

Tar Heels Triumph Over Blue Devils In 5-4 Victory

DOPE IS UPSET

Duncanites Slam Ball Over Hanes Field Saturday Afternoon.

HATLEY'S HOMER FEATURES

Westmoreland and Poyner Pitch Smooth Game for Carolina—Chappell Wellds Heavy Bat for Duke.

Barrels and barrels of perfectly good pre-game dope were upset on Hanes field Saturday afternoon when the Tar Heel sluggers gave the highly touted Blue Devil nine the little end of a 5 to 4 score. The Duke hitters were held to 3 hits by "Lefty" Westmoreland and Bill Poyner, while the Carolina gunners were shelling Thompson and Thomas 12 bingles, one of which was a wicked drive by "Hat" Hatley, that cleared the center field wall.

At the start of the game there was a great number of hopeful, but not very optimistic, Carolina supporters in the stands. But, with two down in the first inning, Hatley injected the missing optimism by straightening out one of Thompson's hooks and sending it for a ride out of the park. Westmoreland then stepped into the box and set the Duke sticksmiths down one, two, three, for the first two innings, walked one in the third after two were out, and then came back in the fourth to get them in order again. After such an exhibition of pitching as that the Carolina supporters could see nothing but a Tar Heel victory.

With one away in the fifth, an injury to a finger on Westmoreland's pitching hand caused his retirement from the game and the veteran Bill Poyner was sent to the mound. Although inclined to be a bit wild at times, the big right-hander always had a little stuff in reserve for a pinch and kept the Duke artillerymen from doing any great amount of damage for the rest of the game.

Ed Mackie and Hatley were the big guns of Carolina's attack. Mackie turned in four hits out of five trips to the plate for his afternoons work, and two of these blows were good for a couple of bags. Besides his home run, Hatley came through in the seventh with a single that sent in a run after two men had been retired.

FINANCE PROBLEM TAKEN UP BY PHI

Plan of Speaker Cooper Passed at Saturday Evening Meeting.

FAVORS MITCHELL PLAN

Junior Commencement Debate Committee Appointed—Resolution Tabled Until Next Session.

Before the customary group of faithfuls, the Phi Assembly held the first meeting since the Easter holidays, Saturday night. The meeting was begun in its usual form, the calling of the roll, and the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting. Speaker Cooper chose a committee consisting of T. E. Clemons, C. A. Dees and N. O. Eaddy, to confer with the Di senate committee concerning the Junior Commencement Debate.

The first resolution before the house met with a flutter of interest. Resolved, "That the Phi Assembly go on record as being in favor of the Col. Mitchell's plan of the separation of the departments of Aviation, Army, and Navy." Mr. Dees introduced the bill, which had been tabled at the last meeting. He was followed by Mr. Lewis, who opposed the resolution, calling attention to the great expense this separation would entail, while it would not be more efficient than the present system. It remained for "E. O." Warren to champion Col. Mitchell's plan. He admitted that the complication of military affairs made it necessary for some division of departments, particularly in aviation, which was the mainstay of future wars. The audience showed their enthusiasm for the plan by voting for it by a large majority.

The next bill, Resolved, "That the University of North Carolina should institute the Williams College plan of student politics," did not meet with the response of the former one. This was tabled until the next meeting.

Speaker Cooper, having the names of all members owing the Assembly money, read them, and next proceeded to give

HIGH SCHOOL NET TOURNAMENT SUCCESS

Asheville and Chapel Hill Racquetters Emerge Victorious.

ROGERS TAKES SINGLES

Paulsen and Merritt Win Doubles Championship for Locals.

Rogers, Asheville tennis star, won the state singles championship from Kendall, of Shelby, yesterday in a thrilling tennis match marked by the consistent steady work of the winner. The game was witnessed by a large crowd of interested tennis fans, who were thoroughly appreciative of the brand of tennis exhibited by the performers. Time after time when beautiful recoveries were made of hard shots the crowd expressed its appreciation by loud hand clapping. Rogers, playing carefully and craftily, came in from the base line to the net and smashed the slow lobs of his opponent with deadly precision. Most of his points, however, were contributed by the errors of the loser. The final score was 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, which does not clearly portray the closeness of the match.

