

The Driftwood Fire

By Dave Carroll

Mr. Editor:
Sir:
Some of these rapsallion newspapermen of yours have grossly maligned my name and endangered my whole college career. A certain guy foamed at the mouth the other night and your paper took for granted that it was me. And I'm gona git the satisfaction of telling you about your ornery los staff like Al Moore done when you published that air picture of him in connection with the Yackety Yack affair. You will recollect that he raised sand becoz he said that now all the boys on the campus would remember that face and know whair to throw their bricks whereas he had 'lowed that he would hide behind the outskirts of the town untell Pete Woods gang come off their dry drunk. But thats another antidote which I will save for the eager consumption of my boy readers.

Thursday's TAR HEEL done me wrong. It salad forth with a roar of McFadden sensationalism and twixt the collums of scandals I seed whair Dave Carroll, a debater in the Phi, had strained a gut and swore that all these pop quizzes aint fair to us juniors and seniors who misses our classes regular in accordance with Dean Hibbards last wish. (The poor fellow reely aint dead and he says he aint thinking of such a deed, but this new-fangled idea is just the last thing he done.) This story which you or your buddies writ stated that I was all agin this here new system and that I said there aint no justice nohow.

Mr. Editor, you're just a pop-eyed liar. You and your whole staff of ruffian-necked doodlebugs. You folks think you're a roaring borealis of wisdom, but you aint never been afflicted with a single thought. If all the packing in your cylindrical head was to blow up and bust, it wouldn't sound like a skeeter's squeedunk. If you wasn't so full of yourself, you would git out onct in a spell and let a speck of gumption secrete itself in your turkey gobbler ways.

You toad frogs said in that air TAR HEEL that I was addressing the Phi Dissembly. Howsomever, that aint so. I never have admitted that I was a belonger of that lodge no how. I'm representing my country in the Dialectic Senate. And I'm totable shore that this here news is just another effort on them Phi fellows' hands to bring fame to their ole bull pen. I aint never spoke to those boys and I aint a-gonna do it—so they needn't come a-begging.

And another thing, you dern paper trash. I don't want to hear tell of your trying to git me in bad with my teachers bout their pop quizzes. I think pop quizzes is fine things and I have always studied hard and I love all my teachers. (Please put them words in big Italics.) And I'll put a hoss whip on any fellow what tells lies on me, I don't care who he is. (You needn't put them words in Italics.) Why, I mout a-been busted on some of these courses.

As for that spalpeen who actually done all that gobbling and complaining, I think I know him. He is a bad boy who aint ever knew what to do with civilization. He is still at large, but his name aint Dave. It is Norwood Carroll, and he's a desperate fellow. Sandy Claw is scairt not

French Contest Won By Davidson Girl

Miss Sarah Withers Takes First Honors in Second Annual Contest.

The University Extension Division announces that Miss Sarah Withers, of Davidson High School, is the winner of the second annual French contest.

A large number of papers were submitted, as high schools throughout the state competed. The contest was held under the auspices of the University Extension Division in connection with the French Department of the University. Its purpose was to create a greater interest in the study of French.

In grading the papers the committee counted the actual number of errors and computed the final score on the basis of a scale which took into account the varying difficulty and importance of the different parts of the examination. On the basis of the scale used the winning paper had only seven errors, while many of the poorer papers submitted contained as many as 190 mistakes.

The twenty contestants whose papers were considered the best are as follows:

Sarah Withers, Davidson High School; Ruth Guilford, Statesville High School; Sara Ownbey, Millard High School, Asheville; Nell Wilkinson, Hickory High School; Margaret Fawcett, Millard High School, Asheville; Mary K. Newton, Hickory High School; Henry A. Page, Millard High School, Asheville; Beulah Lavender, High Point High School; Adelaide Shuford, Hickory High School; Lucy Martin Currie, Davidson High School; Theta Martin, Dunn High School; Louise Buckner, Graham High School; Angela Whitley, Clayton High School; Mary S. McCallum, Rowland High School; Adele Arbuckle, Davidson High School; Judie Bursleson, Albemarle High School; Ruby Casey, Alliance High School; Charles A. Rogers, Rowland High School; Sarah Faircloth, Rowland High School; and Kate Page, Lillington High School.

Sides Gets Year's Leave of Absence

L. R. Sides, principal of the Chapel Hill High School, has been granted a leave of absence from the high school for the following year during which time he will study at Columbia University.

Several changes will take place in the personnel of the faculty of the high school. Dr. E. R. Mosher, director of teacher training in the School of Education at the University, will be the superintendent during Mr. Sides' absence. Mr. Munsch, head of the school department, will be temporary principal. A supervisor will be chosen in the near future to take charge of the elementary department. Professor Sides will finish the work necessary for him to obtain his doctor's degree before he returns to Chapel Hill. He will take up his work at Columbia beginning with the coming fall quarter.

to bring him toys ever Christmas.

I don't want nobody thinking he kin hoss education and leastwise a peart fellow like me. I know all my Easter eggs, you old fat woman. And my folks to home, who is also clever, has alluz voted the Democratic ticket and never will fergit the pore and needy but will wallop all you uns who thinks its smart to use a good man's name in vain. And don't fergit that there hoss whip, nuther, Mr. Editor.

