PARAGRAPHS

Let there be music, lectures, and drama!

The last issue of the Tar Heel was so overflowing with open forum letters that the said letters won out over paragraphs by the score of 5 to 0. All of which may have been for the best!

And they say the Yackety Yack will be distributed Friday and Saturday. Here's hoping, but never since we've been an inmate of this institution have we seen the yearbooks given out before final exams.

Let there be music, lectures, and drama!

For the first time this year the Track Team seems to be exhibiting a lack of speed—the election of next year's captain has not yet been held.

Let there be music, lectures, and drama!

AND SO FAREWELL

Today there appears Number 92 of the 36th volume of the TAR HEEL, the last issue of the year.

And now typewriters and typists, copy readers and copy reporters, editors and editors, may sink upon the office floor for one brief breathing spell.

Ahead of us lie—those ever-recurring final exams, that annual period of graduation, commencement of actual work for sheepskin owners, and for others—a summer's holiday.

And so—farewell.

LET THERE BE LECTURES, MUSIC AND DRAMA!

Several weeks of pertinent discussion of the proposed entertainment fee now brings the issue to a head. The voting takes place today.

Today will decide whether the members of next year's student body will have the privilege of hearing, seeing, and enjoying from four thousand to five thousand dollar's worth of the best possible entertainment for the nominal sum of one dollar per quarter.

Today will decide whether next year's program will consist of perhaps one fairly good entertainment and several poor ones or a splendid series of interesting entertainments, at least one every month, by such speakers as Sherwood Anderson, Count Von Luckner, William Beebe, Richard Halliburton, Rachel Lindsay, John Masefield, Thornton Wilder; such musical treats as Ponselle, Jeritza, Paul Whiteman's Orchestra; such dramatic productions as the New York Theater Guild at N. C. C. W.

If the suggested fee is accepted, the programs will be arranged by a student committee cooperating with the regular University Lectures Committee for the lectures, with Professor Koch for the dramatic entertainment, and with Mr. Weaver for music. In this way the programs would be sure to prove of interest to the students.

The question has been raised as to why the A. B. School and the School of Education alone are to have the privilege of voting the entertainment fee. Although of course the ideal thing would be for the entire student body to adopt the plan, the trouble is that Memorial Hall, the largest assembly room of the campus, cannot accommodate more than about half of the student body. It would be unfair, then, to vote a fee upon the student body and not have any place wherein to accommodate all those who had paid the fee. The movement arose in the A. B. School and was extended to the School of Education because these two schools seemed the most logical ones in that the high grade of the proposed entertainments were more closely allied to the scholastic work of the schools. Students enrolled in other schools, however, will have an opportunity to buy season tickets to the entertainments until all the seats in Memorial Hall have been sold out.

"To the polls today!" is our plea. Let there be Lectures, Music, and Drama!

OPEN FORUM

UNFAIR PROFS

To the Editor:

In a few more days I will have completed my journey through the "educating machine" of the University—provided I pass two courses.

To be brief, every quarter that I have been here there is always some professor or professors who insist on giving a long, hard quiz just a few days before the final examination. As a remedy for this I would like to see the faculty pass a regulation prohibiting such or at least enforce the regulation if there is one in existence.

And another thing. As I understand it, the University regulation provides for a two-hour final examination and the schedule is arranged in such a way that a large number of students have two final examinations in one day. When a professor deliberately, willfully, and knowingly puts up an examination that the best student cannot complete in two hours, he is taking an unfair advantage which his absolute power in such a case allows him. The student must attempt to pass the final if he wants to pass the course. This frequently results in a student flunking his next examination because he is not given sufficient time to rest and collect his thoughts before the afternoon examination begins.

Mr. Faculty, won't you please give this due consideration in these last few days when you begin giving your pop quizzes and making out your final examinations.

A. HELPLESS VICTIM.

EVANS EXPLAINS

Editor of the Tar Heel:

I want to take this opportunity of informing the students that the sentiments voiced in my letter in Tuesday's Tar Heel were my own personal reactions to Mr. Cone's letter and Mr. Spearman's editorial. I had no intention of giving the impression that I had consulted the other members of the board and was speaking for them. I signed my name as Secretary of the P. U. Board in order to show that my position on the board proved that I knew something about the facts of the case.

Changes Made In Y Staff Personnel

Official announcement of a change in the personnel of the Y.M.C.A. staff for the year 1928-1929 was made yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. office. Mr. Comer, who for the past several years has directed activities, will be on leave of absence next year during which time he will study at Columbia University. Walter Crissman, who has also been associated with the staff, leaves to practice law in High Point.