Rogers, the new state champion will be remembered here as the tall lanky youth who starred for Asheville high in the finals of the State Basketball Championship this year.

The doubles match provided the real excitement of the afternoon. Paulsen and Merritt, of Chapel Hill, finally defeated Kendall and Singleton, of Shelby, by the score of 5-7, 8-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. At no time were spectators or the players sure of the outcome. Both teams lacked the punch to put over the decisive point when the opportunity presented itself. Kendall, still tired with the effects of his single match with Rogers, played a nice game. Chapel Hill owed its victory to superior steady playing. The new

WRESTLING TRAINING STARTED YESTERDAY

Sixteen Men Answer Call of Coach Quinlan for Spring Grapplers Training—Call for More Candidates.

The first spring wrestling practice took place yesterday afternoon in the Tin Can. Coach Quinlan and his squad of regulars were on hand to teach the game.

A fairly large squad was out for practice but Coach Quinlan says there is plenty of room in the Tin Can and he would like to see at least 75 men out for work. All men who are thinking about coming out for Varsity next year are advised to come out for this three weeks training period.

This training period is intended principally for new-comers and for those who are going out for the 'squad next year. The fundamentals of the game will be taught along with the different holds. Special emphasis will be placed upon getting behind a man from a standing

Core Is Elected Junior Concilman

The last election of the year was held yesterday when E. V. Core of Hartsville, S. C., easily triumphed over Charles T. Lipscombe, of Greensboro, to win the seat of Junior class student councilman, by the score of 103 to 26.

This office, a new one on the campus, is the result of a recent student body vote for the separation of the position of representative on the campus judicial body from the ordinary class office. In the recent election held April 1, Core and Lipscombe were given the largest number of votes for this office. Inasmuch as neither gained a majority at that time, this second race was called by the newly elected Junior class President, Walter Kelley, to determine the winner.

HARRIERS TO MEET V.A. ON THURSDAY

Coach Bob's Track Team Will Visit Charlottesville Thursday.

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED

McPherson and Cummings Likely Be Strongest Individual Rivals.

On Thursday afternoon two of the oldest rivals in the country, namely Carolina and Virginia, clash at Charlottesville on that most heroic of all battlefields—the cinderpath. Both institutions are represented this year by splendid track teams. If an actual rating of both aggregations were made, both would be found among the three foremost track teams of the South. Virginia has won all her meets with ease, and recently defeated the Navy and V. M. I. in a triangular meet. Carolina has made a showing equally as good, by doubling or tripling the score on every opponent it has met so far, and by counting so heavily in the Tech Relays two weeks ago.

Last year Carolina conquered her rival at the same Charlottesville without trouble, but this year should find the margin of victory—if any—very much closer. Virginia has again the slight advantage of appearing on her home grounds—for after all that is quite an advantage.

The intense rivalry that has been existing for so many years between the two Universities need not be discussed. Every Carolina student has felt it. Suffice it so say that when two such powers

DR. CHASE SPEAKS SUNDAY EVENING ON THEME "EDUCATION AND RELIGION"

President Delivers Strong Address At Chapel Of Cross. Declares That It Is Duty Of State Institutions To Concern Self With Religious Questions—Treats Of Questions of Today.

In speaking on "Education and Religion" at the Chapel of the Cross on Sunday night, Dr. Chase declared that the duty of all educational institutions is to "teach their students the Christian method of living."

"There is at times a great deal of misunderstanding as to the place of state institutions in the matter of relating religion and education," he said, in explaining that separation of church and state does not necessarily mean that a state supported institution should not bother itself with religion. Dr. Chase declared that an educational institution cannot possibly keep from concerning itself with religion.

