KEEP OFF GRASS CHAPEL PLEA OF PRESIDENT CHASE

Also Describes New Buildings to Be Erected Soon on University Campus.

LIBRARY OF LIMESTONE

President Recalls Days When Students Felt Keen Pride in Campus Appearance; Hopes For Revival of Interest.

President Harry W. Chase, addressing the students in chapel yesterday called attention to the fact that two new buildings would soon be erected on the campus, and appealed to the students to help preserve the beauty of the campus by confining their walking, playing and kindred activities to places appointed for such uses.

The chief feature of the address was information concerning the new library, work on which has just been started. Only the first unit is being constructed at present, and the rear of the structure will be left in an uncompleted state, pending later additions. The edifice will be of limestone instead of brick like all others on the campus now, and when finished will be the largest building here. The total cost of the library, when completed will represent the greatest sum of money spent yet by the state for a lone building, related the president.

The other building will probably be used to house the economics and commerce departments. Construction on this will be commenced during the spring.

After describing some of the efforts of the University, directed by Dr. W. C. Coker, to restore the charm and beauty of the campus, Dr. Chase appealed to the students to cooperate, chiefly by not walking on the grass, and being careful not to break the shrubbery set out around the several dormitories.

He recalled that a few years ago, before the era of expansion and building in which the University has been engaged for the past several years, that there was a distinct feeling of pride on the part of students and alumni in the unique attraction of the grounds. With so many of the old buildings undergoing complete rebuilding in the last few years, Dr. Chase explained that it was easy to lose this impression, since so much work was necessarily a handicap in keeping up the campus. However, (Continued on page four)

HI SCHOOL WEEK TO BE IN APRIL

April 19 and 20 Set for Annual Debating and Athletic Contests.

Final plans are being laid to hold the annual High School Week's celebration during the period April 19th and 20th. At that time the University, the Extension Division, the Athletic Association, and the townspeople of Chapel Hill will act as the hosts to over 750 high school students.

Some years ago the Extension Division set up a Bureau which would link the high schools of the state more closely together. Contests and state championships for all the major sports were sponsored by this bureau. The climax of each year's work was to be a great meeting of all the high schools in Chapel Hill sometime during the Spring. Since the organizations began to work the University has been the host to an ever increasing number of students.

The athletic part of the program consists of the state high school track meet and the state tennis tournament. This year will mark the sixteenth track meet and the thirteenth state meeting of the qualified high school tennis players.

While the athletes are fighting for their schools on the fields, the debaters will be having a series of word battles in the various auditoriums and class rooms. These events will bring the High School Debating Union's state-wide triangular debate to the finals which will be held in Memorial Hall on Saturday night. At that time the winners of the track meet, the tennis tournament, and the state champion debaters will receive their respective honors. The week will come to fitting close with the annual reception which will be sponsored by the Extension Division.

Two of the Senior "Mosts"

"I don't get their sense of humor," Sara Purrington, the most popular and most talkative girl in the senior class, told a TAR HEEL reporter when asked why she was elected to both superlatives. She fails utterly to see (as do many others) how loquacity and popularity are compatible; but Sara is an exception. No one denies her proficiency in both.

When the senior class couldn't decide whether it was gentleman enough to prefer a blond or a brunette, it compromised on Mildred Morgan—who is neither, but a pleasing combination. Like Sara Purrington, she might say of the above picture, "It doesn't do me justice," but the fact remains that she was elected "Prettiest" in the Senior class.

Easter Monday Not a Holiday

The calendar of the University does not set aside any holiday or recess period for Easter Monday, it was pointed out yesterday afternoon by R. B. House, executive secretary of the University.

"Every student will be expected to meet his classes on that day, but all cases of absences will be handled by the instructors," concluded the secretary.

A Capella Choir To Sing "Crucifixion" Tomorrow Afternoon

Sunday afternoon at four o'clock the A Capella Choir of Chapel Hill will sing Sir John Stainer's "Crucifixion" at the Presbyterian Church.

