Fred Darlington had more than one good reason for pitching winning baseball in Greensboro in the recent Virginia-Carolina game. The marriage of the pitcher to a Burlington girl occurred last Tuesday.

Since there were more girls than boys at the N. C. Collegiate Press convention which was held at Guilford during the week-end, the male element took advantage of the situation and put emphasis on the press part of it.

We agree with the Durald Herald when it says "it is a pretty kettle of fish that makes it necessary for a New Jerseyite and a Texan to come to North Carolina to tell us what we should teach in our schools and who should teach it."

A combination choral and athletic invasion of Europe this summer is planned by Northwestern University. An Olympic swimming star will double in bass. A pole vaulter will also make the trip. He will probably reach the high notes. A rare combination we call it.

A news item from New Paltz, N. Y., says "any summer visitors to the Catskills who care to pet here may do so. A proposal to turn off the lights on moonlight nights was carried in an election." A great stunt to make the Catskills more popular with the young.

It is reported that the Carolina club and the Jan Garber orchestras will furnish the music for the final German Club dances which will be held June 8, 9, and 10. All lovers of the terpsichorean art will gladly welcome these old Carolina favorites back to the "Hill", but the announcement will not be heralded here as it was at a university in a sister state when the newspaper of that university carried a steamer across the front page announcing the coming of Jan Garber and his orchestra.

Oscar Coffin, editor of the Raleigh Times, has resigned his position with that paper and is now waiting for the trustees to confirm his position as Professor of Journalism in the University next year, succeeding Gerald Johnson, resigned. Mr. Coffin is going to Roanoke Rapids to work on a weekly publication during the summer. Looks like he is going to try to acclimate himself to small towns before coming here next year.

PIERSON TO EDIT NEW QUARTERLY

University Professor to Be Associate Editor of Historical Magazine.

LATIN-AMERICAN REVIEW
Hispanic American Historical Review is Financed by Duke University.

Dr. W. W. Pierson, Professor of History and Government here, has recently been selected as one of the associate editors of the Hispanic American Historical Review, a magazine which will be published quarterly at Duke University. Dr. James A. Roberson, of Washington, under whose guidance the Review was begun several years ago, will edit the magazine.

Other associate editors with Doctor Pierson will be Charles E. Chapman, of the University of California; F. J. Rippey, of the University of Chicago; P. A. Martin, of Leland-Stanford; Herbert E. Bolton, of California; William R. Sheppard, of Columbia University, and a member from the Duke faculty who will be selected at a later date.

The first issue of the magazine will appear in August, and under the new management it will be issued quarterly after that date.

The Hispanic American Historical Review was originally launched in 1918 by a group of scholars from several of the leading universities of the country. The purpose of the periodical was the promotion of scholarship in the field of Latin American history and the cementing of the intellectual ties between the United States and Central America. For five years it was maintained as an independent venture without support from any institution or association. On account of lack of support it was forced to suspend publication in 1923, but an increased interest in Central America has created a distinct demand for the revival of the publication. It was only after careful consideration that the executive committee of Duke University decided to take the responsibilities connected with its publication.

One peculiar distinction of the enterprise is that the Review will be the only historical review in the English language devoted to Latin-American history.

Attending the 1926 State Democratic Convention in Raleigh this week as party delegates were five Carolina alumni who recently left the University. Sam Blount, who graduated here last year, was there as a delegate from Washington, Beaufort county. Bernard Wright, of the class of 1925, and Tom Turner, class of 1924, attended as delegates from Greensboro, Guilford county. "Libby" Ward, a law student here in the class of 1925, was a delegate from New Bern, Craven county. Don Burns, a member of the 1924 class, was a delegate from Asheboro, Randolph county.

Futility

It is hard to think of a much more useless and thankless type of journalistic endeavor than that of special column writing. Scarcely any one ever reads the line of bunk that the poor columnist sweats over so hard to stretch out over 18 inches, more or less, or newspaper space. When it is read, some one is pretty sure to take offense at parts of it, and only in rare cases do the readers see any merit in it. There have been some newspaper columnists who have pleased their readers, it is true, but they have always been few, and perhaps not over a dozen of them are still in the game. Meywood Brown, of the New York World, seems to be about the most popular today. But his popularity is not for the average small town or country columnist whose main purpose is only to fill up just so much space.

