"Whoops M'Dear" Falls Short Of Reviewer's Expectations; First Performance Was Best

Anderson Says That Show Was Excellent, But That It Lacked Organization.

MUSIC EXCELLENT

Kahn and Erwin Do Best Work
In Show; Malone Performs
Well at Piano.

Dear Peeples:

I've written you several times about the Wigwe and Masque's revue, "Whoops M'Dear," but I did not see the production Wednesday night. Everybody said it was excellent that night and I'm really sorry I missed it for the show Thursday was decidedly not what I was expecting. The main trouble was its slowness. It dragged terribly. I've told you before that the organization had a good show and I still stick to it. They had an excellent show—but it had no organization.

I am told that the stage staff did wonderful work for the Wednesday night show but I can't say the same for Thursday night—not when there was hammering behind the curtains when one act was on. And something slowed the show so much. The stage staff must have been partly responsible for this but another thing was the cast. Almost every person appeared to be always out of breath and dog-tired. Very few showed any inclination towards pepping up their scenes and it had a disastrous effect.

I wish you could have seen the dress rehearsal. Almost every act that night went over with a bang, the entire cast worked with a will and put gobs of pep into their lines and actions. It's deplorable that they did not do this Thursday night.

But the costumes were really good. The "Springtime" was especially effective. The Wigwe and Masque should be complimented on their dress, settings, and presentation of this number. The costumes in "Buccaneer Bustle" were all that they should have been. I liked them very much. I told you that this number would be the hit of the show but it didn't take so very well Thursday night, although I heard it was a riot Wednesday.

The costumes in "Ancient History" were excellent and by the way, this act failed to get its share of applause Thursday night. The clothes in "My Cullud Mammy Told Me" were very apropos and set the act off well. The dancing was good in this act but Tarasa Graham over-acted a bit too much the part of the child. The other two children acted none whatsoever. The mummies, however, took their parts as well as possible.

But I suppose you want me to tell you what I think of each act and how the audience reacted to it so here goes. If I make a mistake, just at—

32 Men Expect To Attend Conference

Blue Ridge "Y" Conference Will Draw
Large Number of Students.

According to reports from the Y. M. C. A. office, thirty-two men have planned definitely to go to the Blue Ridge Conference this year. Any Carolina student is eligible to go and those who are desirable of doing so are asked to see Mr. Comer at the Y. M. C. A. or any of the "Y" cabinet members.

Among those who are signed up to go, are the following: Mac Gray, J. W. Williams, W. Ray, A. A. Perkins, H. Pritchett, W. Chandler, M. Folin, R. M. Albright, S. E. Crew, W. C. Dunn, E. R. Hamer, S. Gorham, J. C. Eagles, J. H. London, L. F. London, G. F. Newman, H. N. Patterson, C. E. Pleasants, K. C. Ramsay, and Paul Wimbish. These men are all cabinet members. However, there are quite a few men who are not connected with the cabinet who have also definitely decided to go.

Those who attended the conference last year are: J. R. Bobbitt, Jr., J. W. Crew, S. N. Johnston, J. O. Evans, L. B. Kennett, N. Block, E. E. Stauber, W. Creech, A. Borden, C. Smith, M. R. Alexander, W. Marshall, and Caesar Cone.

The list of thirty-two is being supplemented daily, and those who wish to go are urged to see any of the Y. M. C. A. officials immediately.

A Correction

The Spanish Club will meet tonight at the home of Dr. N. B. Adams for the last meeting of the year. The notice in the last issue of the Tar Heel of the meeting for Friday night was erroneous. The members are to meet in front of the Carolina Inn at seven p. m. Cars will be there to take them to Dr. Adams' house.

At this meeting will be held the election of officers for the coming year.

HILL LAW REVIEW PRIZE GOES TO CLINTON STUDENT

Prize Offered by Watts Hill,
Prominent Alumnus, Won
By A. L. Butler.

Algernon Lee Butler of Clinton, N. C., has been selected by the law school faculty as the winner of the "Hill Law Review Prize," it was announced yesterday. This is a cash prize of fifty dollars awarded by George Watts Hill of Durham. The prize is given each year to the student editor who makes the best contribution to the Law Review during the school year.

Mr. Hill is an alumnus of the University and the law school. While here he took an active part in athletics as well as in scholastic activities, being a member of the Golden Fleece and the Monogram Club. He is a member of the state bar, and at present is practicing law in Durham.

Mr. Butler is a second year student in the law school and has attended Carolina and Duke Universities. He is also a member of the state bar, having passed the examination along with several other law students in January this year. Throughout the past year he has been an active and consistent contributor to the Review.

