Tar Heels and Demon Deacons To Play Before Great Crowd In Opening Game of Season

Coach Cofall Has Many Sophomores in Starting Line-up Against Carolina.

GAME STARTS AT 3
Heels Will Have Eight Veterans on Starting Team; Presson Is Out.

During the course of the afternoon approximately twenty-two men, wearing the blue and white of the University of North Carolina and the gold and black of Wake Forest College, will clash on the green turf of Kenan Memorial Stadium. One of the teams will boast a record of four consecutive victories over the other. That same team will be seeking to run that string of victories to five, the other team will be attempting the break the jinx that has persisted in clinging to its trail since the days of Hank Garrity.

While those twenty-two men are seeking to win, some twenty thousand supporters of the two teams will be occupying the seats in the stadium that have been unused since the Tar Heels turned back the tide that rolled down from Charlottesville last November. Part of this crowd will be students representing the two institutions, the remainder of the crowd will be divided in their support of the two teams. The crowd will exceed any previous one to witness a game between two North Carolina teams. It will not approach the one that witnessed the Carolina-Virginia clash, but it will be larger by far than most of crowds to witness gridiron clashes in North Carolina. When Deacons meet Tar Heels, or if it preferred when Tar Heels meet Deacons, there is sure to be a crowd. Last year's throng of twelve thousand and the host of football followers that crowded Gore field in 1926 as it was never crowded before attest to the attraction these games have for the public.

When the referee blows his whistle at three o'clock this afternoon and calls out, "Are you ready Captain Weir?" and then turns to the Carolina end of the field and puts the same question to Captain Harry Schwartz, he will little realize what he is starting. When the same referee blows his whistle a few seconds later and gives the signal for the team that has elected to kick to send the ball down the field, he lights the fuse that will send two scrapping, fighting, ready teams against each other. Some of the men to face each other have never before played against each other, some of them will never face each other across the imaginary line

GRAIL TO OPEN SOCIAL SEASON AT GYM TONIGHT

Dance to Be First of Series Continuing Through Fall Quarter.

Tonight the strains of music emanating from Bynum Gymnasium will indicate that the social season has begun in earnest at the University. Last night the Co-eds really started things down at Spencer Hall, but tonight the crowd will be a little more cosmopolitan than the crowd at the reception last night, for the Grail will be sponsors for the affair.

This will be the first dance of the current season for the Order and will open a series that will continue throughout the three sessions of the University.

The Carolina Buccaneers will furnish the music for the occasion, and it should be fine due to the various reports of the success which the orchestra enjoyed during the past summer.

Special emphasis is placed on the fact that the dance will start promptly at 9 o'clock. A limited number of stag tickets will be put on sale at 8:30 at the rear door of the gym. As usual the price of admission will be seventy five cents. All couples will enter the gym by the front door.

Grail officials are putting great stress on the decorations for the first dance, and the gym should look fine. Again everybody is urged to be on time so that the dance will start at 9 o'clock sharp.

ENTERTAINMENT FEE

Students in the College of Liberal Arts and in the School of Education who have not yet been able to pay their fees, may upon payment of the one dollar Entertainment Fee in Dean Hibbard's office, secure tickets for the fall quarter programme. This privilege is extended only through October 5th; after that date all unsold tickets will be placed on general sale for other students and townspeople.

DEAN McCORMICK SPEAKS AT LAW SCHOOL OPENING

Urges Highest Standard for U. N. C. Law School.

Urging his students to make the study of law an exciting, pleasure-giving game, to have the courage of their convictions, and to always be discontent with shoddy and second rate aims, Dean Charles T. McCormick delivered a forceful address at the formal opening of the 83rd session of the University of North Carolina Law School here Thursday.

"Be proud," Dean McCormick advised. "Pride is one of those motives or emotions which turns to good ends the cold machinery of bare reason. It is pride which makes us discontent with shoddy and second rate aims. It is pride which prompts us to do work of real distinction, which makes us see the meaning of Holmes' phrase about studying law 'in the grand manner!'"

