PARAGRAPHS

The old grind begins again.

We have resolved not to make any more resolutions.

A news dispatch says that Walter Johnson has signed a one-year contract for his 21st consecutive season with the Senators. Looks like old Barney "stays put" while scandals come and scandals go.

But maybe we shouldn't be speaking of baseball so early in the year. Old King Football has finally given away to Old Lady Basketball and the old 'oman has already made her debut. The games during the holiday session showed that a handicapped team may spring a great many surprises before the season is over.

The first quarter of the School of Religion proved to be quite successful. Twenty students were enrolled and showed their interest by the fact that there was no credit given. They entered the courses and stayed on them because they desired the work for its personal value in the building of their philosophy of life. The cabinet-members of the Y have prepared a list to present to the faculty, containing the names of men who will take courses this quarter provided credit is given. The deans of the University are quite hospitable to the idea of the School of Religion and it is probable that the faculty at an early date will go into the matter of credit-recognition.

The Orange Printshop did a great service in printing and distributing the University telephone directories. We feel sure that the telephone operators will say amen to this.

The expected has happened again. It was promised that renovation would be completed on New East building for the Geology department by the beginning of the Winter quarter. Haste will have to be made if the department is to get in its new home by Easter.

Chapel Hill is a mecca this week for the Fourth Estate. We welcome the newspaper men and hope they will have an enjoyable as well as instructive institute.

W. O. Saunders, editor of the Elizabeth City Independent and called a great iconoclast by many people, will speak in chapel Friday morning. We don't know what Editor Saunders is going to speak about, but we know it will be worth hearing.

STATE APPROPRIATIONS

In several of his recent addresses President Chase has emphasized the fact that the University's needs, as set forth in the budget request for the next two years, have not been over-estimated by one penny and that failure to meet these needs will cripple the institution's progress to no little extent.

President Chase is everlastingly right, and the TAR HEEL hopes the Legislature will give careful consideration to every item on that request. Economy is all right but the calamity howlers have been too many. The University's request for maintenance for the next two years is for approximately $1,100,000 a year, as against the $800,000 it is now receiving. Two years ago the statement of the University's operating needs for the current two years period laid by the institution before the legislature called for an appropriation of approximately $2,000,000 for the current two year period. That was for things that the University regarded as important for it to do two years ago. And that request was sharply cut, the University receiving—instead of the little less than $2,000,000—a little over a million and a half. As a result it was not able to do most of the things it had planned during this period. These things are still important. It is asking for them again, and for an increase over and above these of about ten percent to cover its expansion for the next two years. In other words the University is asking simply that it be placed by 1929 in the position it would have occupied had its program been continued at a normal rate. Surely this is a reasonable request.

The second part of the University's request is for buildings and calls for approximately $2,300,000. It will be recalled that in 1920 the University outlined a building program of five and a half million over a six year period. Of this amount it had received at the end of the six years $3,940,000, and is now asking for this and also for some $750,000 to carry its program up to the end of an eight year period. This will put the University abreast of its current needs.

Of the many pressing needs of the University which are embodied in the building program, the central feature is a modern library, which is regarded by alumni, trustees, faculty, and students as the most pressing.

If the building appropriations now requested is made, the building problem of the University will be settled for some time to come. It will have caught up with its current building needs, and await further expansion.

Surely the Legislature will not halt the progress of this institution when it has reached such an important stage.

THE NEW SPEAKER

It speaks well for University training that all three candidates for the speakership in the House of Representatives were University alumni. They were Richard T. Fountain, '07, of Rocky Mount; Nat Townsend, '05, of Dunn; and H. G. "Tobe" Connor, '97, of Wilson. The three ran a close race, with Mr. Fountain emerging by a narrow margin.

The TAR HEEL is not quite sure what the new speaker means by his pronouncement on "conservative progress," but it feels assured, in view of his previous record, that Mr. Fountain has the capacity and leadership to discharge efficiently the new duties for which he has been selected. He served eight years as judge of the Rocky Mount City Court. He has served as vice-president of the State Bar Association and it a member of the American Bar Association. This is his fifth term in the House, having been elected each time without opposition. His record is impressive.

Editor of TAR HEEL:
I recently spent some two weeks at the University of North Carolina working principally with the materials in your library for studying early American literature, and I want to congratulate North Carolina students, who have at their command so complete a file of early periodical and other literature. I wish also thus publicly to thank the library staff for their cheerful long-suffering and un-failing courtesy in dragging out some hundreds of heavy volumes for my inspection.

Very truly yours,

Editor of TAR HEEL:
After all of the discussion at the senior smoker concerning the question of whether the write-ups should go in the Yackety-Yack or not, I am still convinced that the vain flattery should be left out. Of course the majority of the seniors deciding in favor of the annual carrying the self-satisfying vanity does not mean the editor of that book will do as they wish. He is responsible for the year-book and it is up to him to make it as good as he can in any way he may choose.

In the write-ups that always appear in the Yackety-Yack, there isn't a bit of justification for the contents. Nine times out of ten the men who spend four years hanging around the drug store get more praise for their "contribution" to university life than the man who has really done something here. Everybody is the campus sheik, belongs to the intelligentsia, the literati, and it bound to make a grand success in life. Useless bunk!

With the present prevarication, equivocation, and quibbling in these write-ups there is every justification in the world for leaving them out of the year-book.

Dr. Kluttz Dies

Physician and Merchant Is Taken Away Very Suddenly.

Dr. Adam A. Kluttz died at his home here during the holidays. His condition had been serious for several days but the sudden death had not been expected as only a few minutes before he had been chatting with his friend, M. C. S. Noble.

The Rev. W. D. Moss conducted the funeral from the Presbyterian church. Interment in the cemetery followed the church ceremony.

Dr. Kluttz received his M. D. at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York and returned to Chapel Hill for practice. Later he quit the practice of medicine and entered business.
