SENIORS OFFERED BUREAU SERVICES

Vocational Information Bureau Wants to Help Students Decide on Work.

The University Bureau of Vocational Information announces that it will furnish information concerning various professions and occupations to any members of the senior class who desire it.

This Bureau, which has its office at 204 South Building, for the past number of years has been furnishing definite data to students who are intending to go into the professional world. The department has in its files information concerning practically every occupation into which graduates of the University ordinarily go. It also maintains contacts with a large number of business and other organizations which employ college men from time to time. The Bureau in the past has helped many graduates select and obtain the work into which they have gone. To students who have already selected a vocation, the department will be a valuable aid in bringing to their attention certain information concerning that branch of work.

A part of the work of this service is to acquaint the students with information concerning several professions in order to aid them in making a choice.

A bulletin board is being maintained by the Bureau in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. building on which are posted dates for civil service examinations, cruises, notices of work, and other information.

The services of the Bureau of Vocational Information are at the disposal of the graduating seniors. Mr. Henry Johnston, Jr., is Acting Director of this department.

HOBBS CORRECTS MISTAKEN RUMOR

Conference Officer Says Boys Need Not Be Discouraged By New Ruling.

"The rumor that only graduates of accredited high and preparatory schools will be permitted to enter conference institutions is erroneous," according to a statement issued here last week by Dr. A. W. Hobbs, vice president and district representative of the Southern Conference.

Dr. Hobbs recently attended a meeting of the conference in Lexington, Kentucky, and states that the erroneous report was probably circulated by people who misunderstood the rulings made by the Conference. Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the Conference, introduced a motion which was later amended to read that a student must be either a graduate of an accredited preparatory or high school, or present 15 Carnegie units from such an institution or present 15 Carnegie units from some recognized examining board.

According to the University professor, press despatches from Lexington carried the story of the motion as it was introduced by Dr. Sanford, but failed to carry a follow-up story on the motion as it was finally passed in its amended form which was radically different from the original.

"I understand that a large number of high and preparatory school boys in this and adjoining states who do have the equivalent of 15 Carnegie units but do not have a diploma have been very much discouraged by such reports, and I am anxious that they be corrected," Dr. Hobbs said.

Dr. Chase Honored

Mrs. T. J. Wilson, Jr. entertained Friday night at an informal smoker honoring President Chase and Dr. T. J. Wilson, Jr. The guests included Dr. Danes, Dr. Burleigh and about 50 members of the faculty.

Mrs. Woolen, Mrs. Fred Patterson, Mrs. Stacey, and Mrs. deRouillac Hamilton assisted in the dining room.

Two Fraternities Change Their Location

Only two changes in the locations of campus fraternities have taken place since the Christmas holidays. The Kappa Sigmas have moved from their house on fraternity row into quarters over the Chapel Hill Hardware Co. The Sigma Delta lodge is occupying the old Kappa Sigma house.

Intramural Games Postponed Yesterday

The intramural basketball games scheduled for yesterday afternoon were postponed due to oily floors in the Tin Can. The newly oiled courts were so slick that players could not stand up on them, and all games and varsity practice were necessarily called off. However, intramural games will be played as scheduled during the remainder of the week.

The six games scheduled for yesterday and postponed will be played later in the season. All managers who had postponed games will be given plenty of notice ahead of time when their make-up games are called. The Intramural Department regrets that this postponement was necessary, and will try to schedule these make-up contests at a time convenient to all teams involved.

DANES LECTURES IN GERRARD HALL

Lantern Slides Used to Illustrate Lecture Delivered by Noted Geologist.

"In some parts of the world people are still living in the Stone Age," Dr. Jiri V. Danes, professor of geology, asserted Friday night in Gerrard Hall. He spoke under the auspices of the University Lecture Bureau, and his lecture was on the subject of "Some Problems of Human Geography."

