

GRID-GRAPH REPORT OF
CAROLINA-HARVARD GAME
MEMORIAL HALL 2:30

The Tar Heel

ROMEO AND JULIET
PLAYMAKER'S THEATRE
SUNDAY NIGHT 8:30

VOLUME XXXVII

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1928

NUMBER 10

Tar Heels Seek Intersectional Glory in Battle With Harvard

Great Backfields Will Vie for Honors; Game at Soldier's Field.

Soldiers Field, Cambridge, Mass., will witness a renewal of a rivalry that ended twelve years ago. For this afternoon a team, wearing the traditional blue of the University of North Carolina, will battle a team, boasting the time-worn crimson of Harvard.

Until recent years it was seldom that a Southern team invaded the East or North with anything resembling hopes of a victory. But a few years ago Center College sent eleven men to Cambridge to play Harvard. The Crimson won that year, but the score was close. The following year "Bo" McMillan showed his heels to the Harvard eleven; from that date on the big teams of the Atlantic Seaboard took more notice of the Southern elevens. No longer did Southern managers card games with the teams of the East and North in vain hope that some enthusiastic publicity man might say of such and such a team that it had a great eleven as it held the Eastern Champions to a three touchdown victory. Since then there has been hopes of victory in the breasts of every southerner as his team ventured into foreign territory to battle for national recognition.

Such is the hope that the Carolina team carries with it into the lair of Coach Arnold Horween's Crimson eleven. The hopes of the Tar Heels are based on their great reserve strength. Not in many years has Carolina boasted such a galaxy of players that can deliver when called upon. Not in many years has a Tar Heel team boasted of 91 points scored in its first two games. Thus the Heels are optimistic.

But no less optimistic are the followers of the Crimson eleven, for Coach Arnold Horween, former captain and star of one of the pre-war Harvard elevens, has the best prospects for a winning team since he became head coach three years ago. Information emanating from the Harvard camp indicates that the Crimson will once again occupy the heights it boasted before the war. An array of backs that would do credit to any team is at the disposal of the Harvard coach, and though its line may not be as strong as in past years, yet it is good.

Both teams have rolled up scores in its early games. The Heels slaughtered Wake Forest and then defeated Maryland by one touchdown. The Cambridge eleven, in defeating Springfield College 30-0, played its

(Continued on page three)

Future Barristers Will Defend Honor on Gridiron Sunday

"Touchdown" Kartus Will Don
Moleskins To Give Ladies Treat.

by Gee

According to an announcement just received here from Tex Spickard, the Battle of the Millennium will take place on Sunday afternoon, at which time the Galloping Lawyers will rampage against the Zeta Psis in the Football Epic of All Time.

Feeling is high in the Law School, as eager rooters crowd around the bulletin board in the front hall for the latest news of changes in the lineup. The list as posted just before the Tar Heel went to press included "One Punt" Giles, "All In" Kartus, "Fish Tackle" McIntosh, "Hardware" Bledsoe, "Grandstand" Dick Martin, and "Watch 'Em Run" Allen. The subs will be McDaniel, Sharp, and Hayes.

The lawyers have waived the right to use the traditional eleven men on the team. "We don't need 'em," the manager would have said if interviewed last night just before he went to supper.

Coach Bob Giles of the Solicitors is confident of an early and well-merited decision. He points with pride to the special announcement posted in local legal headquarters, to the effect that the "Feature of the game will be 'Touchdown' Kartus, the dashing halfback, who will again don the moleskins to give the ladies a treat."

The lawyers are practicing daily, in spite of the fact that most of them are without licenses. Verbal workouts are held every free moment on the steps of the training house.

(Continued on page four)

MINDS OF SEXES DIFFER DECLARES MRS. JOHN COUCH

Woman Attacks Co-education at Meeting of University
Debating Class.

"By no logical means can one reach the conclusion that men's and women's minds are alike," said Mrs. John Couch at a meeting of the University debate class Thursday night in 201 Murphy. "Women are not inferior to men, but they are certainly different from men" she declared.

Mrs. Couch attacked co-education on the grounds of inefficiency, and stated that this was due to the fact that men and women are interested in different phases of activity. By means of citations from her own experience she pointed out that men and women need different types of education.

In discussing the problem of mating with respect to its co-educational aspect she said that the four year period of college life was not a mating season and that the mating problem should be solved after the period of college life. "Social life in a college need not be lop-sided because of the absence of either sex," she declared. She continued her argument by pointing out that in a co-educational institution the fact that women compete with men causes them to take advantage of men because of the time-honored idea that mankind must respect womankind.