Dean McCormick began with a summary of the Law School's achievements last year "to set a starting point for our efforts of the coming year"—the offering of new courses directly related to business, bringing in of lawyers and judges to aid in presenting a laboratory course in trial and office practice, the addition of 5,000 volumes to the Law Library, making the total 18,000; the improvement in the Law Review, the work of the law clubs, the securing of a chapter of The Order of The Coif, honorary legal organization, which has established chapters in only 28 of the 65 standard law schools of the country, and "cooperation between students and faculty."

He expressed pleasure at the return of three former members to the law faculty—Prof. A. C. McIntosh, M. T. Van Hecke, and Fred McCall—to give the Law School a full-time faculty of eight men, the largest in the South, east of the University of Texas.

"The Law School has made long strides forward," he said, "but nevertheless its success or failure during the coming year will depend in large measure upon you, the students of the school.

"Let the law enter your recreation, even associate it with pleasure. Live the law, talk it constantly, be absorbed in your profession. Have the courage of your thoughts and don't fail to defend them. Be too proud to let yourselves be contented with second rate and shoddy aims." These were some of the things which he advised.

Democrats Challenge Rival Politicians

Taylor Bledsoe, chief of local Democrats, announces that the Democratic Student club is still active with a capital A, and that it would like to hear something from the Republican camp, if there is such a thing on the campus. Interest in politics is increasing rapidly on the campus, and the Democratic Club expects to hold a big rally in the near future, at which time some speakers of great prominence will be secured. A straw vote between the two candidates will also be held very soon.

Bledsoe says, "The student sentiment is so overwhelmingly for Smith that I fully expect over half the student body to go to Raleigh to hear him speak next month."

Debaters Begin to Organize With Large Attendance; Plan To Meet British in October

HEFFNER READS IBSEN'S PLAY

Five Act Play Will Be Presented By Carolina Playmakers.

On Thursday night in the Playmakers Theatre the first dramatic presentation of the year was given to an interested audience when Mr. Hubert Heffner gave a reading of Henry Ibsen's five act play, "An Enemy of the People," a play of Democracy, the majority versus minority. Mr. Heffner put all of his well known skill into the reading, the result being an evening of very enjoyable entertainment. The play, "An Enemy of the People," will be the first play produced by the Playmakers. Anyone interested in obtaining a part in the dramatic or technical roles are requested to try for a position on Monday afternoon at 4:30 or on Monday night at 7:30. The Playmakers are never a closed organization, every student and faculty member having an equal privilege for showing his or her ability in any role of the play.

New men interested in the technical side of the organization will have ample opportunity to show their ability as six new sets of scenery will have to be prepared for the plays of the coming season.

Before the reading on Thursday night, Prof. F. H. Koch welcomed the old and new members of the audience to the theatre. He summed up briefly the history of the Playmakers and then informally introduced the officers of the organization. Prof. Koch then told of the planned trips to be taken by the Playmakers this season. They will tour the North as far as New York, West to Tennessee, and South to Florida.

Sophomores Smoke And Elect Officers

Three hundred sophomores were present at the smoker held in Swain Hall on Thursday night. Sandwiches and a salad with cocoa as a drink served as refreshments for the occasion.

After the assembly of sophomores had eaten the food to the tunes of Alex Mendenhall's orchestra, President Wyrick called the meeting to order. He thanked the class for having elected him to the position and introduced the other officers. Van Alston, secretary of the class, did not return to school, so President Wyrick called for nominations of a new secretary. Mac Howard was elected to the post, by defeating Evan Vaughan in a very close race.

After this business, Dr. R. D. W. Connor addressed the class with a very worthwhile and interesting talk. The smoker came to an end after another selection by the orchestra.

NOTICE CORRECTIONS

Rhodes scholarship applications are not due until October 13 instead of "tonight," as a headline in Thursday's Tar Heel indicated. The story under the headline stated the time correctly, but the head was misleading. The mistake was due to a printer's error.