This concert comes as one of the usual Unniversity Sunday afternoon series. The soloists for "The Crucifixion" will be Spencer C. Schorr, tenor; Wesley Beans, baritone; and Mrs. A. S. Wheeler, organist. "The Crucifixion" is one of the foremost compositions of sacred passion music and is especially suited for Good Friday and the Easter season.

Since a large number of persons are expected to hear this program, arrangements have been made for its repetition at the Episcopal Church on Good Friday night at seven-thirty. This arrangement was made necessary since neither of the churches could accommodate all those who will wish to hear this Easter music. The public is cordially invited to attend either or both of the presentations of "The Crucifixion."

Frog and Opossum Subjects of Study

Dr. W. E. Hoy, professor of biology at Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., doing collaborative research at the University with Dr. W. C. George of the Medical School, has nearly completed his five-weeks research on frog's blood and chromosomes of the opossum. Dr. Hoy has been here for three weeks, and states that it will take him at least two more weeks to finish his research in these two fields.

Workman to Address Methodist Class

Mims Thornburgh Workman will speak to the Young Men's Bible Class of the Methodist church Sunday morning on "The Meaning of the Incarnation." This will be the first of a series of subjects which he is planning to discuss during the spring quarter. The subjects will be chosen from the answers received from a questionnaire distributed among the class members last quarter in an effort to get at the real and vital problems that the average student at the University is most interested.

A cordial invitation is extended to all the upperclassmen to meet with the class next Sunday morning in the room adjoining the Sunday school auditorium on the second floor of the Methodist church.

JUNIOR PROM AND GRAIL NEXT WEEK

Spring Season Opens With Class Dance Friday and Grail Hop Saturday.

Two dances will be held in Bynum Gymnasium next week end, the Junior class holding its prom there Friday night and the Grail giving one of its week end affairs the following evening.

The Junior Prom was originally scheduled for the latter part of last quarter, but was postponed due to the illness of the leader of the affair. It is thought that Jelly Leftwich and His University Club orchestra will play for the occasion.

The Grail dance will be held Saturday night from nine until twelve. Decorations for the occasion will surpass any previous attempt at decorating Bynum gymnasium. The same rules that have been in force during the winter quarter will be observed Saturday night. A feature of the event will be the appearance of Kay Kyser and His Orchestra as their last engagement on the Hill before their departure for Cleveland, Ohio, for the summer.

The following Saturday the Senior dance will be held. Several fraternities are planning to fill the week-end out by giving dances. No definite announcement concerning their plans has been made, however.

Walter Spearman Is Tar Heel Nominee For Editor-in-Chief

Walter Spearman, assistant editor of the Tar Heel, has received the nomination of the staff and board of editors for editor-in-chief next year. Spearman was given the unanimous vote of the meeting. This nomination of the staff of the Tar Heel gives Spearman the official recommendation of the Publications Union. Other candidates for the position of editor-in-chief of the journal may be presented in chapel at the regular time for nominations for campus offices, the elections to take place within the next three weeks.

Spearman, in addition to his work on the Tar Heel, has made an enviable record in numerous activities. He is prominent in Y work, and is a Playmaker and a member of the staff of the Yackety Yack. He has an unusually excellent scholarship record.

Basketball Candidates To Meet Monday Night

Coach Ashmore requests that all men expecting to go out for basketball next fall, who are not out for baseball or track, to meet him in Room 315, Saunders building, Monday night at 7:30.

Dr. W. C. Coker, head of the Botany Department, and Miss Alma Holland, research associate with Dr. Coker, left yesterday for Coker College, Hartsville, S. C., where they will attend the marriage of Dr. Coker's niece, Miss Katherine Coker, to Doyle L. Cannon of Raleigh.

AL SMITH TOPIC OF DEBATE WITH ALABAMA TEAM

Bledsoe and Williams Will Advocate Smith Tonight for President.

DUKE UNIVERSITY JUDGES

University of Alabama Forensic Representatives to Debate University in Gerrard Hall at 8:30 Tonight.

Tonight the University debaters meet the University of Alabama team at 8:30 in Gerrard Hall in what is expected by forensic experts to be one of the most interesting verbal clashes that has taken place here in the past several years. The query is Resolved, that Alfred Smith, Governor of New York State, be elected president of the United States.