Mrs. Couch declared that the association of men and women comes natural and does not need to be cultivated. The spirit of comradeship need not become entirely dormant because of the absence of one of the sexes on a college campus.

Quoting from authoritative sources she stated, in conclusion, that graduates of strictly feminine colleges have attained greater efficiency in professional life than graduates of co-educational institutions.

Taylor Bledsoe, President of the Debate Council, announced that the first debate of the year would take place about November 1. The team, which is to meet the team composed of three British women at this time, is to be chosen in the near future.

TEA AT INN

A bridge tea will be given at the Carolina Inn Saturday afternoon from three-thirty o'clock until six by the Pyramid Club.

Smoke Shop Employee Severely Cut Wed.

Mr. Jack Southerland, manager of the Carolina Smoke shop, was severely injured when the glass top of a counter broke about six o'clock Wednesday evening. He was supervising the moving of a counter when the accident occurred. A long, deep cut necessitated the taking of eleven stitches.

Mr. Southerland is now convalescing at the home of Dean G. H. Paulsen.

Student Injured

While cleaning windows 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of Dr. A. M. Jordan, Pittsboro street, Thomas H. Raney, 18 years old, sophomore at the University, fell from an eight foot ladder and suffered a double fracture of the right wrist.

Raney was cleaning a window at the side of the house when the ladder slipped from under him, causing him to fall. At Watts hospital, Durham, an X-ray disclosed that both bones of the wrist were fractured.

Metzenthin to Speak

Members of the Lutheran Church and their friends will be glad to learn that Sunday at 10:00 A. M. there will be a service conducted for them in Gerard Hall at which Dr. E. C. Metzenthin will deliver an address. His topic will be: "Follow your own conscience," but some problems of the present time concerning the churches will be talked upon also.

SOCIAL ORDERS INITIATE SOPHS

Sheiks, Minotaurs, and "13"
Club Take New Men.

Every year at this season the Order of Sheiks, an ancient Sophomore club, seizes upon several members of the Sophomore class. The initiates, who wear chequered turbans, attract much attention by bending down and up, shouting over and over, "Allah is almighty! Allah is almighty!"

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has more men affiliated with the order than any other fraternity at the University. The initiates are: Mayne Albright, Zeta Psi; Jack Lindley, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Gavin Dortch, Delta Kappa Epsilon; George Moody, Beta Theta Pi; Joe Eagles, Kappa Sigma; Alex Yarborough, Phi Delta Theta; Mac Webb, Alpha Tau Omega; Peter Browne Ruffin, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Will Yarborough, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Another thing peculiar to this season is the maneuverings of the Order of Minotaurs, also a Sophomore club. Upon hearing the sound of the cuckoo-bird students discover that it comes from the mouths of initiates to the Order of Minotaurs, the purpose of which is the promotion of good fellowship between the various fraternities represented.

The initiates are: Charles Skinner, Sigma Nu; Cooper Person, Sigma Nu; Cooper Person, Sigma Nu.

(Continued on page four)

"King of Jazz" Draws Full House for First Concert

All Seats Sold Long before Concert Started; Students Well Pleased with Program.

Paul Whiteman, "The King of Jazz," opened the series of concerts and lectures given by the Student entertainment committee last night with his concert at Memorial Hall before a packed house.

Only two hundred tickets were placed on sale at the opening of the concert and these were soon gone. Six hundred season tickets were offered by the committee to those members of the faculty and other schools in the university, but these were rapidly seized.

The King of Jazz brought two large pullman cars with him. These were sided back of the hall on the siding at that place. In the party were forty men thirty three of which were musicians.

The most popular numbers played by the jazz king were "Tiger Rag," "Sugar," "Just Like a Melody Out of the Sky," and "Melancholy Baby." The complete program of the performance was as follows:

1. Introduction: Yes, Jazz is Savage.
2. (a) Sugar, Nicholas, Ager and Yellin.
(b) Gypsy, Gilbert, Malneck and Signorelli.
(c) Tiger Rag La Rocca.
3. Concerto in F for pinaforte and orchestra, George Gershwin (Arranged by Ferde Grofe) Roy Bargy, Soloist.
4. (a) I Can't Give You Anything but Love, McHugh.
(b) Valse Inspiration (Saxophone Solo), Hazlett—Chester Hazlett, Soloist.
(c) American Tune, Henderson.

