

U. S. USES TARIFF INFORMATION IN SELFISH MANNER

Edward P. Costigan, Nationally Known Tax Expert, Addresses Conference on Living Cost.

America's reputation abroad is tottering and her good faith with foreign nations is ruined as the result of betrayal of confidences in the selfish use of information from tariff books of other countries made available to the United States Tariff Commission through a spirit of cooperation, according to Hon. Edward P. Costigan, nationally known tariff expert, who spoke at the closing session of the Conference on Living Cost in Gerard Hall Tuesday night.

Mr. Costigan's subject was "The Tariff and Tariff Commission." He was introduced by Dean Carroll, of the School of Commerce, as a speaker thoroughly familiar with his subject, since he was a member of the original United States Tariff Commission, and is, in point of service, the oldest member of that body, having served on it for eleven years.

At one time practically all of the more important countries of the world kept their tariff books open to one another, but the feeling of the foreign governments has changed as a result of at least one instance, Mr. Costigan cited, when the president of the United States, who under the present system has complete control of the operation of the tariff in this country, acting upon the advice of the Tariff Commission, refused to accept the suggestions of the commission and made use of the figures procured from the books in a manner to secure a decided advantage for American industries over those of the foreign countries involved. This is only one of the detrimental results of the present system of tariff regulation in this country.

"The tariff question is highly important now because of three things—its effect upon efficiency in government, its utility in stopping warfare, and the effect that it has upon the high cost of living," Mr. Costigan asserted. "Warfare is the most costly thing to mankind, and the chief cause of wars is the rivalry of nations for the markets of the world. Tariff regulations tend to equalize all the markets, and thus to do away with wars.

"Tariff protection means only the raising of retail prices. Sometimes it does this and sometimes it doesn't. The tariff laws work in three ways—they increase government revenues, increase the prices of imported articles, and raise the prices of similar domestic articles. For instance, a change of 1-2 cent in the rate charged on the imports of sugar per pound will make a total difference of 75 million dollars. Likewise a two cent duty on raw hides would raise the price of shoes 25c a pair, or an in-

ALUMNI IN NORTH TO BE ORGANIZED BY TYRE TAYLOR

Alumni Secretary Leaves on Trip To Organize Old Grads in Out-of-State Cities.

Tyre C. Taylor, Field Secretary of the General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina, left yesterday on an extended northern trip for the purpose of forming University Alumni Organizations in several northern cities.

Mr. Taylor has just returned from a trip on this same mission in the South. He has completed his work in North Carolina and is now making the Alumni Association a national organization. This organization will include most of the cities between Boston, Mass., and Birmingham, Ala. There are at present thirty-five chartered chapters in N. C. as well as many other unchartered local organizations.

During his northern tour Mr. Taylor will organize chapters in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond and several other cities. These various chapters will do all in their power to aid the University along such lines as securing good appointments or schedules for the University Glee Club or the Playmakers or in recommending the University to good men who are planning to go to college.

"TEN NIGHTS" POSTPONED

The Carolina Playmaker production of "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room" which was to have been given on November 4 and 5 has been postponed to December 9 and 10 as a favor to the Wigwag and Masque so that it will interfere in no way with their new production. The postponement of the play till after the northern tour will also make possible a better performance.

ELECTIONS HELD BY GERMAN CLUB

Officers for the Coming Year Are Elected; Financial Plan Is Adopted.

The German Club met Wednesday afternoon in Memorial Hall for the purpose of deciding on the proposed finance plan and for the election of officials, dance leaders, marshals and ball managers for the coming year.

The finance plan was voted on and passed. It goes into effect immediately. In connection with this plan the President of the German Club suggested that freshmen be allowed to attend the dances. A vote was called and this measure was voted down.

The following men were elected. Assistant Secretary and Treasurer of the German Club, Bill Marshall; Leader of the Fall Dances, Emmett Wooten; First Assistant Leader of the Fall Dances, Booty Uzzell; Leader of the Easter Dances, Charlie Lipscomb; First Assistant Leader of the Easter Dances, Rufus Little; Second Assistant leader of the Easter Dances, Buddy Greer; Senior Ball Manager, Tom Rollins; Ball Managers, Dave Blanton, Robert McGee, Carlisle Smith, Tom Leath, Garrett Morehead, Charlie Causey, and Dave Young; Chief Marshal, Charles Carr; Junior Marshals, Jack Brown, Mac Leath, Pete Wilson, Harry Lassiter, Alex Galloway, June Adams, and Sim Cross.

