TIMEN'S PLAYERS WELL RECEIVED HERE LAST NIGHT

Large and Enthusiastic Audience Attended Initial Performance of "He Who Gets Slapped"

APPEAR AGAIN TONIGHT

By Wolterp

The Timen player's presentation of Leonid Andreyev's "He Who Gets Slapped" is somewhat more than mediocre, the work of two of the principals being far above that of the rest of the cast. G. V. Denny, as He is far and away the best actor in the lot, and his acting did much to make up for that of H. Nelson Morey, who never got into character further than wearing ringmaster's boots. As Papa Briquet he left much to be desired, talking his lines throughout the play. John W. Timen, as Mancini was also a disappointment; at the play's beginning he was decidedly out of things, but he managed to put himself more or less into the part before the final curtain. Rowan Boone, as Bezano, refused to register even calm contempt. In contrast to these emasculates we have Zinda, played by Mrs. Hope T. Robertson, who put such heat and fervor into her part that it became a burlesque. Her eyes narrowed to slits and opened wide to express any and all emotions, and for variety she raised and lowered her eyebrows, speaking the while in a voice supercharged with passion. Consuelo, the fair bareback rider, played by Miss Mary Madeline Ross, shared the honors with He for ability and interpretation. Miss Ross's rendition of the part was excellent, and her interpretation genuine.

G. G. Reiniger as Jackson, the chief clown was good, and though in a minor part, did much to counteract the staginess of the other characters. Baron Regnard, played by A. E. Barton, also aided in dragging the show from mediocrity. Tilly and Polly, by Misses Barton and Chandler, did as much damage as their minor positions would allow.

The play has to do with the life and emotions of a man of high education forced from society, and who strove to conceal a clown. The piece was given to a full house, and Mr. Denny was enthusiastically applauded on his entrance.

KIKE KYSER'S CHEERIO GROUP OVERCROWDED

Two hundred and fifty enthusiasts of Kike Kyser's cheerio organization signed up in Gerrard Hall today, with thirty-five names held over in reserve should any of those now members decide to drop out. Upper classmen are complaining that too many freshmen have registered, and it may be necessary to drop some of them in order to find places for the Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores.

The first rehearsal will be held Monday morning at 10:30 in Gerrard Hall. All freshmen and sophomore members will be excused from Chapel. Rehearsals will continue every day next week at a time to be decided Monday. All upper classmen who signed up at the smokers are requested to be on hand at the first practice.

Stars of "He Who Gets Slapped"

George V. Denny as the clown "He" gave to the Chapel Hill audience last night a performance little short of perfect for an amateur actor. Beautiful Miss Mary Madeline Ross as a bareback rider and the object of He's affection was well cast as Consuelo. Mrs. Hope T. Robertson delighted the University audience in the difficult role of Zinda, a lion tamer. The lovely Spanish shawls which Mrs. Robertson bought in Spain for use in her role received much favorable comment. He Who Gets Slapped will be given again tonight in the Playmaker Theatre.

CHAPPELL ISSUES A WARNING NOTE

Tells Freshmen that the Campus Is No Place for Shooting

S. G. Chappell, president of the student body, made a talk in chapel yesterday in which he warned the Freshman class against a repetition of the fire-cracker shooting and noise making following the Freshman Smoker Thursday night. "It sounded as if the battle of the Marne was in progress on the campus" he said. What punishment would follow another outbreak the president did not make clear.

Chappell also made reference to the fact that a large amount of candy and fruit has been taken from the honor boxes on the campus without the depositing of the required amount of money. "Anyone caught doing such a thing will be asked by the council to take up their abode in other surroundings," he warned those present.

Announcement was made that the '30 class pins are on sale at all freshmen were urged to buy them.

Scales, of Greensboro, president of the General Alumni Association, will make the principal address at the annual University Day exercises to be held on Founder's Day, October 12. The program will begin at 10:30 o'clock and will be concluded shortly before noon. Plans are being made by alumni throughout the state to celebrate the day.

Dr. L. R. Wilson left Thursday to go to Philadelphia and then on to Atlantic City, N. J., to attend the Fiftieth Anniversary Convention of the American Library Association. C. M. Baker will leave Sunday to attend the same convention.

GRAIL WILL OPEN DANCING SEASON NEXT SATURDAY

Dance to Be Given on Evening of the Duke Game Here

FRESHMAN RULES STAND

The Fall social season will get off to a whirlwind start next Saturday on the Bynum Gymnasium floor when the Order of the Grail will give the first dance of its yearly schedule. October ninth is an especially appropriate occasion for the inauguration of ballroom activities here largely on account of the South Carolina football game. The musicians for the dance have not yet been definitely decided upon, but everyone familiar with Grail dances can be sure of the usual high standard to the quality of the music. A good crowd of visitors is expected in town for the week-end, girls included, and all indications point to a characteristically successful opening Grail dance.