Misleading Headlines

"New Fraternity Installs Friday." Thus runs an interesting headline in a recent issue of the Tar Heel. Quite naturally, one might expect to find beneath this startling announcement a big story to the effect that the mummy of Crusoe's good man had been found and was about to be presented to the Med school by Beta Splenda or Epsilon Upsilon Tappa. However, no such rare scoop follows, but only a dry announcement that the twenty-fifth national is in our midst.

In the last issue of last Thursday is a mistake that is not so humorous. In fact, it has caused no small degree of trouble and misunderstanding. "Agnostic Club Is Formed Here," this one proclaims. But the story plainly sets forth the fact that "the club has no official name."

Pity the poor headline writer. His job of choosing just so many words of just so many letters to fit just so many different stories is not an easy one, and if the headlines are sometimes misleading, the only strange thing about it is that more of them are not of that kind.

Themes!

Themes, themes, and more themes! English themes, history themes, sociology themes, and themes on every other subject imaginable. Sometimes the student gets thoroughly disgusted with this business of writing themes. "Never mind about the topic," says the instructor, "just write on any topic you want to." A student who was rushed up pretty much the other day said that he was going to hand in a couple of sheets of theme paper entitled "Nothing."

Typographical Errors

"Blame it on the printers," is the slogan of the editorial office. Every mistake in spelling or punctuation is referred to as "a typographical error." A good deal of this blame is deserved, however. The printers get so used to being "raked over the coals" that they sometimes do not care if they do make mistakes. The Tar Heel gets its share of these errors. It is to be expected that a new staff of reporters and editors will make a good many errors at the start, and they do, but of the mistakes in the campus sheet during the past week, at least 35 or 40 can be classed as nothing but printers' errors.

A Popular Course

Boston college recently incorporated, according to a report, a course in love and matrimony. This is intended to help young co-eds in the matter of acquiring husbands. According to reports of the registrars, if the story is correct, all application blanks for the course ran out before the close of the first day. This might well be tried here.

Ideas

Ideas are strange things. They are also elusive. When they do come, they take the form of the brain which they enter. A very beautiful idea may enter the brain of a pessimist and be warped and twisted into something dark and gruesome. The optimist can take a vicious idea and raise it into something lofty and sunny. Perhaps, it is best, after all, to leave the execution of ideas to the Babbitts of the world.

Another Observation

Tonight the Golden Fleece will tap. The biggest of the flock will be gathered into the padded fold and duly ornamented with the insignia of their greatness. But many a lonesome little lamb, shorn of his warm protection by the recent elections, will be left to beat unheeded and shiver on his way down the Road of Defeated Aspirations. Such is life. Mrs. William Shipp is visiting her niece, Mrs. Dougald MacMillan. Mrs. Robert M. Thompson is here with the MacMillans, and her sister.

FACULTY WILL TAKE PART IN FRENCH PLAY

Five of the Eleven Parts in "Le Malade Imaginaire" Will Be Acted by Members of the Faculty.

Five of the eleven parts in Moliere's comedy, Le Malade Imaginaire, which the Carolina Playmakers will present next month in the original French, are to be taken by members of the faculty of the Department of Romance Languages. Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22, have been set as the dates for the two performances.

The presentation of the play in the original language, with costumes such as were worn in the first performance of Moliere's play, marks something new in the way of play production, even in the atmosphere of the University, which is however, accustomed to new departures in play production on the part of the Carolina Playmakers.

It required vivid imagination on the part of Dr. Urban B. Holmes to conceive that it would be possible to put on the boards here Le Malade Imaginaire, one of the most popular comedies of the greatest French dramatist of all times. Experience has shown his judgment to be thoroughly sound, for with parts assigned and rehearsals going ahead in full speed, the play encourages high hopes that it will result in a brilliant triumph. While the interpretations may not be such as to cause the experienced actors of the Theatre Francais to turn green with envy, they compare favorably with those given by troupes less perfect than those of the French national theatre.