"Educational institutions employ two methods of instructing in Christianity, either or both of which may be used," he pointed out. One is formal instruction in religion, and the other is the contribution which education makes by working out a Christian method of living by relating knowledge to live and spiritual forces.

President Chase explained that any institution which does its duty in helping to gain an appreciation of the virtues of civilization. "It trains them to understand the life about us and to find out the truth about this life," he said. "That is a real contribution to Christianity. Any institution that is worth while tries to give people an attitude toward life, an outlook, sympathy that is grounded in spiritual forces. It ought to try some sort of philosophy about life, some sort of orientation.

TAR HEELS MEET ELON WEDNESDAY

Christians and Duncanites Clash On Emerson Field At 4:00 P.M.

HARD TUSSELE EXPECTED

Game Tomorrow Afternoon Has Heavy Bearing on State Championship Race.

When Duke Duncan's Tar Heel ball tossers meet the baseball nine from Elon on Emerson field Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock there is going to be a grand scramble for the big end of the score, for both teams are head over heels in the battle for the state championship, and a defeat may cost either the rag. The Tar Heels are especially anxious to take this game since it comes on the eve of the Virginia battles and a victory now will do much to inspire the team's confidence in its ability to lick the Cavaliers.

The "Christians" have one of the strongest teams in the state and to defeat them will be no easy task for the Tar Heels. The Elonites already have victories over several of the strongest teams in this section and the Carolina team will be fighting hard to break their winning streak. The scalps of both Wake Forest and State are among those hanging from the visitors' belt and they are anxious to add that of the University to their string.

The manner in which the Tar Heels disposed of Whitted's Blue Devils Saturday gave them a strong pre-game rating to win, but when it is remembered the upset handed the dope bucket in the Carolina-Duke game they will be a bit slow about predicting who will win Wednesday's battle. Coach Duncan has not said what his line-up will be for the game, but he will probably use the same one that has defeated Duke and South Carolina; namely, Dodderer, 1b; Sides, 2b; Tenney, ss; Jones, 3b; Mackiel 1f; Hatley, cf; Young, rf, and Sharpe, c; with the pitcher to be selected from the following men: Poyner, Sapp, Westmoreland, or Fulcher.

ORGAN RECITAL BY THOMPSON IS VARIED

G. M. Thompson, head of the organ department at N. C. C. W., gave an organ recital at the Chapel of the Cross Sunday afternoon at five o'clock.

Mr. Thompson gave a varied and well balanced program. His playing is quite good, he having a good sense of touch and time and the faculty of putting himself into his renditions.

The recital was opened with Pietro Yon's Hym of Glory, which is dedicated to the American Legion. It moves

BANKS NOW HAVE MORE INFLUENCE

Miss Lindsay Presents Outline for Community Bank Program.

READS N. C. CLUB PAPER

Says Bankers Should Cooperate in Keeping Money At Home.

The North Carolina Club had one of its most instructive meetings of the year yesterday evening at 7:30 in 112 Saunders Hall. Miss Katie Lindsay read a paper which she had carefully prepared called, "A Community Program for the Bank", and an interesting discussion followed of the main points she brought out.

In her article Miss Lindsay stated: "The bank was, when first organized, only a safe place to keep money. Among the other things the bank does now, it finances customers when they start in business; it advises them as to the best means of making the business a success, and it maintains a trust department to look after its customers' estates after they are gone.

"A bank prospers only as a community prospers. It has a direct influence on the commercial as well as agricultural enterprises of a section. The banks are now working to induce the farmers to 'Live at Home' by producing more supply crops such as corn, dairy products, vegetables, and fruits, and then produce fewer money crops such as cotton and tobacco.

"North Carolina leads the South as a manufacturing state; she stands second only to Massachusetts in manufactured

WEEK-END HOUSE PARTY OF SIGMA NUS SUCCESS

Over Twenty Girls From This and Other States Attend Party at Local Fraternity House.