Taylor Bledsoe, prominent campus politician and staunch Smith adherent, is said to be the shining light in the Carolina forensic offensive. He and J. C. Williams, of Erwin, will uphold the affirmative with John Mewborn of Snow Hill as the alternate. Bledsoe is from Asheville.

Both members of the University team are known on the campus as excellent debaters, while Alabama is said to have an especially strong negative aggregation.

The Carolina negative team, composed of Charlie Jonas and John Mebane, with Garland McPherson as alternate, debated against Tulane in New Orleans last night. No word as to the outcome had been received here up to the time that the TAR HEEL went to press last night.

Three Duke University professors will judge the debate here. Dr. Hubbell, of the Duke history department, will be one of the judges, but the names of the other two were not obtainable last night.

Architects Needed In North Carolina Arthur Nash States

North Carolina is undermanned with architects, according to Arthur C. Nash, member of the firm of Atwood and Nash, University architects, who spoke in chapel Monday on "Architecture as a Profession." His address was under the auspices of the Bureau of Vocational Information.

"America is only recently waking to a demand for beauty and to an expression of the artistic that has so long been dormant," he said. "The result has been an over-supply of architects so far as the country as a whole is concerned, but this state is still sadly in need of architects of the first rank."

The speaker pointed out that those entering the profession should have a natural gift at drawing, a good head for mathematics, the power of concentration, a great deal of mental accuracy, and the ability to think clearly. "The profession is no bed of roses," he concluded. "Don't consider the field if you are afraid of great quantities of hard work."

Prouty Examines Maryland Marble

Dr. W. F. Prouty, of the Geology Department, has just returned from Cardiff, Maryland, where he spent a week examining green marble and slate deposits for the Dupont Company, nationally known in the chemical and mining field.

Near Cardiff a new quarry is being started to mine marble and slate. This slate deposit is made up of serpentine rock, sometimes called peach bottom slate, and is known to the mineralogical world as "Verd Antique." It is a dark stone that is used in soda fountain manufacture for decorative purposes. Here Dr. Prouty made examinations of the rock in behalf of the Dupont people to determine its quality. He states that this new mine, located near a quarry which is 40 years old, shows prospects of becoming one of the most promising in the country.

Mrs. H. M. Jones Will Address University Women

The American Association of University Women will meet at the Parish House Tuesday, April 3rd, at 4:30 P. M. Mrs. H. M. Jones will speak on "The University Woman in Business." The hostesses will be Mrs. C. T. McCormick and Mrs. H. F. Comer.

Five Games on Emerson Field Next Week Open Tar Heel Baseball Season

In Two Plays

Charlie Lipscomb, a senior, is taking two difficult parts in the bill of three-one act plays being presented by the Playmakers tonight. He plays the role of the Man in A New Eve and of Fate in A Shotgun Splicin'. His interpretation of these parts in the performance last night was said to be especially good.

PLAYMAKER BILL PRESENTED AGAIN

Three One-Act Plays on Program Tonight; Review Tuesday.

The new bill of original plays, well received last evening at the Playmaker Theatre, will be given again this evening at eight-thirty o'clock. Remaining seats can be secured at Sutton and Alderman Drug Store.

The sets and lighting effects received much favorable comment and the acting showed considerable finish. The review of the production will appear in Tuesday's issue of the Tar Heel.

The plays in the order they were presented were A New Eve, a futuristic play by Mary Dirnberger, directed by Professor Selden. The cast included Mary Dirnberger as the Woman, Charles Lipscomb as the Man and Harry Russel as the Prophet.

Day's End is a mountain tragedy written by Alice Pierrot in Professor Koch's class at the University of California and is the winner of a California contest prize. The cast is Katherine Darling as Molly Salvin, Helen Dorch as Sally Salvin, Josephine Sharkey as Sarah Kroan, and Hubert Heffner as Skiffinson. This play was directed by Josephine Sharkey and Professor Hubert Heffner.