Even a cast composed of less enthusiastic members would be spurred on to accomplishment by the untiring and dauntless energy of Dr. Holmes, who is directing the play. Dr. Holmes has had considerable experience with this play, having taken part in the presentation of it at Pennsylvania and Harvard. His interpretation of the different parts of Argan, the imaginary invalid, is such as to bring gales of laughter from an audience which could not understand a single word of French.

Mr. F. J. Haronian, in the part of the suave, verbose, charlatan, and Mr. Radoff, in the role of his stupid, expressionless son, roll out their sonorous Latin medical phrases with such mock seriousness that one is tempted to believe that the august medical profession has deteriorated considerably in the last few centuries, in spite of its important discoveries.

The part of Beralde, the common sense brother of the imaginary sick man, is admirably rendered by Dr. W. M. Dey. Beralde perceives that the invalid is sick only on account of his own willingness to believe the quacks, and berates him for his credulity. Hearing the speeches of Dr. Dey is in itself a lesson in the way French should be spoken.

Miss Elizabeth Henderson, in the role of the beautiful Angeline, daughter of Argante, and Miss Mary Warren, in the difficult part of the miming, impudent, but serving maid, bid fair to render the parts in a way approaching perfection.

Other characters taking part in the play are Messrs. J. C. Lyons, J. A. Downs, and L. I. Wiley and Misses Carolyn Oswald and Tarasa Graham.

The costumes worn by the actors will be imitations of the ones worn by the actors of Moliere in the original presentation, and every attempt will be made to preserve the illusion that the play is placed back in the middle of the seventeenth century.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL TEAM IS IN VIRGINIA

Fifteen Men Leave On One Week Trip to Meet Leading Old Dominion Teams.

Coach "Rant" Lowe left with his freshman baseball team Sunday afternoon for a one-week tour through Virginia. The team will meet the strongest freshmen and prep school nines that Virginia has to offer, and it is hoped that the Tar Babies will be able to bring home the bacon in most of these contests.

Lowe carried a team of sluggers into the Old Dominion this year that should cause the first year twirlers in that locality quite a bit of worry. Most of the boys are hitting well above the .300 mark and a few have been clubbing the ball for an average very near the half-century point. Practically all of these lads are long distance hitters and are apt to break up a ball game at any moment; so the opposition can not be sure that the Tar Babies are licked until the last man is out in the ninth.

They meet Washington and Lee at Lexington, May 3; V. M. I. at Lexington, May 4; University of Virginia at Charlottesville, May 5; Woodberry Forest, at Orange, Va., May 6; V. P. I. at Blacksburg, May 7, and Augusta Military Academy at Fort Defiance, Va., May 8.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Intramural Office, 114 Alumni Building

Dean Paulsen left his coat on the Intramural field Thursday afternoon. The Dean says that he will appreciate it if the finder will return his coat. Not that he wants the coat so bad, but there was a pair of spectacles in the coat that he would like to have as soon as possible.

The first tragedy in the baseball league happened Wednesday afternoon. Jim Shepherd, catching for the S. A. E. team, had his finger split in the first inning of their game with the S. P. E.'s, which forced him to leave the game. Jack Ragsdale was called in to do the receiving after Shepherd was injured.

"Stud" Whitaker, the S. P. E.'s star catcher, is one of the best receivers in the league. His one fault is catching a man at second, but he is planning on overcoming this fault before the end of the season. "Stud" is a recruit from the bush leagues having been obtained by the S. P. E.'s from Elkin, N. C.

"J" had a bang-up ball club on the field Wednesday afternoon. Manager Upchurch had two full teams out. Sandlin and Corpening for "J" pitched airtight ball against Steele, and only one hit was garnered off their delivery. The hit was a single by Everett in the fifth inning off Sandlin.

