

Carolina Football Team Is Being Rapidly Whipped Into Shape By Coaches for Wake Forest Game

TO PLAY SATURDAY

Pre-Season Dope On Tar Heels Is Scarce—Coaches Are Mum with Opinions

USE NOTRE DAME SYSTEM

With only four more days intervening before the initial grid-iron contest of the year with the Wake Forest Deacons on Gore Field, speculation is running wild among sports circles as to just what will be the outcome when the new system being introduced at Carolina by Coaches Collins, Cerney, Belding, and Ashmore clashes with the new system being introduced in the Deacon camp by Jimmie Baldwin, new Wake Forest football mentor. Can the Deacons succeed in making it three straight wins over the fighting Tar Heel squad, or shall the installation of the famous Notre Dame system at Carolina prove being the Waterloo of Baldwin's eleven? Such questions are ringing all through the state sport circles, but only next Saturday's setto can tell the tale. Meanwhile, the Tar Heel squad is steadily grinding away behind the closed gates of Emerson Field, and the coaches are playing "thumbs down" and refusing to turn loose any dope as to their hopes and expectations.

Large Squad Training

The largest squad that ever answered the opening call at Carolina reported for practice on September 6, and immediately started light daily work-outs under the direction of the new coaching staff. After the first few days, however, the work-outs became so stiff that the track suits which the men had worn previously, did not furnish enough protection, so uniforms were issued to all men, and the grind began in earnest.

After the issuance of the uniforms, tackling was added to the list of the orders of the day, and work upon the new system of plays was begun; whereupon, the gates of Emerson Field were closed to all spectators, and secret practice was held daily.

Scrimmage Held Saturday

The first scrimmage of the season was held last Saturday, with four picked teams participating. The first string squad, under the generalship of Bunn Hackney and Jonas, held several scoreless quarters of play with a second string under the leadership of Steve Furches, quarterback on last year's Tar Baby squad, while a third and fourth string also ran through a couple of fast, scoreless quarters.

On the end positions, "K. O." Warren and McMurray, both men of several years experience, showed up extremely well, and seem fully capable of filling the

REGISTRATION TO DATE ESTIMATED AT 2,300

Registration to date is estimated at 2,300 by Dr. Wilson, University Registrar. This number is far from final because there are more students registering continually, and no accurate number will be determined for some time yet. Of this total there are approximately 900 freshmen and 1400 upper-class-men. Only a small majority of the Graduate School have registered, and it is understood that registration will be continued in this school for several weeks.

Tar Heel Board Meeting Tonight

A meeting of THE TAR HEEL editorial staff will be held tonight at 9 o'clock in the basement of the Alumni building, which is the new office of the newspaper. It is very important that all reporters attend.

There are a number of vacancies on THE TAR HEEL reporter staff because of the fact that a number of the men chosen for this year's staff have failed to return to the University. All upperclassmen who are interested in trying out for THE TAR HEEL reporter staff are requested to report at the office in Alumni building this afternoon at 3 o'clock for an interview with the editor. A number of assignments will be made, the reporters being chosen by competitive work.

Members of the first year class who are interested in trying out for the staff should also report at the office for an interview with the editor this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Only one reporter will be chosen from the Freshman class, and he will be assigned to the chapel beat. All first year men who wish to try-out for this vacancy are urged to be present at the office this afternoon for an interview.

OLD SOUTH ONCE MORE CENTER OF UNIVERSITY LIFE

Third Oldest Building On Campus Renovated for Executive and Administrative Offices

MODERN IN EVERY WAY

South Building is again the Hub of University activities as it was when the institution was young. It again contains the offices of the President and other executive and administrative officials who moved there from Alumni this Fall after the complete renovation of the building had been made.

Last spring the walls of South were examined and found to be weak from age, and the Building Committee was confronted with the problem of choosing between preserving the exterior by reinforcing the interior or tearing down the building and replacing it with a new one of the same design on the same location. The former alternative was decided on, and the same South which has served the University for 128 years as a dormitory, executive building, class room and laboratory has been saved.