In certain parts of the world, notably Australia and Oceania, foreign influence has been kept out by natural barriers that have kept the native tribes isolated from the rest of the world for centuries. As a result their development has been retarded greatly, and they are still living in four distinct ages of the Stone Age. "Some of these people, however, have developed without outside aid," he said. "The Polynesians, notably, have developed a civilization of a fairly high social organization in spite of the fact that they are still living in the Stone Age."

Lantern slides made from pictures taken in the islands of the South Seas and in remote sections of Tasmania and Australia, were employed by Dr. Danes to illustrate his lecture. "These pictures illustrate the fact that while isolation is purely a biological problem with plants and animals, it has also become a sociological problem with members of the human species," he declared.

Dr. Danes is making a tour of this country and is lecturing at a number of the larger colleges and universities. In connection with his tour he is making a study of certain limestone areas known as "karst areas." While at the University he was the guest of Dr. Collier Cobb, head of the Geology Department, and made talks to several of Dr. Cobb's classes Friday.

U. N. C. OFFICIALS TAKE ACTION ON CHECK SITUATION

Attempt Being Made to De- crease Number of Bad Checks.

The University of North Carolina has recently entered into an agreement with the merchants of Chapel Hill in regard to the student check situation, it was announced yesterday from the office of the Dean of students. This action has been taken as a result of the little improvements shown in the bad check problem during the past several months.

Action was taken last fall by the bank of Chapel Hill to lessen the number of worthless checks. A charge of fifty cents was placed on each check returned. This action, it is understood, solved the trouble only to a small degree, and the number of returned checks was little diminished. The Dean of Student's office in conjunction with the Student Council is applying the same system of discipline that it has been using for the past two years. It is stated that the theory of this system was to protect the credit of the majority of students not abusing their checking privileges by subjecting those who do to punishment. It seems that less than ten per cent of the University students are at fault in having their checks returned.

The conclusion arrived at by the bad check department of the University's Discipline system is that a more uniform standard action on the part of the local merchants in regard to the cashing of student checks would improve the situation.

The following agreement has been brought about between the University and the merchants of Chapel Hill.

1. The University upon its part agrees to take the initiative in the enforcement of payment if student's checks are returned. No student will be allowed to remain in the University who fails to make good any returned check given in the University community which includes the town of Chapel Hill.

2. And the merchants of Chapel Hill hereby agree:

1st. To cash checks (which includes accepting checks in payment for goods sold, etc.) for only such University of North Carolina students as they actually know or have identified as bona fide students in the University in good standing.

2. To carefully assure themselves in every case before accepting a University of North Carolina student's check that such check is properly made out.

3. To conscientiously discourage the use of counter checks by U. N. C. students, particularly those counter checks that are printed with a bank's name upon them.

4. Never to take a check from a U. N. C. student simply as evidence of his obligation to pay money when they know or have good reason to believe that such check is not backed by a sufficient deposit in the bank upon which it was drawn to cover it.

Misses Mattie Erma Edwards and Katherine Wolfe returned Sunday from Greensboro, where they attended the annual conference of the North Carolina League of Women Voters held there last week.

Invitations Sent Preparatory Schools to Enter S. I. C. Meet

Big Track and Field Day to be Held in Chapel Hill May 12; More Than Fifty Preparatory Schools Are Invited to Enter.

Invitations have been sent out to fifty-six of the leading preparatory schools of the south to attend the Southern interscholastic track and field meet to be held here May 12. Plans were not formulated for the meet last year early enough for many of the schools to make arrangements to attend. However, the success of the 1927 meet caused the authorities to decide to make it an annual affair. This announcement of the date for this year was made before Christmas to enable all of the schools invited to include the meet on their schedules.

Few of the brilliant men who performed last spring will be back again this year. Rhodes, holder

SHERWOOD EDDY

Sherwood Eddy, well-known lecturer and authority on world affairs, will present a series of six addresses at the University on January 20 through 22. Mr. Eddy will also be available for personal interviews.