The Junior and Sophomore members of the German Club will meet sometime in the near future and elect the leaders of their class dances.

NEW MACHINES IN COM SCHOOL

Statisticians and Accountants Are Provided With Latest Type Machines.

Five new electric Monroe Calculating machines were installed on six months trial last week in Saunderson's Hall for the Statistical Division of the Commerce School. These with another Monroe, a Machant, and two Burrough's Adding Machines which have been assigned to the Accounting Division, are not accessible to the accounting students as well as to the statisticians.

Mr. Cutler of the Commerce School also states that probably five more new electric Monroe machines will be installed on six months trial in the near future to be used by the students of the Commerce School.

Mechanically, the Monroe is a very complicated machine. It is so constructed that almost any conceivable form of calculation can be performed. Operations that are possible with the Calculator are simple addition, multiplication, subtraction, division, logarithmic calculation, and trial balance. These machines will even complete many formulae of Calculus.

Installation of the machines is in line with the Commerce School's Policy of providing the latest and most efficient methods in business for laboratory work in the School.

Two Faculty Members On Institute Committees

The University of North Carolina will be represented with two of its faculty members on the standing committees of the State Praxial Education Institute. R. M. Grumman, head of the extension division, will be on the steering committee and his group will act as an administering board for the Institute. Dr. Grove of the Social Research Department will be at the head of the program committee. Dr. Grove is one of the leading socialists in the state and his work on the program group will be a great benefit to the success of the Institute.

SORORITIES HOLD PLEDGE SEASON

End of First Organized Sorority Rushing Season Successful; Chi Omega and Pi Beta Phi Announce Pledges.

University of North Carolina coeds progressed another notch toward their avowed goal of taking as prominent a part in extra-curricular activities as the masculine students when the first sorority rushing season in the history of the University was brought to a climax Monday with the announcement of pledges.

The Greek letter girls staged a rushing season identical to that used by the fraternities. The period of silence began last Thursday at midnight, lasting until Monday, which was bid day. Reports from the Woman's Building indicated that there was strenuous rivalry between Chi Omega Sorority and Pi Beta Phi fraternity, the two Greek letter organizations for coeds here, to garner the desirable pledges into their folds. It is said that some of the coed pledges were the objects of rushing that eclipsed anything exhibited by the fraternities in the regular rushing season brought to a close last week.

Chi Omega Sorority announced the pledging of Miss Margaret Creitzburg, Rock Hill, South Carolina; Miss Helen Dorth, Goldsboro; Miss Anne Lawrence, Raleigh; Miss Elizabeth Lilly, Winston-Salem; Miss Lela Royall, Goldsboro; and Miss Lois Warren, Louisville, Kentucky.

Pi Beta Phi fraternity announced the pledging of the following coeds: Miss Margaret Carlton, Roxboro; Miss Rose Davis, Woodruff, S. C.; Miss Rebecca Graham, Durham; Miss Emily McLelland, Maxton; and Miss Lida Ramsey, Atlanta, Ga.

FROSH FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL MEETING

Organization Holds First Social of Season; Large Group This Year.

The Freshman Friendship Council held their first social of the season Monday night when about sixty first year men met together in the Y. M. C. A. at seven fifteen.

The meeting was opened with the singing of several popular selections accompanied by "Red" Woods at the piano. After the group songs were completed, Woods sang several solos which were well received by the gathering. Sears and Kistler, string duet, made one of the biggest hits of the occasion. Sears, with Kistler accompanying on the guitar, gave an excellent exhibition of solo dancing. He received numerous encores from the enthusiastic spectators.

Refreshments were served after the entertainment. The Freshman group of this year promises to be one of the largest in the history of the Council. W. W. Crissman, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A., states.

There will be a meeting of all the Sophomore German Club members in Memorial Hall today at 1:30 p. m. At this time the election of the Sophomore Dance Leaders will be held.

Miss Mildred Elrod visited friends in Goldsboro Saturday and Sunday.

Work Proceeding Rapidly on New Wing of Phillips Hall

New Home of the Mathematics and Physics Departments Will Be Up-to-date Construction; Is Greatly Needed Addition to Class Buildings.

