Public Welfare Institute Acclaimed Great Success

THE SPEAKERS ARE GOOD

Week of Meetings Closes With Burlesque Dinner and Election of Officers.

The eighth annual Public Welfare Institute closed its sessions here Friday night and ended what has been termed the most successful institute ever to be held at the University.

At the final meeting Dr. P. H. Fleming, of Alamance, was elected president of the North Carolina Association of County Superintendents of Public Welfare. He succeeds K. T. Futrell, of Pitt. J. B. Hall, of Halifax was elected vice-president and Miss Lucile M. Eifort, of Moore, secretary-treasurer.

At the Thursday meetings Dr. George Preston, Director of the Children's Clinic of Richmond, Virginia, spoke to the delegates on different phases of child psychology.

In treating the field of child training, Dr. Preston pointed out the dangers of being inconsistent; giving too many directions and being inconsiderate of the child. Turmoil in the family, he said, multiplies these other factors several times.

"If a boy steals and has a father and mother, it is their fault," said Dr. Preston. "We are born liars and acquire a sense of truth later, and it is first of all up to the parents to train their children."

"If a child is termed disobedient, one should remember first that it involves another person—the one giving the orders," he continued. If a child is given an order every five minutes, naturally he can't obey them all, and if a three year old child is told to do something impossible as sitting still for half an hour, disobedience will surely follow. It is just as wrong to be incon-

MORE THAN 850 ARE REGISTERED FOR SECOND TERM

This Is 30 More Than Attended the Same Session a Year Ago.

The enrollment for the second term of the University of North Carolina Summer School has passed the 850 mark, according to reports received from the office of Dr. T. J. Wilson, Registrar.

In fact the exact registration on Tuesday, which was the last day on which students could register and receive credit for their work, was 852. This is 30 more than the registration at the second term last summer when only 822 were enrolled.

According to University officials, the first term, which ended with a total registration of 1684, superseded all others not only in the numbers enrolled but also from the standpoint of academic and professional training.

"The administrative officials," said Dean N. W. Walker, Director of the Summer School, "are highly satisfied with the manner in which the Summer School has been conducted and in the smooth manner in which it ran off. It has been an outstanding summer school from the standpoint of selectness of students, strength of faculty, and lack of necessity for disciplinary action."

SING!

There will be an old time singing held on the lawn of the Presbyterian church Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock. The Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society is sponsoring the occasion, which they call "Ye Good Ole Time Sing." L. R. Sides will direct the singing, and Miss Cora McDuffy will be at the piano.

GLEE CLUB GIVES RADIO CONCERT

Will Be on the Air at Seven O'clock This Evening.

The University of North Carolina Glee Club left yesterday for New York, whence they will sail Saturday, July 30 for a month of concerts in Europe under the patronage of Alanson B. Houghton and Myron T. Herrick, ambassadors to England and France.

The members of the Club—32 in number—left early yesterday morning by car for Washington, D. C., where they will board a special pullman for New York. On the way they will give a concert at Woodberry Forest tonight. Tonight North Carolinians will be given their last opportunity to hear the singers when they broadcast from station WEAH in New York between 7 and 7:30 o'clock standard time. Seven stations will be hooked up to relay the concert. A concert at Orienta Beach Club at Mamaroneck, N. Y., Friday will be the last to be given on American soil before sailing.

Visits of choral societies from European countries to the United States have been far more frequent than trips of American singers to Europe. The appearance of the North Carolina glee club in Paris and London will provide the first opportunity that Europeans have had to hear a distinctive presentation of America's only folk songs, the negro spirituals and work songs.

The Tar Heels will land at Plymouth, England, about August 8, with their first English

Karl Jansen Will Lecture Next Week

Karl Jansen, the well known Swedish lecturer and popular entertainer, will give his lecture on "The Land of the Midnight Sun" next Thursday evening in Memorial Hall at 8:30 o'clock. This entertainment will be the second of the series of summer attractions of the second term.

Those who have secured season tickets for the attractions will be admitted on presenting the same at the door. Season tickets for the attractions are still on sale at Peabody building and by each of the chaperons in the various buildings. A goodly amount will be saved the purchaser of the season ticket, notwithstanding the fact that the first performance took place last night. The Jansen lecture, the Devereux Players and the Carolina Playmakers make up program for the remaining numbers on the attractions list.

DE SAYN STRING QUARTET GIVES A GOOD CONCERT

First of Summer Attractions
Enjoyed in Memorial Hall
Last Night.

The Summer Attractions program for the second term of University Summer School presented the Elena de Sayn String Quartet here last night as the opening number.

A large audience greeted the musicians and the company composed of Miss de Sayn, first violin; Lynch Luquer, second violin; Miss Lydia Brewer, viola; and Ludwig Manoly, cello, gave them a program that from all indications thoroughly satisfied.

The program was a model violin recital. Using representative composers from four different countries, the group expressed much of the soul of Holland, Bohemia, Russia, and Norway in the performance.

The violin was the base on which the whole concert was built, and in Miss de Sayn's hands that little instrument made a decidedly good impression. Through the whole program there was a pleasing element of refinement, and listeners were always conscious of the fact that they sat before four artists of a quiet musical nature. A warm musical feeling and the clear singing tone of the stringed instruments filled Memorial Hall.

Twice as Many Women as Men Attended First Summer School

The number of women attending the first term of the University Summer School, which closed last week, almost doubled the number of men enrolled, according to figures given out today from the office of the registrar.

The total enrollment for the first term was 1684. Of these 1010 were women and 674 men. The college division of the Summer School led in registration with 876. Four hundred and seventy-one registered in the Normal school division, and 313 were in the graduate school. Twenty four were enrolled as special students in music.

