

Frosh Pounce on Sophomores After Annual Smoker; S.O.S. Call Given by Second Year Men

President Hudgins Needed To Quell Near Riot in Quadrangle Monday Night.

There was a Frosh-Soph scrap the other night, and the freshmen weren't left out in the dark holding the bag either.

Somebody must have made some pep speeches at the frosh smoker, for when the young 'uns came out of Swain Hall last Monday night they seemed to feel like they really were somebody, and acted accordingly. Out of a bedlam came piercing yells and hoarse shouts of 32! 32! as the mob moved towards the quadrangle.

Up in the dormitories the sophs were biding their time. A conspiracy had run through their ranks, and each man waited at his window with a waste-can of water.

But the frosh weren't a bit scatter-brained. They avoided the dormitories, bunched in the new quadrangle court, and hurled imprecations up at the lighted windows. Down came the leaders of the second year men and called on their clan to rally 'round the flag of '31. They mobilized, and the two groups stood glowing and growling at each other across the street.

Then a valiant soph led a charge; but when he got to where he was going he discovered that only about six men had followed him. This handful, however, fought courageously until it was completely vanquished. There was a great deal of grappling, but very little slugging.

Some dauntless son of '32 then met three frosh champions in the middle of the street, and felled two of them expertly, but went down before the onslaughts of the third.

The sophomores, outnumbered and beaten back, looked about for an instrument of vengeance, and from somewhere brought forth a section of fire hose. A scuffle over the hose ensued, the hose was pulled in two, the attachable end being left in the hands of the yearlings, who immediately hid it away. Then, as the fight for the possession of the other piece raged, a second year man retrieved the good end from its hiding place, attached it to a nearby hydrant, and was in the act of turning on the water, when a nightwatchman arrived and annexed the wrench.

Thenceforward for a time it was only a verbal battle. Then President Hudgins appeared, and even the hot words ceased to flow. Mr. Hudgins handled the rioters in a very commendable manner, and presently the trouble-makers were all back in their rooms.

The sophs claim a victory because they still hold in their possession the business end of the hose, but it is said that Dean Bradshaw reprimanded the freshmen next morning in Chapel for hazing the upperclassmen.

University Presents Most Cosmopolitan Student Body

Students of Many Nationalities
Enrolled in University This Year; 20 Per Cent from Other States.

There once was a time—and not so many years back either—when a Northerner strolling the University of North Carolina's campus and rolling his "r's" in his native style was considered a strange and unusual character, a "Yankee," almost an alien.

And a real honest to goodness foreigner—well, he constituted a curiosity to engross and draw the curious gazes of University students day in and day out.

Today the situation is quite different. Perhaps 20 per cent of the University's students are from out of the State, a goodly portion of them from the North. Sectionalism apparently is dead and Southerners and Northerners are apt to become fast friends after a day or so of association and fellowship in this cosmopolitan University.

Foreign-born students are no longer so unusual, and there are now and then boys from strange and distant lands.

Every year brings its number of

HEELS HAVE HARD SCHEDULE AHEAD

Tar Heels Play Harvard After Twelve Year Truce.

The Tar Heel football squad that journeys into New England next Saturday to battle Harvard's Crimson eleven will follow a trail that has been blazed only once in the history of football at the University of North Carolina. The Tar Heels met Harvard in 1916 in the only previous battle between elevens representing the two institutions, and that team of a dozen years ago gave the Crimson one full afternoon.

Arnold Horween, now head coach of Harvard's big team, was then a star halfback on the "Big Three" champions that downed Carolina by a three-touchdown margin. The score that day was 21 to 0, with Horween scoring one touchdown and point for one third of his team's total. This year he will be fighting just as hard to whip the 1928 Tar Heels, but his fighting will be done from the coaching lines.