The Mathematics and the Physics Department of the University of North Carolina are soon to have a new home that will adequately house them. This comes in the present addition to Phillips Hall. The new wing is designed especially for the purpose that it is to serve, by Atwood and Nash and is being constructed by Mr. Paige. The addition is eighty-four feet long and fifty feet wide, three stories high, including the basement. Fire proof construction has been used throughout, the floors are all of concrete, the walls of honeycomb brick, with hollow tile partition walls, all of the ceilings are of metal and fire proof plaster covered. The exterior architecture is an exact copy of the original building and accurately follows it in design and feeling.

On the basement floor is a dark room arranged with bench and sink for the experimental work of the physics department. A novel feature

N. C. MEN ATTEND PRESS MEETING HELD IN RALEIGH

Annual Convention of Collegiate Press Association to Be Attended by Representatives of U. N. C. Publications.

The semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association meets in Raleigh today and lasts through Saturday. This is the second time since the formation of the association that the group has met in the capital city. Meredith was host to the second meeting held after the founding of the collegiate union.

Last spring the convention was held at N. C. C. W. and here it was voted that this, the fall meeting, would be held at State. Meredith volunteered to assist in taking care of the publication group and the girls will be guests of the Baptist institution. All meetings, however, will be held on the campus at State College where the delegates from the boy's colleges will be entertained.

On arrival Thursday, the representatives from each college in North Carolina will register at the Y.M.C.A. Entertainment of various kinds has been planned but the plans have not yet been completed. Several dances have been promised, a banquet will be held at the Sir Walter Hotel Friday evening. Several prominent men have been engaged to speak at the various meetings, men of some prominence in the journalistic world.

The officers of the convention for this year are: H. L. Hester, Duke, president; David Carroll, U. N. C. and Ann Faysoux Johnston, Queens, vice-president; Francis G. Gibson, N. C. C. W., secretary; A. L. Aydtlett, State, treasurer.

Those expecting to attend the convention from the University of North Carolina are: Jud Ashby, Bill Neal, Walter Spearman, Tar Heel; Caesar Cone, J. O. Allison, Yackety Yack; Andy Anderson, Holt McPherson, Buccaneer; John Marshall, Garland McPherson, Magazine; Bill Perry, Publications Union Board.

Red Fisher Leads Field in Fifth Running of Cake Race

Chemists Meet Convention of North Carolina Group To Be Held Here.

Members of the North Carolina section of the American Chemical Society will meet in conference in Chapel Hill at Venable Hall November 19th, for their bi-annual discussion on Chemical Research. The discussion will cover all phases of the science, and chemical problems confronting North Carolina chemists.

As yet a definite program for the meeting has not been completed. However, Dr. Bell, Professor of Chemistry, states that the program will be announced at an early date.

Since the organization draws its membership from throughout the state, teachers and industrial chemists from all over North Carolina will be in attendance at the meeting.

BUCCANEER DEAD-LINE

All copy for the November issue of the Buccaneer must be turned in at the office of the Buccaneer by Sunday night, October 10. This applies only to literary material. The art staff may turn in sketches at any time. The editor states that all copy must go to the printers Monday and this will necessitate material being in by the stated dead-line.

CAST IS CHOSEN FOR BURLESQUE

Wigwag and Masque Director Assembles Talented Aggregation for Coming Show.

The cast for the Kalif of Kavalak, Wigwag and Masque production to be given November 8 and 9, has been selected after careful elimination.

Historically, musically, and farcically, it is the best aggregation of talent ever assembled on the campus of Carolina, in the opinion of Paul John Weaver, veteran director of musical comedies, and the mentor of this forthcoming production.

The nine principals, the cream of the student body, dramatically speaking, are as follows:

The Kalif, Norman Royal; The Grand Vizier, Eric Abernathy; The Chief Steward, Leonard Hole; The Mother, Bill Atlee; Kathleen, the daughter, Gene Erwin; Castoria, favorite of the Harem, Frank Howell; Jack, fiance of Kathleen, Mot Feimster; The Auctioneer, D. L. English; and The Consul, John Sickle.

These men are inimitable in stage presence, unexcelled in dramatic ability, and are vocal marvels, according to Mr. Weaver. The strain of Caruso and Barrymore is omnipresent in this cast. Success of a rare and unparalleled nature is predicted for Royal, Abernathy, English and Howell, so well are they equipped for their parts.

The cast for the men's chorus will

WRENN IS SECOND

Oldest of Three Brothers Wins Cup; Was Second Last Year; Other Fishers Came Eleventh and Fourteenth.

