LITTLE THEATRES OF STATE ARE TO ISSUE MAGAZINE

University Sponsors Move to Issue Quarterly Sheet—Discuss Plans for Festival.

The Carolina Dramatic Association, an organization composed of Little Theatre groups throughout the state, and sponsored by the University of North Carolina Extension division, held an executive meeting in Chapel Hill this week and decided to begin at once the publication of a magazine to be distributed to members of the Association.

The new publication was not given a name, but it was decided that it would be issued quarterly in a size of about 6x10 inches and containing about 20 pages. There will be a special section for reporting the activities of the different dramatic clubs throughout the state, and it will carry special articles by authorities in the Little Theatre world, lists of plays for the convenience of play committees and directors, and announcements from the officers of the association.

Prof. Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers, was made editor of the new publication, and William N. Cox, business manager. (Continued on page four)

DEAN BRADSHAW TALKS TO FROSH

Points Out Value of Regular Attendance at Chapel Exercises.

"Freshman chapel exercises are just as educative as freshman English or math, and even just as essential toward obtaining a degree," F. F. Bradshaw, Dean of students, declared yesterday morning in Memorial Hall during the first regular chapel exercises of the year. "They are absolutely necessary in getting the new men settled and orientated."

Dean Bradshaw explained the three functions of chapel—to provide a few minutes for devotional exercises, to afford an opportunity for making announcements to the new men, and to present talks or programs by the Band, Glee Club, Playmakers, or other organizations. He urged that all new men continue to attend chapel regularly pending the assignment of seats and the checking of attendance. Seat assignments will be mailed out within the next few days and compulsory attendance will begin immediately after they are received.

Harry F. Comer, secretary of the University "Y," announced that all self-help men who have not already been placed will be given work in the next few days. He stated that those in the greatest need of financial assistance will be given work first. "We will place every man here who desires work," he said. "No student can offer lack of finances as an excuse for leaving the University."

RELIGION SCHOOL BEGINS SESSION

Many Students Register for Prof. Workman's Courses This Quarter.

The School of Religion at Chapel Hill began its classes yesterday morning at 8:30. The classes will meet this quarter in the Methodist church on the second floor of the connecting unit. Professor Mims Thornburgh Workman, A.B., Henderson-Brown College; A.M., Emory University; B.D., Southern Methodist University, remains as head of the school again this year.

In an interview with Prof. Workman yesterday afternoon, he explained that the School of Religion here was a part of the movement throughout the United States to establish a school of religion at every state university, and it exists for the purpose of giving instruction in religion and especially in the Bible, through courses in which regular University standards are maintained.

The courses are primarily for University students, but others are not excluded. Religion 51, The Hebrew Prophets, meets each Tuesday and Thursday at 4 P. M. and should prove to be a valuable course for Sunday School teachers and church workers. However, University credit will not be given for work passed in the School of Religion. The matter is now pending before the faculty and it is hoped that credit will be voted during the present academic year.

More than 40 students and townpeople availed themselves of the opportunity last year of taking work in the School of Religion and a large number have already registered for the courses this quarter. All who have not yet registered and wish to take work this quarter are requested to attend class today or tomorrow and register at the regular class hour. There is no tuition or registration charges attached to the courses.

The following is the schedule for the Fall quarter:

Religion 1, "The Life and Literature of the Hebrew People": a course in the contents of the Old Testament, as the source for the study of the history of the Hebrews and their religious development. Three hours a week. 12:00 Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Religion 2, "The Life and Teaching of Jesus": a course in the first three Gospels, their origin and contents. Three hours a week. 8:30 Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and 12:00 Tu., Th., Sat.

Religion 51, "The Hebrew Prophets": their times, personality, and message. Two hours a week. 4:00 Tuesday and Thursday.

Additions Made To Library Staff

Growth of Student Body Causes Increased Book Circulation.

Several additions have been made to the staffs of the various departments of the University library. The constant growth of the student body which has invariably increased the circulation of the library is mainly responsible for the staff additions. It is to be remembered that the circulation of last spring quarter broke all previous records.

Dr. Baker, assistant librarian, announces the following new members of his staff: Misses Hailey and Cameron in the circulation department, Miss Ruble in the order department, Misses Thrall and Smith in the catalog department, Miss Curry in the periodical department, and Miss Beust in the Education library in Peabody building. Miss Averitt has been transferred to the new Geology library in New East building.

FRESHMAN WEEK STARTS NEW MEN

Over 900 Freshmen Initiated into Carolina Campus Life and Traditions

The third annual Freshman Week program started in true fashion last Tuesday morning when over 900 freshmen met at Memorial Hall to get their first idea of the Carolina campus life, traditions, and ideals. The first meeting was supervised by Dean Bradshaw who at that time organized the freshmen into thirty groups of thirty men each. These groups were then turned over to the group counselors and the student assistants.

The entire program had been working out to perfection and under the direction of Dean Bradshaw worked in an admirable manner. The systems worked out have functioned without a flaw and the faculty leaders, as well as the students, spared neither time nor effort to make the program as interesting and educational as possible.

After the meeting at Memorial Hall on Tuesday, the freshmen were carried around the campus, given an opportunity to learn the buildings and learn to find their way about the campus. The counselors carried their groups for a tour of the library at which place they were shown the methods used by the members of the library staff. During the day every man was given a physical examination at the gym by the members of the coaching staff and students in the medical school.