The number of students enrolled exceeded the first term enrollment of last year by 183. During the second term last

SECOND SUMMER SCHOOL OF LAW HAS BEEN OPENED

The Second Session in the History of the School Has Sixty Students.

The second Summer Law School in the history of the University has a registration of sixty, this being five less than the total number of registrations for the first term.

Like the first term, this second term will place the emphasis on regular work for a law degree rather than on coaching classes for the bar examination.

During the term that has just closed there were 65 students registered for work in law, these came from eleven states as follows: North Carolina 46, South Carolina 4, Mississippi 1, Oklahoma 1, Virginia 4, New York 2, Florida 3, Texas 1, Louisiana 1, Tennessee 1, and Georgia 1.

Sixty per cent of this number had already received their college degrees, and there were three M. A.'s and one Ph. D. among the lot. It is believed from the experience of summer law schools elsewhere, that in the future some members of the bar may desire to spend some vacation time studying subjects of special interest to them here at the summer school.

Daniel C. Page, Carpenter, Dies After Auto Accident

Negro Glee Club of Durham Coming Here

Secretary Comer, of the summer Y. M. C. A., announced yesterday that he had obtained a negro glee club for a full concert of southern negro spirituals here Friday, August 5th, in Memorial Hall.

The club is composed entirely of employees of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, a negro firm operating in Durham, and doing a big business all over the United States. There will be about 20 singing voices.

The program, which begins at 8:00 o'clock, is a part of the regular entertainment program sponsored by the "Y." A small admission fee will be charged.

Casts Chosen for Two Summer Plays

Carolina Playmakers Offer Number on Summer Attractions Program.

The following is the cast that has been retained for the two one-act plays that will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers here August 18. This program is to constitute one of the regular Summer School attractions and holders of season tickets will be admitted without additional charge.

"In Dixon's Kitchen": Lem Isley, H. W. Bailey; Annie Lee Dixon, Katherine Register; Pa Dixon, Shepherd Strudwick; Ma Dixon, Mrs. Daniel; Gil Dixon, P. C. Munn; and Jack Dixon, Charles Graham.

"The Scuffletown Outlaws": Henry Berry Lowrie, William N. Cox; Steve Lowrie, Pendleton Harrison; John Sanders, Shepherd Strudwick; Donohee, A. B. Couch; Luke Locklear, J. P. McNatt; Rhody, Lena Flynt; and June Lowrie, E. Bayou Rose.

WARREN'S VICTORY ENTHUSES STUDENTS

Talk of the Dempsey-Sharkey contest, which had been the topic of conversation among fight followers, was put in the shade Friday night, when news reached university students here that K. O. Warren, junior national champion of the United States, had knocked out the big Indian army fighter, Chief Mayle, in the second of what was to have been a four-round bout at Fort Bragg.

The University boxer returned to the Hill late last night, looking none the worse for the encounter, except for a slight cut on the upper lip. The knockout came in the first minute of the second round when Warren hooked a left to the jaw, followed by a crashing right which stretched the Indian on the canvas for the count.

"Now that I've knocked out Mayle," Warren said, "I'm going to put my time into getting in shape for football in the fall." Warren, playing at tackle last year, was one of the outstanding linemen on the University eleven.

Our idea of an optimist is the guy that goes straight home when he knows his family knows he has flunked three courses.

DRAGGED FORTY-TWO FEET

J. E. Mansess Held under $1,000
Bond on Charge of Manslaughter.

Daniel Carl Page, 35, carpenter forman for T. C. Thompson & Bro., engaged in erecting University of North Carolina buildings, died at the University infirmary Monday morning about 7 o'clock, a few minutes after he had been struck and dragged 42 feet on East Franklin street in Chapel Hill by a car driven by J. E. Mansess, 53, of West Durham, cabinet maker for the University's building division.

Mr. Mansess was on the way from his home to his work in Chapel Hill about 6:50 o'clock when the accident happened. Mr. Page had parked his car about halfway between the Graham Memorial building and Battle dormitory on Franklin street and had started across the street to go to the post-office. He halted about the middle of the street for another car to pass, then took a step or two, when he realized that the Mansess car was approaching. Thinking evidently that it would pass in front of him, as the other had, Mr. Page stepped back. Mr. Mansess, thinking Mr. Page would continue toward the sidewalk, swerved toward his left. The man and car apparently dodged back and forth two or three times before the car struck. The impact broke Mr. Page's neck near the base of the skull and both of his shoulders, the examination showed. The radiator cap on the car was broken off and the radiator dented in so the fan would not run, it was shown.

Mr. Mansess was held under

HONOR STUDENTS FROM ENGLAND TO STUDY AT U. N. C.

This Institution Among the Few Which are Chosen for Graduate Work.

The University of North Carolina is among the few institutions in the country chosen by honor men graduates of British universities in which to continue their studies, according to announcement made in London recently of the award of Commonwealth Fund fellowships amounting to $125,000 to twenty honor graduates of British universities who are to come to the United States in the fall for two years' study in American universities.

The awards this year, as previously, were made by a committee of leading British educators, with the Prince of Wales as honorary chairman, and Sir Walter Buchanan-Riddell, Principal of Hertford College, Oxford, as chairman.

The Commonwealth Fund was established by the late Mrs. Stephen V. Harkness in 1918 as a philanthropic foundation "for the welfare of mankind." Any one of the 26 institutions belonging to the Association of American Universities may be selected by a successful candidate, but ordinarily not more than three scholars in any year's quota may choose the same university.
