First Human Relations Institute Gets Underway With an Auspicious Start

LEADERS START PROGRAM IN THE TOWN CHURCHES

Poteat, Page, Alexander and Taylor Occupy Pulpits in Inauguration of the Institute.

The only hope of the solution of the problems of human relations in international affairs, race and industry; lies in a better application of the principles of brotherhood as taught by the Savior, speakers declared here Sunday in addresses opening the University's first Human Relations Institute which is being held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

The Institute got under way Sunday, when the leaders of the program who are authorities on the subjects for discussion took over the pulpits of four Chapel Hill churches, addressing Sunday school classes and speaking again at the regular 11 o'clock services.

Speaking on "International Relations and War," in the Baptist Church at the morning service, Dr. W. L. Poteat, president of Wake Forest College drew a capacity audience, while the other churches were well filled. Kirby Page, editor of the World Tomorrow, spoke in the Methodist Church; Dr. W. W. Alexander, Executive Secretary of the Southern Inter-racial Commission, in the Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Alva W. Taylor, Secretary of the Board of Research and Welfare, Church of Christ, in the Episcopal Church.

Egbert M. Hayes, national executive secretary of the Association of Foreign Students in America, addressed two Sunday School classes in the Methodist church, pointing out that there are more than ten thousand foreign students in American colleges, who should be given special consideration with the view to having them carry back home a friendly attitude toward this country.

Another feature of the program tonight was a union meeting in the Methodist church of all the young peoples church societies of Chapel Hill. The discussion dealt with war and peace and was led by Mr. Page.

Dr. Poteat, at the morning service in the Baptist church, made a powerful appeal for an understanding among nations that will make war impossible. He declared that America's rejection of the League of Nations was "as disastrous as it is irrational" and that "we have lapsed shamefully from the high mind of 1917 into the absolutism and selfish isolation which we sought to destroy."

Hope of peace, he said lies in change. (Continued on page three)

ORIGINAL PLAYS READ TOMORROW

Student Compositions Be Heard and Best Chosen at Reading.

The reading of original plays written by students in the University will be held at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Playmaker Theatre. All students wishing to try out for the plays to be presented here during the spring quarter should take this opportunity to hear the new plays of which three will be chosen for presentation.

The plays being considered for the reading are Pink Ruffles, a tragedy of small town life by Eral Thompson; The Real Thing, a comedy of a flapper who knows what the real thing is, by Margaret Bland; Sick Babies, a comedy of a married couple who has the problem of children off at school, by John Harding; And Spring Was a Poet, a fantasy of youth and spring, by Virginia Lay; Sir Angus and Lady Jean, a comedy of people who are to entertain guests with titles, by Elizabeth Gray; His First, a burlesque of a boy writing his first mountain tragedy, by Bill Perry; and Tattin', a comedy of grandma who has grown too old to be of much use, by Bill Perry. Of these, four of five will be selected and read.

Dr. Alva W. Taylor, Executive Secretary of the Welfare and Social Research Work of the Christian Church, who will speak in Chapel this morning at 10:20.

PATTERSON AND TAYLOR FEATURE TODAY'S PROGRAM

Taylor Speaks at 10:30 This Morning and Patterson Lectures Tonight.

The program for the first quadrennial Institute on Human Relations in Race, Industry and International Affairs, under the auspices of the Carolina Y. M. C. A. today includes addresses in Memorial Hall by Dr. Alva W. Taylor, at 10:20 a. m., and Dr. E. M. Patterson, at 8:30 p. m. Dr. Taylor is the Executive Secretary of the Welfare and Social Research Work of the Christian Church, with headquarters in Indianapolis, and has carried on extensive research, writing and lecturing in most of the countries of the world. He is reputed to be one of the best authorities in America on human relations in industry. Dr. Patterson, Professor of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania, has specialized in the study of International debts and the economic forces which must be reckoned with in dealing with international issues.

Tomorrow, Arthur Rugh will give an address on "China," at 10:20 a. m., and Dr. James Myers will deliver the evening address at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Rugh, for twenty-one years in China with the foreign department of the Y. M. C. A. is now the Foreign National Secretary of the Organization. Dr. Myers, Executive Secretary of Industrial Research Department of the Federal Council of Churches, is one of our leading specialists in this field.

James W. Johnson, Executive Secretary of the National Association for the Promotion of Colored People, will address a colored mass meeting in Durham tonight, and will make an address to the colored people of Chapel Hill tomorrow night. He has been selected on the recommendation of a number of prominent southern men as one of the most level-headed, constructive thinkers dealing with the race question.

Elaborate exhibits have been set up for public inspection and study in the Y. M. C. A. These include a comprehensive exhibit on the work and organization of the League of Nations, sent out by the Secretariat of the League at Geneva, Switzerland; and an exhibit arranged for the Sesqui-Centennial National Exhibit at the request of the Committee on Negro Activities to have North Carolina portray "Negro Education in a Southern State." The east room on the first floor of the "Y" is devoted to a display of bibliographies on the divisions of the institute program, and complete book displays. These exhibits will continue throughout this week and next week.

