

Comparative Scores Form But Scant Indication of Strength of Carolina-Virginia Elevens

 mire on Emerson Field here, the Cavaliers were losing a heart-breaker to South Carolina 13 to 12. The next week the Gamecocks took the Tar Heels into camp in a 14 to 6 upset at Columbia, while the Cavaliers were winning their first Old Dominion title game from V. M. I. by a 13 to 8 score.

Saturday, October 22, found the Tar Heels throwing fits into the nest of Georgia Tech's Yellowjackets who were glad enough to win 13 to 0 in a game that four times saw Carolina inside of Tech's ten yard line. Meanwhile Virginia added another intrastate scalp when she conquered V. P. I. 7 to 0.

On the last week end in October the Cavaliers journeyed to Knoxville, Tenn., to engage the Volunteers, and dopesters said they would have a basis of comparison for Thanksgiving. The Vols handed Virginia a 42 to 0 defeat, the worst in the history of Virginia athletics. On that same day N. C. State McDowalled Carolina to death and won 19 to 6.

Season Comeback

Fans from all over this section journeyed to Lexington, Va., on November 5 to see the big Conference double-header which Washington and Lee and V. M. I. staged as a feature of their joint "home coming." The Cadets blocked one of Carolina's punts behind the goal that morning and recovered for the winning touchdown in a 7 to 0 game. That afternoon Virginia overturned the Generals 13 to 7.

Two weeks ago both of today's classic rivals staged field days at the expense of teams doped to hold them to close scores. Carolina played the housewarming game in Kenan Memorial Stadium and whipped Davidson 27 to 0. That same afternoon the Cavaliers ran rough-shod over the Old Liners of Maryland to win 21 to 0. Last Saturday the Tar Heels took occasion to prove that the Davidson game was no drop in the bucket when they trampled Duke beneath their onslaught 18 to 0. Virginia rested that day.

Today these two elevens, each with moments of greatness behind, will battle in the dedicatory game in Kenan Stadium. Perhaps 30,000 rabid fans will watch this curtain performance of the 1927 season, and each will form his own opinions ahead of time on the basis of the rivals' season records. However, records or no records, no game is won until the final whistle, and the best team will win today.

A Car For The Holidays

During the holidays you will need a car to take the "little lady" around. You will be pleased with a U-DRIVE-IT for we rent only the kind of cars that you like to drive.

Get some of your friends from your home town together and plan to go home for the Christmas holidays in a U-DRIVE-IT. If you live any distance from the Hill you will find that you can save money.

If you are planning to use a U-DRIVE-IT during either the Thanksgiving or Christmas holidays, we suggest that you drop in today and reserve it.

ON YOUR SPLENDID NEW STADIUM AND YOUR FINE FOOTBALL TEAM

Swain Hall conducts the training table for the football team. It is here that they get the food that gives them the red blooded strength to fight the fight as only they can fight it—as they're going to fight it today.

We look on them as our boys, fighting our fight, and our hearts are with them today. Best o' luck Captain Morehead!