THREE HORNEY BROTHERS

Once more the cake eaters reign supreme on the campus of the University of North Carolina. One hundred and ninety-three ambitious members of that species, attired in every conceivable sort of togs, gathered on the Freshman Field at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon to enter the fifth annual "Cake Race," and exactly seventeen minutes and thirty-eight seconds later the last of the lucky hundred straggled past the finish line and began the selection of the cakes given by the ladies of Chapel Hill.

The race, as usual was to the swift, and even as Abou Ben Adhem "Red" Fisher led all the rest. At least, one of the "Red" Fishers led all the rest, for there were three of the Fisher family who qualified far toward the front in the big classic.

This particular "Red" is J. V. Fisher, a sophomore who gained particular distinction through the state last year by means of his fine stable of saddle horses. Tuesday, however, he proved that he has something besides an interest in horses. Second in last year's race, he romped home this time far in the lead, covering the one and nine-tenths mile course in exactly 10 minutes flat. He received the silver loving cup given by the Book Exchange. This cup will be awarded in Chapel later.

Incidentally, the other Fishers to gallop home in great style were Robert who finished eleventh and Carl who gained fourteenth place. Another family affair brought to light was that of the Horney brothers, Bob, Bill and Giles. Bob Horney, Greensboro High School star, running by special permission, led his collegiate brothers home as he took sixteenth position. Bill, the sophomore, finished one notch behind in seventeenth place; while Giles, the freshman, took the thirty-third cake.

TAR HEELS POINT FOR STATE GAME

Praise of N. C. Team By Atlanta Sports Writers Feared May Develop Over-confidence.

FARRIS LOOKS GOOD

There is just one fear abroad on the campus of the University of North Carolina here as the Tar Heel gridmen prepare for their contest with N. C. State in Raleigh Saturday afternoon. That fear is that the praise given the North Carolinians by Atlanta sports writers after the Georgia Tech game last week may make the team over-confident.

Such statements as the one made by Morgan Blake, sports editor of the Atlanta Journal, "dean of southern sports writers," may give any team a feeling of cockiness, for Blake is one of the outstanding grid authorities of the South. Blake said that "except for three minutes of the game when Tech was scoring her two touchdowns, the North Carolinians completely outpointed the Jackets." He further described the contest as "the hardest won 13 to 0 football game that was ever played or ever will be played."

Comments equally commendatory were made by other Atlanta writers, but the thing that the Tar Heels must remember this week is that Georgia Tech won. Moral victories do not count in the scoring columns, and the University coaches are grooming the Tar Heels this week to win on points and not on yardage gained in midfield.

The Tar Heels found out last Saturday that they could play football. They played the game as it has not been played by a Tar Heel team in years, and they'll be putting up the same old fight this week. There is a spirit abroad in the Carolina camp this week that will not be denied, and that spirit will be driving the Tar Heels when they stack up against State this week-end.

Veterans and rookies alike are living this week with one end in view, and that end is a victory. Both veterans and rookies are playing their heads off in practice scrimmages, and it looks like both will get their chances Saturday. There are several men who have held the bench all season who seem slated for action against the Wolfpack.

Among these youngsters is Ray Farris, one hundred seventy-five pounds of fighting sophomore that really wants to play football. Farris played halfback in high school and end until a couple of weeks ago on the varsity squad, but he broke in at guard in both the South Carolina and Tech games and played brilliantly. He has been at left guard on the varsity in this week's practice. It now seems that he may out the veteran Shuler Saturday. Others who may get their golden opportunities Saturday are Sam Presson, end who has pushed McDaniel all season for the

SPECIAL TO TAKE STUDENTS FROM HILL TO RALEIGH

Entire Student Body Will Probably Make Customary Pilgrimage to Annual Carolina-State Game.

The University of North Carolina student body will attend the Carolina-State game in Raleigh Saturday.

Arrangements were made yesterday for a special train to be run from here, leaving here at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning and arriving in the Capital at 10:30. On the return trip the special will leave Raleigh at 11:59 that night. This indicates that most of the students will be on hand to lend moral support to the Tar Heel team.

The Carolina Cheerios, the University's famous cheering organization, will also attend the game and will sit in a special section reserved for them. They will be dolled up in their blue and white uniforms and will perform the numerous stunts that made them so popular last year. Cheer leader Petty Waddill is drilling them every night this week in preparation for the big game.

And of course the University band will be there. The band will head the procession which will form at the Union Station upon arrival of the special train and march uptown.