Due to another printer's error, it was stated that Jack Wardlaw's orchestra would furnish the music for the dance following the reception for new co-eds Friday night. The copy read "Jack Wardlaw has arranged for the music." The Carolina Commodores played for the dance.

British Women Will Debate Subject of Co-education with Carolina Next Month.

The initial meeting of the University Debating squad was held in 202 Murphey Hall Thursday night with attendance of over forty aspirants. Taylor Bledsoe was acting chairman of the assembly.

The squad will meet in the future each Thursday night, and topics of prevailing interest will be discussed. Men who are intimately acquainted with the subjects under discussion have been selected to lead the meetings.

The University will debate during the latter part of October a team composed of three women representing the British Universities' Students Union on the subject of Co-education. The next meeting of the class will be given over to a discourse on this subject led by one of the faculty. The query as stated is: Resolved, that the disadvantages of Co-education outweigh the advantages. Carolina will uphold the negative side of the question.

To those students who attend regularly the meetings throughout the year and write one satisfactory paper each quarter a credit of one-half course will be given. Grades will be awarded on the basis of attendance, class participation, and the term paper. The credit will not be given to freshmen as the course is a Sophomore, Junior and Senior elective, but the first year men may attend meetings of the squad and participate in the debates.

Due to the over-crowded condition of the present place of meeting, the group will meet next time in 201 Murphey instead of 202.

Dr. McKie Seeks New Orators for Contest

The University of North Carolina has been invited to send a representative to the state-wide Oratorical Contest sponsored by the American Legion, Department of North Carolina, on November 5. The subject for the contest will be "The Citizen's Duty to Vote," and all orations must be original and prepared by the participants. The length of the speeches is not to exceed fifteen minutes.

Representatives are to be chosen from the colleges in the state by the colleges, themselves and their name must be turned into Raleigh by October 29. On November 5 the delegates will meet in a centrally-located town to be selected later, at two o'clock in the afternoon for the elimination contest. At this time five representatives will be chosen to engage in the state finals that night at eight o'clock.

The American Legion will award valuable prizes to the winners, and it is expected that merchants in the various cities will give additional awards.

Anyone who wishes to try out for this contest should turn in his name to Dr. McKie at his office in Murphey Hall. The time for the eliminations will be announced in a later issue of the Tar Heel.

FRESHMAN NOTICE

The freshman class will form at Memorial Hall at 2 o'clock and will attend the game in a body. The Athletic Association will admit no freshman who is not dressed in a blue coat and white pants.

Another thing that is likely to cost you a good deal is a free demonstration.—Ohio State Journal.

Chandler Holds Meeting to Pep Up Students for First Game.

If Wake Forest had glimpsed a television view of what went on in Memorial Hall last night the Deacons would have wrestled in prayer longer and more earnestly than ever before; and if the jinx peeped in through one of the big windows he probably scampered panic-stricken to the woods, and is, undoubtedly, even now lying stiff and cold somewhere in the Orange wilderness, plumb scared to death. For last night's exhibition of fighting spirit was only a sample of what is due to put the complete quietus on the Deaks and their little horned pet this afternoon in Kenan Stadium.

All the way from Bill Chandler's staccato call for cheers, down to Coed Walker's oscillating syncopation on her musical saw, the affair was one of the most bang-bang-away things that ever hit this old hilltop. The Band snorted flame at the nostrils, the Commodores ripped out their hot-blooded jazztication like the Devil opening the draught of Hell-fire, while the thunder that rolled up out of the audience for Coach Chuck Collins, and again for Captain Harry Schwartz, and again for Coach Bob Fetzer, resounding against the marble tablets told of an absolute faith in the team and these three men.

Abbott and Gholson's tumbling act, Waddell and McIntosh's caper, and Ed Humphries' banjoning were fascinating lulls in a cyclone of fighting passion that will burst forth afresh today and send eleven Tar Heels battling across a bloody sod.

GLEE CLUB HOLDS SUCCESSFUL TEST

43 New Men Succeed in Quest of Places With Singers.

The University Glee Club, an organization which during the past few years has brought much fame to the campus, held its annual tryout on last Monday afternoon for the purpose of selecting men to fill the places left vacant by the men who are not to continue in the club this year.

