

CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA CLASH THURSDAY

U. N. C. HARRIERS WIN CONFERENCE MEET AT ATHENS

Elliott, Finishing Few Inches In Lead, Wins Meet for the Tar Heels.

GET CUP AND TROPHIES

The University of North Carolina won another Southern Conference Championship Saturday when they journeyed to Athens, Ga., and brought back the huge silver cup that goes to the team winning the Southern Conference cross-country race. The victory of the Tar Heels was one of the most decisive registered in the history of the Southern five mile classic. Their score of 35 points was almost twice as good as that of their nearest opponent, Auburn, with 64 points.

Galen Elliott, in his first appearance at the cross-country meet came thru brilliantly for the Tar Heels by winning first place and establishing a new record for the five mile course. Covering the distance in 26 minutes 45.6 seconds, he barely managed to nose out Hutcherson of Virginia in a thrilling finish that was so close, the watches of the timers failed to record the difference.

Elliott, Pritchett, Daniels, Tilley, Goodwin and Brown were Tar Heels that were hidden somewhere within the little crowd that separated itself from the mob of runners two miles from the beginning. As the end of the race approached, the select crowd thinned out till 300 yards from the finish, Hutcherson of Virginia and Elliott of Carolina were the only two left far out in front. The Virginia man was leading by about twenty yards and then the great battle began. Both runners shortened their stride and started a terrific sprint that lasted to within two feet of the thip white cord. The twenty yard gap between Hutcherson and Elliott gradually had begun to close up and as the finish line was reached Elliott flashed past his rival to win by twelve inches.

Forty-one seconds later, Pritchett, the second Tar Heel to finish dropped across the line in sixth place. Ten seconds more, and Captain Daniels of North Carolina finished in eighth place, staging a brilliant finish to come up from behind and defeat Captain Everett of Georgia Tech by a half second. Then came Tilley, running his first year on the Varsity, only seven seconds behind his captain, in tenth place. And the fifth and last runner to count in the scoring for the Tar Heels was Goodwin in fourteenth place. Brown, another Carolina runner finished only two places behind Goodwin and completed the impression that the tall bunch from North Carolina had one of the most well rounded teams that had ever been assembled below the Mason-Dixon line. Cox, the seventh entry, finished the five mile jaunt in 37th position minus one shoe.

Winners Get Trophies

The first fifteen men to finish were awarded medals. The North Carolina's were presented with a big silver cup and each of the seven men that composed the winning team were awarded individual medals. Elliott brought back a gold medal

TAR BABIES ARE VICTIMS OF AIR ASSAULT; 16-13

Too Many Passes and Drop-Kick Undo Frosh on Emerson Field Saturday.

NUMEROUS PENALTIES

In a battle that resembled a tag-football game because of the numerous forward passes attempted by both sides, the Tar Babies were defeated in the final game of the year by the University of Virginia Freshmen on Emerson field Saturday, by the score of 16 to 13. The margin of the victory was a beautiful forty-three yard dropkick square between the uprights by Byrd, Virginia center, early in the third quarter.

One fourth of the plays attempted by each side were forward passes. Virginia completed most of their attempts, and in this feature of the game they clearly outclassed the Tar Babies. Both of Virginia's touchdowns, made in the first quarter, were contributed by Faulkner, former Episcopal High star.

The Tar Babies pushed across their first marker just after the beginning of the second half. Coach Beiding must have whispered something in their ears in the interval between halves, and this coupled with the Cheerios upon the scene and several beautiful runs by Jimmy Maus, netted the first score. Maus circled left end for the six yards that finally gave the Tar Babies six points.

In the last quarter Maus received a short fifteen yard pass from Whisnant and steered his way back and forth across the field to cover the fifty-five yards between him and the Virginia goal line. This run was the longest of the game and was one of the neatest exhibitions of open field running that the Carolina students have seen this year.

The Tar Babies clearly outplayed their ancient rivals during the last half. Faulkner, the backfield ace of the Cavaliers, had been forced to retire in the

CHASE ADDRESSES ALUMNI MEETING; CONFERENCE ENDS

Grads Pledge Support to Program of University—Chase Points Out Needs.

GRANT SURVEYS WORK

The second annual conference of the General Alumni Association drew to a close last Saturday afternoon after a two-day period of intensive work on the part of the delegates. Interest ran high throughout all sessions and before disbanding the alumni voted to make the conference an annual affair.

Following the dramatic appeal by President Chase, characterized by its favor and earnestness, in which he gave emphatic warning that the State's University, now recognized as a leader among other universities throughout the country, will be forced to take a second rate position unless its legitimate needs for itemized in its budget requests, are met properly, the alumni pledged themselves to support every request for appropriations the University has made of the next legislature and expressed complete confidence in the stewardship of its President.

"The time has come when the people of North Carolina have to make up their mind as to what kind of University they want, and I don't believe for one moment that they will be content with a second-rate university," President Chase declared.

Must Carry On

"The University today cannot measure its needs in terms of student enrollment alone. The institution will be caught up with the current needs of its building program if its present request is granted, but the maintenance program is a thing that must go on. The University is Concrete Laid on Columbia St.

Concrete was laid on one side of Columbia street yesterday, and in a few weeks this part of the municipal improvement program will be completed.

The work has been delayed for a short time, due to the rainy weather, and is still handicapped by the cold. A unique method to keep the fresh concrete from freezing is the spreading of cedar sawdust over the cement and then wetting it with water. If the weather is cold enough to freeze the cement the water on top of the sawdust will form a cake and keep out the air.

