

CAMPUS IS ELATED AT TUNNEY'S WIN

Large Number Listed in on Radio Reports of Big Bout Thursday

Large crowds assembled Thursday night to hear the radio announcements of the Dempsey-Tunney bout. Both in front of the Carolina Smokeshop and the Public Service Station. The side walks were blocked and the street was teeming with eager fight fans. The fight blow by blow was relayed to the crowds by not under enthusiastic announcers. A mutual ascension was voiced by the bulk of the crowd, and Tunney was favored with their support.

The message sent from the ringside seemed to indicate that Dempsey had lost moral faith in himself and gradually conceded the fight to his younger opponent. The first five rounds showed a decided scientific victory for Tunney while the next two rounds showed Dempsey in a complete brute stage of fighting. Many of his blows went wild and missed Tunney or struck him glancing blows. Tunney made a few wild blows in the eighth round when Dempsey was playing a defence game. The ninth and tenth rounds were fought with very little hope left for Dempsey to win by his only chance, that of knocking out Tunney. Finally the crown of championship fell on Tunney and he was acclaimed World Champion.

The news was received graciously and every man supporting Tunney departed with a smile of satisfaction.

Graduate Manager Charles T. Woolen would have so much money in his athletic treasury that he wouldn't have to call for contributions for a new stadium if he could bring into Emerson field, at the regular price of admission, all the alumni who know what signal the quarterback ought to give at the critical moment.

Poteat, Potential Neutral

Another advantage of a chair at the University for Dr. Poteat would be the privilege of having one neutral at the annual football game.—Raleigh Times.

Beard Resolution Wins

Delegates Approve Law against Licensing Untrained Men

A resolution offered by J. G. Beard of the University of North Carolina pharmacy school, disapproving the licensing of assistant pharmacists, was the main topic of discussion in the house of the delegates of the American Pharmaceutical Association in Philadelphia last week.

Thirty-eight states in the union, one of them being North Carolina, allow the filling of prescriptions by men who are not fully qualified pharmacists. These men are called assistant pharmacists. The theory is that they do their mixing of drugs only under thoroughly expert supervision; but the advocates of the highest standards in drugstore service say that, in practice, the supervision cannot be constant and effective.

Mr. Beard first presented his resolution in the educational legislation section of the convention in Philadelphia, and then it was carried to the house of delegates. Contested there with vigor, it was finally adopted.

E. V. Howell, head of the University's pharmacy school, had to come back home Wednesday, three days before the meeting closed, and so the two papers he had prepared were read by somebody else. He was elected a member of the executive committee of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy. Mr. Beard was nominated as a member of the council of the Pharmaceutical Association.

Old Pals

Wallace Berry and Irvin Willat started together on the road to film fame five years ago. The famous actor and noted director were united during the filming of "Rugged Water," Willat's latest Paramount production in which Berry is featured with Lois Wilson, Warner Baxter and Phyllis Haver.

The picture that lifted Wallace Berry from the "among those present" class was "Behind the Door," a strong sea story directed by Irvin Willat. It made both men famous.

Like their first venture together, "Rugged Water," deals with the sea. It was adapted from Joseph C. Lincoln's story of the life saving service on Cape Cod. The picture plays at the Pickwick on Monday. Matinee only.

Dr. C. E. Ervin Marries

Dr. C. E. Ervin of Danville, Pennsylvania, who is remembered here as a varsity football player from 1913 to 1915, was married to Miss Marjorie E. Read in Holyoke, Massachusetts, yesterday (Thursday).

THE PHILOLOGICAL CLUB HOLDS MEET

First Meeting of Year is a Smoker at Episcopal Church

METZENTHIN IS PRESIDENT

Last Tuesday night the Philological Club held its first meeting, an informal "smoker" to discuss ways and means of making its regular monthly meetings as interesting, instructive and enjoyable as possible for its members. Every teacher in the four language departments was invited to this meeting as were also their graduate students. Dr. E. C. Metzenthin, opened the meeting with a short talk, announcing and explaining the topics of discussion.

After an animated debate, which lasted almost two hours and in which most of the twenty faculty members present took part, the following points were approved:

The Philological Club meets, as formerly, on the first Tuesday of every month, at 7:30 P. M., in the social rooms of the Episcopal Parish House, the use of which has been granted by the trustees of the church.

The meetings begin punctually with the reading of the minutes and necessary announcements and last not longer than one hour.

While the main purpose of the Club remains the presentation and discussion of scholarly papers on topics of more or less general interest, a new feature