According to Manager "Bob" Foltz one of the best tryouts ever held took place, and by far the most promising group of material was present. Forty-three new men were chosen and 37 of these had "A" quality voices. Many men who had had experience in singing at other schools and colleges tried for places in the club. The University of Cincinnati gave two men to the club, while Clemson, Tulane, Deerfield Institute, Florida State, Washington College, and Dayton Westminister Choir furnished one each.

About 150 men tried for places and 73 of these were chosen for temporary use. The club will retain 50 of these men for the entire year. There are now 12 states represented in the Glee Club. North Carolina leads the list with 60 men. Florida and Ohio come next with 2 each, while Colorado, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, West Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, New York, and Virginia are represented with one man each. Asheville leads the list among the cities of North Carolina by contributing 5 men to the club, and Greensboro and Winston-Salem are represented by four men each.

The Glee Club has taken many trips of real importance in the past few years and has won many honors and much praise in contests and concerts throughout the state. During the summer of 1926, the club went to Europe and was highly praised by musical critics everywhere. This club is one of the five college glee clubs that has gone abroad. Return engagements have practically always been given to the club, and extensive plans have been made for a long trip next summer. Capacity houses all enthusiastic in their applause, have been accorded the club in a number of places while they were on tour.

The program which the Glee Club sings consists solely of standard and classical numbers of music which is enduring and which does not grow boring by continued hearing. There are songs sung in Russian and Latin as well as characteristic negro

ECONOMIC, CIVIC, AND SOCIAL LIFE STUDIED BY CLUB

J. W. Bailey Gives $50 To Winner of N. C. Club Prize.

For fourteen years there has existed on the campus an organization, known as the North Carolina Club, which has been interesting itself in the economic, social and civic life of the state. It meets on fortnightly Monday nights throughout the college year, and at each meeting there is a paper or address dealing with some problem of current interest in the life of the state. At the close of each year these papers are assembled and published as a yearbook, and this series of yearbooks now makes a useful library for students of state affairs. Some of the papers are prepared by faculty members, some by prominent men of affairs, and some by university students. Because of his interest in the Club, Hon. J. W. Bailey of Raleigh, gives each year a prize of $50 in gold to the author of the best student paper. University credit may also be received for these papers.

Each year a central theme is selected and all the papers of the year revolve around that theme. For instance, last year the papers were "Studies in Taxation," the year before

Juniors and Seniors Must Pay for Space

The Juniors voted unanimously to pay for their space in the 1929 Yackety Yack through the University business offices at their class smoker held in Swain Hall last Tuesday.

The proposition which was agreed to was this: Instead of receiving pay for a juniors' space in the Yackety Yack at the photographers, the business manager of the year book will take the card that he signs at the photographers to the business office of the University, where there will be added the $3.50 for his space. This $3.50 will be added to his bill in the Winter quarter. The only money that he will have to pay at the photographers under the new plan is $1.50 which goes to paying for the photograph.

The seniors likewise passed the same bill last spring at their last meeting. Their contract reads as follows:

"That we, the Senior class of the University of North Carolina, 1929, have hereby agreed to pay for our space in the 1929 Yackety Yack through the business office of the University of North Carolina.

"As we understand the proposition made to us by the business managers of the 1929 Yackety Yack, each Senior is to pay through the business office of the University the sum of $6.00 (six dollars) for his or her space in the 1929 Yackety Yack. This sum is to be divided into three quarterly payments, $2.00 (two dollars) per quarter.

"That any Senior desiring not to have his or her picture in the 1929 Yackety Yack must express his or her desire to the treasurer of the class not later than 6 (six) weeks after school opens in the fall of the year. Their money will be refunded upon request by the business manager of the 1929 Yackety Yack.

"That the treasurer of the Senior class is to pay to the business manager of the 1929 Yackety Yack in a lump sum for all Senior space."

This contract was signed by the secretary of the class and the business manager of the University.