That was a real club that wore Carolina's colors into the northland that day so long ago, a club that faced Princeton, Harvard, and Georgia Tech on successive Saturdays and liked it. By the same token, neither of the three big time outfits enjoyed their meeting with Tommy Campbell's

P.U. BOARD HOLDS FIRST MEETING; ELECTS OFFICERS

Will Yarborough Elected President; Glenn Holder To Be Secretary.

The Publications Union Board met yesterday for the purpose of organizing for the coming year. Due to the failure of Killian Barwick to return to the University, it was necessary to select a member to fill his place. The appointment was referred to Ed Hudgins, President of the Student Body.

Will Yarborough, who received the highest vote last spring in the campus elections, was elected to the presidency of the Board. Glenn Holder was elected Secretary.

Besides the student members, the board is composed of Professor Oscar Coffin of the School of Journalism and Professor J. M. Lear of the Economics department.

MUSIC DIRECTOR TO START CHOIR

A Cappella Choir To Be Organized Again This Year.

Professor Paul John Weaver, head of the University's music department, announces that the A Cappella choir which was such a success at this institution last year will be organized again this year. The first rehearsal of the season will be held in Person Hall on Monday, October 15th, at 8 P. M. All students, faculty members, and residents of the college community are eligible to try out for places in the choir, and are especially invited to attend the first rehearsal.

The A Cappella choir will set a precedent this year by the rendering of modern English compositions which have never before been heard in this country. Mr. Weaver, who has been teaching the past summer at Cornell University with Dr. W. G. Whitaker, of the University of Durham, England, faculty was fortunately able to secure these compositions from Dr. Whitaker for the A Cappella choir to sing here this winter.

The second type of music to be used will be the extended chorales and church cantatas of Bach. These have been sung by only 8 choruses in the United States and they have never been introduced in the South. The reason for this is that there have never been any choruses that were able to successfully render these numbers. A movement has been started in England and Germany during the past few years for the revival of Bach's compositions, and the A Cappella choir of this University is one of the first to start the revival in this country.

There will be 40 members of the choir, and eight parts will be sung: first and second tenors, altos, sopranos, and basses. The choir will be under the personal direction of Professor Weaver, and will appear in concert at various intervals throughout the year.

Weaver Leaves for New York Meeting

Professor Paul Weaver, head of the University of North Carolina music department, left last night for New York where he will attend the meeting of the American Committee in charge of the arrangements of the British-American Conference of Musicians and Music Teachers which will be held in Geneva, Switzerland next August. Mr. Weaver is the chairman of this committee which is composed of five prominent members from various parts of the country. He will return Monday afternoon.

Dances.

Officials for the dances to be held this year were selected Thursday by the German Club at its fall meeting. It was also announced that the Fall dances would be held on Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving and that the set would consist of five dances; two on Friday and three on Saturday.

Sam Pettus was elected Chief Ball Manager. Pace Fuller, Alec Gallo-way, Bryan Grimes, Fred Johnson, Harry Lassiter, Charlie Price, and Henry Satterfield were selected as Ball Managers. The marshalls will be: Sonny Tilghman, chief marshal, Archie Allen, Cal Calhoun, Louis de-Rosset, Gordon Gray, Marion Follin, Dave Nims, and Dick Winborne.

Leaders for the Fall and Mid-Winter dances are: Fall set, Jack Pringle, leader; Pete Wilson, first assistant; Bill Shuford, second assistant. Mid-Winter set, Bill Webb, leader; Nelson Howard, first assistant; John Anderson, second assistant.

After the general meeting the juniors and sophomores met and elected leaders for their dances, as follows: Fred Carr, leader; Tom Hunter, first assistant; and Bill Moye, second assistant will lead the Junior Prom. Leaders of the sophomore hop will be George Bagby, leader; Mac Webb, first assistant; and Ned Lipscomb, second assistant.

Bowman Gray, president of the German Club, also stated that it was the intention of the club to put on the best set of Fall dances this year that have ever been held on the Hill.