Library Notice

Return all library books on Monday, May 28. After that date they will be issued for 48 hours subject to renewal.

Student Fees Must Be Paid By May 30, Says R. B. House

All students under financial obligations to the University in any manner whatsoever and in any amount—whether to the Business Office, Library, Buildings Department, or Swain Hall—are hereby notified that such obligations must be met in full, or the department concerned fully satisfied, before taking the final examinations at the end of this quarter, June 4-7.

Failure to attend to such matters will, by direction of Mr. R. B. House, Executive Secretary of the University, result in the delinquents being refused permission to take their examinations. Loss of credit for the quarter's work will follow without fail.

Every student having unpaid bills with any of the above named departments or offices is urged to attend to the matter before May 30 in order to prevent his or her name being sent to the instructors concerned with directions to debar them from the examinations.

C. M. Baker, assistant librarian of the University since 1919 has accepted the position of director of libraries at the University of Kansas. He will leave for his new post in August.

Frances McAlister left Friday for Winston-Salem where she will spend the week-end with her sister Mrs. Pat Petranich at the Westover Park Country Club.

Future North Carolina Barristers

Pictured above are eight of the law students who will lead arguments at the annual "Supreme Court" session of the Law School Association this afternoon. The arguments at Manning Hall will culminate the activities of the association for the year.

Reading left to right, the future barristers are: Top row: Fred Parker, Goldsboro; G. M. Shaw, Raleigh; Miss Susie Sharpe, Reidsville; A. L. Butler, Clinton.

Bottom Row: A. K. Smith, Raleigh; Tom Rollins, Asheville; Henry Brandis, Jr., Salisbury; and J. F. Glenn, Asheville.

TAR HEEL STAFF TO GET BARBECUE

Carolina Theatre Manager To Entertain Overworked Typewriter Tappers.

Mr. E. C. Smith of the Carolina Theatre will entertain members of the Tar Heel and Chapel Hill Weekly staffs and a number of faculty members and townspeople at a barbecue supper and theatre party next Wednesday evening.

The supper will be served underneath the oaks at Sparrow's Swimming Pool at 5:30 o'clock, followed by a theatre party for the guests at the Carolina Theatre. An old-fashioned barbecue supper has been planned for the large number of guests invited.

Personal invitations have been mailed.

Supreme Court Justices Will Hear Young Barristers Today; Custom Inaugurated in 1924

Feature Work of Law School Association Culminates at Law
Building Today.

FEATURE OF YEAR

Justices Adams, Clarkson, and Brogden Will Preside; Begins
At 3 O'clock.

The annual arguments before the Supreme Court of the Law School Association will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the First Year Room of the Law Building. The arguments are a feature of the work of the Law School Association and culminate the work of the year.

The cases will be argued by Fred Parker of Goldsboro, G. M. Shaw of Raleigh, Miss Susie Sharp of Reidsville, A. L. Butler of Clinton, A. K. Smith of Raleigh, Tom Rollins of Asheville, Henry Brandis, Jr. of Salisbury, and J. F. Glenn, Jr. of Asheville.

The session will be presided over by three members of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Justices W. J. Adams, Heriot Clarkson, and W. J. Brogden, and four prominent members of the North Carolina bar, A. L. Brooks of Greensboro, J. O. Carr of Wilmington, John F. McRae of Charlotte, and J. S. Manning of Raleigh.

The briefs prepared by the student lawyers are considered by Professor Coates, Director of the Law School Association, as the equal of any of the regular briefs filed by the lawyers of the state with the North Carolina Supreme Court. The student counsel have worked painstakingly on their cases, and will present them in the best professional manner. These selected to argue are among the highest standing students in the Law School.

The cases will be tried in the courtroom which has been established by the Law School Association in the Law Building. It is modeled after a regular courtroom, and furnished with modern courtroom equipment by Mr. C. L. Shuping of the Greensboro bar, in recognition of the value of the work and in appreciation of the services of members of the bar.

The arguments this afternoon will be followed by a banquet tonight, at which the Law School Association will present to the school, the law office and courtroom, the first ever established in a law school in North Carolina.

The case for the first year court, framed by W. Ney Evans of the Law School faculty, will be: Where the owner of land conveyed to a manufacturing enterprise "so long as the same shall be used as a recreation ground for the employees of the company," the question is whether or not the restriction is effective to restore the land to the grantor, or his heirs, when, after 25 years performance, the

GERMAN VISITORS LAUD CAROLINA

Visitors Impressed by "Botanical Beauty" and Methods
Of University.