Sides Now Coach at Mt. Airy
Bob Sides will be missed from the second bag of the Tar Heel nine this season. He graduated at the end of the winter quarter, and has already accepted the position of athletic coach at Mount Airy High School. He will begin his coaching career in the Granite City with the coming baseball season.

PAGE SPEAKS ON THE CAUSE AND RESULTS OF WAR

Authority on War and Peace Explores Slaughter of International Clashes in Chapel Speech.

"Most men abominate and loathe the idea of killing human beings, yet millions do enthusiastically this thing that they most utterly detest," Kirby Page, internationally known authority on war and peace and the implications of the League of Nations, declared in chapel yesterday morning. Mr. Page's address was the second of a series that he is delivering in connection with the Human Relations Institute that is being held here this week under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

"The failure of voluntary enlistment and the resorting to of conscription by the nations of the world refutes the statement often made that war is inevitable because it is the nature of man to fight. Mass hatred, fanned by false propaganda, is employed by nations to drive their citizens to war. More wars are caused by stupidity than design. We stumble and stagger into war rather than rush into it," Mr. Page continued.

The speaker attributed modern wars to two causes. The first, industrialism, causes economic controversies and wrangling over financial and economic matters. It has been demonstrated, however, that warfare over economic matters is unprofitable. The cost of waging the war always overbalances the value of the property in dispute. "War doesn't pay in dollars and cents," he declared.

Nationalism is the second and by far the largest cause of warfare. It is impossible to speak of it without heat. The world is divided into 60 divisions. These divisions comprise many factors, including race, but race is not the cause of nationalism.

Dramatic Institute Will Begin Thursday; Give Several Plays

The fourth annual Dramatic Institute of the Extension Division of the Bureau of Community Drama, and the State Dramatic Tournament will be held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week in the Playmaker Theatre.

Thursday, the opening day, has been designated Religious Drama Day, Friday High School Day, and Saturday College and Community Drama Day. The finals in the high school contests will be held Friday and college and community club contests Saturday.

The program for this year starts Thursday. Talks and lectures in the afternoon will be given by Rev. M. T. Workman, Dr. H. E. Spence of Duke University, Dr. Alva Taylor, Ethel T. Rockwell, and Frederick H. Koch. At 7:30 there will be a production of religious dramas, directed by Ethel T. Rockwell, at the Baptist Church. The Baptist, Methodist, Episcopal, and Presbyterian churches will all present a short one-act play at this time.

On Friday there will be lectures in the morning by W. R. Wunsch Asheville, Archibald Henderson, and Paul Green, and at 11:30 o'clock a demonstration of stage arts by Hubert Heffner, P. L. Elmore, and Broadus Wilson of Raleigh. In the afternoon comes the final contests in original plays, and at 7:30 the final contests in play production. The institute will continue through Saturday night ending with a masquerade party in the evening.

Freshman baseball practice will begin today at three o'clock on the Freshman field the frosh coach announced yesterday. Equipment will not be issued for two weeks, and all men coming must bring their own equipment.

Officials of the Chemistry Department announce that Chemistry 61 will be given this quarter. They urge that all students interested see Dr. Crockford in Venable Hall prior to noon Wednesday.

- Buccaneer:
Anderson, W. W. (Andy)
- Tar Heel:
Ashby, J. F. (Jud)
- Yackety Yack:
Brandis, H. P. (Henry)
- Magazine:
No nomination.
- Attention is called to the fact that of the nominees for the Publications Union Board, three men are voted for, including one senior and one junior.

The Publications Union has announced the publications nominations for the spring election. In the different publications the nominations made by the editors and staffs received the official sanction of the Union. Hence, the Union hereby announces its nomination of J. F. Ashby for the position of editor-in-chief of the TAR HEEL, W. W. Anderson as the official candidate for the editorship of the Buccaneer, and Henry Brandis as the approved nominee for the editorship of the Yackety Yack. The Carolina Magazine has no duly constituted or definite staff, and for this reason Editor Starr suggested no recommendation for the editorship of the Magazine. The Union did not see fit to nominate without recommendation. The editorship of the Magazine will be left entirely to floor nominations.

The Union according to its constitution and the accepted usage nominated six men as candidates for the Publications Union. Its nominees were as follows: From the rising Senior class, Charles Nelson, E. J. (Mutt) Evans, J. R. (Joe) Bobbitt, Jr., and Killian Barwick; from the rising Junior class, J. O. Marshall and W. D. (Bill) Perry; from the rising Sophomore class, Glen P. Holder. From these nominations each student will vote upon one Senior, one Junior, and one representative-at-large from the candidates named. These men were selected upon the basis of their experience and proven ability in one or more publications, their maturity of judgment, integrity and character, and their general knowledge of student publications. Political considerations were notable by their absence, apparently.

Romance Languages at Swain

The Spanish Table at Swain Hall has proven so successful that agitation has been started by the devotees of the French language for the formation of a similar group with "parlez-vous" as the password. The benefits of speaking a language at each meal are self-evident and there will no doubt be several students who desire to organize a French Table. Those interested may communicate with J. A. Downs at 103 Old East or G. Frederick Cole, Jr., at 109 Hillsboro Sa.