INTERVAL

5. Metropolis (First Performance) Ferde Grofe.
6. Band Divertissement: "Free Air," variations based on noises from a garage Ferde Grofe—Wilbur Hall and Woodwind Choir.
7. Popular Request numbers:
(a) Melancholy Baby.
(b) Chiquita.
(c) Just Like a Melody Out of the Sky.

Workman Lacerated

Paul Griggs, 29, Greensboro, steel structural worker for the J. W. Markham Co., Greensboro, suffered a painful laceration of the scalp at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon while at work on the new Commerce building. Griggs was setting a piece of steel into place on the ceiling of the fourth floor of the structure when he lost his hold. In falling backwards he luckily caught hold of an abutting iron beam, against which he struck his head, saving himself from a twenty foot fall to the steel floor.

The steel worker was rushed to the Infirmary where three stitches were taken in his scalp. Griggs reported for work Friday morning.

SORORS ANNOUNCE RUSHING RULES

Pi Beta Phi and Chi Omega
Entertain New Women.

The official rushing season for the Pi Beta Phi and Chi Omega sororities which opened at mid night on October 4, will last for two weeks, closing at mid night on Oct. 18, and will be followed by a period of silence which will last all of Friday and until 1 p. m. Saturday. Sometime between the hours of nine and one Saturday the girls who have reasons to expect bids are requested to go to the office of the Advisor to Women and receive their bids.

Last year it was decided by the Woman's Pan Hellenic council that the Pi Beta Phi and the Chi Omega Fraternities each would be allowed two formal and two informal parties.

Friday night, a week ago, the Chi Omega's entertained their rushees with a dance from nine until one at the Gorgon's Head Lodge. Jack Wardlaw furnished the music. The list of the chaperones included the patronesses and also Mrs. Stacy and Mrs. Lee. The second formal on their calendar is a buffet dinner to be given tonight at Mrs. Connors.

Tuesday afternoon at her home in Raleigh, Miss Anne Hoover Brown entertained the Chi Omega chapter and their rushees at a tea from half past four until six o'clock. The second

(Continued on page four)

Bull's Head Shop Offers New Books

The Bull's Head bookshop located on the second floor of Murphey Hall offers many opportunities for the student interested in modern literature. The latest books are always on the shelves and the students are invited to come in any time and read them. The shop is open every day from 8:30 to 5 o'clock except Saturday when it closes at one.

The Modern Library has issued Rabalais' Gargantua and Pantagruel as their September publications; these books have proved very popular in the past. In the realm of biography Umphrey Lee's The Lord's Horseman, a biography of John Wesley, and Allen Tate's Stonewall Jackson are proving very popular.

Other new books which are finding a large circle of readers are Beer's Mauve Decade; Dibbles' Life of Mohammed; Jim Tully's Beggars of Life; three of Beebe's nature books; and The Fabulous Forties by Meade Minniegerode.

Those who are interested in the political situation will find Kent's The Democratic Party, and Myer's The Republican Party very instructive as well as entertaining. Kent's Political Behavior is proving popular also.

The New Student, which is in the shop every month contains in the October issue an article on "The Student South" by Howard Mumford Jones.

Campus Trees Get Annual Pruning

The big trees on the campus are again receiving their annual pruning which keeps them in good health, so to speak. Four members of the Armstrong Tree Service are now working on the oaks back of Alumni building. They have already trimmed the rows of maples on Cameron avenue.

Some pruning is done every fall. Last year the trees in the park in front of South were worked on and this year those nearer the Arboretum are being cleared of dead branches and decayed wood. The Armstrong Service does a great deal of work in this section, having worked on the Duke campus and also in Raleigh and Winston as well as many other places.

Vesper Services at Y. M. C. A.

Every night Vesper services are held in Gerrard Hall from seven until seven-fifteen for any students of the university. These meetings are conducted by the members of the Y cabinets. They are open to the entire student body and anyone interested is invited by the Y to be present.

Robert Lathan's Speech Is Feature of Celebration of University's 135th Birthday

NOTICE! NOTICE!

All men who wish to apply for the newly created position of full time managing editor of the Tar Heel see either Professor J. M. Lear in his office in Saunders Building or Will Yarborough at the S. A. E. House as to information concerning the salary and duties of the position. All applications must be handed in before Tuesday night to either of the above mentioned or to any member of the Publications Union Board.

"COUNTRY LIFE IN N. C." IS TOPIC OF N. C. CLUB

Club Meets Monday Night at 112 Saunders; Hobbs To Discuss North Carolina.