The only change in the exterior of the building is the addition of the Greek Ionic columns on the south side to make it conform to the style of architecture used in the other buildings on the southern part of the campus.

Both the north and south entrances lead into an octagonal central lobby, from which access can be had to the offices of the President, Treasurer, Registrar and Business Manager of the University. On the second floor are located the offices of Dean Bradshaw, Dean Hibbard, Dean Royster, the News Bureau and the Alumni Association. The entire third floor is given over to the University Extension Division.

In the basement have been placed fireproof vaults for the storage of valuable files and documents, and an overflow office for the Business Manager and space for mimeographs and multigraphs has been left.

An elevator shaft has been built in the building so that, if found necessary, an elevator may be installed at a later date.

HARRY WOODBURN CHASE

"Americanism" was the Subject Chosen by Pres. Chase at the Formal Opening of the University Friday. The Opening Exercises Were Held in Memorial Hall at Chapel Period.

Pres. H. W. Chase Formally Opens 132nd Session of the University With Address on "Americanism"

First Glee Club Tryouts Held Tonight

First tryouts for the University Glee Club will be held today. The first tests will be given to new men in Memorial Hall at five o'clock this afternoon. The next meeting will be held for old men at seven P. M. in the same building. New men who could not attend the first meeting will be expected at this hour.

The membership of the Glee Club is partly determined by these tryouts. Since present plans for the Glee Club include one major tour for each quarter and many week-end trips, it is expected that many candidates will answer the call for new singers. Last year the trip schedules included tours of North and South Carolina, Virginia, and the North, where New York, Philadelphia, and other large cities were visited. It is said the plans for the coming year will include equally as good trips.

FRIDAY AT CHAPEL

University Men Are Admonished To Be Good Americans—Past and Present Compared

DEMOCRACY IS DISCUSSED

The formal opening of the 132d annual session of the University of North Carolina was held Friday morning in Memorial Hall, before the entire student body. The opening was marked by an address on "Americanism," by President Chase, and chapel period was extended a half-hour to allow for the devotional exercises and the President's speech.

In his speech President Chase brought forth three main points. He pointed out the fact that the South "has swung out into the full current of American life," and that "the day is past when a man can serve effectually any business, any profession, any cause, unless he sees it in larger than local terms. We must strive more and more to see ourselves in a national perspective." In answer to "What does it mean to be an American," President Chase said, "It means, of course a variety of things, but primarily it seems to me to mean allegiance to an ideal. . . . That ideal finds its nearest expression in language in the word 'democracy.'" His final point was: "We all want to be good Americans. . . . It is easy enough to say this with our lips, but if you are to say it with your hearts and yours lives, you must learn to take advantage of your opportunities here to develop yourselves into truly free men, men ruled not by fear but by ideals. There is no possible perpetuation of the democratic ideal without education."

Formal Opening Words

The opening words of Dr. Chase's address were: "We are beginning this hundred and thirty-second session of the University of North Carolina at a moment when the Nation is celebrating the hundred and fiftieth anniversary of its existence. The life of this University is thus almost co-extensive with the life of the United States. Indeed, the warrant for its existence lies in the declaration of the North Carolina constitution of the very year of our independence, that "All useful learning shall be duly encouraged, and promoted in one or more Universities."

University and America

"An institution such as this, therefore, is entitled to regard itself, in rather a characteristic sense, as one of the permanent forces that have helped to make America. It does not, therefore, seem inappropriate, in this year of remembrance and reconsecration

HEFFNER, FORMERLY A PLAYMAKER, RETURNS

Hubert Heffner, who was formerly a Playmaker and has both written and acted in Playmaker productions in past years, has returned to the University as assistant professor of dramatic art in the English department.

After leaving Chapel Hill he went to the University of Wyoming, and for the past two years has been at the University of Arizona.

While Professor Koch is in Europe this fall he will direct play production and will teach Professor Koch's class in play writing.

PHI HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

Met in Gerrard Hall Saturday—Law Building Is Chosen for Meeting Place

ASSEMBLY MEETS TONIGHT

Plunging into the mass of business details which had piled up for their consideration, a small handful of the members of the Phi Assembly held the initial meeting of the year in Gerrard Hall last Saturday evening with Speaker Ad Warren presiding.