HEELER CONTEST BEGINS TONIGHT

The annual try-out for the repertorial staff of the Tar Heel during the college year 1927-'28 will begin tonight in the office of the paper, which is in the basement of Alumni building. The time set for the "Heeler Contest" to begin is at 8:30 o'clock.

The period of contest will last two weeks. During that time the Heelers will be assigned to cover several events and the members of the new staff will be picked according to the ability shown by them.

About 20 students will be selected from those competing, so men who are interested are urged to come out tonight.

AMERICA IS NOT DOING PART IN WORLD AFFAIRS

Gibbons, in University Sermon on International Affairs, Declares for More Participation.

The regular University sermon for March was delivered Sunday night in connection with the Human Relations Institute. Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons, of Princeton, New Jersey, spoke on some phases of the present international situation.

"Those of the post-bellum generation," declared Dr. Gibbons, "are judging and finding fault with their elders for the unsuccessful management of world affairs since the war. They challenge the Church because of the imperfections of the present world, and they challenge the national leaders because of America's ambiguous position among the nations of the world."

"This younger generation has an opportunity for objective study of the entire situation and should enter into this study with open minds and no preconceived opinions."

Dr. Gibbons went on to tell of America's part in the World War, which grew out of selfish national interests rather than any disinterested motive. "And since the World War," he continued, "the part of the United States has been like that of a mother-in-law—too prone to give advice without accepting responsibility."

"A certain degree of self-interest is natural and not to be condemned. We can not do anything for Europe in the nature of bestowing gifts. Today we must not take the patronizing attitude but rather that of mutual help. The United States holds the key to the situation. We say that we want to cooperate but we only offer advice. If we would eliminate the war debts, France and Germany could get together, and the nations of Europe would return to normal life. This would be no act of pure generosity on the part of America. We cannot get money for our debts; our foreign markets for raw materials would be sacrificed if we tried to force payment."

"The only conclusion is this: the cause of war between nations equal in man power, in culture, and in productivity is that they do not have equal access to colonizing areas, raw materials, and world markets. Till they do and till there is a mutual give-and-take between nations, then there will be war. We of the United States want peace because we have everything; our barns are filled. If we would have lasting peace, we are the ones who must make the sacrifice."

Students Gather To Put Candidates in Race for Coming Elections, April 6 — Class Nominations Made Tonight.

The climax of the political season rapidly draws near; nominations are to be made in Memorial Hall Wednesday night at seven o'clock, and the election is to follow in two weeks on April 6.

The usual queries as to who will run are going the rounds of the campus, but they will soon be settled. Uncertain rumors will become known facts tomorrow night as nominations are made in Memorial Hall. Political parties are grooming their favorite candidates and eloquent nomination speeches are being composed.

Tomorrow night at 7:00 o'clock the whole campus will convene at Memorial Hall for the all-important nominations. First the board nominations for the editors of the TAR HEEL, the Yackety Yack, the Magazine, and the Buccaneer will be made by the Publications Union Board and nominations for the Y. M. C. A. offices by the senior Y. Cabinet. Other nominations may be added to the ones presented.

All nomination speeches will be limited to three minutes, and only the man who makes the nomination will be allowed to extol the virtues of his candidate.

The class nominations will be made tonight in special meetings of the respective classes.

The election will come off on April 6. Polls will be erected at several places on the campus, the location of which will be published later. The boxes will be open from 9:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m. As was done last year the Australian ballot system will be used. No absentee voting will be allowed. Every student must fill out his own ballot at the election booths and place it in the box. Outside interference and influence will be eliminated as much as possible, and all voting will be secret.

This year witnesses a change in the time of elections in that two weeks will elapse between nominations and elections. Last year there was an interval of only three days and the year before of only one day. The new plan will allow the students to find out more about the candidates for each office and will give a longer time for careful consideration and thought.

NOMINATE ASHBY FOR EDITORSHIP

Tar Heel Staff Chooses Managing Editor for Editor.

At a meeting of the editorial staff of the TAR HEEL last Sunday in the office of the paper, J. F. Ashby, of Mount Airy, was nominated for the position of editorship of the TAR HEEL for the coming year. The three managing editors, Ashby, White and McPherson, ran a close race for the nomination, but Ashby finally emerged with the largest number of votes.

The nominee, a junior in the University, was a reporter on the paper during his sophomore year and has served during the present year as managing editor of the Tuesday issue. He has also been conducting an editorial column for his home town paper during the year and has written feature stories for several of the state dailies during the past two summers.

The sub editors will be elected by the staff at a meeting on the night of April 6.

Further nominations for the editorship will probably be made from the floor tomorrow night in Memorial Hall.

CLASS NOMINATIONS

Nominations of class officers of the three rising upper classes will be held tonight at the specified time and places given below:

- Rising senior — Gerrard Hall at 7:30.
- Rising junior — Murphey Auditorium at 7:00.
- Rising sophomore — Gerrard Hall at 7:00.