The North Carolina Club has selected as a subject for consideration this year, "Country Life in North Carolina." At each meeting there is a paper presented dealing with some phase of this general subject. At the end of the year the papers are assembled into a yearbook which has a wide circulation in this and other states. The authors of the club papers have an opportunity not only to acquire experience in research and writing but to contribute to the production of an attractive and useful book about their home state. Moreover, there is a fifty dollar prize awarded each year by J. W. Bailey of Raleigh to the author of the best student paper. Several interesting subjects have not yet been assigned. Among these are: Rural Education in North Carolina, Rural Health, The marketing Problem, The Problem of Farm Tenancy, The Quality of Our Farm Homes, The Farmer's Taxes, and others. Anyone wishing to write one of these papers should see P. W. Wager, secretary of the club, at once.

TO ENTERTAIN TEAM

The Southern Society at Cambridge, Mass., has invited the Carolina football squad and all University of North Carolina alumni to a complimentary dance, following the Harvard game at Cambridge. The invitation was extended through Lawrence Watt, former Carolina star hurdler.

Clashing Greeks Prepare for Close of Rushing; Rushees To Declare Choice Thursday

Reports of Harvard
Game Will Be Given

The grid-graph report of the Carolina-Harvard game will begin this afternoon in Memorial Hall at 2:30. The price of admission will be twenty five cents.

This report is direct from the football field, and gives each play in detail; who carried the ball, yardage, down, etc. It is the next best thing to seeing the game itself, and anyone who has attended a game by the grid-graph can testify as to what a thrilling experience it is.

If you have a weak heart don't come to Memorial Hall this afternoon, for this game is going to be a hair-raiser—the game of the season.

County Club Meets

The Johnson County Club held its first meeting of the year last Thursday evening at 9 o'clock in the guest room of the Y. M. C. A. building for the purpose of electing officers for the present scholastic year. The officers were Lucian A. Peacock, president; J. G. Pleasant, vice-president; and W. T. Woodard, secretary and treasurer.

"The purpose of this club," stated Peacock, "is to have a general get-together of the Johnson County boys in order to create a spirit of friendliness among all concerned."

To climax the affair, refreshments consisting of coca colas and fruit were served and the meeting adjourned until further notice.

Winner of Pulitzer Prize Addresses Students in Memorial Hall at Annual Convention.

North Carolina has jumped ahead of her neighboring states since the Civil War because she came out of that conflict in better shape for the future than they did, Robert H. Lathan, editor of the Asheville Citizen, declared in Memorial Hall yesterday delivering the principal address at exercises commemorating the 135th anniversary of the University.

Asserting that "there has been in America no finer illustration of democracy in action" than in the development of North Carolina, Mr. Lathan explained that "it is the vigor, the faith and the intelligence with which North Carolina has asserted the democratic principle during the past thirty years that has so distinguished her from her neighbors."

"Outsiders are astonished at the progress of our schools and even more astonished at the success of our road program," he declared. "North Carolinians themselves are astonished at these things. But there is no mystery about any of it."

"The school movement which was initiated by Alderman and Aycock and McIver was but a revival of the movement which first fruited on this very spot a full century before. Where else could such a revival have been looked for with more assurance? It had back of it the same realization that ignorance is the deadliest foe of liberty and that the first duty of a free people is to consult the happiness of the rising generation and fit them for the intelligent discharge of their obligations in society."

(Continued on page four)

Verbal Warfare Becomes Hotter As Fateful Day Draws Near.

It is always darkest just before dawn. As the Greek war nears an end, and as the warriors realize that soon they must fling down their verbal swords, the strife rages hotter.

The crowd in front of Patterson's grows thicker and tenser each night, frosh are pursued more ardently than ever before, the rushees, mouths fairly drool altruisms, rushing ethics begin to get a little loose here and there, and Venters, the big dog of the whole outfit, sees fit to restate some of the rules as a gentle reminder.

And under the surface, as usual, some sinister throating goes on; though participants declare that there is less than in former years.

By midnight of next Tuesday the last word will be spoken, the last cup drained, the last throat cut; for at twelve o'clock Tuesday night the period of silence begins. Then for two days the erstwhile rushees must keep their own counsel, and the erstwhile rushees must search their own hearts alone.

The fateful hour is at 2:00 P. M. Thursday. At this time the prospective frosh go to Memorial Hall to hear the bids read out. The proselytes then wend their ways to the respective fraternity houses and there receive the handshakes and all halls of the brotherhood.

But the trail to the promised land of membership still stretches out before the bidden ones, and for many weary months they must study allment strive as mere novitiates. —Angron Post.