After the English Placement tests, which were given on Tuesday night, the freshmen again met at Memorial Hall and went through the task of registering for the fall quarter's work. When the groups had completed their registration they went to Gerrard Hall where talks on the Carolina student government were made. These meetings were supervised by prominent members of the Carolina campus and members of the Student Council for the coming year.

Wednesday night saw a very interesting test given the freshmen when the Psychology department gave its mental alertness tests. Over 100,000 college freshmen are taking the same test this year. Dr. English Bagby of the psychology department is in charge.

The last step in the Freshman Week activities was the meeting with the deans of the different schools on Thursday night. The deans explained the requirements for degrees and also gave special advice to men who were doubtful of the courses they should pursue.

The following faculty men and students aided Dean Bradshaw throughout the entire program, the first named in each case being the faculty counselor and the latter the student assistant:

LIBRARY RECEIVES ART COLLECTION

Carnegie Corporation Donates Valuable Collection to University.

The University library is the recent recipient of a large and elaborate art cabinet and a collection of prints and art books. It is the gift of the Carnegie Library Corporation, of New York City, which has previously made several other donations to the library. The large cabinet fills the entire space that was formerly occupied by the fiction shelves at the left of the main desk and opposite the doors of the periodical rooms. The library officials estimate the value of the cabinet and the art editions to be $5,000.

This particular addition to the library is one of the most interesting changes and additions that have occurred on the campus during the summer. The cabinet is made of highly finished walnut of an exquisite grain. It is fitted with several doors and drawers which open to spacious shelves and compartments. The art collection consists of portfolios and books containing prints of both the old masters and the modern artists. The librarian states that there have been many calls and inquiries for works of art and that the library with the new equipment will now enjoy the privilege of further satisfying the wants of the students and townspeople who are interested in art.

Miss Knott New Dramatics Head

Miss Gertrude Knott, Chowan College, has recently taken over her new position as head of the State Dramatic Association. Miss Knott will succeed Miss Ethel T. Rockwell who has resigned so that she might go to the University of Wisconsin to accept a similar position.

Miss Knott was, before coming to the University, head of the Dramatic Department of Chowan College and while she was there she made an enviable record for developing some of the best dramatic talent in the state. The new head of state-wide dramatics has interesting plans for the year's work and will work with Frederick Koch in producing new desire for high school plays and playmaking.

"All student fees are due and must be paid by the 28th of this month," states Chas. T. Woollen, business manager of the University. The fees must be paid by the above date or the students will be dropped from the classes and under such a condition the students will be forced to register again and pay the regular delayed registration fee.

JINX WORKS ON CAROLINA TEAM

ON EMERSON FIELD

Beautiful Aerial Attack Features Tar Heel Play in Latter Part of Game.

STATISTICS MISLEADING

Sapp, Donahoe, Whisnant, Ward, Schwartz, and Ferrell Star for University Team.

The flying feet of a diminutive Wake Forest halfback and the educated toe of a Deacon quarterback tipped the dope bucket into a succession of somersaults and loop-the-loops last Saturday afternoon, and in the scramble that followed the white-jerseyed Baptist brethren loped off with a fourth consecutive victory over the Tar Heel grid warriors.

A field goal off Ralph James' trusty toe and Johnny Coxe's seventy-eight yard sprint over the goal line with a Tar Heel fumble in the opening semester of play accounted for the Wake Forest points in the 9 to 8 win.

The Tar Heels counted their double quartet of markers at the two extremes of play, for the first two points came on the fourth play of the game after exactly two minutes of time had elapsed and the final touchdown in the closing four minutes. Those first two points resulted when Phifer passed the ball over Coxe's head in the Wake Forest backfield and Odell Sapp, Tar Heel end, rushed in on Coxe and threw him behind the goal line.

The final touchdown of the game resulted from a beautifully executed aerial attack, with Albert Whisnant heaving the pigskin for the Tar Heels. In possession of the ball on Wake Forest's 45 yard line, Coach "Chuck" Collins sent Patterson to right end to replace McDaniel. Patterson immediately earned his spurs by snagging one of Whisnant's heaves for a thirty yard gain. On the next play Billy Ferrell pulled another down over the Goal line for the score. With a possible tie in prospect, a Wake Forest end leaped high and smacked Captain Morehead's attempted placement kick down.

The Statistics Tale

And therein lies the story of the victory! 'Twas a victory scored over a Tar Heel eleven that amassed eleven first downs against three—one of those three on a Carolina penalty—and rolled up 303 yards from scrimmage against 96 for the Baptists. Aye! Those statistics tell an interesting tale. Sad to say they don't count in the scoring, for if they did the disciples of "Chuck" Collins would have another victory to their credit.

The figures of the yardage and first downs are only the beginning of the tale the figure books tell. The Deacons only penetrated the Carolina line for a total of 28 yards during the entire sixty minute setto. Of that gain, they earned only three yards during the opening half, and 'twas in that half the damage was done.

Crowd Hears Koch Read Sunday Night

Shakespeare's Comedy Pleases Audience; Mrs. Pat Winston Plays Accompaniment.

Sunday night at the Playmaker Theatre Professor Frederick Koch read parts from Shakespeare's "The Midsummer Night's Dream," assisted by Mrs. Pat Winston, who played Mendelssohn's music written for the play.

Professor Koch, making several introductory remarks, compared Shakespeare's comedy to Abie's Irish Rose, explaining that these plays are very much alike in their appeal to the crowd.

This reading is the first of a series of nine, one each month, given each year by professors and students, and sponsored by the Carolina Playmakers. This first reading was unusually well attended.
