PARAGRAPHS

"U. N. C. Logical For Initial Art School In South," headlines the TAR HEEL. Meaning, perhaps, that we are artistically inclined, if not logical.

Probably the State college student who had his slicker bearing the sign "Vote For Al Smith" torn to shreds by two Antis now knows Al support demands in the Old Nawth State.

Anyway, the student brother of the neighboring institution can best make up his mind concerning the "availability" of his slicker at this time.

We haven't any apologies to make to those who thought they knew and were shown otherwise at Duke, Saturday evening.

High Point with two gun battles to its credit within the past few days bids fair to crowd North Carolina's metropolis for "Little Chicago" honors.

Papers say that University campus will "pick the next president," meaning, we suppose, that as Carolina goes, so goes the country.

After reading the sports section of the Sunday dailies, we rise again to observe on the instability of the North Carolina coaching profession.

FAVORING A CONCERT ON CAMPUS

An appeal addressed to this worthy journal calls the fact to our attention that it has been many a moon since the Carolina glee club has given a concert on the campus. It is true that the worthy organization sang long and well just before their leave-taking for the European tour last July. Yet, to our best mind, the glee club hasn't given a concert for the student body in one of the University halls in over a year.

How come? Is it that this seat of learning, the citadel of culture has neither appreciation nor desire for the quality and type of music in which the Tar Heel chorus majors? The author of the communication aforementioned laments the fact that the club is either derelict or deluded. He stoutly avers that the Carolina glee club will find a highly appreciative audience among the Carolina students. The TAR HEEL heartily joins with him and supports the plea that the singers give us the delicious musical treat that has been given elsewhere amid so much acclaim and praise.

There is no intention here for an editor to assume the business of managing the University singers, but we would rise to the point of hope that the Carolina glee club appear in concert for the entertainment of the students who wish to hear the chorus.

Babies Lose Second Game to Blue Imps
Victory Gives Duke Freshmen Good Claim to State Basketball Title.

Evidently anxious to set a good example for the varsity, the Duke Blue Imps downed the Carolina freshmen basketball team for the second time Saturday night. The score was 44 to 30. This victory coupled with the one of a week ago gives the Little Devils a good claim to the state title.

At no time during the contest were the Duke freshmen troubled, although Coach Belding shifted his line-up several times in an effort to produce a winning combination. Staton was injected into the Duke line-up by Coach Cameron and he ran off with high honors of the night. Duke produced another high scorer in Rogers. He accounted for ten points during the game.

Crosen, elongated Imp center, prevented the Tar Baby follow-up shots by standing under the basket and slapping down would-be scores. The tall boy hails from Washington and is a former teammate of Werber and Councillor.

For the Tar Baby team Edwards and Brown captured scoring honors with seven points each. Marpet was close behind them with six points, while Neiman and Crouch accounted for four points apiece.

BOOT SHOP OPENS FORMALLY TODAY

W. O. Lacock Has New and Well Equipped Shoe Store; Continues Repair Work.

Lacock's Shoe Shop, for over fifteen years one of the most familiar of Chapel Hill's business establishments, takes on new dignity today with its opening as "Lacock's Boot Shop" in its splendid new quarters between the Smoke Shop and the Stetson D store.

W. O. Lacock, the proprietor, stated yesterday afternoon that the new quarters of his store were among the finest in the state. A full line of men and women's shoes and hose will be carried. In the rear of the store a repairing department, equipped with the latest and most modern electric machinery, is located. The new store is beautifully furnished, and it takes rank as one of the most modern of Chapel Hill's establishments.

The store was previously located next to the Chapel Hill bank.

Carolina Defeats Duke to Clinch Place in Championship and Purser to the bench. Vanstory, maybe feeling more at home at his new place, started his scoring for the night with a goal from action, which was duplicated by Hackney in quick order. After a free shot by Vanstory, Werber initiated Duke's scoring for the half with a field goal, soon followed by Satterfield again. Morris got in his last point of the game with a free shot. Jankoski, with his last point, a single shot made good, and Candler, with a free shot followed by a goal, ran up Duke's total four more, and caused Carolina to have another parley. A free shot by Vanstory, and one for Duke by Candler, finished up the work for the occasion.

Hackney and Satterfield, playing in their home town, led the offensive for their associates with eleven and eight points each. Candler, with ten points, was ahead on his side, and second for both. All who started for Carolina had some marks to their credit. Big Bill Dodderer, coming in the second half, did no scoring, but was much felt by Duke. Carr Purser, although somewhat troubled by inability to stay on his feet, seemed to have the knack of getting the ball from the back-board on bad tries for credit. In addition, he had no difficulty in getting the tip-off, but his cohorts at first did not take advantage of that favor.
