashing style and finished it in like manner. They defeated every team in the state, dropping a contest only to the Tar Heels. They won from Duke, Wake Forest and Davidson twice, and clinched the State Championship.

Wake Forest of course rates their season a success because they won from the Carolina crew in the first game lost by the Tar Heels in the state in four years. Outside of that victory their team, along with the quints of Duke and (Continued on page four)