Old West, last year's champions, appears to be a strong contender for the title again this year. They defeated Smith and New Dorms by substantial scores last week and their team has been hitting the ball to all corners of the lot. "Red" Whisman, the star pitcher of this aggregation has been recruited by the Varsity, but the Old West crew have secured Zeno Brown to fill in the gap, and the way in which he turned back the New Dorms' hitters Thursday seems to show that he is fully capable of doing so.

The Kappa Sigma's have one of the strongest teams in the fraternity league. They have played two games, winning both. In the first game, Devin of the Kappa Sigma's bested Shuler of the Pi Kappa Phi's in a pitchers' duel by a score of 2-0. The game with the S. P. E.'s was a landslide for the Kappa Sigmas who got next to the offerings of Ragan and put the game on ice in the first inning. "Sprodie" Cobb led the Kappa Sigma's in hitting in both games.

The horseshoe tournaments will begin Wednesday afternoon. There will be two tournaments, one for the fraternities and one for the dormitories. There are twelve teams entered in the fraternity tournament and thirteen in the dormitory tournament. A match will consist of three singles sets and two doubles sets. The same rules as were used last year of three singles sets and two doubles sets, will be in force again this year. K. G. Phillips will have charge of the horseshoe links. The links will be located on the east side of the gymnasium.

Willie B. Everett and R. E. Bryan spent the week-end in Atlanta on a business trip.

LAW SCHOOL GETS JUDGES PICTURES

The University Law School has started a collection of pictures of the Superior Court Judges in North Carolina and of former graduates of the Law School here. The collection is under the supervision of Miss Lucille Elliott, Librarian of the Law School.

A very attractively cabinet will be placed in the Senior Room of Manning Hall, which will contain the pictures of the former graduates and those of the Superior Court Judges. The School is now the professor of a large number of group pictures of its graduates and of many individuals. It also has the pictures of the Supreme Court Judges in its present collection.

Miss Elliott is appealing directly to the families of the former "gentlemen of the bench", but in some instances she is having to solicit the aid of the friends of the University in getting these valuable portraits.

TAR BABIES DOWN WAKE FOREST 6-5

Ninth Inning Rally Little Deacons Fails to Tie Count.

In a close and hard fought game of baseball, the Carolina Tar Babies gave Wake Forest's Little Deacons a drubbing to the tune of 6 to 5, Saturday afternoon, on Emerson Field. The weather was ideal for baseball, and both teams showed dash and fight hitherto lacking in freshman baseball games here this season.

The Tar Babies' long range guns found Gibson's easy pickings in the early stages of the game, and two singles, three doubles and three triples gave them five runs in the first three innings. In the mean time, Ingram was holding the Baptist sluggers to one run, this came as the result of a long homer into right field by Lassiter.

The locals drew first blood in the opening round. Ford, first man up, doubled to center field, went to third on a wild pitch and scored a second later on Finlater's infield out. In the second frame, Jessup and Furches tripled in succession, and the latter scored when Kuykendale missed an easy throw from infield on Bean's roller. Finlater doubled to start the third and scored when Williams hit a long triple into left-center. The latter was out trying to stretch his hit into a home run. Then Jessup doubled and scored on Furches's single. This ended the scoring for the Tar Babies until the eighth frame when they put over the winning run on Furches' walk, two errors and an infield out.

The Little Deacons got their first run in the third on Lassiter's homer. They again counted in the fourth on an error, a walk and a hit, and they added another in the eighth on a walk, an out, and a hit. In the eighth, the Baby Baptists threw a scare into the Tar Heel camp when they mixed three hits with an error to push over two runs and fall just one point short of evening the count.

Ellebee, Lassiter, Furches, and Kuykendale did most of the stick work for the visitors; these lads checked in with two bingles each for the day. Besides his good work at bat, Furches played a brilliant game in the field for Wake Forest, accepting six hard chances without a single bobbie.

Foard, Finlater, Cox, Jessup, and Steve Furches each got a couple of hits for Carolina. Ingram pitched a good game, and he went the full route, despite the intense heat. With a little snappier support from his infield, he would have probably held the invaders to a lower score.
