PARAGRAPHS

Co-ed Cora says don't fall in love too deep for someone is apt to throw you a life line.

Freshman Fritz says when you love a woman more than you can tell in words, try figures.

Our Business Manager says the two kinds of ads that he gets nowadays are get out and stay out.

Probably the most commonly misspelled word in the language is the word, "sheik." It is used often and incorrectly spelled about fifty percent of the time.

Our Reviewer says the co-eds here want to be felt on the campus. Wonder if they are like the girl who hasn't had a date for so long that she forgot what one feels like.

"Kike" has worked out some new stunts for today—some that have never been used here before. We won't let the secret out of the bag, but you can certainly expect something new.

Coach Rockne has done something new in trying to lighten the cumbersome gridiron togs by introducing silk pants to football. Silk trousers with rubber pads might make for speed, but we expect to see some flashy work here today, and it won't come from the presence of silk either.

Dancing must not be as popular in some parts of Canada as it is here. The McGill University paper said "For the second time within the year another formal college dance has had to be cancelled because of an appalling lack of support on the part of the students of McGill." Honestly, that is hard to understand.

Fellows, you might use this one tonight. We heard one student say that he couldn't remember names at all, so when he introduced boys at dances, he would ask the girl whether she spells her name with an "i" or "e", and she would spell the whole name. One danseuse became furious when asked the question. The boy later found out that the girl's name was Hill.

ALUMNI, WELCOME!

Today has been appointed by the University authorities and the general alumni association as Home-Coming Day for the alumni. With the football game between the two state institutions as the feature attraction the date set and the occasion for the return of the alumni is peculiarly fitting.

Preparations for the Home-Coming have been carefully made. Various campus organizations are to see that everything goes off smoothly. Kike Kyser and his Cheerios are going to stage a series of novel stunts on the field before the game. Everything is all set to give the returning alumni an appropriate welcome.

As the Old Grads browse about the campus in search of familiar scenes to recall cherished memories, the hope goes forth that they will constantly bear in mind the greatness of the University and its vast program for the future. The General Assembly meets in January, and at that time the executive committee of the board of trustees will go before the appropriations committee in Raleigh with a budgetary request that shows an appreciable increase over the last biennium appropriation. If the University is to go forward as it has in the past decade, this increase in appropriations must be had. Carolina has never called on her true sons without being answered. The largest request item on the budget is for a million dollar library that will be located between Murphy and Venable Halls, facing South building. Will this badly needed library remain an ambition or will it become a realization? To you, alumni, we turn for the greatest help: your influence among the legislators of the coming session for the interest of the University is sought.

Alumni, the University was yours in the past, is yours today, and will be yours tomorrow, WELCOME.

A WORTHY CAUSE

C. W. Toms, vice-president of Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, has set aside the sum of $5,000 to be used for the establishment of a scholarship at the University of North Carolina in memory of his son, George Newby Toms, whose unfortunate death in an automobile accident a short time ago brought sorrow to the many friends here and elsewhere of the Toms' family. Young Toms was a junior at the University, and was a most likeable young man, having many friends in Durham and at the University. His unfortunate death was a shock to his community.

Mr. Toms has adopted a splendid method for establishing a memorial for his son, one that will serve not only as a fitting memorial, but one that will prove a blessing to many a young man in the future who will receive assistance from that scholarship. It is a worthy memorial.—Durham Herald.

Colonel and Mrs. Joseph Hyde Pratt came Saturday to resume their residence here. Jo is in Choat's school this year.

NEW CONNECTION WITH WEST NOW

Chapel Hill Gets Shorter Outlet To West By Action of Highway Commission

NO ACTION ON EAST ROUTE

Chapel Hill is now connected with the west by a new state highway. This was brought about by a decision of the State Highway Commission at its meeting in Raleigh last Wednesday, when the road from Calvander to Graham was placed on the official state map. Calvander is four miles from here on the state highway to Hillsboro.

It is reported that the road running in the other direction—eastward to a junction with the Central Highway at Nelson—will be placed on the state map later on. When that stretch is taken into the highway system, there will be a new route from the east to the west through Chapel Hill, and the University will be several miles closer to Greensboro and Raleigh than it is now.

There has been considerable interest recently in the proposal to hard surface the old Raleigh road from Chapel Hill out to the Durham county line, a distance of about two and one-half miles. The Durham county commissioners offered to bring their hard surface to the line if Orange would meet them. But the Orange commissioners could not agree to this proposition. They had hoped that the State commissioners would put this stretch on the state map. Although this was not effected at the meeting in Raleigh, the Chapel Hillians are quite certain that in time this two and one-half mile stretch will be taken over by the commission.

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION MEETS

The Parent-Teachers Association will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in the school auditorium. The primary object of this meeting is to discuss the recent need of the high school library for a supplement of books, and the musical activity of the band and orchestra. These two organizations are members of State and National organizations, and in order to sustain the work carried on plans for their aid will be discussed.