Yesterday the University became a part of the picture of American education that 31 German educators are touring this country to acquire. The delegation of prominent scholars and teachers from Germany arrived in Chapel Hill at 9 o'clock this morning and spent until 2 o'clock inspecting the plant and the methods of the University.

Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University, and R. B. House, executive secretary, met the party on their arrival, and an entertainment committee composed of members of the faculty conducted the visitor, about the campus.

The party is being conducted on their tour of America by Dr. Thomas Alexander of Teachers College, Columbia University. The circuit made through the United States will take three months. Almost two months of this time has already been spent.

Members of the group were intensely interested in the various phases of the University's work and expressed a great deal of admiration for the particular interest that the University takes in the welfare of its students. To them the self-help phase of student life here was a wonderful revelation. They had heard and seen nothing like it before. The Extension Division was also a new phase of University life to them as was the University Press, since neither of these departments finds a place in the German institutions of higher learning.

Dr. Otto Schultze, the oldest member of the party, and the only member connected with a German university, expressed considerable admiration for the work that is being carried on in the Graduate School here, "I am glad to have found the same spirit of scientific investigation that we are so proud of in Germany," he said. "I am particularly impressed with the University's relation to the state as a whole. The extension work that is done here seems to be developed to a very high degree. We know little of that kind of thing in Germany, instead our every effort is put into research and investigation."

"It is particularly interesting to me to find that many of the problems that you face here are the same as those we face in European Universities," he added. Dr. Schultze is professor of pedagogy at the University of Konigsberg.

Other members of the party expressed themselves as having gained a new significance of what university education really stood for in America because of their visit here, and still others were lavish in praising the spacious beauty, and what they called the "botanical beauty" here in Chapel Hill.

Institutions visited on the tour besides the University of North Carolina have been Cornell, Columbia, University of Michigan, and Chicago.

Di Senate Selects Fox As President

New Officers Elected at Last Meeting
Of Society.

The Dialectic Assembly held an election of officers for next quarter and initiated two new members at the last meeting of the year Tuesday evening. The new members were: T. C. Bowie, Jr., West Jefferson, N. C.; and M. B. Seawell, Sanford, N. C. The officers who will serve next fall are: H. J. Fox, president; C. C. Studdert, president pro-tem; Garland McPherson, treasurer; Aubrey Parsley, assistant treasurer; Will Yarborough, clerk; and Whisnant sergeant-at-arms.

A motion to move the meeting from Tuesday to Saturday was defeated. Because of the lack of time an interesting bill regarding student government could not be discussed. But Taylor Bledsoe, the writer of the bill, expressed an opinion on faculty interference: "I understand that there are those on the campus who are proposing that the faculty place a fee on the students for lectures and musical entertainments. Gentlemen, I'm opposed to this. I am not opposed to this fee, but I am opposed to the faculty placing any fee upon the student body."

Mary Frances Albritton of Hookerton is the guest of Mattie Erma Edwards at the Woman's Building.

Epworth League Meeting

The Epworth League will meet on the lawn of the old Methodist Church building Sunday evening at 7:00. The first half hour will be given over to informal conversation and light refreshment. A Vesper service will follow featured by male quartet selections and a brief devotional address. Seats will be arranged for those attending the service.

FEMALE WILL BE CLUB PRESIDENT

"Sand-lappers" Select Co-ed
As President; Breaks Precedent.

Frances McAlister was elected president of the Palmetto Club for next year at the final meeting of the year held in Gerrard Hall Thursday night. This is the first time in the history of the "sand-lappers" club that a co-ed has been elected president. Other officers elected for next year are John Norwood of Greenville, S. C., vice-president J. C. Stabler of St. Matthews, S. C., secretary; and Ed Hamer of McColl, S. C., treasurer.

This last meeting was well attended by students from South Carolina, and after the election of officers other matters of business were discussed. Plans for next year were gone over, and then South Carolina news was discussed. Refreshments were served during the meeting.

Judging from the election it is thought by one of the officers of the club that the co-eds will bring together more of the boys from the Palmetto State and make the club a live organization.

German Club Places

There are only a few vacancies left in the German Club for this year, and there are already more applications than there are vacancies. All applications received before Wednesday, May 30, will be voted on by a special committee of the club, and those who are passed will not be considered members. Absolutely no one, regardless of circumstances, and whether he has a girl or not, will be allowed to join during the Finals. All men who are not members for this year, and who are in school now, will not be allowed to attend the dances either as a guest or as an alumnus unless they have made applications and have paid the required dues. All checks and correspondence should be mailed to Baron Holmes, P. O. Box 906, before Wednesday, May 30.
