

Duke and Davidson Win Tennis Honors

Captain "Dunc" Elgin of Carolina Loses in Semi-Finals.

The state intercollegiate tennis tournament which has been going on during the past week on the Varsity courts was completed Thursday afternoon with Whisnant of Duke winning the singles and Carr and McCutcheon of Davidson winning the doubles. Whisnant's opponent in the finals was Roddy, the Davidson star, who played a good, consistent game, although he lost in straight sets. The other finalists in the doubles were Whisnant and Rogers, the Duke experts.

Both semi-finals in the singles were very interesting events, with Roddy barely nosing out Captain "Dunc" Elgin of Carolina, while Rogers, last year's state champion was being defeated by Whisnant, his teammate, in a close and interesting match. Carr and McCutcheon, in the meanwhile were playing their double semi-final against Powers and Hall, the Wake Forest aces, who were decisively defeated to the tune of 1-6, 2-6.

At two o'clock, the singles finals was called. Whisnant, who had been conceded practically no chance at all to even reach the finals, faced across the net Roddy, the favorite of the gallery, who was expected to come through in easy fashion. When a few games had been played, however, it could be seen that Roddy had been greatly weakened by the strain which he had undergone throughout the tournament in disposing of such good men as Powers, the Wake Forest captain, and Elgin, the leader of the Carolina team. Whisnant was giving the best exhibition of tennis that has ever shown on local courts, and, forcing the play at every turn, ran out a decisive victory by the score of 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

The doubles finals was perhaps the most interesting match in the whole tournament, as the three hardest-hitting and most brilliant men in the whole tournament were playing. Rogers' bullet-like serves were like rapier thrusts, while the Wildcat team was driving the ball with terrific velocity. However, the better team play of the former state champions came to the fore, and the Davidson pair won by the close score of 6-0, 0-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

MAKING DEGREES MORE DIFFICULT

History Department Adding Further Requirements to Master and Doctor Degrees.

Graduate students will have to work harder from now on if they expect to get masters or Doctors degrees, if all the departments follow the lead set by the department of History and Government.

Dr. Pierson states that the requirements will be more rigid and more work will be required. In addition to the requirements made by the University, the department of History and Government is making some additional requirements. Each candidate for a degree will be held responsible for all of the courses in his major subject, and for any other readings or courses that his committee or the Department may require. Further, in addition to the languages required by the University (a reading knowledge of French and German) the candidate is expected to have such a knowledge of the language or languages in which the chief sources of his dissertation are found, that he may use these sources easily. (Woe be unto the man who takes the life of the pre-historic Egyptians.)

There are other additional requirements which appear in "The University of North Carolina Record," carrying the latest announcements of the department of Government and History to graduate students.

"With women in practically all the professions smoking, I have observed those in my own calling and have found their favorite cigarette is the Lucky Strike. I always choose it for my occasional smoke because it affords the greatest relaxation and pleasure."

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.