Y GROUPS DISCUSS EDDY'S LECTURES

Noted Speaker to Present Six Addresses; Wardlaw En- tertains Cabinets.

The three departments of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet met last night in a joint assembly in the Y club-room to discuss the coming lectures of Sherwood Eddy, renowned authority on world affairs. Mr. Eddy will give a series of six addresses at the University commencing Friday and continuing through a period of three days. This is the speaker's second appearance here.

In 1928 Mr. Eddy gave several well-received talks on Conditions Arising out of the World War. He has selected a group of present-day topics for his discourses at the University this week. Friday morning and night he will speak in Memorial Hall. There will be no eleven o'clock classes in the morning. Saturday morning and evening he will lecture in Gerrard Hall, and Sunday at the Methodist Church. Sunday evening at three o'clock an open forum will be held in the Methodist church to discuss questions pertaining to the topics of his addresses.

The Cabinets were also entertained by Jack Wardlaw's Banjo Boys who presented several entertaining selections and a bit of well-done novelty work. Nash Johnston, President of the Junior-Senior Council, presided over the group.

Miss Helen Land of Raleigh visited Miss Susie Sharpe Sunday.

SENIOR NOTICE

An announcement has been made from the Registrar's office stating that all students who expect to complete their requirements for the awarding of their degrees in June must file, with the Registrar and the dean of their school or college, the proper application forms. These forms will be furnished at the office of the Registrar in South building.

Winter Grid Practice Opens Wednesday in Kenan Stadium

FRESHMAN NOTICE

Manager Max Barker announced yesterday that all freshmen who are interested in trying for a sub-assistant managership of the Varsity football team should meet him on Emerson field today at 2:00 o'clock. Six men will be selected from the group to fill these positions.

Equipment to Be Issued Today at Emerson Field Store; Men Urged to Report.

Coach Bob Fetzer issued a call yesterday for all prospective football candidates for the 1928 winter football season to begin winter practice. Over a hundred letters were sent out to old men by Coach Fetzer, and he is making an open call through the press for all who are interested in football, and who have not had any previous experience in the game.

The purpose of this year's winter practice is to give all university students training so that they may be better prepared for next fall playing. New men are welcomed, even those who know not one iota of football science and tactics, and who have never had any previous gridiron experience. The fundamentals of the game will be thoroughly introduced. This plan for winter practice is arranged especially for new and inexperienced men, and gives each man an opportunity at football that he will not get if he waits until the fall.

Candidates for winter practice are to report at the Emerson Field Stadium store room this morning from 10:30 to 12:00 a. m., or from 2:30 to 4:30 for equipment. Officials state that it is absolutely necessary that all candidates report for their equipment at one of these periods.

This plan for winter practice shows that the coaches, who are backed by the Athletic Club, the Monogram club, and the University as a whole, are striving to make the 1928 football squad the largest and best yet. Coaches and sports writers agree that the 1928 football schedule for the University is not only the best, but also the hardest faced by a Tar Heel team in years. Coach Fetzer says: "The growing strength of our competitors, the renewal of the game with Georgia Tech, and the addition of the Harvard game for next season means that we shall have to utilize and develop to the highest possible degree every bit of the University's material and talent."

Practice will be held each afternoon in Kenan Memorial stadium.

ANDREWS SPEAKS ABOUT TEACHING

Educator Tells Disadvantages and Advantages of Teach- ing Profession.

"If your inclination is to do only the necessary things in life," said Prof. T. Wingate Andrews, in the chapel exercises on yesterday morning, "don't enter the teaching profession." Speaking especially to those students who have teaching in mind as a vocation, Prof. Andrews warned them that their efforts would be hopelessly futile if they did just exactly what was required of them, and no more.

Prof. Andrews, who is President of the State Association of Teachers, and Director of Public Instruction at High Point, was invited to speak to the students in accordance with the new plan of programs for the chapel exercises. The talk on Monday morning was the first of a series in this new system.

