

CELLAR
SEEPINGS

Friend John told us last week that women here certainly were hard to know. Said he'd done more "think-loving" in the past week than he thought was humanly possible.

But wouldn't it be fine if people could send clothes by radio? Then my brother in Australia and I could wear the same pair of pyjamas.

Well, we can't send pyjamas by radio but radio has made many a man put 'em on.

Speaking of mathematics, if two times two were equal to five, there'd be a helluva lot of flunks in math this term.

Which goes to prove that women ain't the only things with figures—look at the Sanskrit tablets.

And they're both alike—nobody knows everything about either of them.

Women pay no attention to their figures—look at the telephone girl.

We know one "hello damsel" who had a lot of beautiful lines but they were always busy.

Some bird gave her a ring but she refused it because it was not a cluster.

And when he married her, he brought a brass band to the wedding; but she got a divorce when it turned green.

She said it made no difference what grounds she got her divorce on, her husband knew nothing about real estate.

Now he's a telephone widower.

We heard of a telephone system that was so bad it took four days to get the fire department.

His son had just come in from a date and needed cooling off.

We suppose all this happened in Chapel Hill.

If it did, no one would know whether to lay the blame on the telephone company or the fire department.

You get service from both a la carte.

A la ox cart.

They're all right in their way but they don't weigh very much.

Somebody told me the other day that love was an abscess of the gizzard. If that's true, the best thing to do is to cut it out.

But we won't go into that now.

Tumor cracks like that and we should be shot.

Perhaps we are, who knows?

We know of a woman with such a dark past that she has to carry an electric light wherever she goes.

And just because a man carries his date to the marble orchard, that's no sign that she's a dead one.

You'd delight Blanche Ring if you offered her a Lucky Strike She'd say to you:

Blanche Ring, popular comedienne and noted star of the stage.

"The life of an actress is one of nerve-strain. If she sings, also, her worries are doubled. Her audiences reflect her moods. If she is mentally tired, she cannot help but convey her fatigue to those out in front and the result is a form of ennui on both sides of the footlights. I have found a sure cure for such fatigue, on the part of the player, is a good cigarette. For years I have smoked Lucky Strikes and the mental balm and real enjoyment I have derived from them have helped me marvelously. In addition they have protected my voice. I use no other brand."

Blanche Ring

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

When in New York you are cordially invited to see how Lucky Strikes are made at our exhibit, corner Broadway and 45th Street.