BLEDSEOE PLANS DEMOCRATIC CLUB

Issues Request That Voters Register
With Him.

Word has been received here that L. Taylor Bledsoe, member of the third year law class, has been appointed chairman of the Democratic College Committee for North Carolina. Bledsoe stated yesterday that a campus Democratic club would be organized here immediately.

Clubs have already been organized at Wake Forest and at Duke. Plans are now being formulated for the organization of similar groups at Davidson and N. C. State. The action of the Democratic party in sponsoring clubs in the various colleges of North Carolina is in accord with its policy, inaugurated a few months ago, of lining up young Democratic voters in leagues of young Democrats.

In his statement, Mr. Bledsoe stressed the need of all Democratic students' cooperating with the central committee. He requests that all Democratic students, eligible to vote, who are planning to vote the straight Democratic ticket, hand in to him their names, voting precincts, chairmen of boards of elections, and whether or not they are registered, in order that he may see to it that qualified to use the ballots.

Announcement was also made that the club will secure some notable Democratic speaker to make an address here the latter part of next week. O. Max Gardner, Democratic gubernatorial nominee will address the voters in Hillsboro next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Student Orchestra Does Booking Here

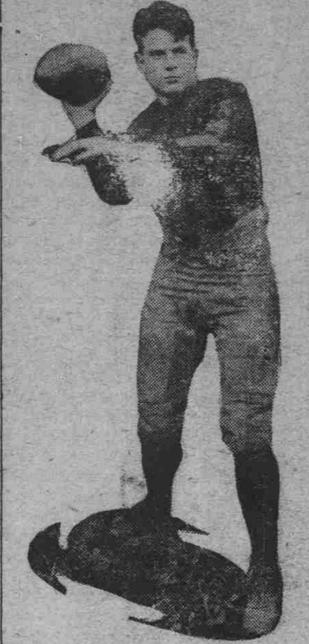

The Carolina Tar Heel Boys, local student orchestra, have returned to their Chapel Hill headquarters. This orchestra has just closed their summer work at the Atlantic Beach Pagoda, Morehead City, N. C. and will be in school at the University during the coming year, doing their winter booking from Chapel Hill.

The orchestra is made up of ten men and carries the usual assortment of features and novelties that are peculiar to college bands, specializing on pianos, vocal trio and solos.

The personnel is as follows: Alex Mendenhall, banjo & leader, Bob Byerly, 3rd Sax., C. G. Todd, 2nd sax., "Crutch" Crutchfield, 1st sax., J. G. Weaver, trombone, George Lawson, 2nd trumpet, Hillard Wilson, 1st trumpet, Bill Abernethy, piano and arrangement, Tommy Teer, piano, "Flip" Phillips, drums, and Paul Wim-bish, manager.

Old Liners Seek to Avenge 1927 Victory of Tar Heels; Game at College Park Today

Leon Spaulding

"Yank" Spaulding, hefty Pennsylvania boy, showed promise as a football player last fall when he starred against Davidson College. This year he has been doing good work and paired with Jimmie Ward forms one of the most dangerous passing combinations in North Carolina.

FROSH WIN OPENER

Just before the Tar Heel went to press word was received that the Carolina Tar Babies had won their first game against the Duke Blue Imps 6-0. According to reports coming from Durham, the Carolina yearlings were far superior to the Duke players. Slusser scored the touchdown for the Carolina team. Branch, Slusser, Alexander, Suggs, and Gilbert starred for the Tar Babies.

Church Observes "Student Night"

The Methodist Church will give special recognition to the students at the 8:00 o'clock preaching service next Sunday evening. Frank Wilson, Jr., Chairman of the Student Board of Stewards; Aubrey Perkins, President of the Young Men's Bible Class; and Elwood Hunter, President of the Epworth League will each have an opportunity to say a word concerning their work. A section of seats is being reserved for the Student Stewards and others who are having an active part in the life of the Church.