Prof. Andrews quoted statistics to show that education has made a great leap in the last decade, judging from enrollment, finances, and the increased length of the school term. He stated that the idea of poor salaries in the teaching profession was a foolish one, backing his statement by actual figures, showing that High School principals received salaries ranging from $2,200 to $5,000, and that superintendents received from $5,000 to $10,000, some of them running as high as $25,000.

Wigwe and Masque Initiates New Men

Dramatic Club Elects Outstanding Actors in Recent Show to Membership.

The Wigwe and Masque Club, the university dramatic fraternity held its annual initiation on last Thursday evening. During the day, all of the neophytes were required to attend classes and go about over the campus in full tuxedo dress. The main part of the initiation, however, took place at night in Person Hall. Following this the new members were the guests of the club at a late supper at the "Coop."

It is the custom of the club to pick out from each year's cast of the Wigwe and Masque the most outstanding actors, and offer them bids to this group. 13 men were taken in this year, and they were chosen from among the number who helped to make the last production, "The Kalif of Kavak," such a success. They were Frank Howell, Donald Wood, Arthur Little, Jimmie Turner, Allan Metz, George Race, Elwood Goodson, D. L. English, Jr., Paul Scurlock, Bobby Hedgecock, Pete Wilson, Dave Thomas, and Eric Abernethy, F. L. Byerly, of the Wigwe and Masque orchestra, Mr. T. S. McCorkle, and Professor U. T. Holmes were made honorary members of the club.

Professor Paul John Weaver is the faculty advisor of the Wigwe and Masque club, and Gehe Erwin is its president.

K. O. Breaks Finger

Ad Warren, former University football and boxing star, who has recently gone into professional fighting, broke the metacarpal bone of the fourth finger in his right hand in his encounter with Frankie Lewis, Scranton, Pa. fighter at Raleigh Friday night.

The injury was discovered at Watts Hospital, Durham, when an X-ray examination of the finger was made. The damage to his hand will keep him out of boxing for at least five weeks, it is believed. Warren defeated Lewis by a technical knockout in the fifth round of their bout.

C. D. A. HOLDS ONE DAY SESSION HERE

Dramatic Festival and Tourna- ment to be Held in April; Institute in Summer.

The annual spring Dramatic Festival and Tournament will be held at the State University in April and a state-wide Dramatic Institute will be held here during the summer, it was decided Saturday at the conference of directors of dramatic clubs holding membership in the Carolina Dramatic Association.

Sixty-five directors, representing high school, college and community dramatic clubs in all sections of the state, attended the conference which lasted all day. The discussions for the most part were taken up with consideration of the different phases of direction and staging amateur plays. The Conference was held under the auspices of the Bureau of Community Drama of the University Extension Division and the Carolina Playmakers.

W. R. Taylor, director of dramatics at North Carolina College and a former president of the Carolina Dramatic Association presided in the absence of W. R. Wunch of Asheville. Miss Elba Henninger, of Greensboro College, and Miss Mary Todd, of High Point College, were speakers at the morning session.

The afternoon session opened with a demonstration sword dance by boys of the Chapel Hill schools under direction of Miss Josephine Sharkey and Frederick H. Koch and Hubert Heffner, director and assistant director of the Playmakers, followed with a discussion of the "Carolina Play Book," a new magazine that will be the official organ of the organization. Russell M. Grumman, head of the Extension Division, told of plans for the Summer Dramatic Institute, and Miss Gertrude Knott, state representative of the Bureau of Community Drama, discussed plans for the organization this year.

Other speakers were Dwight Smith, of Tryon; Miss Virginia Horne, of Wilson; Miss Bertha Coltrane, of Greenville; Mrs. R. Exerett, who directs dramatic work in Northampton county; Miss Copenhaver, of Salisbury. (Continued on page four)