P. S. In spite of your wise-cracks, I want you to know that I am a publisher, and no dern Firman.

OPEN FORUM

Editor of TAR HEEL:
Thursday's issue of the TAR HEEL handed the story of the student elections just as might have been expected, considering the managing editor of that issue. It was certainly in keeping with his policy all this year of seeing how rabid and red he could make our newspaper look. It is not surprising in the least that the student body repudiated his policies at the polls Wednesday. It was no accident that he got only 228 of the 1419 votes cast for the editorship of the TAR HEEL. Had he been elected this campus would have been a seething caldron all next year.

But there's little use now pointing out facts that are already pretty well known. Suffice to say that the managing editor of the Thursday issue belongs on a yellow paper like the ill-fated Faun, not on a real newspaper like the TAR HEEL which aims always to be fair.

Wonder what the people out in the state who are not well acquainted with conditions on this campus thought of that streamer headline: "Frat Frame-up Candidates to Rule Carolina's Democratic Campus." They would have plenty of reason for thinking that a fierce war is being waged between the fraternities and non-fraternities on this campus, and that the fraternities won out in the recent elections. Everybody who knows anything at all about this campus knows that antagonism between fraternities and non-fraternities has long been a thing of the past. They know furthermore that in every political machine in recent years the non-fraternities have had equal representation with the fraternities. They know also that the non-fraternities can carry any election the way they want to, so far do they outnumber the fraternities.

There was absolutely nothing in the story of the elections to justify the headline the managing editor wrote. Seems to me it was a plain case of "sour grapes."

FROSH TRACKMEN DOWN DUKE HERE

Final Score Is 79 to 49; Barkley and Horney Star in Meet.

Jumping into the lead by capturing the majority of points in the opening events the Carolina Tar Babies easily trounced the Duke freshmen in a track meet held Tuesday afternoon on Emerson field 76 2-3 to 49 1-3. Two new records were established by the Carolina yearlings.

Barkley, Carolina distance man swung thru the mile in 4 minutes 33.4 seconds lowering the Southern freshman record by two seconds. Nims, Barkley's teammate trailed him a bare four yards at the finish.

Bill Horney, present holder of the State high school record for the half mile, bettered his past feat by winning that event for the Tar Babies in 2 minutes 3.2 seconds. Ashworth, Duke distance man showed up very well during the meet, taking third in the mile and then later winning the two mile grind in 10 minutes 9 seconds.

J. K. Smith and Fort both of Carolina tied for high score with ten points each. Smith won both dashes while Fort led in the low hurdles and broad jump. Baume led the Duke scoring with eight points. Carolina seemed especially strong in the dashes but a little weak in the weights.

Dr. Addison G. Brenizer, goitre and brain specialist of Charlotte, will address the Medical Society in Caldwell Hall at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Society officials urge that all men who are contemplating entering into the medical school hear Dr. Brenizer.

The local library recorded the largest circulation in its history during the month of March which reached 16,900. The circulation for the week of March 27 to April 2 was the largest weekly circulation on record. The circulation was 4,577.

campus, snatching this information out of the dying embers, decided that the unknown candidate was the man for an office and a diligent and violent exploration was instigated. Practically every man whose name appeared on the tickets was accused of being "it." Bets were flung about in abandon; Wm. J. Burns was wired; and the quest waxed thicker and hotter.

Finally someone came through with the explanation that the man was Dave himself, but another alert brain killed the point on a rebuttal with the information that Carroll was not running for office. It was at this time that the news came of a voter who was roaming at will over the campus and the search for Dave's man ended and the hunt for the voter started.

Excellent Material On Campus

Never in the history of the University has there been so many men who deserved an office. It was planned by a few to start an agitation for more offices and if necessary, to split the University into two universities in order that all men might hold the office of their choice, but this was stamped under foot by a few men who did not choose to belong to a university that had a dual personality.

The men selected by friends for offices this year have been presidents of everything from "The Sons and Daughters of the I Will Arise" to the "White

If the men on the campus this year will linger next year, they stand an excellent chance of being elected to an office. There need be no politicking. Everyone on the campus already knows the price each candidate paid for his last suit of B. V. D.'s; how many pure-bred police dogs he has had; and what he expects to do with his next month's allowance. Elections next year should be a safe and sanitary proposition.

Devils for Rough Work— Yet Delicate in Design

THE steel industry demands and is using Otis Furnace and Bell Hoists for their modern blast furnaces. These may be in continuous operation night and day for periods of from three to seven years, depending upon business and life of furnace lining. Hence the Otis Hoist and Otis automatic controlling mechanism must be extremely reliable and constructed to withstand the severe strains and wear imposed by years of continuous service.

One of the most important features in connection with furnace hoists is the question of continuous operation. The machines must be entirely dependable, so that there will be no shutting down for repairs, as it is a very expensive matter to shut down a complete blast furnace, which would be necessary if the hoist were out of service.

The filling of the furnace itself is done by one man, all operations being so interlocked that the operators cannot deviate from the prescribed schedule. The furnace is filled by means of skips operated by Otis automatic electric hoisting machines. The materials used are ore, coke and limestone, each load of a kind being dumped into the skip from a car carrying material from the bins.

As the skip reaches the top of the furnace, it automatically delivers the material onto the upper valve or small bell of the furnace. As the skip starts down, an automatic device starts the small bell operating mechanism, allowing the small one to open and deposit the material on the lower valve or large bell. After a number of predetermined loads of the various materials have been deposited on the large bell, the automatic device starts this into motion, allowing the full load to slide off the bell into the furnace.