The house party given by the Sigma Nus during the past week-end was a complete success. Girls from all over this and nearby states attended and it was their presence here that was in a large measure responsible for the success of the week-end social functions. The Alpha Kappa Psi dance, Friday night, the Duke-Carolina base-ball game, Saturday afternoon, and the Grail dance Saturday night, were the features of the week-end that furnished entertainment for the visiting girls while here. The boys turned the house over entirely to the girls and the damsels began to arrive Friday afternoon. Over twenty girls stayed in the house. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. A. A. Klutz. The following girls attended: Blits Dillard, Elizabeth Barber, Bettie Harms,

ORDER OF GRAIL GAVE DELIGHTFUL DANCE SATURDAY

Large Attendance Marks First Dance Since Lifting of Ban.

NEW GRAIL REGULATIONS

Orderliness and Sobriety Prevail During Evening—Roster of Visitors.

A host of beautiful girls and a mob of light-hearted boys swayed to the tuneful music of the Tarsonians made the first Grail dance of the Spring quarter, held Saturday night in Bynum Gymnasium, a decided success. The occasion was featured by orderliness and sobriety and it was without doubt one of the most enjoyed Grail dances yet given on the Hill.

Many out-of-town visitors attended and although the floor was slightly crowded, the only thing that marred the evening was the fact that the dance ended so early. Early in the evening the stags began to line themselves around the walls and the first girls to arrive found quite an array of dance-hungry admirers awaiting them. To the choice assortment of feminine talent present, belongs the real credit for the success of the dance. Girls from far and near, representatives of girl's schools all over the south, debutantes of state-wide renown, and last, but not least, our own dear co-eds, graced the event with their presence and brought romance and glamour to the dull, unromantic Gymnasium, making the dance a worthy successor to the Alpha Kappa Psi dance among the week-end social functions.

Two innovations in the usual Grail dance regulations were put into practice Saturday night. The fact that no stage were allowed to enter the hall after ten-thirty did much to get the dance off to an early start and to help prevent the crowded conditions that have marred many previous dances in the Gymnasium. The Order of the Grail has not decided definitely that this shall be a permanent rule but it is very likely that this will be the case. The other inaugurated is perhaps even more harsh than the one first mentioned. "No Spectators Allowed", was the cruel message of a poster at the door that met the eyes of many a verdant freshman, who came to the Gym seeking a glimpse of the promised land.

The music contributed in on small way

TENNIS TOURNAMENT HELD THIS WEEK

Carolina Racquetters Host to North Carolina State Tennis Tournament.

EXPECT LIVELY CONTEST

Comes Thursday, Friday and Saturday—All Colleges Represented Except State.

Carolina's splendid array of clay courts will be the scene of the North Carolina State Tennis Tournament, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Every college in the state will send representatives to the tournament except N. C. State College. The Technicians from Raleigh claim that their courts have been torn up all year, and they haven't built up a team as yet.

Last spring the tournament was greeted with splendid success, and if the weather only allows, this year will see just as good an exhibition. Carolina hugged all the honors of the last tournament, when "Hap" Whittaker, captain of this year's net team, met and defeated "Abe" Solomon, captain of last year's aggregation in a thrilling five-set match. Fuller and Solomon, Carolina, were defeated for the doubles crown by McCutcheon and Price, of Davidson, only after five sets had been played.

Davidson has another splendid doubles team this year in the person of McCutcheon and Carr. If these two can defeat Elgin and Whittaker of Carolina or Rogers and Burns of Duke they ought to have easy riding to the title. The Davidson team has not lost a single doubles match so far this year. The question is, can they maintain their untarnished record through the tournament?

Rogers of Duke is touted as the best tennis player in the state, and has been suggested as the probable candidate to succeed Whittaker. The Duke star is a brother of the Asheville youth who won the state high school tennis singles championship. Burns is another prominent Duke candidate in the singles. He has been first man on the Duke team for