Tar Heels and Host of Supporters Move On Virginia for Annual Football Contest

FAREWELL GAME

Captain "Red" Whisnant plays his last game for Carolina when Tar Heel and Cavalier clash on Lambeth Field, November the 25th.

POWERFUL END

Opposing backs have found that going around McMurray's end is as hard as trying to break through a brick wall.

CAVALIERS GIVEN SLIGHT EDGE ON CAROLINA TEAM

Team Faces Virginia in 32nd Contest After Season of Ups and Downs.

VIRGINIA WON 19 OF 32

North Carolina University will invade the land of Neale's Cavaliers in the 32nd contest staged between these ancient rivals.

Belief in their coaches and enthusiasm for the new system will call forth maximum efforts of the Tar Heel warriors when blue and white mixers with orange and blue on Lambeth Field. Turkey-Day honors will decide the success or the failure of either team's season record.

Accompanied by the justly famous Cheerios and "Kike" Kyser, tireless and talented augments of Tar Heel spirit, Carolina students will head for Charlottesville a thousand strong.

Coach Collins and his men will leave Chapel Hill tonight for Lynchburg, Wednesday, in the "city of cliffs." Carolina warriors will practice for the last time this year. A day later, the team from Chapel Hill will assemble on Lambeth Field, Charlottesville, to fight the one battle which in itself can decide the success or the failure of the Notre Dame system's first season at Carolina.

With the exception of Tom Young, versatile halfback, Collins' squad is in splendid physical condition, and is ready to enter the season's most trying event with confidence and the determination to win. "Gus" McPherson, speedy offensive threat, received a muscle injury in the Davidson game, but is expected to be fit by Thursday.

Tar Heels Slip

Carolina began the present season, with a team which was lamentably, expectedly, and undoubtedly weak. Improving by degrees, the local gridironers reached a climax when V. M. I. was walloped to the astounding tune of four touchdowns, two weeks back. Spurred on by such success, the conquering Tar Heels marched against Davidson's Wildcats, failed to produce sufficient punch, and were defeated 10 to 0. This game, however, failed to blast Carolina's hopes for victory in the Thanksgiving Day fracas. The Collinsmen exhibited a powerful offense against Younger's Wildcats and, throughout most of the four periods, maintained an im-

Grail Gave Final Dance of Quarter On Saturday Night

The Order of the Grail closed its fall social season Saturday night with one of the most enjoyable dances of the series that it has given this year. Although the crowd attending was not as large as usual, the dance was marred by the crowded conditions on the floor which characterize most of the Grail dances. A good crowd of girls on the Hill for the occasion and peppy music by Kike Kyser's aggregation both contributed to the success of the dance.

BIG PEP RALLY CLOSES SEASON

Generosity of Students and Townspeople Enable Cheerios To Go to Virginia.

GIVE TEAM FINE SENDOFF

Carolina's football enthusiasts, staging a monster pep meeting rally in Memorial Hall last evening, gave the team a royal sendoff and the Cheerio organization enough money to carry its 250 members to Charlottesville to participate in the Turkey Day Game. This is the last Cheerio show to be held this year.

In connection with the pep meeting an Amateur Night performance was held with Kyke Kyser officiating as the chief clown and master of ceremonies. Aiding Kyke in his vaudevillic endeavors were a six man buck dancing team, clog dancers, an Apache dance quartette, clowns, monologists, acrobats and what-nots. The University Band and Kyke's Orchestra furnished the music.

Short speeches were given by members of the squad, Chief Cheerio Thomas and several faculty members including M. C. S. Noble, Dr. McIntosh, C. T. Woollen and R. B. House. Pres. Chase, through his secretary, R. B. House, conveyed his regrets at being unable to be present due to an unavoidable engagement.

Y Pledges Still Unpaid

In order to bring the Y. M. C. A. financial campaign to a successful close before the end of the fall quarter as has been planned, the "Y" has asked the cooperation of all students who have failed to redeem their pledges made at registration. $2,219.50 in pledges remains unpaid. The total amount of student pledges this year amounted to $3,956.00. The student collections amount to $130.50. The total amount paid in to the Y treasury is $2,009.32.

N. C. CLUB HEARS KARTUS TALK ON SHORT BALLOTS

Traces Present Evils of the Long Ballot To Jeffersonian Democracy.

REFORM GREATLY NEEDED

Speaking before the North Carolina Club meeting last evening in Saunders Hall on the case for the Short Ballot Mr. Alvin S. Kartus said: "If we are to have good government, if we are to have representative government, we must have a government that fits in with the needs and the moods of the people. The people have refused to give cognizance to the minor offices, which has led to a general inertia and misrepresentative government. The long ballot does not work; its rule is machine rule, and machine rule is not democracy. The only way that we will have government by the people in reality is to simplify government sufficiently for the average voter to maneuver it intelligently. The long ballot prohibits this; it is the politician's ballot. The short ballot is the people's ballot."

Mr. Kartus reviewed the progress of the ballot from the founding of the Federal Union, pointing out that at the close of the 18th century when there were few offices the voters were able to come into personal contact with each candidate. Under such a system and set of conditions we had a real democracy.

As the nation grew, many appointive offices were filled by the major officials, and this system continued in vogue until the time of Jackson, who was placed in office largely by his slogan "elect everybody." From the theory of "Jacksonian democracy" the long ballot is evolved.

The realization of this fact brought about the direct primary reform, and it will soon