Mr. Grady Leonard, self-help secretary, will remain with the "Y." Aubrey Perkins, who succeeds Mr. Crissman, will also be active in the business end of the office. These men will be assisted by Miss Willia Ames, who will continue as secretary of the information bureau, and by Mrs. M. A. Hill, who will be added to the office staff.

KELLY WALLACE WINS GRAIL CUP

New Dorms Athletic Luminary Selected for Highest Intramural Honor.

Kelly Wallace, New Dorms athletic luminary, is the winner of the annual Grail Cup designating the best All-Round Intramural athlete for the 1927-28 season. Roy Alexander, also of the New Dorms crew, was runner-up for the highest of all Intramural honors. Wallace carried off the cup with a total of one hundred and forty-six points, while Alexander trailed with one hundred and thirty-five points.

The Intramural Statistician scores points to each individual according to the following plan: one point is scored to each individual for play in a game on the losing side; five points are scored for play in a game on the winning side for each contestant.

Wallace and Alexander ran a neck-and-neck race for the award up until the baseball season, when Alexander answered the call to the varsity baseball field. The small catcher who stepped in the breach and saved the day during the classic Virginia series was leading Wallace by 10 points when the season of the National Pastime rolled around. Kelly played four winning games for New Dorms and one losing contest to take the lead during the baseball grind.

It was greatly due to the stellar work of Alexander and Wallace that the New Dorms Tag Football squad swept easily to the campus title in that sport. Both rated an All-Campus berth, while Roy was selected to captain the mythical selection by virtue of his all-season performances. The New Dorms speed merchant was high scorer among the tag football backs with a total of 97 points. Wallace played hardly less brilliantly at end. He, also, was among the high scorers of the season.

The two leaders paired up at forward on the New Dorms undefeated basketball team. In this capacity they proceeded to make life miserable for opposing guards. Both made Nap Lufty's All-Dormitory team. Came the boxing season and Roy took the lead over Wallace when he won three bouts for New Dorms' Championship squad. Then came the baseball season when Alexander was forced out of the running by his varsity work. Neither entered the Horseshoe Tournament or Tennis Matches.

The "Up Town" Dorms were undefeated in football, basketball, boxing, wrestling, and lost one game in baseball.

Carolina Theatre Management Hosts At Barbecue Supper

The editors and business managers of the Tar Heel, members of the force at the Orange Printshop, the force of the Carolina Theatre, and several invited guests, including Dr. T. J. Wilson, Dr. Nathan, and V. A. Hill, were entertained by the management of the Carolina Theatre yesterday afternoon from 5:30 to 7:00 at a barbecue supper at Sparrow's pool.

After the supper the crowd was given a performance of Adolphe Meville in "A Night of Mystery," at the Carolina.

Howard's Classes Hear Local Savants

Dean Addison Hibbard's English 60 class in recent American literature has been for the last few meetings hearing lectures by several of the faculty members of other departments in the University.

Dr. Howard W. Odum spoke on "The Experimentalists in Modern Births"; Professor Mumford Jones spoke on "Critical Attitudes towards Literature"; Dr. English Bagby gave a lecture on "The Relation of Psychology to the Realistic Novel." Paul Green will probably talk this morning on "The Recent American Drama."

Members of the class state that they have been enjoying these talks very much, and Mr. Hibbard says that "it is a gratifying example of cooperation between departments here in the University."

Sub-Assistants for Football Announced

Max Barker, manager of football, announces that the following men have been chosen as sub-assistant managers of football for 1928: Paul Wimbish, J. V. Lindley, K. C. Ramsay, "Cal" Cahoun, A. G. Peeler, Jr., and Herbert Best. P. B. Ruffin and George Pennington were chosen as alternates.

Annual Publications Audit

Each year at the close of school the accounts of the Publications Union are audited by the auditing firm of Rogerson and Peacock. Below will be found the audit for the year 1926-27. This shows a satisfactory financial year for all of the publications with the exception of the Magazine. The Surplus earned is invested to be used to care for any deficit that might arise in the future.

Many Entrants for Journalism Contest

The contesting publications of North Carolina high schools in the annual State Journalism Contest are being sent to the contest committee of the University Extension Division. Indications are that many high schools will enter the contests.

Two contests are held, the magazine contest and the newspaper contest. The Extension Division gives the winner of the magazine contest a trophy cup, and the Thomas Hume cup is awarded to the high school sending the best newspaper.

Greensboro has won both the magazine and newspaper contests for the past two years. The high school winning the Hume cup the greatest number of times out of the ten years it is to be given, retains it permanently.

We appreciate the Business given us during the past college year.