Fencing Movement
Is Latest Sport

Fencing, the ancient sport which for so long a time has been absent from the sporting world of the University, is to make a reappearance on the campus when the fencing club is organized Wednesday evening at 7:00. The club is being organized in the Y.M.C.A. under the sponsorship of Kinkey H. Hendlin, who will give instruction in fencing, "Bruno" Coburn, track and rifle celebrity, who started a fencing movement here two years ago, and G. E. Levings, a graduate of West Point now in the Law School.

Fencing originated in Southern European countries.

Stimulation of interest in fencing and the organization of a regular fencing team will be the objectives of the club, according to the sponsors. It is hoped that the active interest of the University of North Carolina in the sport will further the plans of fencing enthusiasts in other Southern schools to petition the Southern Conference Committee to recognize it as a regular sport in athletic competition.

Maryland Scored 31-0 Victory
Over Washington College;
Five Touchdowns in Eleven Minutes.

FIRST S. I. C. GAME

Collins To Start Team That Faced Demon Deacons
Last Saturday.

Two teams, one with a desire to avenge a one point defeat suffered at the hands of the other, the other with desire to prove that its 65-0 victory last Saturday is demonstrative of its real power, meet this afternoon at College Park Maryland. Both teams have amply demonstrated its scoring ability, one by piling up five touchdowns in eleven minutes of play, the other by scoring almost at will against a team that defeated it the year before.

Both the Old Liners representing the University of Maryland and the Tar Heels representing the University of North Carolina are anxious to win this the first Conference tilt of the season. Apparently the two teams are evenly matched. Maryland has ten lettermen back in togs while the Heels have an equal number. The Old Liners enjoyed a fairly successful season last fall, but the Carolina team failed to get going until the latter part of the season, in fact the victory over Maryland was the win registered by the Heels during the early part of the year. But on paper the Heels seem to have an edge on the Old Liners, for all of Coach Collins' pupils showed an ability to score, while Coach Byrd's proteges found trouble scoring except when the veterans were playing.

The Heels barely won over Maryland last fall, for the Old Liners constantly threatened the Carolina line. But time after time the College Park team would drive down the field only to have the Carolina line hold and Billy Ferrel send the mud covered and water soaked ball down the field again. It was the game that made Ferrel a hero, for his punting kept the Old Liners out of Carolina territory.

The Old Liners were dubbed a mystery team before the Washington College game, but after the 31-0 victory the Marylander's stock has risen considerably. At the outset of the season Coach Byrd had only one in the other positions he had Dodson and Healy at ends, Crothers and Wondrack at guard, Keenan and McDonald at tackle, Kessler at quarter, Roberts, Parsons, and Snyder for the other backfield positions. The only vacancy was at center, but Madigan, reserve pivot man from the 1927 eleven, seems to have filled the position vacated by Adams very successfully. Several hold overs from last year's team and men from the freshman team furnish the Maryland coaches chief reserve material.

Wild Antics of Costumed Sophomores Remind Writer of

by Les Miserables

As I was walking the pleasant streets of Chapel Hill there came over me an exotic sense of unreality. The atmosphere had grown Oriental; I felt as though I were in Caro, or Mecca, or Bagdad. But I couldn't imagine what gave me that feeling: there wasn't a domed mosque in sight, nor a camel, nor a veiled woman, nor a naked brat, nor a ragged beggar, nor palm trees, nor could I sniff the characteristic sickening odor of the Orient. There weren't even any American tourists in sight.

In a flash it came to me—I was distinctly hearing the muezzin calling the people to prayer. But I looked in vain for the minaret; whoever heard of a muezzin without a minaret! Then of a sudden I came full upon the muezzin, down on his knees without a sign of a prayer-rug, bending down and up, down and up, shouting over and anon, "Allah is almighty! Allah is almighty!" I looked closer, and bless my soul, it wasn't a muezzin at all, but