Many items of interest to old and prospective members of the assembly were discussed during the evening. The first problem handled was that of a meeting place for the Assembly. Owing to the fact that the former assembly hall of the society, New East building, is now under reconstruction, the Assembly voted to hold all future meetings in the first year class room of the law building. It was also decided, after considerable discussion, that the meetings of the assembly would be held on Tuesday evening instead of Saturday evenings as heretofore.

The first regular meeting of the year will be held in the law building this evening, and all of the members are very urgently requested to be present so that plans may be formulated for a membership drive to be staged during the present week. Other details of importance are also booked for tonight, and the meeting promises to be one of unusual interest.

Dr. W. J. McKee has been chosen to succeed Dr. E. R. Mosher, who recently left the Extension Division.

Try-outs To Be Held For Business Staff

Those who are interested in making the business staff of THE TAR HEEL are requested to apply at the Business Office of the paper in the basement of the Alumni Building, Room 10A, Tuesday afternoon, 2 to 3:30.

First year men are especially urged to try-out for the business staff.

HAZING WILL NOT BE ALLOWED HERE

Two Students Have Been Suspended—Chappell Issues Warning

Hazing will not be tolerated on the University Campus, according to a statement issued yesterday by the President of the Student Council. One junior and one senior have already been suspended from the University for "conduct tending toward hazing" and about eighteen have been put on conditional suspension for six months.

R. W. Epstein, a junior from Goldsboro, and J. B. Mills, a senior from Polkton, were suspended from the University for the fall quarter for forcing freshmen to take a cold shower and dance the Charleston on a table. The names of the eighteen men put on conditional suspension have been withheld by the Council.

In a statement issued by S. G. Chappell, president of the student council, he explained the position taken by the council. "Hazing has nothing in common with the single principle that the University attempts to inculcate in its students. The Student Council understands the seriousness of the offense and its degrading effect upon a student's citizenship and will do all in its power to prevent any form of hazing in the future."

"The Student Council recognizes the important position that every member of the student body holds in this affair and its own weakness without the cooperation of everyone. The Council earnestly pleads that every student will think again of what he means to the University and what the University means to him, and will assist, voluntarily, the Student Council in what it believes to be for the best interests of the University as a whole."

It was stated that, altho the council has dealt leniently with all cases up to the present time, it will be more severe in the future because the student body has been warned and has had ample time to subdue all practices. The state law concerning hazing, according to the Council, will be stringently enforced in all cases, but it hopes that there will be no further cause for such drastic measure.

FIRST YEAR MEN ARE WELCOMED AT EXERCISES FRIDAY

Chase, Chappell and Broadhurst Address First Year Men at College Night Exercises

FROSH WIN TUG-O-WAR

College Night exercises, held at Memorial Hall Friday night, September 17 to welcome the incoming freshman class, were a complete success. S. G. Chappell extended a welcome from the old student body to all new men, President Chase spoke for the faculty, and E. D. Broadhurst of Greensboro for the alumni.

Sophomores and freshmen lined up on Cameron avenue in front of Memorial Hall promptly at 8:30 for the tug-of-war, which was the first event on the program. After the pistol shot there was a moment of uncertainty, but the handkerchief marking the center of the rope soon began moving toward the freshmen.

When the sophomores saw that they could not stop the greater number of freshmen by main strength, they resorted to other means. After failing to tie the rope to the trees along Cameron avenue, they finally wrapped it around one of the rock pillars at the entrance to the campus. When the 800 freshmen felt the rope grow taut, they gave one heave and went trotting down Columbia street, leaving a second freshman rockpile.

Frosh Carry Rope Away

Another brief halt was made when the sophomores were able to carry the end of the rope around a telephone pole. When the pole began cracking as if it were about to break, the sophomores loosened the rope and went running down the street to find something more substantial to which to tie. This was finally done when the rope was tied securely to a large elm beside Battle dormitory. When the freshmen began pulling this time there was nothing to give way but the rope, so it did it.

Both classes carried their end of the rope triumphantly back to Memorial Hall and laid it on