Mencken Comes Here

Students and faculty alike are looking forward to the visit of H. L. Mencken, Editor of the American Mercury, on Saturday, October 16.

His stop in Chapel Hill will be an incident of a tour through the South which he is making with Paul Patterson, Publisher of the Baltimore Sun. Mr. Mencken will not make any sort of public appearance here. Invitations have poured in upon him from all over the country to lecture, but he has never yielded to the call of the platform. It is a rule of his life not to make speeches. His schedule provides for only a few hours in Chapel Hill, during which time he and Mr. Patterson will go about the campus and will talk with various members of the university faculty.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL DIRECTS AFFAIRS OF TEAMS NOW

Recently Organized Body is Composed of Students and Alumni

IS THE SUBJECT TO VETO

The newly organized University Athletic Council, which has control over all athletic activities, is scheduled to hold its first meeting of the college year next Tuesday, October 5.

The body was formed as the result of a discussion at the gathering of alumni in the Carolina Inn last winter. With the exception of the eligibility of players, it has control over everything that has anything to do with athletics: the employment of coaches, the allotment of funds among the various sports, the making of schedules, and the determination of policies in general.

Eleven men comprise the council: three members of the faculty, three students, and (ex-officio) the Graduate Manager and the Director of Athletics. The three students are the president of the student body, the president of the Athletic Association, and a representative of the Monogram Club.

A. W. Hobbs is chairman, and A. H. Patterson and R. D. W. Connor are the other two faculty members. The three alumni are Lenoir Chambers, Dr. Foy Robertson, and William Blount. Charles T. Woollen is the Graduate Manager of Athletics and Robert A. Fetzer is the Director of Athletics.

The council has been working, thus far, on the fixing of schedules. Because of the ever-present conflicting opinions as to what institutions should be played, and when, the council is receiving and considering all proposals and will, at a later date, make its decisions.

Since the Southern Conference to which the University belongs, requires full faculty supervision of all athletics, the constitution provides that the faculty members, in conference with the President of the University, shall have full veto power over all acts of the council. A faculty committee still determines the eligibility of players.

The council is to hold a meeting on the first Tuesday of each month.

Wednesday night the Cleveland County Club its first meeting of the year. There was an election of officers, and a general re-organization. The Cleveland County Club has an enrollment of 28 members, and is the largest county club at the University.

TWO GOOD TEAMS

Tar Heel Team and Coaches Left Thursday For Volunteer Stronghold

HAVE NOT MET SINCE 1919

This afternoon will witness the resumption of hostilities between grid teams representing two of the South's strongest universities when the Tar Heels clash with the University of Tennessee Volunteers in the first contest with that aggregation since the two teams fought to a scoreless tie in 1919. The contest, which is to take place on the westerner's gridiron, will be watched with interest throughout the south, as the result will determine, to a large degree, Carolina's strength in Southern Conference circles.

After a week of the most strenuous workouts, the Tar Heels embarked by train to the camp of the Volunteers last Thursday afternoon, where they arrived in tip-top shape yesterday morning, and had a light workout on the Volunteer gridiron in the afternoon. The week's practice has been directed, chiefly, toward the ironing out of many wrinkles which developed in last Saturday's Deacon contest. Special attention has been given to building up a strong defense against passing, the aerial attack of the Baptists forcefully exhibiting the need of such a defense, and when the Volunteer backs heave the pigskin this afternoon, a backfield well versed in the aerial game will have to be considered.

Although having been through one of the stiffest weeks of scrimmage ever witnessed on Emerson field, the Tar Heels will face the Volunteers this afternoon with a squad almost free from injury. The only casualty was Jenkins, fullback, who twisted an ankle in Tuesday's scrimmage and as a result of his injury was not taken to Tennessee.

The Tennessee eleven romped off with an easy victory over Carson-Newman college last week by the score of 13 to 0, which is not a fair estimate of

RIFLE CLUB NOW READY TO BEGIN ACTUAL SHOOTING

One of Finest Ranges in the Country Is Now Ready for Use by Members

ALSO HAVE INDOOR RANGE

Since the opening of school, the Carolina Rifle Club has lost no time in preparing the range for shooting during the next week. Guns, ammunition, and even the flag pole are ready to make good use of the range. The only remaining work to be done is the building of some firing points, which are being rapidly finished in anticipation of the shooting contest of next week.

The range, which was finished last year, is about two miles out on the old Raleigh road. It covers a territory of 40,000 square yards, having a straight range of 450 yards with the opportunity of lengthening it to 700 in case the club desires to go into the game of extra long distance shooting. The pit is