A Shotgun Splicin', by Mrs. Oscar Coffin, is a rollicking comedy of mountain life in the western part of the state. It has been directed by Professor Heffner. Those in the cast are Mrs. Oscar Coffin as Sairey Sam, Lois Warden as Dicey, Walter Spearman as Pink, Edward Day as Ben, Moore Bryson as Amos, and Charles Lipscomb as Fate.

The costumes were made by Mrs. Jerry Slade and Miss Holland. The sets were all constructed by students in the Play Production class.

Elwood A. Davis To Present Accounting Vocation in Chapel

Elwood A. Davis, member of the firm of Everett, Hollowell, and Davis, public accountants of Greensboro, will give the 14th of the vocational talk series which has been outlined by the Dean of Students. Mr. Davis has chosen as his subject, "The Opportunities in Accounting," and will appear in Chapel Monday.

Mr. Davis is one of the most reliable accountants in North Carolina. He comes to Chapel Hill with a record as one of the leading accountants of the state. He is well fitted to speak to the students on this subject since he has been closely related with the problems and the advantages of the accounting business.

Parson W. D. Moss will preach Sunday at eleven o'clock in the Presbyterian church on the topic, "Our Palm Sunday."

Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Washington & Lee Here for Diamond Contests.

PITCHING STAFF WEAK

Only Westmoreland and Ellison Remain for Mound Duty from Last Year; Ashmore Expects Strong Nine.

Tar Heel baseball followers will be served a heavy menu next week, for no less than five games are scheduled on Emerson field. Coach Ashmore's varsity nine will swing into action Monday and Tuesday against Maryland, while Pennsylvania and Washington and Lee will follow. These games will be the first in the Tri-State league, and will be the first of the regularly scheduled games for the Heelmen.

Following the Maryland Series, Pennsylvania will invade Chapel Hill for a two-game series on Emerson field Wednesday and Thursday; Washington and Lee will be met Saturday. All these games will be played in Chapel Hill.

While the Carolina nine showed excellent hitting and fielding strength against Elon last Saturday, the lack of hurlers is likely, to cause trouble in a five game series extending over a period of six days. Captain Joe Westmoreland and Red Ellison are the only varsity moundmen in togs this year, and Coach Ashmore will be forced to rely on inexperienced men for duty in at least one of the four games.

Maryland and Washington and Lee are members of the Tri-State league, which also includes North Carolina State, Virginia, V. P. I., V. M. I., and the Heels. These teams are all members of the Southern Conference, and will battle for the championship of the upper states in the conference.

The Heels have been showing up well in practice and should present a strong front against the invaders next week. Coach Ashmore has little to worry him as far as the infield is concerned, for Mackie, Burt, Satterfield, and Luffy are adept fielders and wield the bat consistently well. Cox and Young are two mainstays in the outfield, while Ed Foard has been filling the third post in practice. Maus will probably work behind the bat; the youngster has an excellent throwing arm and showed up well in the Elon contest. Besides the two varsity pitchers, Ball, Fulcher, Bost and others have been twirling in an impressive manner and may see service next week.

DEMOCRATS WILL HOLD A PRIMARY

Taylor Bledsoe Says Campus Party Will Decide on Its Candidate Wednesday

The Democratic primary for the selection of the Presidential candidates for the campus straw vote will be held Wednesday, April 4, according to an announcement made yesterday by Taylor Bledsoe. The executive committee of the Democratic Party Club has decided on this date because of the great interest of the campus in political affairs at present. The recent visit of Senator Reed is believed to have aroused much of this enthusiasm.

Three men have thus far been decided on. Governor Smith, Senator Reed of Missouri, and Senator Walsh of Montana are the three outstanding candidates whose straw vote fate will be decided upon by campus Democrats in the coming primary.

Other candidates can be entered in the primaries by seeing Taylor Bledsoe before six o'clock Sunday afternoon. Further details of the primaries will be given in the Tuesday issue of the Tar Heel.

Paul Green Will Address Presbyterians

Paul Green will address the young people's meeting at the Presbyterian church Sunday night at 6:30. This will be one of a series of addresses by prominent men who will discuss topics common to the interests of both students and citizens of the community. Refreshments will be served prior to the lecture by Mr. Green.
